The Packsack of Gregory Clark

When a woman dies, she leaves behind a clothes closet full of dresses and coats, a couple of drawers of lingerie and pullovers, a box or two of trinkets . . .

But when a man dies, you have to send for the junk man. Upstairs, downstairs and in the cellar, in every cubby and closet, the hoardings of a man's lifetime are stuffed.

His clothes closet bursts with business clothes, sports clothes and what a man decribes as "old clothes." Boots and shoes sprawl on floor and shelf; neckties that date back to his schooldays festoon the racks. His dresser bulges. In a dozen boxes, overflowing, are stowed away the things a man believes he might some day need — collar buttons to lighter repair kits; buttons, badges, old wrist watches, pipes, golf tees, a collapsible tin cup, a dinged cigarette case, a ticket punch, a faded silk badge bearing the inscription "Guest." Behind his balled-up socks in the drawer, packets of letters that are unintelligible. Underneath the stack of summer underwear in the bottom drawer, a yellowing set of pamphlets on "How to Stake a Mining Claim."

On the walls, his books: and the framed photographs soon to come down. In the hall cupboard, his golf clubs, raincoats, two and a half pairs of goloshes. In the cellar, the random tools he has assembled across the years. Tools, gadgets, an old outboard engine, the bicycle he rode twenty years ago and the lawn-mower before last. More boxes, chests, cartons, into which his heirs, executors and assigns do little more than crook a finger in the top layer . . .

Men are junk men at heart. Women are supposed to be the home-makers. But women are mere pilgrims. Through life, they travel light. It is the men who gather and amass and pile up and store away; as though they were here for keeps.

POLICE HAD BUSY NIGHT

Toronto, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Toronto police arrested 21 persons last night and early today on criminal charges ranging from theft and breaking and entering to fraud and assault.

The arrest of two men on charges of car theft climaxed a wild 60-mile-an-hour chase through downtown streets. Charged were Louis Quesnelle of Toronto and Norman Lenz, who will stand trial at London, Ont., where the auto was allegedly stolen.

WHOPPING COD

ORNITHOLOGICAL DODGE

Bury St. Edmunds, England — (CP) — Robot cuckoos will be set in nests by Suffolk naturalists next spring to enable them to study bird diets. The robot will have a beak that opens automatically when the parent bird alights in a special perch. The morsel will slide down an artificial throat into a gass "stomach."

Line-up Between East and West Hardening Claim

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

The London Daily Mail—one of the world's prominent newspapers—says the line-up between eastern and western Europe is hardening. It asks whether an explosion therefore is inevitable.

The Mail thinks an upheaval isn't inevitable. But it declares that the peaceful countries will muddle into a third world war unless they make themselves strong enough to be unassailable.

The German press reports — though without confirmation — that the Russians are conducting extensive troop movements in their zone of Germany and are staging combined air and submarine manoeuvres in the western Baltic.

Remarkable Haste

The Neue Zeitung, official German paper of the United States military government, also says it learns from refugee balts that the Russians are constructing huge new military installations in the Baltic Republics with "remarkable haste."

These are but few of the numerous operations—political, economic, military—being carried out by both sides. The situation is explosive.

However, the consensus of close observers is that war isn't inevitable. Obviously it could develop—but not necessarily.

The preparations being made by both sides strike me as being in large degree precautionary. The west is fearful of an assault by the Communist bloc. Likely the Russians are more scared, because the United States not only is by far the most powerful country on earth but she has the atomic bombs of which the whole world stands in fear.

No One Ready

Actually there is no country prepared to wage war today. Therefore it would take an ugly development indeed to set the chariots of war rolling.

Probably the German situation, with the country divided into two hostile camps, is the most explosive problem. But even there it long has been apparent that both sides have been exercising caution to make sure the pot didn't boil over. If war should grow out of that imbroglio, it would be accidental, as things now stand.

'Second Nuernberg Trial' by Soviet

Berlin, Feb. 16 (Reuters) — A list of west German "war-mongers" is being compiled for a "second Nuernberg trial" by a special committee founded by Soviet-zone political parties and trade unions, the Soviet-licensed German news agency, ADN, reported last night.

LABOR MINISTER HEARD

Toronto, Feb. 16 — (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell declared last night that the Liberal party is responsible for Canada having "more employment, higher wages and more stability than ever before."

He was chief speaker at a nominating convention of the Toronto Eglinton Liberal Association, when John R. Longstaffe was nominated to contest the riding in the next federal election. The seat is held by Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative.

WANT LOWER LIMIT

Owen Sound, Ont., Feb. 16 — (CP) — City council last night endorsed a resolution from the Board of Police Commissioners calling for a uniform 15-mile-an-hour speed limit in school zones throughout Ontario. Council also endorsed a resolution asking the federal government to increase unemployment benefits.

Re-swear Jury To Hear Evidence On Mentality

Riviere Du Loup, Que., Feb. 16 —(CP)— The Maurice Lebel murder-trial jury today was to be re-sworn to hear evidence by alienists on whether the 28-year-old accused is mentally fit to stand trial.

The hearing developed sensationally into a trial within a trial yesterday after Lebel's counsel pleaded insanity on behalf of his client in a written motion accepted by the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Romeo Langlois.

The surprise move by the defence came on the fifth day when the Crown had called its 50th witness and was nearing completion of its case against Lebel on a double-murder count.

Valmore Bienvenue, K.C., said in his motion that the backwoods trucker from St. Guy, Que., has the mentality of a child who has only a "foreign" interest in his trial.

Lebel is charged with the violent bludgeon death of bank manager L. P. Breton and taxi-driver Wilfred Dumais of Trois Pistoles, Que., last July 1. Their bodies were found on a seldom-travelled road 11 miles east of here.

Claims No Co-Operation

In his motion, Mr. Bienvenue said he had been unable to obtain the co-operation essential to present a proper defence from Lebel who was reported to have suffered head injuries in a 70-foot fall some years back.

Mr. Justice Langlois observed it was strange that a man with the alleged mentality of Lebel had been able to borrow $4,743.28 on promisory notes from the Trois Pistoles bank formerly managed by Breton.

Members of the jury then were told they would be re-sworn today to hear medical evidence to be produced by both the defence and the Crown on the accused's mental state of health.

Some of the most prominent alienists in the Province of Quebec are expected to be called.

Prior to the defence's dramatic move yesterday, Mrs. Arthur Lebel of St. Modeste, sister-in-law of the accused, said Lebel had roused her from her bed on the night of the slaying and asked her to wash the blood from his clothes.

Britain's Defence Budget Likely To be Increased

London, Feb. 16 (AP)—Britain has proposed increasing her defence budget by almost 10 per cent to £759,860,000 ($3,039,440,000) in the next fiscal year.

This compares with estimates of £692,600,000 for the army, navy and R.A.F. for the fiscal year ending March 31.

Some of the increase will go for higher pay to the armed forces, but most of it, the government announced last night in a white paper, will be used for newer equipment and modernization of present war machines.

The white paper said R. A. F. squadrons will be re-equipped with the latest type of jet aircraft.

Modernization of the army's tanks, radar and radio also is planned.

"The services must be ready, if need be, to fight with the weapons of today," the government said.

Issuance of the budget plan coincided with some expressions of disappointment in western Europe at the American rejection of any "automatic war" clause in the projected North Atlantic alliance.

Official comment here was restrained, but there appeared to be some anxiety among British government leaders over press reaction to an outline of the United States Senate's position Monday which gave such an indication.

"There is some concern in London," reported the pro-government Daily Herald, "at attempts which are being made to create the impression that the draft Atlantic pact is being so watered down by Americans that it will be valueless, and that there is consequently a crisis. It has been understood all along that the form of any undertaking given by the United States government must be consistent with the constitution, which does not permit Congress to be committed in advance."

STRENGTH for The Day

THE LONG VIEW

As everyone knows, "hindsight is better than foresight." We can often see, as we look back upon past events, the proper course of action which we should have taken, but which was not clear to us at the time. Since most of us are not prophets and cannot foresee the unpredictable, hindsight will probably always continue to be better than foresight in human affairs.

But this old maxim still has a practical value for us. If we cannot actually look at the present from a position in the future, we can at east imagine that we are doing so. What would we see? One thing we would surely see would be that the worries which loom so large to us now had shrunk to tiny, forgotten episodes. Look back over the past, say five years ago. Where are the obstacles that confronted us then? Where are the problems we could not solve? Where is the period of suffering we thought we could not live through? Somehow we survived them all.

Sailors call a telescope a "long glass." We can make life much more pleasant and free from worry by taking a "long view." How big will that big problem seem five years from now? Not very big, experience tells us. Strength for today can be drawn from tomorrow, if we will take the long view.

DIET FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

Speaking of peptic ulcer (gastric or stomach ulcer, duodenal ulcer) Dr. D. T. Quigley, author of The National Malnutrition, in an address before a medical society said: "To the statement previously made that in peptic ulcer cases the whole alimentary canal is diseased, a further note may be added to the effect that the nervous system of the patient is always affected in an adverse way. These persons are irritable and unstable, they are starved generally and specifically. In many cases the nervous symptoms overshadow the ulcer symptoms. The reason is that the nerve disease and the ulcer both go back to a common cause: an oversupply of refined carbohydrates which causes a dangerous reduction in the vitamin and mineral concentration in the blood stream. Peptic ulcer is never caused by nervousness. It is associated with it..."

That doesn't jibe so well with all the fancy psychosomatic double talk we hear these days, but I think it makes better sense.

The chief nutritional deficiency produced by the oversupply of refined carbohydrates (sugar and flour) is vitamin B complex deficiency. Now it is childish to regard vitamin B complex or any of its components a specific remedy or cure for peptic ulcer or for any of the manifestations of Yankee Stomach. But it seems to me we have enough scientific and clinical evidence to warrant a regular daily B complex supplement for the diet in every ambulant case of peptic ulucer or Yankee Stomach, especially when the diet is at all restricted.

It may begin to be apparent why —I call the manifestations mentioned above "Yankee Stomach." It is here in Yankeeland that we pride ourselves on the refinement of our flour and sugar. And we are disposed to look with smug condescension on better nourished people in other countries where whole wheat flour and crude brown sugar, if any, are still staples. Aside from famine and deprivation Europeans who eat "dark" or "black" bread, that is, bread made of the whole grain which includes all of the vitamins and minerals we discard as unfit for human consumption, people who live on the real staff of life are better nourished if not so overfed as we are.

Europeans who get all the nutritional elements in the grain are notably less "nervous" than we are, less hurried, less tense. They take time to enjoy life. If perchance such a person gets an ulcer or high blood pressure or angina pectoris or coronary thrombosis he takes it as philosophically as he can. If an American gets an ulcer or high blood pressure he wants the world to know about his achievement, for the psychosomatic double talk has made a good many superficially informed Americans believe such lesions are the price of success in life or something of the sort.

In any case of Yankee Stomach or peptic ulcer in which the diet is restricted in respect to the basic foods — milk, meat, eggs, cheese, raw fruits and vegetables, whole wheat, sea food—no treatment can be successful unless the patient's daily intake of vitamins and minerals is kept up to normal by the regular use of vitamin and mineral concentrates to supplement the deficiencies. I hope to hear directly or indirectly from any physician, surgeon or specialist who may question the soundness of this statement.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Chronic Running Ear

Thank you for your remedy for chronic running ear. It brought immediate relief to my husband although doctors at (the best advertised "clinic") told him tissues were drying up nothing could be done for him. Thanks to you, something was done, and now he has no trouble. (Mrs. I. R. M.)

Answer—On written request (no clipping) any reader who provides stamped self addressed envelope may have the pamphlet telling how to use drops for running ear.

In the Swim

Is there any danger of contracting disease by using a swimming pool at the same time as other persons, for instance the pool at the Y? (R. S. A.)

Answer—Yes. But you have to take some chances if you enjoy life.

The Lowly Prune

I have been a reader for many years but have never seen mention of the lowly prune in your column...to keep one regulated. (C. W.)

Answer—Now you see it. Prunes are excellent food if you like 'em. I like 'em. But let's leave 'em just so.

Well Fed

This picture of the "well fed" movie star is about my type, only I'm more so. Please tell me what to do to hold my husband. (Mrs. F. P.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet How to Lose Weight.

Today's Talk

LOVE

What an abused word this little one of love is! In our youth, and sometimes far beyond, we "fall in love" with someone with whom we hope always to live and love. But there is a large field for love.

I love books — even with a passionate love. I love many of them as I would their authors, because they nourish me in mind and heart. There are authors whom we admire, and whose genius often baffles us, but we cannot say that we love them. There are others, however, whom we can say that we do love, though in an impersonal way. We say that we love them because of the intimate manner in which they have put themselves into print.

Writers like Robert Burns, Stevenson, and Robert Frost we can well say that we love. They make us love them. We admire the genius of Carlyle and Balzac, but they are difficult to love. An English reviewer said that he loved Scott because, "he was a true friend and lover of the poor. He spoke to every man as if he were his blood relation."

John Galsworthy was a great novelist. He wrote from his heart. Those who knew him loved and called him "Jack." And who couldn't love Charles Lamb? It is impossible to read his delightful "Essays of Elia" without feeling that he wrote solely for us, as he surely did. After feasting upon the perfect paintings of Vermeer one catches the very love of the artist who created such immortal works of art.

No one has even seen God excepting in what He has created, but millions love Him. Creative minds put the mark of themselves upon what they create, and it's the way and manner in which they do it, that makes us love them. No one could help but love the late William (Billy) Lyon Phelps. He stamped his personality and good will upon his readers and friends so indelibly that no one could help but love him. Few great teachers ever exerted so great an influence.

Make love the fuel to your heart and you need have no worry as to your influence, your abundance of friends, or your material success or happiness in life.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

SPECIAL JOINTS RESIST LEAKAGE

Amazing but true! J-M Transite House Connection Pipe has special joints that help prevent clogging, leaking and infiltration. You see, tree roots often force their way through underground pipe joints and cause stoppages. But J-M "Taper-Tite" Couplings are factory-made to assure tight joints that resist root growth.

J-M Transite House Connection Pipe successfully meets every requirement for efficient, economical sewage disposal. This asbestos cement sewer pipe is tough and strong—light and easy to handle. Long ten foot lengths permit digging of short sections of trench allowing tunnelling and minimizing disturbance to lawns.

If you plan to install sewage disposal facilities from house to septic tank or street sewer, get the facts on J-M Transite House Connection Pipe. Write Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

Kennedy Agrees Provinces Should Be Consulted

Toronto, Feb. 16 (CP)—Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver today picks up the cudgel wielded yesterday by opposition leader E. B. Jolliffe in the Ontario legislature's throne speech debate.

Mr. Jolliffe yesterday charged that under the leadership of George Drew between 1943 and 1948 the Ontario government was conducted "as though it were a mere stepping stone to high office at Ottawa."

Mr. Jolliffe moved an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne. His amendment "regrets the failure of the government to meet the needs of the people of Ontario with respect to housing, hydro, health, welfare, education, agriculture and labor."

Premier Kennedy earlier had told the house the opinion, expressed Monday in Ottawa by Mr. Drew, that the provinces should be consulted before Newfoundland was admitted to confederation, reflected the opinion of the Ontario government.

Mr. Jolliffe described this opinion as "the extreme point of absurdity" in the campaign to raise "the false issue of provincial or Dominion-Provincial rights "was not a policy at all but merely a part of a purely political campaign designed to woo votes — federal votes" in Quebec.

Claims No Defence

The Ontario government had failed to mention in the Throne Speech the problems of hydro-electric power development. He suggested the government had no defence for its policies. The speech had also failed to forecast any measure of tax relief, despite the fact Ontario was "very heavily overtaxed."

The speech had said 5,000 new houses were built in Ontario during the last year under legislation which permitted the government to assume second mortgages. Actually, Mr. Jolliffe said, the legislation had helped in the purchase of newly-built or partly-built houses but had not necessarily assisted in the building of a single new house.

Premier Kennedy, reviewing the government's record, said Ontario continued to be "Canada's leading province in nearly all fields." Agricultural production for the first time had "topped the $1,000,000,000 mark," through increased yields. The government's financial position was "the most favorable of any government on record."

Sound Financially

Premier Kennedy said more than 75 new companies had or were about to start operations in Ontario. They would spend more than $100,000,000 on plant equipment. Industrial and construction workers who had not completed a full year of employment had received for the year ending June 30 more than $4,250,000 in vacation pay under the Government's Hours of Work and Vacations With Pay Act.

"Industrially, agriculturally, educationally, financially," Ontario continued as "Canada's leading province in nearly all fields," he said. The Ontario Travel Department, "the first of its kind on this continent," had experienced three "record" tourist years. The Reforms Department had introduced "the Ontario plan" for better classification of younger prisoners. Ontario's air immigration plan in a 15-month period had brought 10,000 British immigrants to Ontario.

Expect Pontiff To Speak Sunday

Vatican City, Feb. 15 (AP)—Pope Pius is expected to make a major speech on the case of Cardinal Mindszenty at a giant demonstration in St. Peter's Square Sunday, informed Vatican sources said today.

Catholic action, militant lay organization, had called on all Catholics in Rome to gather in the Square in a protest against the arrest, trial and sentencing to life imprisonment of the Hungarian primate.

The Pope will appear on the balcony of St. Peter's basilica at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EST), the sources said, and probably will address the demonstrators.

In a group audience with the Pope tomorrow, diplomats from 36 countries are expected to express solemn indignation over Hungary's treatment of Cardinal Mindszenty.

It will be the first time the present Pontiff has received the diplomatic corps to the Holy See en masse, since the February, 1946, consistory creating new Cardinals.

Kingston Taximan Leaves Stalled Car And Skates Home

Kingston Feb. 15 (CP)— Taxi-drivers usually don't have much of a transportation problem — but Jack Moffet had one last night and he solved it in an unorthodox manner.

When Moffet's cab became hopelessly stalled on an ice-coated street here he calmly donned a pair of skates he had in the automobile and skated back to his office.

Upside Down View Complicates Life

Halifax, England (CP)—Imagine yourself—walking upstairs with the sensation of going down; seeing actors on the screen upside down; in fact, seeing everything topsy-turvy.

This is what happens to 14-year-old Shirley Lee. She reads her books upside down, sees the school blackboard upside down.

She writes by placing a pad before her, her pen in her left hand. Curling her left wrist and arm well around, she forms her letters upside down and backwards, starting from the bottom right hand corner of the page.

Specialists who have been consulted think Shirley's queer outlook on life is due to an optic nerve not working.

Her father says: "One or two letters have reached us from surgeons who would like to operate on Shirley as an experiment but we feel the risk to her is one we are not justified in taking."

"First time we really noticed her upside-down view of things," says Mrs. Lee "was one night when she was trying to do some homework—a plan of the room. "We couldn't get her to draw it right. The corners kept getting mixed up. Previous to that we had noticed that she always kept falling upstairs. Never once did she fall downstairs.

"When finally we took her to an oculist it did not take him long to say he could do nothing for her."

Weather Pattern Over the States Like Crazy Quilt

New York, Feb. 16 (CP)— The weather pattern over the United States appeared like a crazy quilt today with unrelenting Arctic blasts still striking the western states and New York basking in summer-like temperatures.

At 3:15 p.m. Tuesday the temperature here was 71 degrees — a record for the date. In addition the temperature had reached 70 degrees this early in the year for the first time in the recorded observations kept since 1871.

Southwestern Wyoming yesterday took the main beating from winds and snow that have hammered the state for 11 straight days. Gusts reached 50 miles an hour and railroads and highways were still in the paralyzed state they have been in for almost a fortnight.

In Idaho, emergency crews fought blocked roads in an attempt to reach partial recovery from previous storms before the new Arctic incursion arrives. New snow was predicted for this afternoon.

Flood threats also plagued areas in the western states. The heavy snows, if they melt too fast during the spring thaws, may cause critical high levels in the rivers and streams. In western Oregon, the danger is apparent already following heavy rains and thawing conditions.

Several communities remained isolated in the blizzard-gripped areas.

The Dakotas and Minnesota were struck during the night by the new cold wave, but no snow was reported in these areas. However, temperatures dropped below the zero mark and winds were fairly strong.

A ski meet scheduled for New England had to be transferred to Nevada because of the lack of snow. Resort owners have lost millions of dollars in New England this year.

WEDDINGS

LOCKE—REED

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, was the scene of a very lovely wedding on Wednesday, February 9, at 3.30 p.m., when Thelma Bobbe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reed, Victoria Avenue, became the bride of Douglas D. Locke, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Locke, Pine Street. The ceremony, at which the Reverend J. G. Hornsby officiated, was performed before an altar banked with white tulips, snapdragons, Spring flowers and ferns.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. Irene Brown, who beautifully rendered, before the ceremony, "Because", and during the signing of the register, "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a white princess gown of brocaded nylon, trimmed with seed pearls, and buttoned down the back with self-covered buttons to a large bustle bow, from which the skirt cascaded into a sweeping train. The sleeves were long and tight-fitting, ending in lily points over the wrists. Her long veil of Chantilly lace, embroidered with silken lover's knots along the edges, was held in place by a tiara of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Helen Davidson was maid of honor, wearing a floor length gown of moire silk in lilac shade, with basque waist, and bouffant skirt, caught up at intervals by a rose, showing the lace under-skirt. She wore a Mary Queen of Scots hat, and carried a cascade bouquet of deep, pink carnations.

Miss Marjorie Hewson, and Miss Jean Vanderwater, were bridesmaids, wearing floor length gowns of moire silk with basque waists, and bouffant skirts, looped with tea-roses matching the nosegays, revealing the lace underskirt. Each wore matching Mary Queen of Scots hat, the former was in village green, and carried a Victorian nosegay of Sweetheart roses with pink sweetpeas, while the latter was in yellow, and carried a Victorian nosegay of tea-roses and mauve sweetpeas.

Mr. Murray Locke, brother of the groom, Pine Street, was groomsman, and Donald Locke, brother of the groom, and Jack (Scotty) Brenner, Belleville, were ushers.

After the wedding supper, which was served in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, wearing a floor length gown of royal blue crepe, with French blue accessories, and corsage of tea roses, assisted by the groom's mother in a floor length gown of rose crepe with black accessories, and corsage of roses, received the many guests, the young couple left for Montreal. Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were: the bride's sister from Edmonton, Alberta; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graffick, Mr. Dick Evans, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. Locke, and daughter, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson, Lorraine and Robert, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Locke, and daughters, Campbellford, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Little, Trenton.

Succulent Foods In Fancy Photos Are Real Thing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

Perfect fruits and vegetables were wax dust-catchers; meringues were soap suds, and ginger ale was colored water pepped up with effervescent wafers.

But not any more.

Food photography, a highly specialized business, now is 100 per cent real. Today when you see a beautiful, hunger-teasing dish of beef stew in full color photography, somebody had a real kitchen workout.

But food prepared for photographs is expensive food indeed. And the picture was months in the making. Artists and copywriters dreamed up the advertisement. A home economist fooled around with recipes. A "stylist" decided how to landscape the dish and scoured the stores for perfect china, napkins, silverware and flowers to set it off. Finally, the home economist cooked two stews, one a "stand-in" for use while the photographer was arranging lights and cameras.

Hand Picked

In the course of making this wonderful beef stew, the home economist bought enough meat for maybe five stews. She cooked the onions, carrots and peas separately—a little underdone to be sure they kept their bright, natural colors. Then they were combined with every pea, carrot and onion carefully placed in position by hand to make a luscious picture.

A number of tricks are employed to show off food, to make it more appetizing to see. The specialists insert little hunks of cardboard under a section of grapefruit to keep it from nestling too deeply into salad lettuce. If it's pie, the cut will be specially lighted so you can see the juicy apples and flaky crust.

A major job is shopping for absolutely perfect food. Because food pictures are usually prepared in advance so that they can appear when the foods are in season, the experts rely on hot-house products.

Miss Polly Gade, home economist for the Charles W. Hoyt agency which does much of the food picturing, chopped in half almost a bushel of hot-house melons in search of a perfect, photogenic specimen. The blueberries for an out-of-season pie picture cost four dollars. Another time she bought six boxes of super-priced strawberries to get a dozen perfect berries for a salad garnish.

SMITHFIELD W.M.S.

Brighton and Murray—The very interesting February meeting of Smithfield W.M.S. was held on Thursday afternoon at the parsonage with 10 members and two visitors present.

Splendid reports of the Cobourg Presbyterial which was held in Trinity-St. Andrew's United Church, Brighton on Jan. 26, were given.

Miss Elva Locklin reported the address given by Miss Kate Rutherford, on furlough from Angola, Africa.

Mrs. Maud Bedal reported that of Mrs. C. M. Lovey's, Home Mission, executive secretary, and Mrs. Carl Ireland gave the talk on "Stewardship" which she presented at the Presbyterial.

Mrs. E. Stephenson showed a very pretty autograph quilt which is ready to be quilted.

Mrs. C. Ireland offered her home for the quilting.

At the close of the meeting a social time was enjoyed while Mrs. Sunter assisted by Mrs. F. Morgan served refreshments.

CHRIST CHURCH GUILD

Hillier.—The February meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lyle Leavens with 22 present.

Mr. Heaven led in prayer. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given.

A letter from Miss Ella Terry was read of appreciation for birthday cards.

Mrs. Hermon Weese offered her home for the March meeting.

The program consisted of readings and a contest by Mrs. Leavens, with Mrs. Morton the winner.

High-Spirited Princess Margaret Amused at Talk

London, Feb. 16 (Reuters) — High-spirited Princess Margaret is amused by current talk about her "romances," although Royal circles are said to be concerned at the linking of her name with a chain of admirers.

She relished, for instance, the small surprise she pulled on the press last weekend. The newspapers gave prominence to her private visit to the Sussex home of the parents of 31-year-old Tom Eggerton, former Guards officer.

But they failed to notice a blonde young man wearing a bow tie, who was also a house guest.

Monday night Princess Margaret went to Convent Garden Opera House to see the ballet "Cinderella" with this young man, Hon. Julian Fane, brother of the 24-year-old Earl of Westmoreland

Buckingham Palace officials do not try to hide their annoyance when asked about rumors of the Princess engagement to this or that young peer.

Princess Margaret herself has said she wants to marry young.

Nine Men Mentioned

At various times nine men have been mentioned as her future husband. They are: Ex-King Michael of Romania; Prince George of Denmark; the Marquis of Milford Haven, who was best man at the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh; the Marquis of Blandford; the Earl of Derby; the Earl of Dalkeith; Lord Portchester; Lord John Hope and Lord Ogilvy.

Michael and the Earl of Derby have since married. Prince George has publicly denied that he was courting Princess Margaret.

The Marquis of Blandford, 22-year-old son of the Duke of Marlborough and cousin of Winston Churchill has faded from the scene. At one time it was rumored that his engagement to Princess Margaret would be announced at Balmoral, Scotland, on her 18th birthday last Aug. 21. When he returned to London from visiting Princess Margaret in Scotland, the Marquis was seen everywhere escorting Shraman Douglas, 20-year-old daughter of Lewis Douglas, United States ambassador in London.

Princess, Philip To Make Two Important Tours

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 16 — (CP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are enthusiastic about two approaching events on their calendar — a state visit to Edinburgh March 1 and a tour of the Channel Islands in June.

Youth organizations will play a prominent part in public functions arranged for the Edinburgh visit. A guard of honor of sea cadets, army cadets and members of the auxiliary training corps will salute the royal couple when they attend the freedom ceremony at Usher Hall, and groups surrounding the guard will include members of five other youth organizations.

Elizabeth and Philip will drive through all the principal streets of the city and later will inspect Edinburgh's new housing area.

Youth leaders will be presented to the royal couple at a reception and dance March 2, and the Princess will go to Edinburgh University to receive an honorary doctorate.

Next day they will receive honorary membership of the Merchant Company and in the afternoon will meet thousands of Edinburgh school children at a youth reception in Waverley Market.

For their tour of the Channel Islands Elizabeth and Philip may make their first sea trip together under auspices of the Royal Navy — by battleship from Portsmouth.

At Jersey and Guernsey the couple will be received with a wealth of feudal ceremonial dating back to the days of William the Conqueror.

The tiny island of Sark, where all motor vehicles are banned, will place a horsedrawn hansom cab, suitably ornamented, at the disposal of the visitors.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Ankles, trim and slender

There is a report, fostered by teachers of physical education, that feminine ankles are not what they used to be. It seems that they are getting larger. In the old days slender ankles were the rule, except on the heavyweights. In the days of high button shoes, there was a certain amount of support. Low shoes give more freedom and action to the large tendon at the back of the ankle and to the muscles that extend upward into the calf of the leg. Being strong, they develop, increase in size. Anyhow, that is the explanation offered.

Whether the ankles are sturdy or weak depends somewhat upon the heights of the heel. Girls who totter around on spikes often develop weak ankles, while those who wear common-sense shoes that provide a foothold are not likely to be afflicted with this trouble. If the ankles are weak, they can be made strong by corrective exercises, though it is wise to seek professional attention. One can walk tippy-toe, do high kicking, lift up and down on the toes to put ankles and legs in good form.

Correct posture and grace of movement depend to a large extent on the ankle and instep. Ankle joints are much smaller and more delicate than the joints of the knees and hips, yet they bear practically the full body weight.

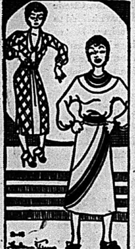
If the expansion of the ankles is caused by adipose tissue, they can be reduced by vigorous massage. It takes time and patience.

Anoint the hands with cocoabutter. Begin at the instep, grasping the flesh in both hands, and forcibly turn and twist it upon the bones. Encircle the ankles so that the thumbs meet in front, then send the thumbs up and down, pressing deeply into the flesh.

We hear about movie starlets whose ankles needed remodeling. They wore rubber anklets. Profuse perspiration sent the fat cells into a state of dissolution. Every day they were given a massage treatment, such as has been described above. Heavy manipulation has a stimulating effect upon the blood streams, this stimulation being a normalizing influence.

For reducing the calves there is nothing better than tap-dancing. This form of dancing will do much toward slendering the portion of the feminine anatomy that is south of the waistline, having no effect upon the upper portion of the body. Instructors of dancing tell your reporter that fleshy plumpies join up for the express purpose of putting their legs in form.

For slimming down the thighs, lie on your back in bed, hands under the buttocks for support. Lift the legs slowly until you are fairly standing on the back of your neck, lower them slowly.



Girls who totter around on spikes often develop weak ankles

Unionville, Ont., Feb. 16 (CP) — Pupils will no longer have to attend classes in a former coal bin here. A new $40,000, two-room extension to the Unionville public school was opened yesterday and eliminates the use of the 14 feet by 20 feet basement room.

INSOMNIA AID

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Rules for Success

Recently there have been featured two lists of "rules for success". . . and in each list there is a fine emphasis on the importance of good manners. One list of rules for success was directed to the youth forum by Mr. Bernard Baruch, famous and beloved elder statesman. Mr. Baruch is a gentleman of charming and courtly manners, always considerate of other people . . .and so his words on courtesy, and its value in life and living, are of special importance and authoritativeness. Listen to some of his suggestions! "Be helpful . . . . that is the first definition of success." . . . "Be polite. If you are polite, others will be polite to you. That makes life a little easier." . . . "Be quick to praise. And be sincere in doing this." . . . "Be cheerful. There are enough crepe-hangers around, without adding to the list." And a fine plea for tolerance: "Avoid prejudices. The other fellow, if he be white, or black, or Jew or Catholic or Protestant, is as good as you are. . . .so don't think you can knife him by back-biting him."

The other list is Mrs. Veronica Dengel's hints to girl job-seekers, and of these ten hints several concern the value of good manners to the job-seeker. For example: "Conduct—including politeness, conversation, and reserved manner." . . . "Good appearance—including every detail of grooming and dress." . . . "Manners. . . Sincerity."

Her first marriage . . . the groom's second

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in June . . my first marriage, my fiance's (he is divorced) second marriage. We are both 33 years of age. Because of my age and the fact that my fiance is divorced, I had planned to wear a suit, to have a simple church wedding and a small reception at my home for our families and friends. However, my mother is urging me to wear a white wedding gown and bridal veil, saying that it is proper for a bride-for-the-first-time to wear the traditional wedding gown and veil, no matter what her age or if her husband-to-be has been married before. What do you think about this?

S. N.

Your mother is right . . . since this is your first marriage (even though it is your bridegroom's second marriage), it is proper for you, if you wish, to wear the traditional white wedding dress and bridal veil. And don't let a "mere 33" keep you from wearing the bridal dress and veil. . . use your good taste to have the design very simple and dignified; perhaps choose crepe or chiffon or other more informal material rather than satin, and have your veil most carefully designed for becomingness and appropriateness. Whether or not you have a church wedding depends, of course, on the rules of your church. Your plans for a house reception are in excellent taste.

Not white dinner jackets in Mid-May

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We live in a city in up-state New York. Would it be permissible for a bridegroom and his best man and ushers to wear white dinner jackets at a wedding that will be in the middle of May? Or is this too early?

O. L.

White dinner jackets are Summer evening attire. In mid-May in your locality I'm practically sure they would look most inappropriate, "rushing the season".

Cotton Terrace Frock

By PRUNELLA WOOD

The skirt is wide beneath a fitted waistline, and the bodice draped softly above it. A narrow edging of Broderie Anglaise trims the hemline and the bodice top.

This is the type of resort frock which goes to all the palm tree countries, where afternoon becomes evening with a bang, no fooling around with twilight between. One dresses for this convivial hour in fashions becoming by day or night, as often as not made from cotton cloth.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

These wives are mentally unfaithful to their husbands

A great many wives, whether young or middle-aged, seem to be unaware that there is more than one way of being unfaithful to their husbands. Apparently it never occurs to them that when they let themselves indulge in romantic daydreams about some other man they are not being truly loyal to the man they married.

I have had a number of letters lately from girls and women who are married, and who tell me that their thoughts are constantly with someone else, even though they are in love with their husbands and their husbands are good to them.

One of them writes: "I have been married less than ten years, and have three children. I am in love with my husband and he gives me whatever I want.

"I met a man through friends, and we just seemed to take to each other. We see each other on the side. No one knows it, but we just can't help it. We think about each other all day. We know nothing can ever come of it but what can I do?

"It may not sound like the truth to you, but nothing ever happened between us because this man respects me and my feelings towards him and that's why I feel it is not wrong for us to see each other. If I were doing wrong I would never write this letter."

On the contrary, I think the reason this young woman wrote her letter to me was that she knew very well she was doing wrong. What she probably wants is for me to quiet her conscience by telling her it is perfectly all right for her to carry on this sub rosa friendship.

But how would she like it if she thought her husband were having this sort of relationship with some other woman? And would she want her husband to know what she has been doing? If she answers those two questions honestly in her own mind, I think she will have no doubts whatever about whether she is doing right or wrong.

"Is it possible for a girl to be in love with two men at one time?" she writes. "I am a married woman of 31. I have three boys, 8, 7 and 4. My husband is good to me, and I cannot complain about him in any way, but for some reason this other man is constantly on my mind. He was an old boy friend of mine, and he has never married. From what he tells his friends, I know that he still cares, which may be the reason why I feel this way. No matter where I am, or what I may be doing, thoughts of him are with me always. When I am walking I seem to be looking for him. Could this be?

"I love my husband and children and I do my best to keep us a happy family. But what gives me this other feeling that seems to tie me up in a knot for such a long, long time?"

I think this young woman, too, would find her thoughts about herself and this other man completely clarified if she would also consider the two questions that I asked the writer of the first letter to answer for herself.

The real reason why situations such as these come about, I believe, is through sheer feminine vanity. When women marry, they know that they place themselves automatically out of the reach of other men; that they no longer have the right to any romance other than that which they make of their marriage. But, and quite naturally, even knowing all this does not make them indifferent to the way other men feel about them, and it flatters their ego to feel that they are still capable of arousing romantic feelings in other men.

On the other hand, even though it is natural for women to feel this way, here is no reason in the world to indulge themselves in these feelings to the point of unfaithfulness, either physical or mental, to the husbands they claim to love, and who love them. Both of these young women who have written me could straighten themselves out very quickly if they would refuse to allow themselves to keep on daydreaming about their men friends. I hope they will have the decency and common sense to do this, or they may be suddenly appalled to find that they have placed their marriages in jeopardy.

Toronto, Feb. 16 — (CP) — When accused of being a "peeping Tom" William Charlesworth, 40, told the magistrate the "light looked friendly so I went to ask them to let me in." He was remanded for mental examination.

Fashion Anniversary

By ALICE ALDEN

A SALUTE FROM women all over the country to the National Association of House Dress Manufacturers is in order. For fifty years, man and boy, its member houses have been making house and daytime dresses for American women, good garments, priced for the slimmest pocketbook. It all began with wrappers and Mother Hubbards, but today it centres on simple cottons of great charm and color, dresses that can go to market, look smart about the house or hold their own at a resort. One such number is this sun back dress and stole design, done in smart striped cotton broadcloth. The jumbo pocketed stole can be worn jacketwise under the belt.

STRANGE GOLFBALL

Historians say that when golf was first played many years ago, players used a ball with a feather core covered with horsehide.

Man-tested recipes

T. Phair, Toronto, says of the recipe below:

"My wife prepared Braised Stuffed Pork Chops from your Heinz recipe. Believe me, I could take a lot of this dish before tiring of it."

Heinz wanted to know what recipes appeal to men. Several housewives were asked to serve dishes out of the booklet "57 Ways to Use Heinz Soups". A typical verdict is given above.

Braised Stuffed Pork Chops

Combine 1 10-oz. tin Heinz Condensed Cream of Tomato Soup, undiluted, with 1 cup milk. Combine 2 cups dry bread cubes, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning. Mix thoroughly. Add just enough Soup Mixture to moisten stuffing. Fill 6 thick pork chops, cut with pockets, with bread stuffing. Brown on both sides in hot frying pan. Pour the remainder of Soup mixture over the pork chops. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat or bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 40 minutes. Allow one chop per person. Use remaining thickened Soup as gravy. Serves 6.

STIRLING

Village Auditor Appointed By Council Members

Stirling—The village council in session on Monday evening accepted the offer of F. A. R. MacFadden, Toronto, to act as the village auditor for the current year, at a salary of $400, to be made up as follows, $50 for each of the schools; $200 for the general account; $50 each for the waterworks system, and the Hydro. This fee also includes setting up a new bookkeeping system for the village.

Reeve H. J. Wells presided and councillors Bailey, Bradshaw, Elliott and Holt were in attendance.

Seek Advance on Levy

Messrs. R. W. Meiklejohn and J. L. Good were present as a delegation from the Stirling public library, seeking an advance of $200 on the 1949 levy.

Mr. E. D. Ketcheson addressed the council relative to getting a share of the village's insurance, while Mr. H. C. Martin was present in connection with the street liability insurance policy, which expires this month.

Mr. Don Rodgers of Stirling Lumber Co., also made a plea for a share of the municipal business in culverts, snowplowing, etc.

Communications were tabled from the trade, and industry branch of the department of planning and development, announcing a municipal convention to be held March 17-18; from E. D. Ketcheson soliciting a share of the municipal insurance business, and quoting a premium of $126.10 on the streets liability policy; from Gutta Percha Rubber Co., H. A. Amail, district highways engineers, with a copy of audit of 1947 road account, showing village $247.87 overpaid on subsidy; Canadian National Railways inquiry, regarding any understanding taxes on C.N.R. property; Salvation Army, re grant; Brunner Mond Co., re purchase of calcium chloride; county treasurer giving list of Stirling property up for sale at next fall's tax sale; and Deputy Minister of Health regarding ex-patients of provincial sanatoria.

The matter of a delegate to the department of planning and development conference was left over until next meeting, while E. D. Ketcheson was given the streets liability insurance at a premium of $126.10 also one half of the village insurance business providing his rates are competitive.

The usual grant of $25 was given the Salvation Army on motion of councillors Bailey and Holt.

The council deemed eight tons of calcium chloride sufficient for the municipality's use in 1949 and the clerk was authorized to place an order for this amount with the Brunner Mond Co.

On motion of councillors Elliott and Bailey, F. R. Mallory clerk was authorized to sign all cheques.

Resolution Sponsored

The following resolution was sponsored by councillors Holt and Elliott, that the council petition the department of highways to pay towns and villages 80 per cent subsidy on bridges and culverts and construction of same.

Councillor Holt also sponsored a motion that a sum of money to be set aside by council for publicity etc. in an endeavor to attract industry to the village. Councillor Bailey felt this Business Men's Association and councillor Holt felt that council should take the initiative and probably a committee on which the business men would be represented could function, after considerable discussion the matter was laid over.

On motion of councillors Elliott and Bailey, the clerk was instructed to write Mr. Anderson, Ontario Department of Highways Engineer, at Port Hope, asking that some action be taken regarding installation of a warning signal at the railway crossing on Highway No. 14 in the village limits.

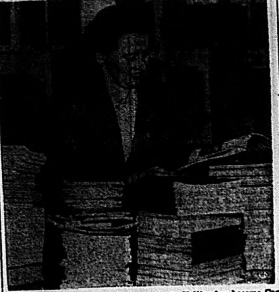
Drainage Problem Discussed

The Reeve introduced the matter of the drainage problem at Tanner's service station on West Front Street where the cellar of a resident's home is flooded because the culvert in front of the service station is clogged. He had discussed the matter with the highways engineer and had been informed that if the department had to open it up there would be an open ditch in front of the station leaving only a regulation driveway, stated the Reeve.

On motion of councillors Holt and Elliott the clerk was instructed to write the Canadian Oil Company warning them that unless the culvert is cleaned out and made larger, it will be removed and left an open ditch with a regulation driveway after April 1st 1949.

A request from the local agricultural representative for use of the community hall for the Hastings county seed judging competition on March 5th was granted.

Council went into a committee as a whole on by-laws and passed a supplementary road expenditure by-law covering the amount spent over and above last year's estimate. Several accounts were passed for payment.



UNIQUE LIBRARY—A wartime service in Halifax has become Canada's most unique library. Mrs. Margaret Reynolds is shown sorting through the books and periodicals coming in to the centre after being collected across Canada through the March of Books campaign, sponsored by the Canadian Library Association and the Canadian Council of Reconstruction. Perfect Mammoth Found in Siberia Moscow, Feb. 16 — (AP) —The newspaper Evening Moscow said yesterday a group of Soviet polar workers have discovered what they believe is a perfectly preserved mammoth in northern Siberia. The account said the workers came across the body in "eternally frozen" soil. (The mammoth, which resembles the elephant, is extinct.)

3 Shareholders Leave Firm

Toronto, Feb. 16 —(CP)—Withdrawal of three leading shareholders from the large industrial family firm of Moffats Ltd., stove manufacturers, was disclosed here last night.

Little more than two weeks after the death of the firm's vice-president, Frederick W. Moffat, the sale marks the first split in the family ownership since its founding in 1869. C. L. Moffat, J. M. Moffat and B. F. Moffat sold approximately 45 per cent of the stock to a holding company for a sum reported to be just under $1,000,000.

IVANHOE

Ivanhoe — Mr. Murray Thomlison of Northport spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Thomlison.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell of Foxboro, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw and Wayne were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prest on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Timbrell and children of Collins' Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bridgen and children of Kingston, Mrs. Murney Ray and Mr. Ted Fleming of Belleville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fleming.

Mr. T. A. Creaser and Billie Rollins were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Twiddy. They were also supper guests of the Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Lackey of Frankford.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wittwage are guests of Mr. Wm. MacMillan.

Mrs. Blake Sharpe of Sine visited her daughter Mrs. Earl McMasters on Monday.

Mr. G. A. Creaser attended the Ministerial Association at the United Church Parsonage, Stirling, on Monday afternoon.

Council Committee Refuses Increase To Civic Workmen

Kitchener, Feb. 16 (CP)—Not one cent increase in a wage rate which now amounts to 85 cents an hour for laborers will be granted the Kitchener civil employees union this year, if aldermen maintain the stand taken in negotiations Tuesday night.

Meeting with union representatives a four-man council union agreement committee put up a strong unanimous front against a proposed 18 - cents-an-hour wage boost, or $7.70 more a week for salaried men.

The union met other snags. Instead of granting 11 statutory holidays with pay, the aldermen propose to cut the union to seven, two less than last year. Negotiations will continue.

Santa Monica, Calif. — The law says Safety First isn't living up to his name — again.

Motorcycle Officer Kenneth Aitken reported today he clocked the Pacific Palisades man with the unusual name driving at 57 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone. A year and a half ago, Safety First (that's really his name) paid $15 for speeding.

Los Angeles — Police said the Pitts pursued their search for a business a bit too intensively.

Clarence Pitts, 49, was booked yesterday on suspicion of drunken driving and his wife, Jeanne, 24, on suspicion of drunkenness. Arresting officer, O. L. Gersham, quoted her:

"We were looking for a tavern to buy, but I guess we looked too long."

Watford, Hertfordshire, England — Mrs. Olive Gregory was cooking an omelet in her kitchen when a gunman entered and locked her up in the pantry.

But the omelet was saved. "Before you start ransacking the house will you please turn out the gas under my omelet," said Mrs. Gregory through the keyhole.

The gunman obliged.

CANADIAN BANKS

There are now only 10 chartered banks in Canada. In 1881 there were 36.

PERSECUTIONS

"1. What is your attitude toward the building of our state and the power of the fatherland party? 2. If you have a positive attitude, how do you express it practically? 3. From where do you obtain the financial backing for your church and pastor? 4. What is your attitude toward the policy of the Anglo-Americans aiming to kindle a new war and to enslave foreign peoples? and 5. Why do you not speak out against inciters of war?"

The report said the directive had the immediate following results:

"In February a group of pastors held a week's meeting formally authorized by the district militia office. On the closing Sunday seven of the group went to various nearby villages to preach.

"At 10 o'clock in the morning they were all arrested and informed that they had failed to obtain permits to journey to these villages for their purposes.

Pastor Reported Beaten Severely

The pastor of another district was taken before the district chief of militia, who with one other member of the militia beat him severely, accusing him of being a traitor to his country and a servant of Anglo-American reaction.

In June, 1948, the report said, the government addressed a circular letter of directive to all church leaders, that they should:

"Not criticize the government; support nationalism; acknowledge and preach that the state stands above the church; support fully all government measures and train theological students to fulfil government obligations."

In addition, the directive stated that all pastors and priests "should counteract anti-Communist and anti-Russian propaganda from the pulpit and church press.

Demand Pastors Join Reds

Thereafter, the report said, "Communist teams visited pastors in their homes and insisted, under pressure of threats, that pastors must join the Communist party."

"In July, 13 pastors were imprisoned and their correspondence taken by the government to be read. Teachers were ousted and told if they renounced religion they would be reinstated.

"By November between 30 and 40 in all were in prison. Some were held as hostages for others who could not be found. Pastors' wives and families were 'grilled' and tormented to make accusations and to sign statements.

THE WORLD NEEDS A PRAYERFUL PEOPLE

for your community

For many years, we, a member of the Poster Advertising Association of Canada, have been in the business of supplying the general public with timely news regarding Canadian products and services. Through the various types of Outdoor Advertising—"24-sheet" Posters, Painted Bulletins, Claude Neon Displays and Electric Spectaculars—we have helped to distribute information about the things business, has to offer for the enrichment of life. Lately we have been casting about for some means of using our facilities, at our own expense, to make an additional contribution to the public welfare.

We might have helped promote safe driving; but many organizations are already doing that. We might have urged more temperate living, but there are an infinite number of opinions as to what constitutes temperate living. We might have concentrated on good citizenship, but that is too vague and nebulous to awaken any active response.

Therefore we determined to use a simple but powerful appeal which we believe will be received with pleasure by the community at large—an appeal to support the local church. The accompanying reproductions show two posters which will be rotated month about in this and other areas, on full size, full-colour 24-sheet Posters, as a contribution to the welfare of the community. If they are well received, if they stimulate interest in the Christian Church, we will be more than satisfied.

MADOC

James Burns Elected Pres. Of Library Board

Madoc—The annual meeting of Madoc Library Board was held in the Madoc Memorial Library rooms recently, Reeve Jack Kincaid acting as chairman.

Reports were given by the different standing committees. The thanks of the Library Board were extended to the members of Madoc Women's Institute, who have purchased two oak reading tables and eight chairs for the Reading Room, also very attractive hangings for the windows of the Library room and Reading room.

The officers elected were, President, James Burns; Vice President, Mrs. G. Murray; Secretary, Mrs. K. Nicol; Treasurer, Miss Vankleek; Librarian, Mrs. R. Comerford.

Board of Directors, Wesley Hulin, Mrs. Felix O'Riordan, Mrs. Beatty, Mrs. G. Hill, Fred Curry, Mrs. Curry, Mrs. G. West, Miss L. Connor and Mrs. K. Brown.

Book Committee— Mrs. N. Broad, Mrs. Carman, Mrs. J. Kincaid, Mrs. F. Curry, Mrs. O'Riordan, Mrs. E. Moore, Mrs. J. Keller.

Recently the Kiwanians of Madoc Club, were hosts to their wives and friends at a dinner, catered to by the Oakdale Rebekah Lodge in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Madoc. A musical program of vocal and piano numbers was given by Irma Burris, Katharine Hart, Joan Burris and Mrs. Hulin, Mrs. J. Smith.

The guest speaker was Rev. H. C. Vaclavik, of Stirling, who gave a very interesting and informative address on "Friendship", pertaining particularly to the displaced persons who have come from Europe to Canada to establish new homes.

G. S. White M.P., gave a talk on the official opening of the Dominion parliament.

Brief speeches were made by Messrs. R. Bench and E. T. Nayler, and Mrs. J. McGowan, N.G. of Oakdale, Rebekah Lodge.

ESKIMO PREXY — R. Murray Montague, president of the Edmonton Eskimos, hopes to lead the new entry in the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union to a good year—financially at least. The Esks don't expect to take the Grey Cup in their first year but will be satisfied if the club breaks even at the end of the season. Mr. Montague is well known in Edmonton sport and business circles. (CP Photo)

MARMORA

Marmora — Mrs. J. M. Brownlie has returned home from a visit with relatives in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hulsman spent Sunday with relatives in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ethier were in Belleville on Tuesday, attending the funeral of their brother-in-law, A. P. Luscombe.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Archer, of Peterborough, recently visited relatives here.

Mrs. William Smith is visiting friends in Campbellford, for a few days.

CURLING POPULAR

Chatsworth, Ont. —(CP)— The local curling club has the largest number of members on record—46 this year. The Ritz rink recently brought home the trophy from Markdale.

BUILDING UP

BANCROFT

Canadian Legion Officially Opens Memorial Hall

Bancroft—Bancroft Branch No. 181 of the Canadian Legion was officially opened Monday night, with a bridge and euchre party, which was a grand success. The party was well patronized by the citizens of the village, as well as out of town interested persons.

The Veterans are to be commended on the splendid effort they have put forth to make their dreams a reality in now having a hall which is not only a credit to them, but also to Bancroft and district. The main floor space is some eight hundred square feet in area, off of which extends a spacious office, cloak room, and a modern kitchen, with built-in cupboards. The hall was very tastily decorated for St. Valentine with large and small hearts and cupids.

In all there were twenty-six tables of card players.

Following the lovely refreshments which were served by a ladies' committee, Mrs. C. O. Fuller, Mrs. W. H. Smith and Mrs. R. E. Haryett, assisted by veterans, the prizes were awarded.

Euchre was won by Mrs. Hugh Vance, and Mr. Harold Thompson and low euchre by Mr. Ross Plumley.

Drawings Take Place

The drawing also took place for the basket of groceries on which tickets had been sold, and the lucky winner was Mrs. Earl Hawley.

Following the drawing, Mrs. R. E. Haryett thanked all those who attended the party, and all those who helped with the arrangements, and called upon the president of the Legion, Mr. Balfour Vader, to accept the proceeds of the door, and drawing which amounted to $270.00.

Mr. Vader thanked all those who helped to make the party a success, and called upon Rev. C. S. Wright, Padre of the Bancroft Legion, for a few remarks, thus a very lovely evening was brought to a close.

FRANKFORD

Frankford — Major J. Lowery of Vancouver, managing director of the Home Oil Company, was a weekend guest of Mr. Arthur Southworth. Major Lowery renewed many acquaintances in his old home town.

The card party held in the Community - Memorial Hall by the Catholic Women's League Thursday evening was a very successful event. These weekly card parties will continue throughout February.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Mission Band of the Frankford United Church was held in Rose-Lowery Hall, Monday afternoon, with a large attendance. The scripture was read by Beverly Patrick.

Mrs. Preston Chase then read a Missionary story.

The Belleville Rockets juniors rolled on in their quest for the district Junior "B" group title here last night when they took time out to defeat the Kingston Patton Royals kids by a 9-3 score.

It was the seventh straight victory for Ken McNaught's kids and as yet they have been undefeated in the Junior "B" group.

A sparse crowd saw the McNaught - Cook crew score a couple of goals in the first period from Art Wright and Johnny Green. In the second period Tommy Schrieder in a neat individual effort netted the third marker and later Hogan nailed another when he took Peter Jones' (the old smoothie's) pass to click.

Beatty, diminutive player of Patton's, flashed a fine brand of hockey. He took Montgomery's pass to open the scoring for the Kingston squad late in the second period and it ended 4-1 after Hogan took Jones' pass to score.

After that it was all Rockets. Johnny Green scored again when the clock said sixteen seconds. Peter Jones made it 8-1 when he took Jud Semark's pass to score, and the old smoothie repeated a minute later.

Hogan dashing down centre ice ripped home the rubber on a concerted attack with Jones and Schreider getting assists. Art Wright added another clincher goal when he scored unassisted at the twelve minute mark.

It was fast, rip - roaring hockey with both squads checking hard and strenuously. Referees 'Speedy' St. Louis and Bill Holway kept the boys in check all through the game and dished out fifteen penalties, one of them a major to player Hackett of the visiting team. None of the penalties were of a serious nature with the exception of Hackett's. The officials were on the job and the slightest infraction warranted, and rightly so, a summons to the sin bin. And that's the way it should be.

Peter Jones, Tommy Schreider, Johnny Green and Nolan looked the best out there last night. This young Ace, Beatty, a half - pint with Montgomery, were tops for the losers. Cliff in goal for the Pattons was impressive. He had a lot of work to do. Bill McKay at the other end also kicked out a lot of rubber when the occasion demanded.

1st Period

1 Belleville Wright (Bone) 6:25
2 Belleville Green (D. Semark) 12:30
Penalties: Nolan Hogan, Schrieder, Evan (2), Amey.

4 Belleville Hogan (Jones) 12:56
5 Kingston Beatty (Montgomery) 18:24
Penalties: Wright, Bone, Nolan, Green, Hackett (Misconduct), Amey, Twigg, Arnold, Foster, Ray

3rd Period

6 Belleville Green (Nolan) :16
7 Belleville Jones (J. Semark) 1:24
8 Belleville Jones 2:52
9 Belleville Hogan (Jones Schrieder) 4:15
10 Kingston Arnold (Montgomery) 12:07
11 Kingston Anderson (Beatty) 16:15
12 Belleville Wright 18:45
Officials Bill Holway; Speedy St. Louis.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Brockville Recorder and Times carried no story of the disgraceful conduct of some of the home-town fans anent the Belleville Rockets and Brockville juvenile game on Saturday night. Mebbe the sports editor, like others, ourselves included, figured Saturday night was a night off. And that's the way it should be.

• • •

But it ran a big story on local boxers. Perhaps the sports ed of the estimable sheet, should have sent his assistant (if he has one) down to the drill hall where the best fights of the night, so we are informed, took place.

• • •

Teen-agers, mostly girls, were the front line of the agitators. They, so we are informed, egged the local Joe Louis' on to more or less sturdy combat. Brockville should be ashamed of these antics on the part of its younger fry to nullify what is presumably good sport.

• • •

We have always got behind minor sports as, more or less a deterrent to juvenile delinquency. And it has worked out, here at least, with good results. But when a town or city like Brockville tolerates such antics on the part of its junior fry, when a visiting team arrives to play the local squads in clean competitive sport then something should be done about it.

• • •

We doubt very much if the good thinking people of Brockville would tolerate such hoodlum behavior. We doubt if these good thinking people knew what happened last Saturday night. The local newspaper at least, did not do anything to enlighten them.

• • •

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association, we understand, has taken the matter under consideration. If the facts as placed before us, are true, then the coach of the Brockville Juveniles should be given drastic punishment. True, perhaps, the Belleville Rockets should shoulder some of the blame for the blow-offs. But that does not sanction any pugilistic activities on the part of the Brockville fans. They surged on the ice and bejabbered hell out of the Belleville kids. Naturally, being young and full of fire, with the game already tucked under the bag, the Rockets did not take the stuff lying down. Who would? The fans swarmed over the ice in furious attack on the Belleville kids and they retaliated in like form. Where were the Brockville police? Where was the Brockville executive? Why was the fan attack tolerated.

• • •

This season, the OMHA executive gave ample warning that no such antics as occurred in Brockville would be tolerated. It is then supposed that the OMHA will take stern disciplinary action against the Brockville team, especially its coach, whose name we do not know. Usually, and if he has had any experience in hockey, a coach knows better than to rush out on the ice when a mild bout of fisticuffing starts between players. The boys usually settle the difference themselves, with perhaps a couple going to the sin bin. And the incident ends there and then.

• • •

Minor hockey in the district is in the throes of playoff combat. The kids are narrowing down to the playdowns and there is plenty of stiff competition. In the juvenile "C" group Marmora are tangling with Stirling with the deciding game scheduled for Saturday night. The first game is being played tonight. Marmora defeated Campbellford in two straight games while Stirling turned back the Bancroft entry the same way.

• • •

Marmora is playing Lakefield this week in the Midget "C" series with Napanee clashing with Gananoque. The winners will play the winner of the Marmora-Lakefield series. Westport and Wellington are still battling in the Juvenile "D" series. Both teams have won their home games and are tied at 5-all. The third and deciding game will be played on neutral ice this week.

• • •

In the Bantam "C" group Tweed plays Napanee today and back in Tweed on Friday. The Napanee-Tweed series is the third round and the winner will be the Eastern Ontario champions. Bantam "D" saw Wellington eliminated by Westport in two straight games. The next round will likely see the Westport team play against a squad from Western Ontario.

• • •

The Rockets juniors riding high took the Kingston Patton Royals, (not Cottons, are you laughing, advertising department?) into camp last night by a 9-3 score. The local juniors can and have played better hockey and the game itself was nothing to grab a pen and write the old folks about. Tommy Schreider, brother of the now famous bridge expert, Joe Nolan, Ronny Trussell and the rest of the gang flew miles in a good cause. Personally we thought young Mister Beatty of the Pattons was one of the best men on the ice. The youngster, he can't weigh over 135, flashed, dashed and hithered and yonned all over the ice in a very effective manner. He grabbed himself a goal and an assist and in every way, put up a swell job.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By EDWIN FRICKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Regina, Feb. 15 (CP) — Some psychologists say that superlative performers in the realm of sport—like Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Eddie Shore and Babe Ruth—have what it takes to score equally high in business and cultural fields.

They claim the same quick reactions which enable a star athlete to beat the field can be applied to such unrelated spheres of activity as bond-selling or military master-minding.

In other words, they reason, it was only an accident of fate that Joe Louis wasn't another Beethoven or Barbara Ann Scott a second Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Hockey Deteriorating

Hockey, one Western Canada sports writer says, no longer lures budding geniuses away from the finer arts.

Scotty (Regina Leader-Post) Melville, without taking sides in the psychological argument, says "hockey has deteriorated over the past 10 years.'

"The accent is no longer on intelligence…, the hunt is on fir big, strong men who can take punishment and act accordingly."

"Style is no longer considered a quality in hockey."

Warning that the game should "pull up its socks before it is too late," Melville claims only a minority of fans want to see blood.

Tongue-Twisters

Murray (Moose Jaw Times-Herald) Brown doesn't think a reported complaint by an eastern announcer on a hockey player's tongue-twisting name was justified.

He says radio men covering the Western Canada Junior Hockey League haven't let out a squeak yet. They, however, are put to the test when "fellows like Scodellaro, Pontorollo, Antonnemko, Kotchinnoski, Petrovitch, and Kovacik grab onto the puck and start streaking down the ice.

Bentley Names Yearling Given Him Four-Bo

Toronto, Feb. 16 (CP)—Western turf fans better be on the lookout this summer for a two-year-old named Four-Bo, carrying the blue and white silks of the Toronto Maple Leafs. Four-Bo is the colt Max Bentley obtained from breeder Charlie Hemstead for scoring a goal here last Saturday.

Donning a 10-gallon hat, the Delisle, Sask., hockey star chose the racer from among 14 others at Hemstead's Thornhill farm. Said Max: "The name was the nearest I could get to tie in with those four goals I scored over the last weekend." As he was taking the ice against Detroit Red Wings in a National League game Saturday night, Hemstead said to Bentley: "If you score right now I'll give you a horse." He did.

Bentley would have liked to mate because publisher George McCullagh also promised Max a yearling for a winning goal he scored against the leading Wings a couple of weeks ago.

Betnley would have liked to have taken over the blue and white silks used by president Conny Smythe of the third-place Leafs before he retired from racing. But Smythe's colors are registered for life with the New York Jockey Club and "that means Max couldn't use my blue and white silks with the Maple Leaf on front and back."

As a substitute for the Maple Leaf, Conn suggested his centre star might use the figure of a puck. But whatever Max chooses the first horse to carry the colors will be Four-Bo, by the noted Boswell, out of Four Flush.

Recalls Founding Of Prince Albert

Prince Albert, Sask. (CP)—Mrs. Christina Mills, 86, has seen Prince Albert grow from a cluster of small log shacks huddled on the bank of the North Saskatchewan River to a bustling city of 16,000, now "capital" of a prosperous agricultural area and vast northern hinterland.

Mrs. Mills came here in August, 1866 with the founding party led by Rev. James McKay. Mrs. Mills was only a child of three. But among her earliest recollections are the log dwelling houses forming the mission station. Built within several hundred feet of the actual spot where the raft on which the party travelled down river from Carleton touched shore this centre served fledgling Prince Albert as church, school and hospital.

Mrs. Mills was born in Old Kildonan, near the present city of Winnipeg, Jan. 19, 1863. Since her arrival here, she has lived all her life in Prince Albert and district.

On Indian Reserve

Much of her early life was spent on the Mistawasis Indian reserve, where her father was a missionary and where she later taught school.

In those days Mrs. Mills was able to speak Cree this knowledge being necessary in order to teach the Indians to speak English.

"I've forgotten all the Cree now," she tells her friends, "but I believe it would come back if I should hear it spoken again."

She was one of the teachers forced to leave their schools and come in to Prince Albert for safety of the time of Riel Rebellion in 1885.

In 1890 she was married to George F. Mills, a city employee. They were responsible for planting the first evergreen trees in the section in which they lived.

Mr. Mills died more than 20 years ago. They had no family, but Dr. Fred McLean, now of Halifax, was a foster son.

Winnipeg Man Owns 138-Year-Old Watch

Winnipeg, — (CP)—A pocket watch made four years before the Battle of Waterloo still is in running order—and seldom loses time.

Made before 1811, the watch now belongs to William Hall of Winnipeg. The 138-year-old timepiece first was bought in England by its present owner's great-great-grandfather, also called William Hall. Since then it has been handed down from father to son.

Mr. Hall's father died in England about one year ago. The watch was brought back from the Old Country by a friend. On the silver case an engraving "William Hall, 1811" is inscribed. The initials W. H. also appear on an inner casing. From the outside, the watch resembles any ordinary timepiece.

The mechanism, however, is much different. The key-wind watch is driven by a chain, which through a magnifying glass looks like a bicycle chain. The inside is hand-engraved with beautiful figures.

In the watch case are certificates showing when the watch was cleaned, the cost, and by whom the work was done. Included in the dates of cleanings were the years 1834, 1859, 1860 and 1866.

The watch was made by F. R. Unthank and Son of Stokesley, Yorkshire. Most of the cleaning certificates bear the Stokesley name.

The present owner said the watch very seldom loses time. It has been running regularly for as long as he could remember.

SERIES OF QUAKES RECORDED

New York, Feb. 15 — (AP) — A series of earth shocks, varying from sharp to slight, was recorded on the seismograph at Fordham University today and yesterday.

Rev. Joseph J. Lynch, Fordham seismologist, said two sharp shocks, about 2,540 miles distant in an undetermined direction, were recorded at 1:14:27 and 1:20:10 p.m. (EST) yesterday. Slight shocks about the same distance were recorded at 11:08:00 p.m. yesterday and 3:00:00 a.m. today.

SAVED BY A SKID

TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Canadian mining industry started with the "Compagnie des Forges" which built the St. Maurice Forges in 1737. For 150 years they processed iron which lay in great deposits along the St. Maurice River.

Mining discoveries grew, making Canada richer. Gold was found in British Columbia in 1858. And when, in 1889, Sudbury Mines revealed a fabulous wealth of copper, nickel and platinum, mining became a major industry and a leading world producer of alloys and precious metals.

The great iron deposits of Northern Quebec and Labrador give far-seeing men faith in the future of Canadian mining. They know there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

And mining is only one phase of Canada's development. The full story is told in "Canada Unlimited", an illustrated 144-page book published by the O'Keefe Foundation. You may obtain your copy by sending 25c in cash (no stamps or cheques, please) to "Canada Unlimited", Dept. N3-2, O'Keefe House, Toronto, Ontario. Next 60 Days Will Answer Lot of Questions

New York, Feb. 16 — (AP) — Steel people believe that the next 60 days "will answer a lot of questions" as to extent of demand, the Iron Age, metalworking trade weekly said today.

Noting that some American companies are planning capacity operations into June, the publication said:

"They don't say June will be the turning point; they simply are unwilling to guess too far ahead."

Although cancellations in certain products were described as substantial, the weekly said that so far these have had no effect on the total tonnages scheduled for production.

"Demand for almost all carbon steel products still tops supply," the Iron Age said. "Although a few buyers have cancelled or declined to accept quotas, others are still anxious to take all tonnage available. Mills are having no trouble disposing of it."

For the fifth consecutive week, steel production in the United States has been maintained at an annual rate of more than 97,000,000 tons. The first quarter of this year, the publication said, probably will see an all-time record for production of steel.

SPECIAL STAMPS ISSUES

Present Level Of Unemployment Largely Seasonal

Toronto, Feb. 16 — (CP)—Bart Sullivan, director for Ontario of the Federal Unemployment Service, said today the present level of unemployment in the province is largely seasonal. "I am encouraged in that belief by the fact that for the first time in several months the number of unfilled vacancies showed a slight increase," he said.

A total of 49,338 are listed on the unemployment insurance rolls in Ontario, east of the lakehead, against a total of 10,969 vacancies. Unplaced applicants represent a wide range of occupations.

London Letter:

Keepers of Pubs In Whitehall Go to Palace

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 16 (CP)—Every year four men who keep pubs in Whitehall go to Buckingham Palace at the invitation of the King.

They are ushered into a long panelled room where the master of the King's household, now Sir Piers Legh, shakes hands with each in turn.

Then, unless there are objections from the police (unheard of in recent times) their licences are renewed for another year—as they have been for almost 400 years.

Only Whitehall publicans get their licences from the Palace—all others go to a magistrates' court. The custom has survived through the centuries from the days when Whitehall was a royal palace and innkeepers in the neighborhood were answerable for their conduct to the royal household.

"Its just a formality now" said white-haired R. E. Thorpe, 75-year-old landlord of the 16-century Silver Cross, who has been to the Palace every year for a quarter of a century. "But it's a pleasant ceremony."

Three other historic taverns adjoining the Silver Cross are represented— The Clarence, The Old Ship and The Old Shades. Landlord Frank Moody of The Clarence has been going to the Palace since 1945 when he was discharged from the Royal Army Ordance Corps with a disability pension.

"Its an impressive occasion, but these days its hard to know what to wear."

Licences are issued by the ancient board of the Green Cloth, concerned with the supervision of catering at the palace. It gets its name from the heavy green balze cloth covering the table at which the justices of the verge of the palace had their court.

The court was set up by letters patent in the 17th century and has jurisdiction over all personal matters arising between parties within its area.

London, Feb. 16 (Reuters)—The National Coal Board is claiming £12,000 ($48,000) damages against miners at Whitburn Colliery, Durham, who were on an unauthorized strike recently for more than a fortnight.

BONARLAW

Bonarlaw—A very successful euchre party was held on Wednesday evening, the winners being: Mrs. I. Edwards and Ronald Brown.

The euchre was sponsored by St. Mark's W. A. and was held in the Parish Hall. Last week the winners were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Broadworth. Refreshments were served.

On Thursday and Friday of last week first vice president John McAvoy and Secretary J. F. Baker, of Marmora Agricultural Society, attended the 49th annual convention of Ontario Association of Agricultural Socities held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, and reported a very successful convention with an attendance of 870 delegates.

$150,000 Blast Shakes Manhattan

Kearny, N.J., Feb. 15 — (AP)— A terrific blast at the Koppers coke plant here shortly before noon today shook Manhattan and New Jersey communities along the Hudson River.

Ambulances and emergency fire and police units were dispatched to the sprawling plant which employs some 800 persons.

There were no immediate reports of casualties, although Hudson county police said preliminary word was that "at least a couple of people were hurt."

Ten persons were killed at the company plant last May when vapors in a tar processing vat exploded. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Hamilton, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Stephen Kuchalwisky, 27, was killed and two others seriously injured when their automobile collided with a parked car early today. Driver of the car, James Clark, 20, and Allen Trowsdale were taken to hospital.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You can always admit defeat. Or decide to get away from it all. But the tough contracts in bridge are something you should try to make. Surprising how many work out with better plans.

South was declarer at four spades in this deal:

NORTH
♠ 7 4 2
♥ K Q 6 4 3
♦ Q 7
♣ 8 7 6

WEST
♠ 5 2
♥ A 5 2
♦ 10 9 6
♣ Q J 9 5 4

EAST
♠ K J 9
♥ 9 8 7
♦ K J 8 5 2
♣ 3 2

SOUTH
♠ A Q 10 8 6
♥ J 10
♦ A 4 3
♣ A K 10

Opening lead from west was the club queen. With what dummy shows, it is not an easy sight for a declarer who must take ten tricks. Better pictures can be found in an old album.

Two trumps may be lost. A heart trick must be given up. A club may be worried about. Least one diamond looks bad; maybe two. Saving enough of them is not an easy chore, looks like.

The heart suit has some possibilities. On it could go some of the south losers in his minor suits. But there is the matter of entries to worry about. Also opponent blocking tactics.

One thing appears quite evident. It is the need for finessing trumps one or more times. For this is needed entries to dummy. So, if we realize this we know what must be tried.

But declarer took the first trick with club king and led heart jack toward dummy. West ducked. Instead of letting it ride, dummy overtook with heart queen and led back a trump.

The south trump ten covered the east nine and heart ten was led. West won with the ace. The diamond return was refused and the second diamond was won by declarer with the ace. Dummy ruffed a third diamond.

On heart king cashed by dummy was sluffed the south club ten. A trump return from dummy was again successfully finessed by south. The last east trump was picked up with a south high trump.

Thus did declarer lose only a club and a diamond, making in all 11 tricks good. It did not look possible at first glance, did it?

Success, advice a mourner, may be around the corner.

SAYS RUSSIAN SAILOR FIRST ARCTIC EXPLORER

Moscow, Feb. 16 — (Reuters)— Professor Dmitry Lebedev, in his book "Geography in 17th-Century Russia," published today, claims a Russian sailor was the first man to explore the Arctic ocean. The sailor, Kondrati Kurochkin, made his voyage 250 years before the Swedish explorer, Baron Nils Nordenskjold, sailed around the northernmost tip of the Eurasian continent, the book claims.

GREATEST MUSHER—Too old at 72 to maintain the pace of his younger days, Leonhard Seppala of Seattle, Wash., was chief judge in the colorful International Dog Derby at Ottawa Winter Carnival. Seppala says the three-day, 90-mile race, was nothing compared with the 408-mile Alaska sweepstakes he used to win more than 30 years ago. (CP Photo)

As proof, you can look at M. G. M., which has traditionally been the studio most set in its ways. The studio, which used to shoot scripts the size of telephone books and then subject the finished product to costly cutting, now starts films with tight, 90- page scripts.

Most streamlined of the new M. G. M. films is "Scene of the Crime," which has a slim, 28-day schedule. The schedule is so fast that star Van Johnson has no time to talk to press or visitors. He has to keep learning lines.

Wanna be a Star?

So you want to be a movie star, huh? Take a look at a day in the life of Celeste Holm, who headed a 20th-Fox-American Airlines junket to Tucson for the opening of "Chicken Every Sunday."

Up early to fly to Tucson, arriving at noon. Greeted by large crowd, two radio interviewers, many photographers. Parade thru town, another radio interview.

Rehearse with four-piece band for theatre show, finishing in time for hotel dinner and reception. Broadcast in front of theatre, appearance on stage with two songs. To airport hangar for dance. Wearily to bed.

It was an enjoyable trip for those who weren't movie stars.

Ont. Intell. "Inkspots" Race High Score In Major 'B' Loop

The Ontario Intelligencer "Inkspots" shook the cobwebs from their bowling eyes at the Recreation Alleys last night, and for the first time this season rolled the top score of the Tuesday Major "B" Bowling League. The printers defeated the "Our Gang" first-half champions by three points to one with an aggregate score of 3566 as against 3463.

Reg. Hardwick, "Inkspot" bowler had his shooting eyes working to perfection. He rolled the high triple of the night with a neat 827. Max Thompson rolled the high single with a score of 353. He also rolled a triple of 737 while Cecil Hardwick and Max Peoples rolled 782 and 757 respectively.

In the other games Blacks defeated 'Just Us' three to one and Sacos dunked the luckless ANAFs four to nothing.

The scores:

Ont. Intell.	(3)	3566
Our Gang	(1)	3463
Blacks	(3)	2942
Just Us	(1)	2906
Saco	(4)	3000

SUBMARINE PUP—Teddy, year-old spaniel, was rescued from the cabin of a sunken boat-tender after a two-mile tow through Vancouver harbor. The dog's master, John Bradley, jumped aboard a passing fishing boat when his craft sank but Teddy could not be taken off until the vessel was towed to Coal Harbor. During the trip he just kept swimming around covered with oil and much of the time under water. (CP Photo)

Toronto, Feb. 16 (CP)—May not another man laugh at women's clothes.

At a male fashion show here, men wore the pants all right, but they borrowed a few feminine tricks when they pulled inspiration from the past, adopted the high, turned-up collar and — so help us—had fullness pushed to the back.

But with men the style is dubbed "the bold look," or more exactly, "rugged in a dignified way."

"To make business men's leisure a pleasure," the third annual Canadian men's apparel fair last night presented large patch pockets—often as many as four—on the jacket, mustard-yellow vests complete with brass buttons and deep-toned sweaters. There were dashing shirred yokes set in jacket-backs down to a wide belt and big, floppy collars to sit up for stormy weather.

Plus-fours and posh plus-eights are due for a come-back on golf links.

Long Jackets

For the successful business man, dignity and ultra conservatism is the clothes keyword. Shoulders will be narrower and more natural, but the rope shoulder will give a square effect.

Long jackets will add inches to height while a trimmer cut will accentuate and draw in the waistline. Jacket backs will drape loosely with a clever use of vents down the middle back and at the side.

In single-breasted suits, three-button models will take a bow, but the double-breasted affairs again will have two buttons.

To the tune of Clair De Lune, models wearing evening clothes walked the runway. Highlight was a set of tails about 16 inches from the floor, a white peaked collar and full evening coat with gathered fullness in the back to give it an "old look, theatrical touch."

Princess of Japan Would Import Pigs

Tokyo, Feb. 16 — (Reuters)— Princess Shigeko Terunominya, eldest daughter of Emperor Hirohito of Japan, said today she wants to import pigs from the United States for her farm in Tokyo. The Princess, who has run a pig farm for several years, said importation of pigs from abroad was the only means of improving the quality of her stock which suffered during the war.

YOURS TO ENJOY

You GAMBLE every time you go to the movies; it is one of the few things you buy, sight unseen and, yet, if you DON'T like it, there is nothing you can do about it — THEREFORE, it is with a great deal of pleasure that the Management of the BELLE THEATRE recommends this marvellous picture.

IN TECHNICOLOR
"THE THREE MUSKETEERS"
LANA TURNER — GENE KELLY
JUNE ALLYSON.

TODAY — THURSDAY — FRIDAY
BELLE A FAMOUS PLAYERS THEATRE
DAILY .. 2.00 - 7.00 - 9.10

AT THE BELLE — June Allyson and Gene Kelly are the romantic lovers in M.G.M.'s spectacular Technicolor version of Dumas' "The Three Musketeer," continuing at the Belle Theatre until Friday, matinee daily. Also starred in one of the year's greatest casts are Lana Turner, Van Heflin, Angela Lansbury and Frank Morgan.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Deep Waters"

"Deep Waters", the widely-heralded Twentieth Century-Fox hit starring Dana Andrews in the most rugged of his portrayals, and beautiful Jean Peters in another role to match her "Captain From Castile" triumph, opens Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. A drama-packed story of the sea and a man it possessed, and of the spell it cast on a romance that was ruled by the turbulent tides, this filmization of Ruth Moore's best-selling novel, "Spoonhandle," is being acclaimed as one of the most unusual love stories ever to reach the screen.

Andrews, currently at the peak of his career, is seen as Hod Stillwell, the young, Maine lobster fisherman who couldn't be torn from the sea even for the love of a beautiful girl. For the busy star who recently scored in "The Iron Curtain," the current role is altogether unlike any he has ever before assayed, and is said to reveal a new facet of his brilliant and versatile acting ability.

Photographed in Maine

Andrews' love interest in "Deep Waters" is Jean Peters, the former Ohio State University co-ed who made an auspicious screen debut in "Captain From Castile" in which she played Tyrone Power's fiery Spanish sweetheart. She appears as Ann Freeman, who sets herself against the power of the deep waters in the battle for Hod Stillwell's heart.

The film boasts an outstanding supporting cast which includes Cesar Romero, who achieved new stature with his performance in "Captain From Castile," as well as Dean Stockwell and Anne Revere, both of whom are still winning acclaim for their portrayals in the Academy Award-winning "Gentleman's Agreement." Romero is seen as Joe Sangor, Andrews' Portuguese partner; the talented young Dean Stockwell is the misunderstood orphan, Danny Mitchell; while Miss Revere plays Danny's stern guardian.

In search of a natural setting that would provide an authentic and picturesque background for "Deep Waters," Director Henry King finally chose the tiny island of Vinalhaven, which lies ten miles off the rugged coast of Maine. Cast and crew were taken cross-country from Hollywood to the colorful, typically New England fishing village surrounded by the rippling waters of fabled Penobscot Bay to film the story's exciting exterior sequences.

"Deep Waters" was produced by Samuel G. Engel from Richard Murphy's screen play which was based on the novel, "Spoonhandle."

On the same program an action packed western "Triggerman", starring Johnny Mack Brown. Also will be shown a colored cartoon and the 11th chapter of "G-Men Never Forget". Matinee daily at 2.00 p.m. throughout the week with a continuous show on Saturday starting at 1.00 p.m.

Lile Benny's Note Book

I h a swell dreem about Mary Watkins, all about me rescuinger and probably saving her liby pure bravery, and this afterm I told her abut it in frunt of her house, and she said, My, it was perfectly wonderful, you.

Whi just then Glasses Magee ce up saying, What was? Why, what did he do so grate? he saiand Mary Watkins said, He ha lovely dreem and he was aro. He dreemed 5 big strong inappers with black masts their faces grabbed a hold ofe and tied my hands and feet wiropes and chains, and I was to oud to yell for help, and m nobody would never of seen me again alive or ded if Benny hadn't of happened to come along just in time with a revolver, and he made them all put up their hands and surrender. Wasn't that a wonderful dreem? she said.

Sure but the funny part of it is, I had the same dreem, Glasses said, and I said, Hay, you keep out of my dreem.

It was my dreem too, and I can prove it by telling you the end of it, Glasses said. It ended by the kidnappers suddinly noticing you were only pointing a half of a frankferter at them instead of a revolver, so they grabbed you up too, and just them I came along and beet them all up with nuthing but my bare fists just like in a Western movie, and I lifted Mary up on my horse and took her home, and I guess you must of got home all rite too, because here you are, he said, and I said, Aw, who's going to beleeve that?

I am, that's who, Mary Watkins said. He's got as mutch rite to dreem as you have, and I think it's perfectly wonderful.

Proving people are willing to beleeve anything as long as it seems like a big enough of a compliment to them, and I walked away looking independent and feeling diskusted.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

Rosalie nodded. "Poor boy," she said, sympathetically.

"Well, it was a mistake, Nobody else here knows about it, Rosalie. I don't care. I can afford to send her a check every month. When I don't" — he laughed — "she lets me know and everything is okay."

"I should think that would have taught you a lesson, Tubby. I'll bet you won't get married again in a hurry."

Tubby wagged a fat finger in her face. "Not to the queen herself, baby. Not li'l Tubby."

"Tubby's not a marrying man," she sang.

"No, sir. You don't wan' to marry me, do you?"

"I should say not! You're safe with me, Tubby. I'm going to have a career."

"Career? What for?"

"Why shouldn't I have? Don't you think I'm pretty enough?"

She pouted prettily, "Or maybe you don't like actresses?"

"Like 'em? I love 'em."

"I've been thinking about going to Hollywood to try and get a screen test." In a way it was true. She had been thinking what a ridiculous idea it was ever since Angela said this was a good way to get Tubby to talk.

"Maybe I can do something for you . . . Drink 'er up, Ros'lie, and have another." He turned his back to get at a bottle. Rosalie's fifth cocktail went out the window.

"How could you help me, Tubby?"

"N'er mind. I know a lot of people in that business. Some of my best friends. Remember Fern De Lea?" Fern De Lea was a well-known blonde who played gangster moll parts in pictures. "She's good frien' of mine. Got 'er 'er job. Only way to get rid of 'er."

"But if I were in Hollywood I wouldn't see you."

"Oh, yes you would!"

Rosalie had all she needed to know. She slipped off the high stool. "That's a promise, Tubby. I've got to run now. I'm having lunch with Gwen at one."

"Say, you're always running away from me."

Rosalie, buttoning a dirndl over the swim suit, laughed. "You mean I'm always running after you . . . It's your turn now."

Out of sight of Tubby's rambling white house, her smile became a grim smirk of satisfaction. "Good old Tubby!" she said aloud, "Now to find Cecil and get the international picture. We'll fix Mamma Rutherford!"

* * *

Two blond heads and one dark one bent over the large pad on Rosalie's knee.

"What are all the other notes about?" Cecil wanted to know.

Angela and Rosalie exchanged knowing glances. "Those have nothing to do with you, Cecil," Rosalie said firmly. "What we want you to do is to stick to the subject in hand."

"Darling," Angela pleaded, "Rosalie is going to work on mother but we've got to have material to work with. Come on now, give up a picture of gleaming uniforms, oldworld splendor and swank! Glamor and glory stuff! Something to make Mamma's eyes pop with longing."

Cecil looked to heaven for escape. Finding none, he said patiently, "You know the picture, Angela, my sweet. Napea"—Napea was Lord Somerville — "has assured me he can fix it for me but it will be hard going because we won't have much money, and if we get to a decent post which I believe it will be, we'll live the way others do. Of course servants are cheap . . ."

Both girls pounced at once on that remark. Angela said, "Lots of servants, perfectly trained, Rosalie, gardeners and two cooks... and will there be a car, Cecil?"

"Only the embassy car."

"It's bound to be a foreign car, Rosalie . . . And parties of oldworld beauty, Cecil? Uniforms and candlelight and selected lists."

"Of course," he said.

"Embroider that 'selected' part, Rosalie. And who will the guests be, Cecil? Lots of titles?"

"Unimportant princes, barons, a few counts . . ."

"The oldest names in Europe. Several of them married to rich American wives who wouldn't be seen in our social register under any circumstances ... Cecil, would we live in a castle?"

"Put that down, too, Rosalie, and don't forget about the Americans who are dying for that sort of thing."

Rosalie closed her notebook firmly. "I've got about all I can remember right now, Angela. And if I get stage - fright ..."

Angela paid no attention; her creative ability had her in a dreamy grip. "You might toss in something about the shooting in Scotland. Cecil's brother will simply have to ask us to his box. And he combs earls and lords out of his hair every morning. And the Riviera with the international set* And weekends at Countess— what is her name, darling? — oh, I remember! Countess von Hoffstanger's schloss. That ought to stack up against the Reid's place in Newport."

Rosalie said, "Cecil, with Angela for a wife, I have no fears that your diplomatic career will not be a success."

Exactly two hours later Rosalie presented herself at the door of Mrs. Rutherford's boudoir. Angela had told her about the morning's conversation with her mother.

Mrs. Rutherford opened the door herself, a smile of welcome on her face. "Come in, my dear. How nice of you to come early to talk to me. I'm going to take you into my confidence. You know I think you're a girl with a great deal of sense. I feel toward you . . . as I would to a woman of my own age. I mean I have confidence in your judgment."

"I see that Angela is getting quite fond of you. It's because Angela is younger . . .and because she is fond of you, admires you so much, that I think you can help me."

"I'd be pleased to do anything I can for Angela," Rosalie answered truthfully.

"I thought you would," Mrs. Rutherford murmured. Then suddenly, "Rosalie, have you any idea how Angela feels about Tubby?"

"You don't mean that she's in love with him, do you?" After all, a question wasn't an untrue answer.

"My dear, their devotion has been simply sweet for a long, long time."

"They met last year at Sun Valley. It was an immediate attachment. They are so right for each other. They were riding and golfing and hiking together all the time. Then, Tubby came to us in Maine in the summer and wanted us to come here."

It wasn't yet time for Rosalie to say anything.

"Angela is so sensitive. I know that I oughtn't to say this, but, Rosalie child, I know that you've been seeing Tubby a lot."

"Every day," Rosalie said brightly.

Mrs. Rutherford caught her lower lip under her teeth. "I know," she said. "Rosalie, are you seriously interested in Tubby? Forgive my ask'ng but I am thinking of my child's happiness and yours."

Rosalie leaned forward. She said very slowly, "Mrs. Rutherford I know what you're trying to say. You want me to help break up this . . . whatever it is between Angela and Tubby! I don't blame you. A man like that for a sweet girl like Angela!"

Mrs. Rutherford blinked her eyes. "W—what do you mean?"

"No wonder wou want me to like Cecil, Mrs. Rutherford. I think you've been sweet about it, when you might have tried to throw Tubby and me together. Cecil is so fine . . . why just to compare the two is sickening."

The older woman stared helplessly at Rosalie.

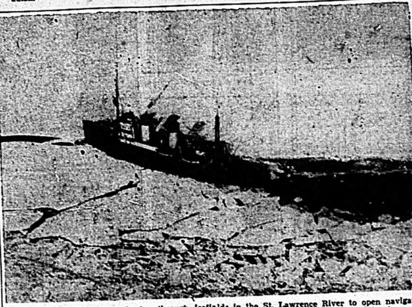
FLYING IN ALASKA HAS ITS HANDICAPS

The pilot of the F-80 (shown above) found flying in Alaska has its share of handicaps when he ran the sleek jet fighter off the runway into a snow-bank. The craft was solidly stuck, and men of the ground crew are shown as they attempted to push the jet back on the runway.—Central Press Canadian.



OPENING NAVIGATION—Plowing through icefields in the St. Lawrence River to open navigation are the government icebreakers N. B. McLean and Ernest Lapointe. The mild winter has made their task easier this year and they are expected to arrive in Montreal at the earliest date in the history of navigation. COMMONS SWEEPS dit group and a handful of independents.

When the Progressive Conservative motion came up, it won support only from the Progressive Conservatives themselves, the Social Credit group and a few independents. The Liberal and C.C.F. parties banded together to defeat it.

The debate leading up to the divisions featured name-calling and a charge by Ralph Maybank (L-Winnipeg South Centre) that the Progressive Conservative party was seeking to provide Premier Duplessis of Quebec with "veto power" over the union in return for his support in that province.

Appealed to Party

He termed the Progressive Conservative amendment either "patiently insincere or crazy" and appealed to some of the "fine" men in that party to "stop this Tory business of trying to buy their way into Quebec." They should remember that "their good friend Maurice can break them just as quickly as he can make them."

Mr. Maybank clashed with Mr. Drew when the Progressive Conservative leader said the government's motion had not been placed before the opposition by last Thursday.

Mr. Maybank made his point — that the government motion had been placed on votes and proceedings last Tuesday, two days before Thursday.

The Liberals put up External Affairs Minister Pearson, making his first contribution in major debate, who held that the proposed constitutional change would not add "one single line" to the B. N. A. Act and warned against any attempt being made in the country to create an appearance of "hostility" between the dominion and the provinces.

Many Speakers Heard

John T. Hackett — (PC-Stanstead), veteran Progressive Conservative legal spokesman, charged the government with seeking to "rape" the constitution and said that much as he wanted to see Newfoundland enter Confederation he did not want union if it meant the constitution would be "damaged" and "belittled."

The House opening was comparatively quiet.

Mr. St. Laurent promised to look "immediately" into the unemployment situation at Vancouver and determine whether it was "one which requires assistance" from the Dominion.

Mr. Pearson said the government is seeking official information on the reported arrest of 16 Protestant clergymen in Bulgaria before deciding what action can be taken.

Union with Newfoundland was debated, too, in the Senate but on a note of unanimity. Six Senators from the Liberal ranks joined in giving warm approval to the bill, passed last week by the Commons, which contains the terms of union.

Nothing in Constitution

Back in Commons, Mr. Pearson said there was nothing in the N.B.A. Act which made it necessary for the Dominion to consult the provinces on the entry of another province into Confederation. There had been 10 amendments since Confederation and in only two of these were the provinces consulted. In both cases a Liberal government was in power.

He agreed that the rights of the provinces and minorities must be protected and must not be changed without their consent.

Mr. Hackett said the government's motion itself made it clear that the union procedure involved a constitutional amendment. He warned against making the constitution the "plaything of a very temporary and possibly vanishing governmental majority."

Mr. Low said the time had come for adequate safeguards for rights provided in the constitution.

Mr. Raymond warned that union would be a source of international conflict because the U.S. bases in Newfoundland would invite attack and said the addition of seven Newfoundland members of parliament would increase the English-speaking majority in the Commons.

Mr. Dorion, supporting the call for consultation with the provinces, said that it would be better to iron out any objections to union before union took place.

All Approved Entry

Mr. Marier said the provinces had made it clear at the time of Confederation that they approved the entry of Newfoundland and all parliament now was being asked to do was endorse a decision taken more than 80 years ago.

Mr. Dion criticized the Progressive Conservative amendment as "vague" and said he hoped Canada soon would have the power to amend the constitution herself and not have to go "on bended knee" to the United Kingdom every time a change was necessary.

Mr. Langlois suggested that the provinces, if they feared that their autonomy was in jeopardy, could meet as did the Fathers of Confederation and put their case jointly to the federal government. Thus far, no provincial premier had protested to the Dominion against the union procedure.

Mr. Fulton maintained there was no need for consultation with the provinces on the admission of new territory when that admission was provided in the constitution. But consultation was required when the constitution was being altered.

Not Political Football

Mr. Gillis said he felt the legality of the point at issue was determined by the justice of the cause. Newfoundland's entry into Confederation should not be made a political "football" by any part of the House.

Mr. MacInnis said the Progressive Conservative move would establish a "dangerous" precedent which would mean that the provinces would have to be consulted on every constitutional change made in the future. The rights of the people were as safe in the hands of parliament as they were with the provincial legislatures.

Mr. Case said no one in the Progressive Conservative Party doubted the right of parliament to legislate on the terms of union with Newfoundland. But the party did say the provinces should be consulted before the B.N.A. Act was changed.

"I believe that the sentiment in Canada is overwhelmingly in favor of Newfoundland uniting with Canada," he said.

Because of that, he had no doubt that the provinces and their legislatures would give prompt approval to the constitutional change.

Mr. Dickey said he felt the people of Newfoundland had been given a "free and informed" choice on the question of Confederation and he would support no technical move which would have the effect of preventing union.

How Christian Science Heals

A minister, long on leave from his charge because of illness, procured a copy of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures"

by Mary Baker Eddy

After reading the first sentence of the first chapter, he thought, "Whoever wrote this had been very close to God."

He read on for several hours with such a sense of unfolding understanding as he had not known before, then realized that he was well. The healing was complete and permanent.

The complete explanation of Christian Science and its healing work is given in "Science and Health." Price, $3.50

HARROWSMITH YOUTH HELD IN HIT-RUN DEATH

STRANGE PLAYMATES

Polly remains calm even with a traditional enemy of the bird kingdom in her cage. Both pets belong to Mrs. F. B. MacKinnon of Saint John, N.B. Polly who has reached the ripe old age of 53, flutters about the MacKinnon home all day. The 10-week-old kitten, a recent addition to the household, doesn't bother the parrot but the two do engage in friendly sparring matches. — (CP Photo.)

Found No Inaccuracies In Keays' Report on Navan Shooting Says Insp. Cousans

In direct contrast to the spirited session Wednesday afternoon when Sgt. J. A. Stringer told Constable Keays exactly what he thought of him as a police officer, the Thursday morning session of the Royal Commission was comparatively slow.

Throughout the morning Inspector T. W. Cousans, district inspector at Perth, was on the witness stand being cross-examined by Keays, who drew from him the admission that he had found no inaccuracies in Constable Keay's report of the Navan shooting back in 1940.

Sgt. Stringer stated on the stand on Wednesday that Constable Keays' report was the most "distorted" report he had ever seen.

The Inspector, senior provincial police officer in the Perth district, is accused by Constable Keays of suppressing evidence which might have shown Stringer lied to a coroner's inquest about the shooting.

Had Good Record

The shooting was the killing of Provincial Constable Harold Dent by John Miki and the subsequent killing of Miki by Sgt. Stringer.

Speaking cautiously on the witness stand as he answered questions from Keays, Inspector Cousans stated he had 27 years' experience as police officer and had been in charge at Perth for 12 years.

He admitted that Keays' record as a police officer was good "as far as my district is concerned." Beyond that he was not prepared to go.

Colder Weather Reduces Danger Of Early Floods

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—A flow of cold air into Ontario early today reduced the danger of premature spring floods and brought snow to some northerly areas.

The Ausable River backed up behind an ice jam at Port Franks, 35 miles north of Sarnia, and flooded some 300 acres of farm land as well as parts of the town. Water cascaded down the main street but no damage was reported.

At Galt, snow-covered roads resulted in a collision in which two Ontario men—Oscar Tucker, Sheffield, and John Crawford, Hamilton—were injured.

The sudden drop in temperature last night solidified an ice jam in the Grand River north of Galt and authorities said there is no immediate threat of a flood.

Sutton appeared to be the centre of a heavy snowstorm that extended south of Barrie and north to Bracebridge. Highways Department officials reported the highways were being kept open with plows.

The Dominion public weather office said an intense storm has crossed the Rockies and will arrive at Lake Superior by Friday afternoon. Snow will fall in northern Ontario in advance of the storm which was expected to lose much of its intensity on its trip from the coast.

A strong flow of mild air from the southwest, accompanied by clear skies, were predicted for the southern areas.

Use Crowbars To Pry Passenger From Wrecked Car

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—Police worked for half an hour with crowbars last night before they could remove Robert Parke, 25, of Montreal, from the wreckage of an automobile, involved in a collision in Toronto's West End.

Parke suffered severe head and chest injuries, but his condition in hospital today was described as "satisfactory."

He was a passenger in the car, driven by Joseph Barnicke, 24-year-old Oakville youth, which allegedly sideswiped another auto containing five teen-aged passengers. None was seriously injured.

Barnicke was later charged with dangerous driving.

Four Scientists in U.K. Suspended, None Engaged in Atomic Research

London, Feb. 17 (AP)— The government has suspended four scientists engaged in secret defence research because of doubts about their loyalty.

The Institution of Professional Civil Servants announced the suspensions today. It said three of the men were employed by the Ministry of Supply and one by the Admiralty. The names were not made public.

The Ministry of Supply has charge of such defence projects as atomic weapons, guided missiles and high speed aircraft. None of the three suspended scientists at the ministry was engaged on atomic research, however, the Institution said.

All the researchers were placed on "special leave with pay" and given 14 days to answer the charges.

FIVE ARE KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS CAR AT CROSSING

Kirkland Lake, Feb. 17 (CP) — A level crossing crash with a passenger train in a blinding snow squall last night claimed the lives of five men riding in a taxi.

Provincial police said they could find no means of identification in the crumpled wreckage of the cab at the scene, about eight miles east of this Northern Ontario gold-mining community.

They identified the driver as Emile St. Louis, owner of Walter's taxi stand here. The others were identified as Alec Desrosiers, Wilfrid Frappier, Edward Jones and a man named Jonkaa.

Police said they believed the driver was momentarily blinded by a snow squall which struck this area about the time of the accident. The train, an Ontario Northland Railway local travelling from Noranda, Que., to meet the O.N.R. Timmins-Toronto main-line train at nearby Swastika, crumpled the large sedan into twisted metal and dragged it more than 500 feet along the right-of-way.

The mangled bodies were removed from the wreckage by workmen using acetylene torches.

Police said the men were picked up by the taxi at a local hotel for the trip back to their jobs at the Kokotow Lumber Company camp east of nearby Larder Lake. Frappier and Jonka signed on at the camp only yesterday.

Saw Car Approaching

Railway officials said the crew of the train saw the car approaching and thought it was slowing to a stop as it neared the crossing. They said whistles and bells were sounded by the train crew.

In charge of the train were Engineer M. J. McDonald and Conductor R. Fisher of Kirkland Lake.

An inquest will be held.

The car was thrown down a steep embankment by the train after being swept along the tracks. The body of St. Louis was tossed clear of the wreckage. One wheel and front fender of the car were found, hundreds of feet away from the main body of the wreck, on a nearby highway.

Engineer McDonald, interviewed at Swastika today, said he was still vague as to what happened.

"The taxi definitely slowed down at the level crossing and then it started suddenly forward again," he said. "It appeared to me as though the driver was attempting to get across the tracks before we reached the crossing.

"There was a snow squall at the time, but we in the engine cab could see ahead. After the taxi was struck, the engine carried it for about 500 feet. Then the car fell from the cow catcher and plunged down an embankment."

TWO ARRESTED AT PARIS

Paris, Ont., Feb. 17 (CP)—Two men one reported by police to have been armed, were arrested here today on charges of vagrancy. Chief of police Tom Bean, who helped make the arrest, said that Frank Kane, 24, of Toronto, would be charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

The other man is James Dolan, 42, of Long Branch, Ont. Details leading to the arrests were not immediately available.

PASSENGERS SCRAMBLE OUT

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)— Passengers scrambled out of a Toronto street-car in record time last night when the power line above the car broke and fell on the roof. The resulting flash of flame could be seen for miles and a hole was burned in the car roof. No one was injured.

Thousand's Stranded In Western States By Snow, Flood Waters

Chicago, Feb. 17 (AP)—Mountainous snows and flood waters in some areas of the storm-stricken western states isolated several communities today, stranding thousands of persons.

Food and fuel shortages in some of the snowbound Wyoming towns became more acute. At least a dozen small towns and several ranches in the Elko, Nev., area were marooned. Residents declared an informal "state of emergency" and planes flew food into the area.

Flood waters in Pysht Valley on the Olympic Peninsula isolated five communities in northwestern Washington State. Snow slides roared into Pacific northwest mountain passes impeding rail and road travel.

For the second time in a week, the mining town of Burke in northern Idaho was isolated by a slide which cut its only road to the outside.

A landslide in Port Angeles, Wash., killed a woman last night. Flood waters spilled over 20 blocks in the community of 10,800. The coastal highway was under four feet of water in some places.

New falls of snow and strong winds appeared headed for storm-battered Wyoming, the Dakotas and Nebraska and strong winds whipped across the isolated sections of Wyoming for the 13th straight day.

All highways in southwestern Wyoming were blocked again by drifts. The Union Pacific's Transcontinental Railroad line through southern Wyoming was closed and trains were rerouted by way of Denver and Salt Lake City. Casper, Wyoming's second-largest city of 38,000 population, has been without regular transportation for four days.

Between 150 and 173 trucks were held up in Wyoming because of a gasoline shortage caused by the drifted roads. Many contained valuable shipments.

Flood danger spots are the Columbia, Missouri and possibly the Rio Grande River valleys. The department said there is danger of flash floods of considerable extent in the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Weather over the rest of the country was fair yesterday.

Journalists Hit Duplessis Attack On Newspapers

Montreal, Feb. 17 — (CP) — The Syndicate of Journalists, a union with a membership of 230 French-speaking newspaper men in Montreal, last night made public the text of a message of protest addressed to Premier Duplessis in connection with a speech by Mr. Duplessis here Monday.

The syndicate said it "protested energetically" the attitude the Premier expresed towards newspapers and newspaper men in an address to the annual conference of the Canadian Retail Federation.

In his speech Mr. Duplessis had asked the retailers to use their power to stop newspapers from acting as propagandists for disorder and Communism by the amount of space they give to them. He claimed that newspapers acted as megaphones for the friends of disorder and for subversive ideas.

Used Spiteful Words

The syndicate said in its message that the premier had used spiteful words against the newspapers and those who made them.

The premier's speech could be a factor in discrediting the reputation of Canadian newspapers and newspaper men and constituted a threat to the freedom of the press by inciting business men to exert a pressure upon newspapers.

The message added that it was the duty of newspapers and newspaper men of Quebec province, like those of every free country, to enlighten public opinion and not to veil the truth in the interests of a party or a political figure.

Civic Workmen At Brockville Ask 80 cts. Hour

Brockville Feb. 17 (CP)— Organized last October, employees of the Works Department of the town claimed Wednesday night that despite several approaches on their part they had been unable to gain any recognition of their union by town officials. A spokesman stated they planned some means of public demonstrations to bring their case before the public and the council.

Mayor W. Fred Reynolds, in answer to a question about the matter, said he had informed the union representative that the agreement had not been neglected. "It has been discussed and placed under study at the March 4th meeting (of the Works Committee) prior to the regular council meeting on March 9th.

Mr. Stevenson said the men will seek a straight basic wage of 80 cents an hour. At the present time the men are paid 60 cents an hour with a 10-cent-an-hour cost-of-living bonus.

Five Men, Ship Lost in Grounding Off N.S. Coast

Sydney, N.S., Feb. 17 (CP) — Capt. Abe Miles returned today to the section of craggy Cape Breton shore where his ship was wrecked yesterday to help search for the bodies of three of the five Newfoundlanders who perished in the grounding.

A sudden storm drove the 144-ton schooner Marshal Frank onto the dreaded Mary Joseph shoals 22 miles south of here. Water poured through the holed hull and the ship was abandoned in ten minutes.

Twenty one seamen reached shore in five dories after rowing 12 miles through darkness, snow and sleet. But five others never made it.

The victims were Leo Blagdon and Conrad Blagdon of Boxey, Nfld., Garfield Green and Norman Ball of Wencounter West, Nfld., and John S. Glagdon of Coles Cove, Nfld. The bodies of Leo Blagdon and Green were recovered when the sea washed them up on the rocky coast.

Wanted to Stay With Ship

The 51-year-old skipper who has spent 35 years at sea said of the five who were lost. "They said they wanted to stay and die with the ship."

Today, a dory was found on the shore smashed to bits and it was believed that the five may have tried to make shore but were battered aground.

Two of the bodies were washed up on the rocky coast yesterday and another was recovered today.

The survivors were taken to the Sailors' Institute at nearby North Sydney last night. All Newfoundlanders, they said they would be back on the banks before long.

Capt. Miles, co-owner of the schooner with James Petit of Halifax, returned to Framboise cove where the Marshall Frank now lies only 20 feet from shore. After she was abandoned the raging sea punched the schooner a quarter of a mile over the shoals.

Caused by Fire

Toronto, Feb. 27 (CP)—A raging two-alarm fire swept through the two-storey factory of the Toronto Salt Works in the east end today with damage estimated by firemen at $35,000.

The blaze started at 4 a.m. on the ground floor of the plant on Eastern Ave. It destroyed a large quantity of salt and then spread to the second floor, damaging the building's electrical machinery. Later the roof burned through.

Firemen blamed the blaze on spontaneous combustion in bags. Damage was estimated at $25,000 to the building and $10,000 to the contents.

MOTION TO ASK BRITAIN TO AMEND BNA ACT APPROVED

House Votes 140 to 74 For This Procedure

Ottawa, Feb. 17 (CP)—By a count of 140 to 74, the Commons last night approved a motion to ask the United Kingdom parliament to amend the British North American Act and complete the long-heralded entry of Newfoundland into Canadian confederation.

The top-heavy vote crushed a last-ditch rally yesterday by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to sidetrack the union question until the Dominion had consulted with the provinces on the required constitutional amendment.

While expressing his wholehearted approval of union itself, he object to the procedural means by which the alliance was being effected and pin-pointed his party's feelings on the matter with these words:

"We do not want them coming in by the back door. We want them coming in the front door."

Mr. Drew, continuing a fight he began Monday, held that no change should be made in the constitution without prior consultation with the provinces.

When the vote was over, the Liberal members, followed by hesitant Progressive Conservatives, rose to their feet and began singing "O Canada" before swinging into "God Save The King." The entire House joined in.

When the debate opened, Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, whose grandfather, William Lyon Mackenzie, was one of the first advocates of confederation in 1831, told the Chamber that those who helped enact the union legislation had the right to include themselves "among the distinguished company known as "the makers of Canada.'"

MOTION TO ASK—Page 3

It Wasn't Funny

Orangeville, Feb. 17 (CP)— A practical joker with a deadly sense of humor placed a dummy corpse on the road to make Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Corbett believe they had just killed a man.

When they saw the object on the road was a dummy they weren't amused, but the whole thing seemed even less funny when two provincial police called at their home later.

Police explained that two men in another car had seen them bending over what appeared to be a body and decided to report it.

Police are now looking for the prankster.

SIX ESCAPE INJURY

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)— Six persons, five of them teen-agers, escaped severe injury last night when two automobiles collided on the Queen Elizabeth Highway about five miles west of here.

Robert Parke, 25, driver of a late model car suffered cuts and possible internal injuries. The other vehicle, an Austin, was almost demolished.

Dorothy Moore, 19, suffered cuts of the face and two fractured ribs while two other teen-agers suffered minor injuries.

Wm. Stouffles, 50, Found Dead On Road Near Home

Believed to Have Been Struck By Vehicle Late Wednesday

David Kerr, 18, of Harrowsmith, was placed under arrest today by Ontario Provincial Police Corporal Everett Smith, Napanee, in connection with a hit-and-run accident that took the life of fifty year old William Stouffles, farmer, residing one mile south of Tamworth, late last night.

Kerr was arrested this morning after Provincial Police had flashed a district warning to all police departments to be on the lookout for a car or truck with damaged headlights.

Stouffles' body was found lying on the side of a Sheffield County road, extending between Tamworth and Newburgh. He was struck a short distance from his farm home.

Police theories following the discovery of Stouffles' body late last night, that he had been struck and killed by a hit-and-run driver were substantiated by the finding of fragments of yellow glass; believed to have come from a smashed foglight and pieces of colored glass found near the body. It is believed that Stouffles was struck in the neighborhood of eleven o'clock.

Stouffles is said to be the father of a large family.

Kerr was taken into custody at his home and the alleged death-car a 1946 Chevrolet club coupe impounded. The car, according to police was badly damaged with a foglight and a headlight smashed.

Charges against Kerr will be preferred following a more complete investigation of the fatality.

Find Instructions On How to Open Safe, On Arrested Man

Toronto, Feb. 17 — (CP)—Detailed instructions on how to open a safe by using earphones and a crystal set were found by police today when they arrested John Balock, 23, on a charge of being in possession of burglary tools.

Police said they found a jimmy, keys and the safecracking instructions which, they added, were novel but highly impractical.

Destroyer Costs One Cent More Than Sister Ship

Ottawa, Feb. 17 (CP)—They were slicing things fine when they figured out the cost of building destroyers in Canada. H.M.C.S. Athabaskan, according to a return tabled in the Commons Wednesday, cost $7,647,550.01. That one cent at the end represented Athabaskan's advance in price over her sister ship Cayuga.

Chlorine Dioxide, New Gas Being Used for Aging White Flour

Belleville, N.J., Feb. 17 (AP)— Bread in the United States is taking a revolutionary chemical change without anyone realizing it.

The agene, a gas used for a quarter of a century to age white flour, is coming out. Substituting is an entirely new gas for aging, known as chlorine dioxide.

The change is good for dogs, cats, rabbits and ferrets. It will not give them running fits they occasionally got from the agene treated flour.

But this new white flour doesn't do a thing for human beings as far as science has been able to discover.

British millers, who discovered the running fits in dogs more than two years ago, have taken no such action. Their medical advisers say maybe taking out the agene gas is a bit hasty.

However, British authorities now are considering whether to give the British flour-makers two years to make the alterations.

This change cannot be made overnight. It requires new machines. Both gases, agene and the new one, are generated by machines so taht the white flour as it is ground is bathed in the fumes. Hundreds of machines are required for the entire American flour-milling industry.

The agene process put the great wheat fields of the United States' midwest and southwest on a par with some in the northwest a quarter of a century ago. Then much of the white flour had to be stored six months for aging, and this applied more to the midwest and southwest than to the northwest. Agene supplanted the six months, and made large economic savings.

Tweed Remains In Dry Area By 4-5 of a Vote

The village of Tweed remains in the "dry" column—by the scant margin of four-fifths of a vote. Last August a vote on the liquor question was taken, and the "wets" polled 495 to 333 for their opponents. This was less than the three-fifths majority required to introduce liquor into the community. It was a close fight with the temperance forces barely topping the required two-fifths, which was 331 1-5 votes.

Ontario Court of Appeal yesterday made the margin still closer by throwing out one of the dry votes, leaving the anti-liquor group the winner by four-fifths of a vote.

The appellate court was asked to decide an appeal against the August vote brought by E. J. Courneyea, Tweed hotel proprietor, and others. They disputed the judgment of Judge J. C. Anderson, who confirmed the vote figures in a recount, giving the two disputed votes to the "drys".

While the court took action yesterday, it reserved judgment on the question of its own authority to rule on a federal enactment, the Canada Temperance Act, under which the vote was taken.

Playful Ultimatum

Kitchener, Feb. 17 (CP)—A mayor handed out a playful ultimatum to a magistrate Wednesday. When Mayor James Washburn found another car in his allotted parking space at the city hall he left a note on the windshield. The note read: "This space reserved for mayor's car only. If illegal parking continues I will be forced to take it before magistrate Polson."

The car belonged to Magistrate H. R. Polson, and Mayor Washburn knew it.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—Synopsis: Colder air invaded our regions during the night. Minimum temperatures ranged from about 20 in southern sections to 20 to 30 below in those sections lying north of Lake Superior. Snowflurries are occurring along Lake Huron and occasionally extend further inland. Skies are expected to be clear in all sections this afternoon.

An intense storm has crossed the Rockies and has moved into Saskatchewan causing blizzard conditions in some sections. This will continue to move eastward to east of Lake Superior by Friday afternoon but in the meantime will lose much of its intensity. Snow will fall in Northern Ontario in advance of the storm. In Southern sections a strong flow of mild dry air from the southwest will bring higher temperatures with mostly clear skies.

City and District News

"MUDCAT LANE" CLOSED TO TRAFFIC

"Mudcat Lane" near Foxboro has been closed temporarily to traffic due to flooding caused by the recent heavy rains, County Engineer W. L. Langlois announced today.

A stretch of the road near the swamplands for about a mile is submerged and the water is considered too deep for safe negotiation of traffic.

ACCUSED ELECTS TRIAL BY JUDGE

Charles W. May, Sidney township resident, charged with carnal knowledge had his case remanded for a week by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county police court today. J. Ormonde Butler is representing the accused, who this morning elected trial at the next court of criminal jurisprudence. A preliminary hearing will get under way sometime next week.

Water Street Defeats Inspection Team

The Water Street team in the Northern Electric Company Hockey League turned back the Inspection squad's bid for victory in Memorial Arena last night, defeating them 4-2 in a well-played game.

The score was tied at two-all going into the second period, after McCabe and Locke had tallied for the winners and Lupinette and Kay had hit the rigging for Inspection.

McCabe sent the Streeters ahead midway through the second period and McGillivray scored the clincher early in the third. Locke drew a minor and a major penalty in the first period. Six sentences, all told were handed out by Referees Yorke and Bush.

The teams:—

Inspection: goal, Lepp; defence, Kay, Fisher; centre, Wood; wings, Baker, Hutchings; subs, Lupinette, Balford, Vance and Howie.

Officials: referee, "Porky" Yorke and "Mouse" Bush.

Williams, Bell New Proprietors Service Station

T. Lorne Williams, formerly of Oshawa and Jack Bell of this city have taken over the McColl-Frontenac-Texaco service station at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets. The station was operated for the past nineteen years by first the Holway Brothers and later by "Toots" Holway.

Mr. Williams was born in Bowmanville but has resided for the past 15 years in Oshawa, where he was associated with the Truck Division of the General Motors Corporation, for upwards of nine years. This is Mr. Williams first venture in the field of operating a service station. He married the former Alpha Bell of this city and a sister of his partner in the new undertaking.

Mr. Bell who is well-known in Belleville was for seven years manager of the Lee Grills Dairy here. He has had some four years experience in the service station business. The boys took over their new business at the first of the month.

Lower Stretches Of Moira River Clear of Ice

An uncommon sight at this time of the year is the Moira River, the lower stretches of which are practically clear of ice.

Open water is apparent from Cannifton through to the lower city bridge. Between that and the CPR bridge water has opened a clear channel to the river mouth.

Heavy rains and mild weather of the past week caused a mild break-up near the mouth of the stream although a large icefield still shackles this part of the river and the bay proper.

TO CONTINUE QUESTIONING

Toronto, Feb. 17 — (CP) — Police today will continue questioning of 24-year-old Arnold Covell who said he was shot in the leg in downtown Toronto last night by bandits who robbed him of $12.

Police said they discounted his statement when they found blood in his mother's nearby home and not on the street where Covell said he was shot.

George Ayward, a border at the home, told officers he heard a scuffle downstairs and rushed down to find Covell in the kitchen blood streaming from his leg. Police said they were seeking for another boarder who left the rooming house about a week ago.

Ministerial Assoc. Discusses Juvenile Delinquency

An interesting paper on juvenile delinquency was given at a meeting at Stirling of the Central Hastings Ministerial Association on Monday evening by Rev. G. W. Young, Marmora.

Mr. Young said it was a challenging subject which needed clinical approach and treatment, and there was need of penal reform. A juvenile delinquent was generally a reclaimable character. Centuries ago parents placed a sense of duty in a child. Now there was little sense of moral wrong. Children should be taught under 14 years of age, for after that they were now responsible to the law.

Formerly in an apprenticeship, the craftsman took over the responsibility or custodian care. Now there were many attractions like shows. The social organization has changed. The treatment of therapy was the greatest treatment in the social services. It was the total probing of the background of the juvenile delinquent. His case history was ascertained before the judge and court placed him in an institution. In the training school were two ways of treatment, probation and parole. The patient was first segregated, tested in various ways, then underwent an indefinite period of training in one of three departments, academic, vocational or agricultural. Farming showed some valued fundamentals of living. There is concern in communities today regarding the symptoms of juvenile delinquency.

Much helpful discussion ensued by the speaker and the Revs. Vaclavik, Trumpour, Poulter, Crabbe, Ball, Shorten, Walker and Heslip. Juvenile delinquency and parental delinquency were very close. The percentage of delinquency is greater in older areas like slums. The juvenile delinquent is an individualist and egotist. There is no gang psychology. Youngsters play wild games. But it was better in school grounds than on streets. In this extreme, it was the result of bad schooling. Movies and funnies or comics had a great influence, often for bad.

Saturday night shows were bad. Bad shows develop bad taste for good reading. Comics should be governed in the home, and balanced with good reading. In Quebec province children under 16 were not allowed in movies. Thus Roman Catholics showed better moral and spiritual standards. In a school of 70 pupils they spent about $2,000 a year. Children had too much money. These parents did not care. The best prevention is by curing these causes. There should be good environment.

A delightful repast was served by the ministers' wives of Stirling, for which a vote of thanks was expressed by the secretary Rev. A. W. Smith.

Largest Majority Looking for Chance To Become Heroes

Oakville, Ont., Feb. 17 (CP)—Robert Hately, Superintendent of Toronto community centres, said Wednesday night only 15 per cent of teen-agers belonging to anti-social gangs are delinquents. The other 85 per cent were hero worshippers.

Addressing the Central Ontario Recreational Directors convention, he said "the largest majority of these youngsters are looking for a chance to be heroes themselves."

"The sooner the newspapers start printing worthwhile articles on what youth is doing and stop the glorified ones on gang displays, the better for all concerned."

CANADA HEALTH— NEW APPOINTMENT

OBITUARY

MRS. HAROLD JOHNSON (Mount Pleasant-Stirling)

Rawdon, Feb. 17 (Special) — Barbara Margarite Remington, wife of Harold John Johnson, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday morning, February 12th after an illness of three weeks duration.

Deceased was born at St. Ola June 5th, 1909, a daughter of Fred Remington and his wife Agnes Letts.

Later the family moved to Hoard's and Mrs. Johnson received her education at the Masson public school, Seymour.

On November 12th, 1927, she married her surviving husband and for a time they resided at Anson, later they moved to the third concession of Rawdon and two years ago they took up residence in Stirling.

Mrs. Johnson was of a cheerful disposition despite the fact that she had been practically a shut-in for the past few years and she will be greatly missed in her home.

She leaves to mourn, her husband, five sons, Keith, Ralph, Ronald, Wesley and John, all at home; five daughters (Joyce) Mrs. Stanley Williams, Mount Pleasant Rawdon, and the Misses Eleanor, Joan, Margaret and Mary at home; one granddaughter Barbara Williams; her grandmother, Mrs. Thos. Letts, Turriff; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Remington, Warkworth; five brothers, Wesley Remington, Dorland, Stewart Remington, Sudbury; James Remington and Mac Remington, Newburgh; Harold Remington, Scotland; One sister Jean (Mrs. William Cairns), Napanee.

She was a member of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

On Monday, February 14th Mount Pleasant United Church was filled to capacity for the funeral service at 2.30 p.m. following a short service at the home in Stirling.

Her pastor Rev. R. W. Barker brought a message of comfort based on the theme "I go to Prepare a Place for You." He was assisted by Rev. H. C. Vaclavik, pastor of Rawdon circuit. The congregational hymns were "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me," and "Thy Love and Guardian Care."

The bearers were Messrs. Kenneth Ray and Murney Scott of Stirling and Messrs. Carl Dunham, Allan Simpson, Burton Sharpe and Oscar Merrick of Mount Pleasant. The body was laid in the vault and later the interment will take place in the church cemetery.

Former Shannonville Boy Elected Pres. Stanford University, Calif.

Shannonville — (Special) — The community was interested to learn that John E. Sterling, Ph.D., has recently been elected president of Stanford University, Stanford, California.

President-elect Sterling is the son of Rev. William Sterling who was the United Church minister of the Shannonville charge some seven years ago, retiring at that time from the ministry and now residing in Cobourg.

Dr. Sterling has also served several summers on the Canadian mission fields prior to his making education his life's work. He graduated from Toronto University in 1927 and received his M.A. degree from the University of Alberta in 1930. He is leaving the position of director of the Huntington Library in San Marino, California to accept the presidency of Stanford, although only forty-three years of age.

Extensive Program Planned in City By Scout Groups

By LEO MARCUS

The Boy Scouts and Girl Guides of Canada, 168,000 of them will observe Scout - Guide Week from Feb. 20 to 27.

Their theme this year is "Preparing for Tomorrow, Today." The sole object of Scout - Guide Week is to demonstrate the training in citizenship. Scouting and Guiding provide for Canadian boys and girls. This will be achieved by a carefully planned program which sees some branch of scouting and guiding demonstrated each day.

In Belleville there are 135 Brownies, 150 Cubs, 50 Guides, 75 Scouts, a Rover Crew and approximately 25 leaders. During Scout-Guide Week the various Belleville Groups have planned the following program:—

Friday Feb. 18 at 8.10 p. m.—Scout-Guide broadcast over CJBQ;

Saturday Feb. 19—Scouts will collect books for Europe;

Wednesday Feb. 23 — 1st Belleville Investiture and Parents' Night;

Friday Feb. 25 — 2nd Belleville Film Night;

Saturday Feb 26 — 2nd Belleville Cub Parents' Night at Christ Church;

Sunday Feb. 27 at 4.30 p. m.—"Scout and Guides' Own". Parents are especially welcome. Speaker will be, Mr. J. Musgrove. Place for meet will be announced later on in the week.

Special meetings will be held by the four Brownie Packs and two Guide Companies during the week.

MAGNETIC DENTAL PLATES

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—Rudolf Fluegge of Toronto has a set of magnetic dental plates that put him five years ahead of the news. Reading that an English dentist had been given credit for discovering magnetic teeth, Fluegge said his set had been installed five years ago at the University of Toronto Dental School. The teeth are set up with small magnets in the upper and lower plates which repel each other and hold the teeth in place.

MARMORA

Volunteer Fire Brigade Will Be Formed in Village

Marmora — Initial steps towards the organization of a volunteer fire brigade were taken at a public meeting held in the council chamber on Wednesday evening under presidency of Reeve V. M. Lynch. Do to other meetings being held the same evening only a limited attendance was on hand.

In introductory remarks, the Reeve outlined the present fire equipment and called for suggestions as to any additional equipment felt necessary as well as a general discussion on the project.

Eventually a tentative list of residents fitted for the various deparments of a fire brigade was drawn up. When the personnel of the brigade is practically assured a demonstration will be called for.

It was the opinion of all present that the formation of a good brigade was practical and the effort will be put forth by the council and others interested to secure the best fire protection possible.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Stratford, Essex, England, Feb. 17 — (CP) — Malcolm Frederick Roach, 34-year-old former Canadian soldier today was charged with the murder of his British-born wife.

Mrs. Roach, 30, was found dead yesterday in a bedroom of the house she shared with her husband. She had been struck on the head and strangled with a silk stocking.

Police said Roach had told them: "I don't know what made me do it. I love her very much."

Roach married his attractive wife eight years ago. They went to Canada after the war but returned to England last year.

TORONTO STOCKS

ronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—In[illegible]rials edged slowly ahead in continuation of yesterday mild upturn on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Prices tightened in all groups as trading slowly increased. Western oils were up on small advances and base metals and golds recovered early losses.

Volume for the first three hours was 538,000 shares, about 11,000 shares more than yesterday's similar period.

C.P.R. moved strongly in the industrials. International Paper was stronger and several scattered issues showed gains ranging from fractions to a point.

Golds were down in early trading but recovered and most losers were even.

International Nickel and Noranda added 1-4 in base metals while Waite Amulet and Que[illegible] backed down.

Receipts on the egg market are up slightly and prices are unchanged. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: Grade A large 42-43; Grade A medium 41-42; Grade A pullet 39-40; Grade B 39-40; Grade C 33-34. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 46-47; Grade A medium 45; Grade A pullet 42-43; Grade B 42-43; Grade C 37.

Butter solids are unchanged. First grade 68; second grade 67.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Feb. 17 — (CP) — Only 10 cattle were received in the local livestock market up to noon and were added to 200 left from yesterday's trading. The few cattle sales were made at steady prices. Other receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: calves none, hogs 50, lambs 240.

Weighty steers sold at $18-$19 and light steers and heifers were $17-$18.25. Some fed yearlings sold at $18-$22, according to quality.

Hogs were steady at $30.50 for Grade A and $30.10 for Grade B1. Sows were $22, dressed.

Western and local lambs sold steady at $25.25 for good ewes and wethers. No sheep were offered.

HOGS

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP) —Hog prices at Stratford this morning were reported unchanged. Grade A were $38.35 to farmers, delivered and $38.50 to truckers. Other markets unavailable.

LEARNING TO FLY

Swansea, Feb. 17 (CP)—When two youths here got an urge to fly they simply bought a wartime training plane and parked it outside their homes. The youths Billy Reid, 19, and his cousin, Red Reid, 25, are presently outfitting the plane and taking instructions on the side. If they don't learn to fly, they'll sell it—at a profit.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Hollywood, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Patricia Medina, British film actress, was taken to hospital last night suffering from what was diagnosed as a severe case of amoebic dysentery. It is believed she contracted the disease while making a picture in Italy.

TO TELEVISE OPERA

New York, Feb. 17 — (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company hopes to televise the performance of the Metropolitan Opera here every Saturday next season, Mark Woods, ABC president, said yesterday. One telecast of the Metropolitan already has been made.

FIREMEN BUSY

Edmonton — (CP) — Edmonton's firemen were kept on the hop during 1948 answering 990 calls, 166 more than in 1947. There were 72 false alarms compared with 70 in 1947.

Brighteners

Philadelphia (AP)—Rev. Earl C. Gross yesterday tacked up the title of his Sunday sermon at his Baptist Church—and it really made things hum for a while.

The minister received dozens of telephone calls and scores of other persons dropped around to see him personally.

The title of his Sunday sermon is "House For Rent."

The police day book carries the following notice:

Philadelphia (AP)— Nelson Sturgels of Arlington, Mass., is one business man who wasn't caught short by either the transit or taxicab strike here. He brought his bicycle with him.

A consultant engineer, Sturgeis said he is having little trouble finding his way around Philadelphia. The cops are cooperative, he added, and even let him chain his bike to the "no parking" signs when he is making a call.

Washington (AP)—The police department has opened a drive against certain parking violators.

Citizens have been complaining that when they follow the parking examples set by police cars they get tickets.

NICKEL DISCHARGES PISTOL

Mayfield, Ky., Feb. 17 (AP)—Sam Hayden, a grocer, was shot and wounded yesterday when he threw a nickel into a cash drawer, where it struck the trigger of a pistol and discharged it.

BEHEADED BY PROPELLER

Madrid, Feb. 17 (Reuters) — Albert Wallach, Swiss radio operator of a plane carrying gold from Lisbon to Geneva, was beheaded yesterday by the plane's propeller after he climbed out of the aircraft here.

PAPER PRICE INCREASED

Tel Aviv, Feb. 17 (Reuters) — Increases in the price of Israel's daily papers—some only a single sheet—which came into force yesterday are believed to make them the most expensive in the world. The price was increased by four mills (about two cents) to 30 mills because of a sharp increase in production costs.

CONDITIONS BAD

New York, Feb. 17 — (AP) — William L. Gower, American Red Cross representative in Europe, said yesterday that 230 Arab refugees are dying daily in the Gaza area of Palestine. Just back from Palestine, he said conditions among the refugees are "very bad."

Baltic Refugee Shows Paintings of Prison Camps

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax (CP)—Joann Saarniit, 39-year-old Estonian artist who escaped from Siberian prison camps to Canada with other Baltic refugees, now is in immigration quarters here awaiting release to exhibit his paintings in Canada.

Saarniit, who speaks practically no English, brought with him 40 oil paintings depicting grim and tragic life in Siberian prison camps and terror behind the iron curtain.

The tall, slim Saarnitt spent nearly two years behind barbed wire before he escaped with a conviction to wage a campaign against Communism in democratic countries.

Speaking through an interpreter, Saarnitt says he has no commercial motive and adds "my paintings are not for sale. I am a man with a mission—to work against Communists by showing the world what they are doing to human beings in Russia."

The artist, one of few persons to escape from imprisonment, made a number of rough sketches on bits of paper during his confinement. He smuggled them out in the lining of his clothes when he escaped.

Saarniit, since arriving here, has had little time to paint, handicapped by a shortage of materials. The Canadian Red Cross gave him a few paints, which he says "are hardly enough."

However, Saarniit has completed one painting—a half-naked, decapitated body by a roadside, its head replaced by that of a pig. He says it is a horrible but truthful record of what he has seen.

He says there are many such methods used by the Soviets for intimidation.

The paintings he brought show cruel methods of torture employed inside prison camps by the "political police." Saarniit uses bold colors to shocks those who visit his small gallery in detention barracks.

Another painting is that of a man locked in a partially water-filled tank. Under the tank, a fire has been lighted to heat the water and force him to 'confess' what Russian police "want confessed."

Saarniit, son of an Estonian railway engineer, is a graduate of the Academy of Arts in Tallinn, Estonia's capital. He took post-graduate work in Germany, Poland, Finland and Sweden during which time he held exhibits.

He came to Canada with 350 Balts abroad the former British corvette Walnut, originally designed to accommodate a crew of 14.

Sporting Spirit Disappearing From European Hockey

Stockholm, Feb. 17 — (CP) — Some members of Canada's Sudbury Wolves say the sporting spirit has disappeared from European hockey if the present world championship series is any sample.

Four members of the Wolves, in a bull session in their hotel room in the small hours of this morning, all claimed that factors other than play alone helped shape the present plight of the Canadians in the world tournament — one loss and one tie for two games in the round - robin six-team finals.

At times angry and then just impatient, they recalled incidents which have given them this impression.

Dibastiani's theory, agreed on by the other three, is that the ugly head of "politics" has risen in the competition.

The European refereeing to date has persuaded the quartet the Europeans have decided that the world championship won't return to North America at any price. A year ago R.C.A.F. Flyers won the world crown for Canada by defeating Czechoslovakia.

In the current tournament finals the Czechs, with two victories, are the favorites along with Sweden and Switzerland.

Transferred in 1944

Inspector Cousans said Constable Keays had been under his command in the Perth district from August, 1937, until March, 1944, when he was transferred to Belleville.

From police records produced it was shown Keays had had eleven commendations in his 12 years as a police officer.

He admitted he would class a police officer as a soldier in that he would fight for his record.

Asked if at any time he had instructed Constable Keays to assist in investigations outside his own detachment the Inspector said he could not recall.

"Then if you cannot recall you will not deny that he had been instructed to do so?" asked Keays.

Questioned by Keays if he had directed Keays in 1941 to assist in a murder investigation at Hull, the Inspector stated he could not recall but admitted he did assist.

Carried Out Instructions

Again asked whether Keays had been instructed to assist in a murder investigation at Cornwall in 1938, Inspector Cousans replied the scene of the murder had been within Constable Keay's jurisdiction when stationed at Alexandra detachment office.

"You will recall that I was on the investigation," replied Inspector Cousans, "and that I at once took over completely. You were instructed to do certain things and you carried them out."

The witness admitted that while under his command Constable Keays had never turned in a false report. "The answer is no," said the Inspector, "I did not permit him to do so."

Keays frequently asked the Inspector regarding particulars of investigations dating back ten years or more and the witness declined to answer stating he would have to "refer to files."

Never Had Sick Leave

Constable Keays, however, drew an admission from the witness that with the exception of time off for broken limbs suffered in the course of duty and for an operation, he had never had sick leave.

In reference to the Dent shooting Inspector Cousans had accepted Keay's report of the investigation as accurate.

"Then you do not agree with Sgt. Stringer that Keay's report was nothing but a bunch of trash?" asked Keays.

"I would not go that far. I accepted it as an accurate report," was the reply.

"As the result of subsequent investigation do you find the report inaccurate?"

"No, I do not think so," replied Inspector Couzans.

Commended Actions

At the same time, however, Inspector Cousans said he had commended, very highly, the actions of Sgt. Stringer for the excellent manner in which he had pursued Constable Dent's assailant and exterminated him.

"I considered it one of the finest acts of bravery and told Sgt. Stringer so," he said.

Keays raised the point as to who had taken the fingerprints of John Miki who had been killed by Sgt. Stringer. Inspector Cousans said the prints had been taken by Constable Kennedy, a coroner's constable.

Keays submitted the fingerprints had been taken by him (Keays).

On question by Keays if Inspector Cousans considered the double slaying a serious investigation, he replied, "it was not as serious as if Miki had been arrested.

Ordered Police Called

"I would have considered it a serious crime if Miki had escaped but in view of the actions of Sgt. Stringer and the positive identification of Miki as Constable Dent's assailant, I did not consider it a serious investigation," was the reply.

On the date of the shooting Inspector Cousans said he had directed that every available police officer in Eastern Ontario be brought to the scene in an effort to exterminate Dent's assailant.

"My only thought was to have Miki exterminated, and I'd do it again," he said.

He said he hoped that Constable Keays, if he had received the telephone call reporting the shooting of Constable Dent, had not gone to Navan to take charge of the investigation.

"I was your duty as a police officer to assist Sgt. Stringer and go into the woods and help bring Miki back dead or alive."

Theory an Insult

Inspector Cousans said he had not gone along with Constable Keays' theory of Miki's death.

"Just what was Keay's theory?" asked Keays.

"Your theory was—it wasn't a theory it was an insult—insinuated that Miki had committed suicide".

Recalling a conversation which took place at the Crown Attorney's office, Inspector Cousans said he had told Keays "What in Hell are you trying to pull".

He said he had pointed out to Keays that there must be facts to substantiate his theory. "I was not concerned with Dent's gun. I did not care whether it had fired one or a thousand shots."

Facts put forward by Keays to substantiate his theory that Sgt. Stringer had fired only one shot included the fact that only one chamber of the gun had been fouled.

Would Not Deny Story

Also Inspector Cousans said he would not deny that Constable Keays had produced five live shells and one spent shell taken from Sgt. Stringer's gun.

He admitted that the facts as presented by Keays had been the only facts in his possession at the time.

He recalled no statement by Keays indicating he would turn in his uniform before he would corroborate Sgt. Stringer's story at the inquest.

"I recall no such statement being made to me," stated the Inspector.

Keays pointed out that Judge C. W. A. Marion, former Crown Attorney of Prescott and Russell Counties, had testified this last week at the hearing.

Sticking firmly to his story that transient John Miki had been killed in an "exchange of shots" in a Navan, Ont. woodlot nine years ago, Sgt. J. A. Stringer, Ontario Provincial Police officer from Ottawa, on Wednesday afternoon dealt a second damaging blow to one phase of a series of charges by Constable J. E. Keays.

Sgt. Stringer, under cross-examination by Keays at the Royal Commission inquiry investigating Keays' charges did not budge one iota from the story which he told after following John Miki into the woods and shooting him dead.

Miki had shot and killed Constable Harold Dent of the O.P.P. and Sgt. Stringer took Dent's gun and shot the transient.

It was Sgt. Stringer's 1940 account of the shooting which was attacked by Keays who as investigating officer claimed only one shot had been fired and that evidence to prove this had been suppressed at the inquest.

Speaking slowly and distinctly, the burly sergeant told Keays exactly what he thought of him, referring to him as a "contemptible officer," and one who must "either have forgotten the true facts of the shooting, or else came to this Royal Commission inquiry with the definite intention of committing perjury."

Conversation With Dying Officer

Still on the witness stand following the noon recess Sgt. Stringer recalled a brief conversation he had had with Constable Harold Dent lying mortally wounded in the Navan railway station.

"He described his assailant to me and said that a shot by Miki had knocked the gun from his hand," testified the sergeant.

The sergeant said he had picked up Dent's gun and accompanied by a man he now knew as George Smith, Navan farmer, had followed Dent's assailant to a woods outside the village. The sergeant was not in uniform at the time.

He had directed Smith to return to a farmer's house to notify police but on question by Keays, said no posse had been formed.

The witness said he had followed Miki through the dew-covered woods when he was startled by a shot.

Minutes later Sgt. Stringer had seen Miki standing on what seemed to be a log with his gun trained on his (Stringer's) head.

"Even as he fired I dropped down and ran diagonally toward him through the bush," said the witness.

Tells of Miki Aiming Gun

"Then I stood up, pointed my gun and told Miki to surrender. I had no doubt as to the outcome if I fired."

Sgt. Stringer then said Miki had turned and aimed his gun.

"I pulled and he dropped," the witness said calmly.

Asked how many shots had been fired Sgt. Stringer replied that three shots had been fired by both his own and Miki's gun.

In his evidence in chief Keays had maintained that only one shot had been fired and that Stringer could have taken Miki alive.

Sgt. Stringer explained the fact that only one chamber of his revolver had been fired through his having refilled the chambers with cartridges from his pocket. He had picked up the extra cartridges from Dent's car, he said.

Prompted by Keays, the witness continued his story regarding the shooting and told of the arrival of two Ottawa detectives and Constable Soubliere (Keays.)

"Keays took it on himself as being in full command, but I did not accept his authority when I saw his antics."

"I was prepared to accept Keays until I saw him turn Miki's body over and go through his pockets."

"Then I told him to 'get to hell out,' and he understood" said the Constable.

Sgt. Stringer denied that he had been placed under arrest or that he had been directed to the Crown Attorney "to straighten out a story."

Said Congratulated by Inspector

Inspector T. W. Cousans had congratulated him, the sergeant said. The Inspector had said "Good job, well done."

Under Cross-Examination

Keays in his cross-examination labored the point of only one chamber being soiled in Sgt. Stringer's gun following the gun fight.

By way of explanation the witness said a .38 Colt Police Positive revolver "breaks left and turns right." When chambers are reloaded after each shot not more than one chamber is likely to be soiled.

The Sergeant admitted only one empty shell for Stringer's gun had been found in the woods, but stated that had he known that this empty shell was to be used by Keays five years later to "stir up trouble" he would have chased Keays out of the woods.

He charged that Keays had had "neither the courage nor the guts" to come to him after the shooting and straighten the matter out.

Speaks of Keays' "Crackpot Theory"

He said that Keays' crackpot theory had caused many reflections to be cast on him during the past few years. Keays again referred to Judge C. W. A. Marion's evidence last week when he had testified the name "George Smith" was not known to him.

In an unsigned statement given by Sgt. Stringer, however, it was shown that the officer had mentioned Smith in his report. The sergeant stated the fact that Smith's name was mentioned in his report possibly had been forgotten by Judge Marion.

Denies Emotional Upset

The sergeant denied that through being emotionally upset he "might have thought" several shots were fired during the shooting.

"It was definitely not through any emotional upset that I stated several shots had been fired" returned the officer. "I was just as calm then as I am right now."

Keays claimed a discrepancy between his own and newspaper reports of the shooting following the incident and the evidence given today as to the number of shots fired.

"That is Keay's report," the witness retorted, "and a more distorted report I never saw."

Sgt. Stringer went on to say he had no quarrel with the newspaper story of the shooting stating it was "generally correct."

The witness went on to say he had learned from the night editor of the Ottawa Journal that Keays had advanced his theory of the shooting and hoped to have it printed but that "he would have none of it."

Number of Shots in Miki's Gun

In seeking to disprove Sgt. Stringer's statement that five shots had been fired by Miki, three at Stringer and two at Dent, Keays asked how it was possible that six shots had been found in Miki's automatic.

Keays had pointed out a fully loaded .45 automatic holds nine shots in the magazine and one in the barrel, ten in all.

Possibly Miki had expected to meet up with a policeman like me and reloaded", said Sgt. Stringer. Extra shells had been found in Miki's possession, according to Stringer. This was denied by Keays.

Continuing Sgt. Stringer stated that he was grateful for the opportunity at the Royal Commission investigation to "clear his name" of the slander against him as the result of "theories" advanced by Keays. He termed Keays a "contemptible officer."

"I don't know whether I can prove it, but in my mind you are a contemptible officer," he said.

Pressed for substantiation of his charges that Keays was a "contemptible officer" Sgt. Stringer accused the officer of once coming to Ottawa in connection with an investigation.

"He stole the case, stole the prisoners and took them back to Belleville and was commended for it," said Sgt. Stringer.

"Use of Word Steal"

Questioning the point Keays obtained an admission from the witness that the "steal" was used as a term among police officers.

"You asked me my opinion of you as an investigating officer and I told you. If I am wrong, then I apologize, but I still think it.

The witness accused Keays of quoting him, (Stringer) in his report of the Navan shooting, when actually all he had been doing was quoting the Ottawa newspaper stories.

"You never got those words from me," charged the officer "I have no quarrel with the newspaper stories—they were generally correct—but police investigations are not carried on through newspaper reports."

Tells of Fullest Co-operation

Under cross examination by Malcolm Robb. Sgt Stringer noted that he had been stationed for three years at Belleville. During that time he had had the fullest co-operation from Crown Attorney Donnan, he said.

Reference was made by Mr. Robb to Detective Stoneman, former Ottawa police officer, who with Keays had been the first police on the scene after the Navan shooting. After the shooting Detective Stoneman had referred to Keays as a "perjurer in court and a liar out of court," according to Sgt. Stringer.

"I object to that statement," interrupted Keays. In all fairness to late Detective Stoneman I feel it should not be used. I have permitted myself to be called a contemptible officer, but this is going too far."

The objection was noted by Commissioner Mackay and Sgt. Stringer continued by stating he did not know if Keays had heard Detective Stoneman's statement. "Keays was standing only ten feet away and could have heard," said Sgt. Stringer "knowing Detective Stoneman I know it was intended to be heard."

Later Commissioner Mackay said he admitted the statement "not because the court was interested in its truth, but because it had been said."

MOTION TO ASK

Independents Support Drew

Those who supported Mr. Drew in the division included Wilfrid Lacroix (L-Quebec-Montmorency), Jean Francois Pouliot (Ind. L-Temiscouata), Frederic Dorion (Ind.-Charlexoiv-Saguenay) and J. I. Hamel (BP-St. Maurice-La-Fleche).

Later, the Chamber gave second reading to a general bill amending Canada's statutes to make them applicable to Newfoundland, but bogged down in the freight-rate structure in the Maritimes.

In the opening stages, Veterans Minister Gregg said his department has been considering allowing veterans, settled under the Veterans Land Act, to sell some of their land to meet their indebtedness to the government. No decision has been reached.

Trade Minister Howe reiterated that a per-bushel payment on western wheat will be made before seeding time and Agriculture Minister Gardiner estimated it would be 20 cents a bushel.

Negotiations Under Way

Transport Minister Chevrier said negotiations are under way to bring international aviation agreements relating to bases in Newfoundland into conformity with Canada's air policy after union of the two countries.

The Senate, too, discussed union and heard Senator W. A. Buchanan (L-Alberta) suggest that Russia's development in Siberia indicates this country may yet welcome her Northwest Territories as a new province. This was his answer to those who contend the Canada-Newfoundland union would mark the last addition of a new province.

Senator L. A. David (L-Quebec) said that as a former member of the Quebec legislature and a one-time Quebec cabinet minister he could say there was no threat to the rights of the provinces in the proposed alliance.

Senate Resumes Debate

Other Senate speakers included Senators Neil McLean (L-New Brunswick and Norman Lambert (L-Ontario).

Senator John Farris (L-British Columbia) termed voting a "public duty" and called for compulsory voting in this country. and the introduction of the single transferable vote which he felt, would be a safeguard against the danger of a minority party coming to power in a three-cornered fight.

Before the Commons vote was taken, Prime Minister St. Laurent warned the Chamber that if the government motion were defeated, there could be no union with Newfoundland on the terms approved last week.

Mr. Drew said his party disagreed with the procedure being used.

"We want to welcome Newfoundland into Canada under terms that will bring harmony and goodwill in the years to come," he said.

The very time when Canada should be least willing to "tamper" with the constitution, he felt, was the time when he was extending her hand to the people of Newfoundland and saying "we welcome and here is the sanctity of our constitution which we respect for the constitution.

Mr. King Heard

Mr. King, speaking to the Chamber for the first time since he gave up the Prime Ministership, said the union would bring advantages "to all nations seeking at this time to ensure their security." The union would bring Canada into "the full proportions we all hoped some day it would be."

M. J. Coldwell. C.C.F. leader, expressed belief there were forces in Canada seeking to destroy the freedom of speech and expression. Those forces were the "allies" of Mr. Drew, who had been quoted in 1935 as saying "Fascism" was developing in Quebec Province.

"There are some people," said Mr. Coldwell, 'who talk of constitutions when it suits their convenience."

FIVE MEN, SHIP

Hit About Nightfall

The storm hit about nightfall when the men were still out in the dories fishing. When the Marshal Frank piled up, waves crashed over her deck and the men held on to anything they could grab.

Capt. Miles said he felt at the time there was no hope of getting out alive. Even if the men got away in the boats, they could not try to land on the rugged coast at night and the little dories could capsize in the boiling seas at any moment. Then he said;

"I told the men I was going over the side because there was always a chance. Then they decided to follow.

"I had to lead the way and get soundings and then call the men to follow me.

Waited for Daybreak

"We rowed out to sea for six miles to wait for daybreak. The five dories were in line. We waited for the sixth dory but it never came.

"The men lost were the last five on the ship. They refused to come off.

"We kept singing and talking in the dories waiting for dawn. We never bothered with life belts. We were scared to move because of the big breakers."

After dawn broke the men rowed toward land. When the first dory got in close it turned over and the men had to swim for it. They helped the others through the surf as the dories piled in one after the other.

Woodlands as Industry

"Everyone knows that this industry is Canada's most powerful collector of United States dollars through exports of products," says the Monthly Letter of the Royal Bank of Canada of "Our Forests Are Worth Preserving." It is pointed out that in 1947 the industry took pulpwood valued at $203,000,000 and converted it into products having a gross value of $706,000,000 thereby increasing value of the wood three and a half times. This wood came from the following sources — from farmers' property and other small holdings 20 per cent, other purchases, including saw mill waste 10 per cent and cut from owned and leased limits 70 per cent.

This is not the entire story of the woodlands. For there are other manufacturers which include wood as their chief raw material and it would surprise anyone to follow a tree from the forest to its final product and see the work that is supplied in its harvest and fabrication. The forest provides employment regularly for many people.

Festival of Britain

Britain is preparing a national display of her contributions to the world in the fields of culture, science, industry and sports, which will take the form of the Festival of Britain. The United Kingdom Parliament recently discussed arrangements for the festival and heard the second reading of the bill to authorize the preparation of the national display.

The south bank of the Thames at Westminster will provide the main site for the central exhibition, around which will be arranged other exhibitions and festivals of various character. The site "from the traffic point of view is ideal as it is truly the centre of London."

The undertaking will cost not more than $8,000,000, including new bridges. The estimated cost of which will be $52,000 and provision for railway works, the estimated cost of which is $600,000 at Charing Cross and $1,200,000 at Waterloo underground station.

In speaking recently of the cost the Lord President of the Council, Herbert Morrison, dealt with the thought that might be in some minds that "this is no time to devote the national resources to the amenities" and expressed the view that "the government will be proud if the Festival uplifts the spirit and stimulates the imagination of the British people after such a long spell of danger and austerity." The ensuing debate indicated that the members of the House gave a general welcome to the idea that the British people should display their achievements in art and industry in dramatic form and show what she is able to contribute to the progress of civilization in the future.

It is characteristic of the British people that it should be demanded that every article and every design must be of outstanding quality. The selecting committee are asking manufacturers for examples of their finest products.

Progress

Declining death rate in the fields of child and maternal health and tuberculosis control is strikingly reflected in the official figures for the year 1947 published recently by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Record low marks for both child and maternal deaths and deaths from tuberculosis are indicated.

The maternal death rate declined to 1.5 per thousand live births from the figure of 1.8 in 1946 and 2.3 in 1945. The number of mothers who died from childbirth in 1947 was 555 out of 288,730 compared with 595 out of 330,732 the year before, an average of 790 out of 276,756 for the five years from 1941 to 1945. The 1947 rate is a drop of nearly one-half from the 1936-40.

Infantal mortality rate showed a further decline in 1947 to 45 per 1,000 live births from 47 in 1946, although the total number of deaths of children under one year increased to 16,324 as against 15,434 the previous year. The 1947 rate compared with 51 in 1945 and with an average of 55 for the period 1941 to 1945 and an average of 64 from the previous five-year period.

The tuberculosis death rate for 1947 shows a drop of almost four points from the 1946 figures. The 1947 figure was 43.4 per 100,000 compared with a rate of 47.2 in 1946, though the previous year showed a rise from 45.9 in 1945 to 47.2.

NEEDS AND DESIRES

For food and drink and winter's fire,
And for the body's warm attire,
We spend our time and strength in strife.
But is that all there is to life?

Is there not something more to gain
Than shelter from the wind and rain?
Beyond the care the flesh requires
Is there not more that man desires?

Why the gay hours in friendship spent?
Why flowers unto the sick-room sent?
Why the kept word till life shall close,
Unless to win what love bestows?

If gaining food and fire were all,
Why books and every garden small?
Why pride, esteem and honor seek?
Unless without these life were bleak?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the Liberal party in Canada for many years, died at his residence in Ottawa at 2.50 o'clock this afternoon, Feb. 17th. Death was due to paralysis, the first attack of which was experienced yesterday. Sir Wilfrid was born at St. Lin, Quebec, on Nov. 20th., 1841. He was elected leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons in 1887. On the defeat of the Tupper Ministry at the election of 1896, he was called to form a government by Lord Aberdeen, the Governor-General. He was sworn in a member of the Privy Council on July 11th., 1896 and formed his ministry on July 13th., 1896.

Messrs. Fred S. Deacon, John Elliott, W. D. Hanley, J. O. Herity, W. B. Riggs, H. F. Ketcheson, R. J. Graham and W. N. Ponton have been appointed to represent the Belleville Board of Trade at the Ontario meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade in Toronto in March.

Mrs. J. R. Collins has returned to Buffalo, N.Y., after visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. J. Dugan, in this city.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

At the bus stop, a boy of eighteen or nineteen was standing. And his appearance conveyed a small shock. He was wearing an old battledress tunic, rough trousers and a nondescript cap. He was handsome, ruddy, alive-looking. And he was carrying a battered lunch box.

The sight of youths in old working clothes and carrying lunch pails has become so rare in quite recent years that any one with a cynical attitude towards the younger generation might wonder if all the lads of today are theatre ushers.

Even in the five o'clock rush hour in the factory districts, any young fellows you see appear to be office workers. Only older men seem to be dressed in rough working clothes or to carry lunch boxes.

Modern factory management provides lunch rooms; or else lunch counters nestle amidst the factories, thus eliminating the lunch box. They provide also locker rooms, in which the workers can change from tidy street clothing into overalls. Those older men in their shabby work clothes, chucking their lunch pails under the street car seats, are probably the old timers who don't go for innovations.

Those of us who have reached the age at which we moralize on the declining quality of youth, probably no longer get up early enough in the morning to see the teen-age boys, in their tough clothes, heading for their jobs with construction companies, railways and other plain, open-air tasks.

For the statistics show that the hard jobs in this world are still being done by adequate men. And the supply never seems to end. The only thing that has changed is that those who do the rough jobs no longer have to look like hoboes: the rough jobs are beginning to pay.

CARIBBEAN ORANGE PROJECT

Kingston, Jamaica — (CP) — Britain has concluded a 10-year agreement with the West Indies to buy concentrated orange juice up to a maximum of 5,000 tons annually. Plans are being made for wide expansion of citrus acreage and the installation of modern equipment for production of the juice.

ENTIRELY BRITISH

Ross-on-Wye, England — (CP) —Cigarets containing 100 per cent English grown tobacco have been produced by a London firm from the crop of a market gardener, Raymond Coombes. Coombes said the experiment had proved so satisfactory that a wholly English cigaret is to be produced commercially.

Mackenzie's Column:

State Secretary Enters Debate On Atlantic Pact

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

State Secretary Acheson yesterday entered the warm debate over the projected North Atlantic alliance with the declaration that the United States proposes to make it an effective security pact.

This followed Monday's senate discussion which demonstrated there was strong opposition for the United States to making any pledge which would lead other members of the alliance to expect American armed aid to be automatic in case they are attacked.

Because of this there is uneasiness among other prospective alliance members who want absolute assurances of American aid.

No Real Differences

Acheson emphasized that "there are no real differences in regard to the objectives which this government is seeking to accomplish." He cited President Truman's inauguration speech as a principal statement of American policy. Truman then said the primary purpose of regional defence agreements under the U.N. charter "is to provide unmistakable proof of the joint determination of the free countries to resist armed attack from any quarter."

One inevitably recalls the world-rocking debate over this same issue in the United States senate back in 1920. At that time an article was contained in the treaty pledging the signatory powers "to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league." The senate wouldn't swallow that.

As a matter of fact, David Lloyd George, Britain's war-time prime minister had suggested to President Woodrow Wilson that the senate might take just such an attitude. This was while the two statemen were attending the Paris peace conference.

Sure of Ground

The "little Welsh wizard," as Lloyd George sometimes was called, advocated that the covenant be kept separate from the treaty. But Wilson was said to have felt sure of his ground, and he wanted the covenant in the treaty. So that's where the covenant went, for Wilson was the dominant figure at the conference and he was father of the league.

The interesting and pertinent fact remains that when the Second War came, the United States was on the firing line without having committed herself in advance. Most observers believe self-interest, if nothing else, would again see her on the battle front should a major conflict develop.

Ontario Cities May Extend Period Of Daylight Saving

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—At least a dozen Ontario cities and towns are toying with the idea of an eight-month period of daylight saving time this year to save electric power.

Toronto's Board of Control gave birth to the plan this week with a recommendation for a two-month extension of daylight saving next fall to help cope with the province's power situation.

S. W. Canniff, Ottawa manager of the Hydro Commission, said last night the capital will get on the bandwagon if the Toronto scheme goes through.

Other centres indicated cautious interest, a Canadian Press survey showed today. Practically all the city and town councils are scheduled to discuss the matter.

Belleville, Woodstock, Kitchener, Waterloo, Brantford, Kingston, Galt and Stratford expressed most interest in the scheme. Galt was said to be considering the elimination of a stumbling block in the shape of a city by-law if the Toronto proposal is adopted.

Kingston, Niagara Falls, London and other centres were keeping an eye on developments.

Hamilton led a band of cities and towns which expressed little immediate interest. These included Peterborough, Guelph, Chatham, St. Thomas, Owen Sound, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and Windsor.

Nearly all parts of the province normally go on fast time from late in April to late in September.

Toronto's city council has not yet accepted or rejected its Board of Control's recommendation, which stipulated that the final decision should be made in September. Both large railways agreed to adjust their schedules to the extension.

BUTTONS CHART COURSE

Lowestoft, England — (CP) — Any Briton catching fish wearing little black buttons are asked to send details to the government's fisheries laboratory here. Thousands of plaice, dab and skate are being caught, "buttoned" and thrown back into the sea in hope reports of fishermen will enable charting of their seasonal movements.

Manitoba House Sees First Switch From Coalition

By The Canadian Press

From now on, Edmond Prefontaine, Liberal-Progressive member of the Manitoba legislature for Carillon since 1935, sits as a "straight Liberal."

His switch from Premier D. L. Campbell's coalition government at Winnipeg yesterday was the first since the C.C.F. left the coalition in 1942 to form the official opposition Mr Prefontaine said he was leaving the coalition because he felt it had served its purpose and that there should be a return to the party system of government.

He said he would support a C. C. F. motion which "represented a mild criticism of the government's tardiness in effecting social reforms in Mantioba."

The change leaves the Liberal-Progressives, largest group supporting coalition, with 25 members in the 55-seat legislature. Also in the coalition are 14 Progressive Conservative supporters and two Social Crediters. In opposition are 10 C.C.F. members, three Independents and Mr. Prefontaine.

In Quebec's legislative assembly, Premier Maurice Duplessis criticized persons who "create a revolutionary mentality" while calling for social improvement. Speaking during a debate on industrial hygiene, he warned that his government did not intend to tolerate "appeals to prejudice from any quarter."

Attacks C.C.F. Party

Earlier, he attacked the C.C.F. as a "disguised ante-chamber of Vomunism" and said Communists supported the C.C.F. aimed at "one government" for Canada.

Throne-Speech debate rolled on in the Ontario legislature, with opposition speakers slashing at the policy of the Progressive Conservative government. Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver criticized withdrawal of a subsidy on quality hogs and said resources conservation efforts had been "feeble." A. A. MacLeod (LPP-Toronto Bellwoods) took issue with government housing programs.

Holding of a British Columbia general election before that Province embarks on a public works program including railway and highway extension was urged by Charles W. Morrow (Coalition-North Okanagan), a supporter of Premier Byron Johnson's government at Victoria. He said an election would ensure government stability and guarantee outside capital the same stability.

The first session of New Brunswick's 41st legislature elected last June, will open March 8, it was announced at Fredericton.

QUININE FOR TREMOR

Your quinine treatment brought under control a tremor I had fought for 30 years (writes a correspondent) May your shadow never grow less. (M. A. N.)

The correspondent refers to taking two grains of quinine sulfate in pill capsule or tablet three times a day after meals for a month, then two grains once a day after food for several months.

The quinine treatment seems especially helpful in cases where the tremor is associated with tension or emotional disturbance.

Many young women with exophthalmic goitre (sometimes called "inward goitre" because the enlargement of the thyroid gland above the breastbone is not obvious to the ordinary observer) have found that quinine controls the fine tremor of the hands so they may continue at their work—they take three grains of quinine sulfate once a day after the principal meal, or one grain three times a day after meals, in pill, capsule or tablet.

One grain of quinine sulfate in pill, capsule or tablet, after food three times a day for ten days to two weeks prior to the ordeal has proved uniformly satisfactory for preventing stage fright and examination jitters. In many instances tremor accompanies these emotional or anxiety states. Along with the quinine treatment the student preparing for an examination needs and should not fail to get an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex for weeks or better months before the examination, for there is scientific evidence, supported by controlled experiments on school children, that vitamin B deficiency, even the moderate deficiency of the child or adult on the ordinary refined diet of generally considered adequate, lowers both perceptive and retentive capacity. Pupils who received a daily ration of B complex to supplement the regular diet learned faster and received higher marks in examinations than those on the same diet who did not receive the vitamin supplement.

At any rate an optimal daily ration of B complex can do no harm.

Optimal daily ration means three or four times as much of the vitamin and/or mineral or other nutritional substance as nutrition authorities deem essential to prevent deficiency disease.

Further details of the use of quinine are given in the pamphlet Quinine in Modern Medicine, available on request if you provide stamped self addressed envelope.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

A Sure Thing

Several correspondents [illegible] that some near-doctor or q[illegible] doctor asserts that there is no such person as Dr. William Brady—the name being just a nom de plume used by a syndicate or group of medical men to propagate something or other. Here's a sure thing for any one who can arrange the matter: I'll bet any amount the near-doctor or queer-doctor may wish to bet that I am an individual and that every word that appears here is my own and no syndicate or group of medical or other men uses my name or exercises any control over what I say in this column. If we lose the bet I promise to pay the whole amount. If we win I promise to divide fifty-fifty with you for your service as commissioner.

Pain Medicine and Sleeping Medicine

I would like to know if pain medicine and sleeping medicine are one and the same thing. (Mrs. A. T.)

Answer—Some medicines relieve pain but do not induce sleep—aspirin, for example. The barbiturates induce sleep but do not relieve pain—such as phenobarbital, medinal, veronal, nonal, dial, amytal, seconal, evipal, nembutal, alurate, ipral. Some medicines produce sleep and relieve pain—opium, laudanum (which is tincture of opium), morphine (alkaloid of opium), diacetyl-morphine (heroin) etc.

Vitamins and Diabetes

Are vitamins in pill form a must for a woman with diabetes? One doctor says it is a waste of money. (Mrs. A. D.)

Answer—Since vitamin B [illegible]plex, particularly thiamine, is essential for utilization of carbohydrate (starch or sugar), and diabetes is functional inability to utilize carbohydrate, and the refined modern diet supplies only a fraction of the B complex required to maintain functional health, I believe a daily optimal ration of vitamin B complex is advisable for every diabetic, actual or potential.

THE LANGUAGE OF FLOWERS

The love of flowers seems to be inbred. The youngest child immediately reacts to their beauty—be those flowers no more than recognized than weeds! So long as there is color there are interest and appeal.

Probably the most expensive of all flowers, for sale in flower shops, is the orchid— yet its original birthplace is that of the jungle — and a tree thief at that! But its beauty and rare delicacy are almost beyond description. It has relatives, however, in many a garden and wild spot in nature. In Honolulu I saw magnificent branches of orchids hanging from tree gardens, gently waving in the sunlight — a sight never to be forgotten.

It is difficult to look into the face of a flower and not feel that it has a language of its own—and which silently expresses itself in its own especial language. I like small flowers, like pansies, lily-of-the-valley, forget-me-nots, and the colorful tiny flowers that so surprise one on walks along water shores.

Archibald Rutledge tells of visiting a home where ther [illegible] been placed upon the [illegible] some rhododendron blossoms. Commenting upon them, he go this remark from his hostess: " don't know why, but to have the there helps me. They 'minds m of God." Is there anything in thi world that "'minds" one of Go so realistically as flowers?

I came across a brief line tha I often place upon a card when am presenting flowers to a frienc Here it is: "The very flowers tha bend and meet in sweetenin others, grow more sweet." Flowers carry such a message of chee comfort, and hope. They ar medicine to the ill, and friendl visitors to us all when in health.

I can hardly await the comin of Springtime, for then it is tha nature opens its eyes through it endless varieties of flowers. Adapting the thought from a poe by Mosleh Eddin Saadi, Elber Hubbard once wrote, "If [illegible] two loaves of bread I wou[illegible] one and buy white hyacinth feed my soul." Another lover c this flower was Sir W. Robertso Nicoll, who wrote, "I think ther is nothing so beautiful in th world as a bed of hyacinths [illegible] moonlight."

PREPARE TO SEE SPIRITUAL TRUTH

The physician who examines a patient by fluoroscope usually prepares himself to make this examination by wearing goggles made of red glass for at least twenty minutes before the examination. It is necessary for him to accustom his eyes to the dark room and the fluoroscopic image which he will examine.

There is a disposition today to approach almost all problems from the secular viewpoint. This is called objective research. Religious beliefs, moral customs and taboos are generally ruled out. Yet those of us who cherish religious faith believe that w live in a universe which is ess tially spiritual and that th terial world is of but small sig ficance compared with the spiri ual.

People of secular mind cann understand such an approach life, and for the reason that th have not accustomed themselv to it. A physician about to ma a fluoroscopic examination mu accustom his eyes to the expe ience in prospect. So we mu accustom our minds to apprehe spiritual truth by repentan prayer, Bible reading, medi tion, worship. Unless we [illegible] spiritual revelation is lost up us.

THOMASBURG

Mothers, Friends Of Pupils Enjoy Social Program

Thomasburg— On Monday afternoon public school teachers, Miss Irene Ketcheson and Mrs. Arnold Montgomery, along with pupils entertained the mothers and friends in the school rooms which had been tastefully arranged for St. Valentine's Day. A short program in keeping with the traditional St. Valentine's spirit was given by the pupils, under the direction of their teachers, with Miss Ketcheson as accompanist for the choruses.

Helen Carleton acted as chairlady for the entertainment and also welcomed the ladies.

Following the program, which was given in the senior room, the guests were invited to the junior room, where tea was served. Mrs. H. N. Burgess and Mrs. W. H. Elliott presiding at the table, while the girls proved themselves very efficient waitresses. Much credit for the success of this event is due to the teachers.

Women's Activities

EGGLETON W.M.S.-W.A.

Madoc Jct. — On Thursday, Feb. 10, a pot-luck dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Fitchett with a fairly good number present.

During the afternoon, the regular February meeting was held with Mrs. Carl Bridges presiding, and Mrs. Hugh McMullen, pianist.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley in a very interesting manner, presented the chapter from the Study Book "West of the Gorges".

A paper on "West China" was read by Mrs. Charles Stapley.

A letter received from Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hayward of China, was read by Mrs. Warren Harlow.

A solo by Rev. H. Burgess was very much enjoyed.

A paper on 'Christian Stewardship' was given by Mrs. C. Fitchett.

Mrs. Murney Kirkey read a poem "Resolutions for the New Year", and a reading: "A Rich Legacy", was given by Mrs. Harry Clarke.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley offered her home for the dinner in March and Mrs. Hugh McMullen was appointed to prepare the programs.

Suggested by Rev. H. Burgess that the roll call in March be answered by naming a Mission Field.

Mrs. Harry Clarke was appointed to see, if we could engage the play put on by Foxboro and Carmel Young People.

Discussion ensued on having the church redecorated.

Mrs. Bridges thanked the hostess and all who had assisted on the program.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Stirling.— The February meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S., was held at the home of Mrs. R. A. Hermiston, with a good attendance. Miss Gena Spry conducted the meeting in the absence of the president.

Mrs. L. Rodgers gave a review of the Glad Tidings. In this was a letter from Miss Frieda Matthews, which was most interesting. The coming of Miss Pelton from her overseas' visit was also stressed.

The remaining part of the meeting was in charge of Mrs. R. A. Hermiston and Mrs. C. B. Rollins.

Mrs. M. Tompkins gave a most instructive address on "The Work in China". The work of the foreign missionary is so urgent at this time. The man with the best passport in China is the missionary. The policemen and everyone, give them the right-of-way. The Chinese believe that the missionaries have come to give rather than to take.

Mrs. R. A. Hermiston read a Valentine story.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. A. Hermiston, Mrs. C. B. Collins, Mrs. Walter Rodgers and Mrs. Ken Ray.

During the refreshment hour, Miss Carolyn Rollins played a piano solo which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. C. Tummon spoke words of appreciation to Mrs. Hermiston and her helpers for their most attractive Valentine refreshments.

ST. JOHN'S LADIES' LEAGUE

Stirling.—The February meeting of St. John's Ladies' League was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Morrow with Mrs. Ranger, Miss Elsie Kerr, and Mrs. John Villetorte, assisting. There were 22 members present. The vice president, Mrs. Bruce Bell, called on Rev. A. J. Anderson to open the meeting.

In order to raise money for the Chapel Fund it was decided to have a home cooking sale on Saturday, Feb. 26.

Rev. A. J .Anderson then spoke of the improvements the league had sponsored and said that, "although the chapel was not yet finished he expected that everything would be installed by the end of the month".

Speaking for Mrs. Reg. Coombes, Mrs. Bell announced that because of the increased costs of hospital services, the Blue Cross has found it necessary to increase its subscription rates.

Mrs. Villetorte covered the first chapter of the study book, "Lambeth and You". First informal impressions of the conference written by Dr. Sherrill Bishop of the Episcopal Church in America.

Mrs. Floyd Armstrong then read an interesting article on Valentine Day and its origin. It was most appropriate for the February meeting as the house was charmingly decorated with attractive Valentine motifs.

Mrs. Bruce Bell read Stephen Leacock's humorous classic "My Financial Career", which was received with great merriment.

The League's guest for the evening was Miss Grace Pitman, who played delightfully, several selections on the beautiful organ which Mr. and Mrs. Morrow have installed in their home. Miss Pitman's well chosen program was greatly enjoyed by her appreciative audience.

Mrs. Edgar Morrow then put on an interesting Valentine word contest which was won by Mrs. Ken Morrow.

Rev. A. J. Anderson closed the meeting and Mrs. Morrow aided by her assistants, served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. Villetorte expressed the sincere appreciation of the league members to Miss Pitman for her kindness in attending the meeting, and giving such an entertaining musical program.

Mrs. Harold Morgan then moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Morrow and her assistants for a most enjoyable evening. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Wright.

SPRINGBROOK W.A.

The president opened the meeting.

Lesson thoughts and prayer were read by Mrs. P. Mumby.

Scripture reading Luke 2: 39-45 by Mrs. Huff.

The business part of the meeting proceeded with the visiting committee reporting 20 calls made, 18 cards sent.

A committee was formed to make arrangements for a concert in the near future to be staged by the Havelock Kitchen Band.

A very suitable program was given by the following:

Mrs. Bailey, St. Valentine; Mrs. Bateman, The Love of God; Mrs. P. Bateman, The Blessing of a Religious Home; Mrs. H. Mumby, Bible Quiz; Mrs. Brown, Contest.

Valentine post office was enjoyed by all.

WALLBRIDGE L.O.B.A.

The Wallbridge L. O. B. A. No. 1168 held its regular meeting on Tuesday. W. M. Margaret Donaldson presided over the meeting with Sister Freda Fair at the piano.

The secretary, Sister Evelyn Fox, read the minutes of the last meeting and the correspondence which had been received was read and discussed.

Mrs. Elsie Massey, Miss Barbara McLusky and Mrs. Jessie Craft were initiated and welcomed by W. M. Margaret Donaldson.

Sister Tucker from Belleville L. O. B. A. was presented and welcomed by W. M. Margaret Donaldson.

The treasurer, Sister Marjorie Woods, reported that since the January meeting the receipts amounted to $109.47.

A motion was passed to donate $150.00 to the Wallbridge L. O. L. to help them in paying for renovation to the Orange Hall.

The draw was won by Sister Gwen Ketcheson.

The meeting adjourned after which all present gathered around a large table. The refreshment committee served coffee, sandwiches and cake, the highlight coming when a large birthday cake was set before Sister Goldie Towes, and everyone joined in singing, "Happy Birthday".

Series of Showers Held at Rossmore

Rossmore—A linen shower was recently held at the home of Mrs. Jack Alyea when about 25 young people assembled to honor the bride-to-be, Miss Laura Belnap.

Games and the making of a bride's book featured the evening's entertainment. A gaily decorated basket was then wheeled in, overflowing with many lovely and useful gifts, for which Laura graciously thanked the donors.

Later, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. C. Alyea, and Mrs. A. R. Alyea which brought a pleasant evening to a close.

On the following Tuesday evening a community miscellaneous shower was held for Laura at her home, where her mother, Mrs. May Belnap, entertained about 30 guests when Laura was the recipient of numerous and costly gifts, which would delight the heart of any bride-to-be.

The first part of the evening was spent in playing bingo with amusing gifts for everyone.

Refreshments were then served and assisting Mrs. Belnap were the bride-to-be's two sisters, the Misses Verna and Joan Belnap.

Another one of Rossmore's young ladies was feted to a linen shower on Friday night last, when Mrs. J. Kropinak opened up her charming home in honor of Miss Barbara Boulter, a bride of this week.

Thirty of the younger set spent the evening making a bride's book for Barbara, amid much laughter and good wishes. After this was completed, the basket containing the gifts was brought in and as each parcel was unwrapped, Barbara, in her usual charming manner, thanked the giver, or givers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kropinak assisted by Mrs. Reg. Alyea, and Mrs. R. Long, and a social half hour brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Then again on Monday night, Mrs. Mabel Russel, and Mrs. Cecil Brownly were hostesses to about 25 guests at a miscellaneous shower for Barbara. Bingo was played and much merriment prevailed as the guests unwrapped their prizes.

Among the guests were the groom-to-be and his mother, Mrs. Drumm, Belleville.

As Barbara and Phil unwrapped the gifts from the beautifully decorated container, they were bombarded with all kinds of good wishes. Almost everything that goes to set up housekeeping was received, for which Barbara and Phil thanked those who had shown their kindness in such tangible forms.

Refreshments were then served by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Laura Belnap.

Both of these charming young ladies were born here, and have lived their young lives in the village, and a host of friends are wishing for them much prosperity and happiness as they journey through the years to come.

Women's Institute

STIRLING W.I.

Stirling.—The Stirling Women's Institute met on Thursday evening at the Stirling Community Hall. Mrs. H. Cooke presided and opened the meeting in the usual manner, followed by community singing of the Maple Leaf Forever, led by Mrs. H. Rodgers, with Mrs. Williams at the piano.

It was moved that a donation be sent to help establish an Institute Scholarship fund at Macdonald Institute for scholarship awards to rural girls in Junior Women's Institute and Homemakers' Clubs. It was also decided to send a donation of bandages to the Boy Scouts, and plans were made to purchase the fifty year achievement book.

The next meeting is to be held in the form of a pot luck dinner at the home of Mrs. E. Cooke on March 9.

Mrs. L. Rodgers took charge of the program in the absence of Mrs. B. Woodbeck. Two interesting readings were given by Mrs. E. Cooke and Mrs. A. Lake.

Mr. O. A. Dalrymple of the Hastings Department of Agriculture, was guest speaker. The topic for the meeting was agriculture and Canadian industries.

Mr. Dalrymple gave a splendid talk on planning and planting the farm home gardens. He stated that "there are many attractive homes in Canada, proving that where there is a desire to beautify the surrounding, the results of earnest endeavor may be satisfactory. There is however, but a small proportion of rural homes in the Dominion where much has been done to make them attractive. Canadians visiting the Old Country or those who were born there, and have come to Canada have noted a marked difference in the appearance of the grounds of the average country home. Paint, as well as flowers, and shrubs go a long way to improve a home".

Mr. Dalrymple showed slides of different homes taken in Ontario, in the Western Provinces, and in England.

Mrs. L. Rodgers thanked Mr. Dalrymple for coming and giving this interesting talk and showing the slides.

The ladies then served delicious refreshments and everyone enjoyed a social hour together.

Bridge and Euchre Enjoyed by Assoc.

A very successful Valentine bridge and euchre was held in Queen Alexandra School on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Home and School Association.

The many guests were received by Principal and Mrs. G. Anderson and Mrs. J. E. Buchanan, President of the Association. during this time, Mrs. G. Robertson played incidental music in the auditorium.

The basket of groceries was won by Mr. Francis and the two beautiful cakes, contributed by a member of the association were won by Mrs. H. Fox and Mrs. G. Robertson.

The rooms and auditorium were beautifully decorated in honor of St. Valentine's Day, and the delicious refreshments, donated by the members, were thoroughly enjoyed. These were served by Mrs. R. A. Lennox, convener, Mrs. Leona Wilson co-convener and thir committee composed of the following members, Mesdames Vermilyea, Fairman, Miller, Mott, Dulmadge, Brearley and Buchanan.

The winners at bridge were as follows: Ladies, 1st Mrs. L. Blaker; 2nd Mrs. R. Ketcheson; 3rd Miss J. Nichol; Consolation, Mrs. Bradley; Hidden Score, Mrs. Empson.

Gentlemen, 1st R. Ketcheson; 2nd Dr. R. Empson; 3rd A. Hill; Consolation L. Donaldson; Hidden Score, W. Cooley.

The winners of euchre were as follows: Ladies, 1st Mrs. D. Archer; 2nd Mrs. Heard; Consolation, Mrs. Hughes.

MONEY BY THE TON

Vancouver — (CP) — Motorists poured 11 tons of dimes, nickels and pennies — slugs too —into parking meters here during 1948. Officials said $96,000 dollars in coins were collected from the machines.

Entertainment Group of St. Michael's Music Studio Presents Fine Program

Last evening the auditorium of St. Michael's Academy was filled to near capacity by an enthusiastic audience of music lovers who turned out to enjoy a well prepared and evenly balanced program of vocal and instrumental selections as given by the "Entertainment Group" of St. Michael's Music Studio under the direction of Rev. Sister Mary Bibiana. The twenty-two young artists who demonstrated their special talents in the musical field both classical and popular, are to be congratulated heartily for the many long hours of intense and diligent practice that they put in so that this yearly musical event may take place.

After an opening introductory of greeting to those present by Mr. Ralph Beazley the program got under way with two piano solos of diverse qualities. Chopin's "Polonaise Militaire" well rendered by Helen Weston and the ingratiating "Sparkler", neatly played by Barbara Stewart. A piano duet, "The American Legion March" was given with well blended unity by Jean Tonkin and Bill Campbell, this being followed by Carolyn Forhan's lovely vocalizing in two popular numbers of a few years back, "Poor Butterfly", and "Tulips". Kathleen Morrell and Joan Foley, two gifted young pianists then gave forth with their personalized interpretations of two novel pieces, —"Flowers and Ferns" and "La Clochette", respectively.

The first male singer was represented by Robert Lucy, who sang with well controlled feeling the well known "Song of Songs" followed by the colloquial ditty, "Little Irish Girl". Eleanor Carter then played a Posthumous Waltz in A Flat by Chopin with pianistic devotion, which was followed by Edmund McQuaid's rhythmic rendition of the "Dance of the Goldenrods". Verna Freeman charmingly played a short "Novelette" followed by Eva Hrachovec and Carol Weston in their distinctive duet version of the familiar "Waltz of the Flowers" by Tschaikowsky.

Miss Barbara Forhan then sang with deep emotional intensity the lovely "Let My Song Fill Your Heart", followed in a lighter mood by "Perspicacity", again expertly sung. Ralph Beasley convincingly played Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C. Sharp Minor", this preceding a medley of Strauss waltzes smoothly and graciously styled by Marie McDonald. The only operatic aria of the evening was vocalized exceptionally well in the native tongue (French), this being the beautiful "Flower Song" from Bizet's "Carmen", sung by Sharon Lucy. Mary Domenico then phrased lovingly the piano solo "J'y Pense".

Two saxophone solos, "Humoresque" and "Traumerei" were pleasingly played by Bob Young, gifted young saxophonist. Next, Dr. E. K. Peterkin gave a most devoted and finely woven rendition of Bach's Chorale Prelude, "Sheep May Safely Gaze", which was followed by Georgia Manlates' clever perceptive tonal shadings in selections from "Scheherazade" and an "Indian Rhapsody." Kenneth Ryan delivered fluently two familiar numbers of recent date, "At the Balalakai" and "Bluebird of Happiness", these two numbers preceding the final artist of the concert, Maria Laskaris who skillfully showed her dexterity and sonority in "Un-Sospiro" and Etude by Liszt, and "Malaguena" by Lecuona.

The entire ensemble then gathered together on the stage and sang as a parting salutation to the well pleased audience out front the popular "I'll See You Again".

The only criticism to be made, and this not with prejudice against any one artist, is that in certain compositions the pianists used too much pedal, the result being that phrases that should have been heard in a clear cut and finely chiselled manner, were blurred somewhat through an over-emphasis on the pedal, a part of the piano that should be used with discerning discretion by the young artist, especially in the formative years of piano playing.

The accompaniments to the vocal numbers were given by Rev. Sister Mary Bibiana, who is to be highly commended for her untiring efforts in bringing to the public's notice the musical prowess of her many very talented pupils in having these recitals from time to time. In the youth of today will be found the finished artist of tomorrow. (E. L.)

Labels Should Mean What They Say Says Head of Consumers Group

..... By FORBES RHUDE .....
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

They asked a lot of questions, and both queries and replies pointed up many problems and brought forth a lot of information.

Mrs. F. E. Wright of Port Credit, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, said women want labels which mean what they say and can be read intelligently. If there were a good system of standards, women from New Brunswick and Alberta wouldn't be writing in complaining that their flannellete sheets are too short. She asked why chickens which are not fed milk are advertised as milk-fed, and why the label pure wool doesn't necessarily mean all wool.

Mme. Vautelet, who is vice-president of the Consumers Association, commented that there is only one article which a woman is satisfied to have called by another name: her fur coat. For that, and that only alley cat can be spelled Canadian mink.

Mrs. A. S. Whiteley, of Ottawa, Consumers Recording secretary, cited cases of packaging and quality.

She asked why weights are not put on packages of soap products, such as flages and powders. (The very names have you all at sea, she quipped).

W. S. Jamieson of Toronto, for the men retailers, replied that whether quality is the same is debateable. Sometimes he had thought quality was similar and found he had been wrong.

As to soap products, for a time the weight was shown. Then it was represented that it is impossible to get all moisture out at the time of production, and by the time country-wide distribution is made some further evaporation takes place, with consequent slight weight change.

However, he added, reputable soap - product manufacturers, package eby a trip-weight scale which ensures that full weight goes in, plus one ounce over.

There are, he said, some cases where fancy packaging may bring a higher price, but in other cases

Mr. Jamieson stated that there is a move on to standardize the size of cans at 10, 15, 20, 28 and 48 ounces.

IVANHOE

Valentine Box Social and Draw Held at Centre

Ivanhoe— The Valentine Box Social and draw held in Ivanhoe Town Hall Feb. 14th., sponsored by the Ivanhoe Community Centre was well attended and a decided success. Proceeds amounting to $125.

Mr. Harry Lovibond, chairman for the evening expressed on behalf of the Centre, thanks and appreciation for the co-operation free labor and cash donations making possible the building of the rink.

A number of Valentine songs were sung by all with Mrs. Reg. Haggerty at the piano.

An interesting program was given by talent from Mount Pleasant consisting of: Readings by Mrs. Percy MacMullen; duets by Ruth Lynne and Ray Sharpe; piano solo by Mrs. Malcolm Sharpe.

The chairman then introduced the "Happy Gang" Messrs. Earl McMaster, George Wood, Frank Brough and Milton Shaw, who caused much merriment with their songs, jokes and stories which were interspersed with spicy commercials given by the Master of Ceremonies Mr. Harry Lovibond.

Mrs. Milton Shaw gave a piano solo in keeping with the day "I'll be Loving You Always."

The draw for the pressure cooker and afghan was then conducted by Mr. Donald Reid.

Mrs. Donald Douglas of Belleville was the holder of the lucky ticket for the pressure cooker, and Mr. Lindsay Tanner of Harold was the winner of the afghan.

Mr. Percy Ray of Harold acted as auctioneer and in his usual brisk manner soon disposed of the many novel boxes.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Wm. French who donated the afghan, to Mr. Earl McMaster for special price on cooker, and to all who helped make the evening a success.

Advantages of Public Health Unit Outlined by Provincial Director

"It is no trouble to get people interested in a health unit once they know what the services mean," stated Dr. R. G. Struthers D.P.H., director of Public Health for Ontario, when he spoke to a representative group at the Collegiate auditorium on Wednesday evening. "One way is to try it and any municipality may withdraw after one year of operation but so far not one has. In a democracy you get something if the people want it and make it known to their legislature, and then the government will aid. No pressure is ever made in the matter of units, but the government is ready to pay fifty per cent of the cost in rural areas and from thirty-three to twenty-five per cent in urban areas if the people see the need and ask."

Dr. J. B. McKay introduced the speaker and pointed out that as pathologist at the local hospital he could see the end result of a lack of preventive medicine. Education for this movement was needed and armed with enthusiasm each person present was in a position to go out and indoctrinate other people with the idea of a much needed health unit.

"The objection centres around cost," he said. "Let us think of the cost to the area in which we live by our failure to prevent a great many diseases. Let us compute unnecessary illness against the cost of maintaining the sick and we will see that the advantages are all on the side of prevention. This is not a part time job but one requiring the full time of the medical officer in charge. Dr. Struthers had spent twenty-five years as a medical missionary in China, and knew the advantages of a health unit and it was a pleasure to introduce a man who is making a life work in the field of preventive medicine."

Lower Death Rate

Dr. Struthers explained that during his years in China he had been driven to the realization of the advantages of preventive medical care. Even in this country if one studied the records for the past forty years it would be noted that the death rate for the years from one to ten had declined sharply. Tremendous progress had been made and great credit was due to the part time medical officers and public health nurses, but during the war the rejection statistics made people realize that the health services were just not good enough. They asked why was health on a part time basis in so much of Ontario? No business concern would say "do this job when you have time from your other duties." If it is going to get its proper importance there must be a specially trained group who is responsible for all public health services. Small towns could not afford this so County health units were formed.

Disease knows no boundaries, so most counties took advantage of the services offered and now in Ontario there are one million people or sixty two per cent of the province served by full time health services. Quebec with ninety-five per cent shows that Ontario is not as progressive as many believe.

At a cost of five cents per person per month or an increase of from one-half to one mill on the assessment this service can be purchased. A unit is a local affair and is not run by a group in Toronto. One advantage was with the nine hundred and eight medical officers which were in Ontario it was hard for the Department to help, but when they were reduced to about fifty full time officers they were able to assist to much better advantage. With part time officers some are getting services and some are not.

Prevention starts with the pre-school child which in many areas has been entirely neglected. Then there are services for older people, and for the whole family, the science of old age is undertaken. In the realm of mental health services have been set up to direct those in the community who need guidance or are not well adjusted. They are directed to the proper authorities and a great deal is done to prevent mental illnesses.

Inspection Important

A sanitary inspector would have charge of inspecting restaurants and all eating places, beer parlors, funeral homes, beauty parlors, slaughter houses, the water and milk supply. Interest in oral hygiene was increasing in the county units. Communicable and social diseases such as tuberculosis and venereal diseases, not only the discovery but the contacts and the follow-up care which the patients must have when they return from sanitaria, means educating the families and the patients for their proper care. In all units where a child has been found whose parents are unable to provide the necessary operation or care the staff gets in touch with the family doctor and arranges with various service clubs so that the child will get the attention he needs.

Nobody knows the condition of health which exists in a county with health officers scattered all over, but under one director who is responsible for the report of health all phases are kept under control.

In the lively question period which followed the local health conditions were discussed and it was pointed out that while the public schools with about 2,000 children had one nurse, the Collegiate with 800 students had no health services and St. Michael's school with 600 students is provided with the service of the V.O.N. by funds raised by the Catholic Women's League and not by the municipality.

Co-Operative Participation

The question of a health unit for the city of Belleville brought the reply that the Provincial grant would not be given unless Belleville joined with other adjacent municipalities or the county. The cost for a county unit would be around $77,000, less 50 per cent from the government, less the $7,000 which is being paid out to part time health officers at present, in in other words it works out to a raise in the tax rate of from three quarters to one mill. When health is considered as important as roads or bridges this appeared to the audience as not too great a load. The minimum personnel is considered to be one nurse for each five thousand, and one fully trained health officer for each twenty-five thousand. To this can be added as the people want it, a veterinary surgeon, sanitary inspector or additional nurses.

The speaker was thanked by Mr. George Wishart. Preceding the meeting an organ recital was given by Mr. Linton Read which was heard by an appreciative audience.

Oslo — (CP) — A shortage of sewing machines in Norway is costing the country $4,000,000 yearly. During the war 10,000 sewing machines were destroyed and it is estimated that a sewing machine saves $40 on the family budget. The present shortage of 109,000 machines makes it a costly problem.

Bible's Ideal For Housewife Still With Us

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London (CP)—Doctors, after making a study of tired housewives, have concluded that the ideal housewife described in the last chapter of Proverbs can still be found.

The Book of Proverbs describes the "virtuous woman" whose price is "far above rubies."

"Sixty-one housewives between 36 and 64 were included in the survey. Their husbands belonged to an income group of £5 ($20) a week or less and most of them had young children at home.

Dr. Stella Instone in her report on the survey, published in a British medical journal, The Lancet, discussed housewifely qualities under these headings:

Husband: "The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her. She will do him good and not evil all the days of her life." Most of the housewives said their marriages were happy but qualified the statement with such remarks as "apart from arguments," "on the whole" and "mustn't grumble."

Sewing and mending: "She seeketh wool and flax and worketh willingly with her hands." Twenty-one women said they had "no leisure at all." Of the remainder most were free for an hour or two in the afternoon or evening, but even then they were "often occupied with sewing, mending or knitting."

"Food From Afar"

Queuing: "She is like the merchant ships, she bringeth her food from afar." All women interviewed complained of having to queue for food, sometimes for as long as an hour.

Feeding the family: "She riseth while it is yet night and giveth meat to her household." Many women said they gave up their own rations to the family, and prepared meals at all hours.

Clothes: "She maketh herself covering of tapestry; her clothing is silk and purple." Most housewives were tidily dressed and clean.

Children: "Her children arise up and call her blessed." Children of 12 to 15 were the most helpful to their mothers. Those who had left school and were going to work were generally reluctant to help.

Personal character: "Strength and honor are her clothing." Dr. Instone said despite their "preoccupied and sometimes bewildered looks," many women had a "certain dignity of their own." Some radiated contentment and good health and invariably the homes they made were happy homes.

Simple Methods Promise Better, Sounder Teeth

Chicago (AP)—Your children have a better chance for good teeth than you ever had. And they probably will keep them longer.

This was the message for the First National Children's Dental Health Day, Feb. 7, by Dr. Allen O. Gruebbel, secretary of the American Dental Association's Council on Dental Health.

"The dental profession," he said, "now has the knowledge to prevent or control nearly all tooth decay, gum diseases, and crooked teeth."

Various means of stopping tooth destruction have been found in the last 10 years. Preventive steps for children, Dr. Gruebbel says, are:

"One, prevent formation of mouth acids by brushing teeth right after eating.

"The second is to deprive the bacteria of sugars by cutting down on the sugar we eat in the form of confections and sweetened beverages and desserts.

"The third is to make teeth more resistant to acids by treating them with sodium fluoride."

Series of Treatments

Most dentists, he says, now use this preventive in a series of four treatments, which must be done in the dentist's office. The treatments are repeated every three years or so up to age 14.

Dr. Gruebbel said that fluorine-treated teeth show 40 per cent less decay. Investigators are looking for ways to make fluorine work on grownups' teeth.

Fluorine is now added to drinking water in about 20 American cities to help childrens' teeth. This is because of reports that teeth are sounder among these people who live in an area where there is naturally a little fluorine in drinking water.

The University of Illinois College of Dentistry, says Dr. Gruebbels, has set out to prove the merits of a tooth-saving method so simple that it could be used by anyone possessing a toothbrush. Two chemicals—diabasic ammonium phosphate and carbamide—are used on the brush to slow down the production of tooth-destroying acid in the mouth.

The university and the state department of public health are making a two-year trial of this brushing protection on the two thousand school children of Peoria and Aurora, Ill. Half of them are brushing their teeth with a powder containing one or both of the chemicals.

Many DP Girls Work as Domestics

Sarnia, Ont., Feb. 17 — (CP)—A tendency on the part of some Canadian employers to treat displaced person domestics and other workers almost as slave labor and pay them virtually starvation wages "just because they're foreigners" was deplored Wednesday by Miss Molly McGee, Canadian journalist and war correspondent.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club of Sarnia, Miss McGee noted that many DP girls working as domestics were being paid only $30 or $35 per month and were denied the privilege of going out evenings or having any social life whatsoever.

Similar conditions, if not worse, existed among DPs working as farm hands and laborers, she said.

She pointed out that a large proportion of DP immigrants are highly skilled and well educated persons who have contracted to do domestic or laboring work for at least a year "as payment for the privilege of entering Canada."

Ingenious Bras Solve Milady's Neckline Poser

By DOROTHY ROE

How, they inquire anxiously, can you wear a bra with a dress whose neckline is cut down to the belt?

They needn't worry, however. Two glorifiers of the American bust, Ruth Merzon and Ruth Fisk, have come up with an answer. The sprightly ladies who have been supplying "falsies" to flat-chested females for many years now are tackling the problem of the revealing neckline with all the scientific zeal of master engineers.

Says Mrs. Merzon modestly:

"I think we have everything under control. For the low, scoop neckline which comes almost to the point of the bust we have the half-bra, with a little band of net across the top to make everything secure. It is wired, strapless and built up from beneath to give that curve that is so important with the new necklines. Any girls may wear it without fear of a slip."

For the plunging neckline which is slit to the waist, Mrs. Merzon also has an answer. It is a long-line strapless bra, also slit to the waistband, honed and wired to hold it in place. Says she:

Worn Years Ago

"This is a type of bra that was born many years ago; we made it then, and we can make it again. Since the accent this year is upon a beautiful bosom, women must not make the mistake of wearing the new low-neckline styles without bras. There is a type of support suitable to every neckline.

For the strapless evening gowns and sun dresses of the season, the strapless bra is, of course, the answer. Newest production of the Merzon-Fisk team is a bra made like two discs of padded satin, laced together by a narrow ribbon in front and elastic with adjustable laces in back. It is, of course, wired to hold it in place. Says Miss Fisk enthusiastically.

"Why, a girl can even play tennis in one of these and have everything under control. We do not believe in separate pads in bras. They are too likely to slip out of place. After all, it is very embarrassing for a girl to realize suddenly that her bust pad has slipped up to her shoulder blade."

Mrs. Merzon and Miss Fisk can put "falsies" in almost any article of clothing. They specialize in glamorizing bathing suits. They also apply "gay deceivers," as they call them to evening gowns, negligees and even nightgowns.

Says Miss Fisk:

"A woman cannot afford to let herself go. If she doesn't have the proper curves for beauty, then she should get them. Even around the house she should think of her glamor, for her husband's sake. Many homes would be happier if the wife would pay attention to her figure. After all, we can all use a little glamor—and what is glamor without curves?"

TABERNACLE C.G.I.T.

Florence Nelson, president of the C.G.I.T., presided at the recent Tuesday meeting. The C.G.I.T. pledge was taken, followed by the business period.

This week is C.G.I.T. and Trail Rangers' Week, which will be held from February 15th to the 20th.

On Sunday afternoon, Feb. 20, there will be a conference for boys and girls from 15 to 17 years of age, inclusive, at three o'clock in the Sunday School auditorium under special leadership.

At 12.15 the regular Sunday School session for Junior, Intermediate, and Senior students will be held, also the presentation and dedication of new flags and other special gifts to the Sunday School.

The evening service at seven o'clock is planned especially for the teen-agers. The special speaker will be the Rev. Lloyd [illegible]rten, and assisting him in the service on behalf of the C.G.I.T. will be Florence Nelson, departmental president, and Ralph Cornish, the chief mentor for the Trail Rangers.

The staff and officers of boys' and girls' work are asking for heartiest co-operation in these services. Every teen-age boy and girl is welcome whether they are a regular member of the Sunday School or not.

The Experts Say . . .

Ottawa (CP)—An attractive cream dessert is pleasing to the most critical of dinner guests — and it is always popular with the children.

Home economists of the Dominion department of agriculture, have prepared a new pamphlet called "Desserts You Like." The new booklet includes many a tasty recipe, and there are several delicious cream desserts. For instance:

Coffee Tapioca Fluff — Ingredients: four tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, one-quarter cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-third cup seedless raisins, two cups coffee, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup whipping cream.

Cook tapioca, sugar, salt and raisins in coffee in top of double boiler until tapioca is clear (about 15 minutes). Stir frequently. Add vanilla and chill. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Pile into serving dishes and chill thoroughly. Yield: six servings.

Ingredients: 1 1-3 cups flour; 1 1-2 teaspoon baking powder; one-quarter teaspoon salt; two-thirds cup milk; one egg; one cup dates.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add milk, egg and dates, which have been chopped and pitted. Cook in deep fat. Drain on brown paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Prune Pudding—Ingredients: One cup cooked prunes (stoned and chopped); one-half cup sugar; one-half cup milk; one-half cup bread crumbs; one teaspoon baking powder; one teaspoon vanilla; one tablespoon melted butter; one-eighth teaspoon salt; one-half cup chopped nuts. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven and serve with whipped cream.

Angel's Delight—Ingredients: 1 1-2 cups milk; one cup sugar; eight tablespoons butter; six tablespoons flour; one pound marshmallows (chopped fine); one small can grated pineapple; one cup nuts; one-half pint whipped cream.

Health and welfare department officials have a few words of cheer for the carrot-munchers.

"Raw vegetables are one of the best sources of important vitamins and minerals for building strong teeth and producing healthy blood," says the department.

For the harassed housewife who has trouble thinking up an attractive meat dish, the department suggests a good fish dinner.

"Apart from the good eating, fish equals meat in protein value," says the department. "It has other valuable elements including phosphorus and calcium which are important for the formation of bones and teeth."

Women's Institute

WOOLER W.I.

Wooler.—The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Karl Austin, on Wednesday afternoon, with an attendance of thirty. In the absence of Mrs. P. Gooding, the first vice president, Mrs. Neil Nelson, presided.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Angus Gunter.

During the business part of the meeting, it was decided to collect good used clothing for the people of Europe.

Ten card tables have been purchased for the Town Hall.

Mrs. E. McMaster reported the layette was finished and ready for an emergency call.

The Garden Club leaders for the coming season are, Mrs. Alden Arthur and Miss Aldythe Arthur.

Mrs. Herman Morrow was convener of the program.

Vocal solos were given by Miss Betty Walker, and Mrs. H. Ewing and a humorous reading by Mrs. W. Ashby.

Mr. Neil Nelson was guest speaker and gave an instructive address on Bees. He distributed recipe books, honey being an ingredient in each recipe.

The Roll Call —uses for honey —was well responded to.

Mrs. Austin and committee served delicious refreshments at the close of the meeting.

The Afternoon Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society entertained their husbands and friends to a Valentine Party in the Sunday School room of the church on Monday evening. The rooms of the church were appropriately decorated with hearts.

Following a conundrum tea, the evening was spent in crokinole, and other games interspersed with singing.

A very enjoyable evening was spent by the large number present.

ROSLIN W.I.

Roslin.—The February meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. Fargey and Mrs. J. Fargey with 21 ladies and several children in attendance.

The President, Mrs. H. Chisholm, presided, and the meeting was opened in the usual manner.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, also correspondence.

It was decided to send $5.00 to the Scholarship Fund.

Plans were made to hold a banquet on March 16 in commemoration of the 40th anniversary of the organization of the Roslin Branch.

Mrs. D. Chisholm reported on Blue Cross Hospital Insurance.

Conveners of standing committees reporting were Miss A. Wilson on Agriculture; Home Economics prepared by Mrs. Meeks was given by Mrs. H. Sills; Publicity by Mrs. W. Slingerland; Citizenship by Mrs. A. Gray.

A display of garments which were made at the recent sewing course were displayed by members who had attended the course.

The Roll Call was responded to by naming a winter bird.

The leader for the day, Mrs. W. Gillespie, gave a paper, on the motto "If You Want a Thing Well Done, Don't Do it Yourself Unless You Know How".

Mrs. M. Hamilton gave a reading.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, and a social time was enjoyed.

CHATTERTON W.I.

Holloway.— The February meeting of the Chatterton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Reid in the form of a Valentine party, with a large crowd in attendance.

The president opened the meeting in the usual manner.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

It was decided that the Institute pay $10 to help pay for a school radio and to buy 25 yards of flannelette to make baby clothes for Britain and to make inquiry about buying chairs for W.I. use and entertainment.

The remainder of the evening was spent in contests.

Mrs. Mitts and Mrs. Riley gave a piano duet and Miss Marline Higgs and Freddie sang a duet.

An exchange of white elephant gift and Valentines, was held, also two quilts were up for auction, one was sold and the other held until a later date.

The ladies served delicious refreshments and everyone enjoyed a social evening.

Women's Activities

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S.

The W.M.S. of West Huntingdon United Church held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. S. McCurdy.

The President opened the meeting by giving the call to worship.

The roll call on "Faith" was answered by 16 members and six visitors, followed by a reading on the keyword by Mrs. McCurdy.

Mrs. G. Ashley favored with a beautiful piano solo.

One of the visiting ladies, Mrs. D. Fargey gave a paper on "Neglect of the Bible", which gave some thoughts to take home.

Several items of business were dealt with and during the business part, it was decided to start a scrap book, each member is to contribute to it at each meeting.

Rev. H. E. Burgess gave an address on "Missionary Work in China" which was found very helpful and interesting.

Mrs. Sills, another visiting lady, gave a few remarks on the "Day of Prayer", which is to be held on March 4 at Beulah Church, Ivanhoe, the three churches join together on this day.

The Rev. H. E. Burgess closed the meeting.

The hostess assisted by her helpers served dainty refreshments and a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. McCurdy for her kind hospitality.

CENTENARY W.M.S.

Centenary. — The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Geo. McDonald, Belleville, with an attendance of 25 members and visitors.

The President, Mrs. G. McDonald, presided over the opening exercises and several items of business were talked over.

Temperance Sec., Mrs. J. Kelley, who is spending the winter in Trenton, sent her report by mail, and it was read by Mrs. B. Roblin. Mrs. F. Alkins moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Kelley for her splendid report.

Mrs. Stanley May read a letter on "Christian Stewardship", in which the question was asked, "Are we doing our best as Christians?"

Rev. A. C. McCallum also spoke on the great need of financial aid for both home and foreign missions.

Mrs. McDonald called attention to the move in some circles to make Sunday in Ontario an open Sunday for sports. It was suggested that a letter be sent to Toronto opposing such a move, and to be signed by each member.

Mrs. J. Ray, Peace secretary, gave a reading by Edgar Guest.

Mrs. E. Hart assisted with several members giving a chapter from the study book.

W. A.

The meeting was then turned over to the president of the W.A. Mrs. Edgar Ray. The roll call was taken and collection dedicated by Rev. A. C. McCallum.

A letter was read from a family in England expressing appreciation and thanks for a parcel sent some time ago.

It was decided to send $20 to "Care" for parcels to be forwarded to Europe. Donations of articles of food suitable for sending to England will be accepted at succeeding meetings.

The hostess and her assisting group served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. J. Ray on behalf of the members, moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. McDonald for opening her home for the meeting.

BETHANY W.M.S.-W.A.

The February meeting of Bethany W.M.S.-W.A. was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Will Casey.

At 2.30 Mrs. F. Walker called the meeting to order, and opened W.M.S. meeting. Scripture lesson was read responsively and Mrs. S. Cooley gave a reading entitled "A Christian Lady's Dream".

Mrs. R. Ritz rendered a pleasing solo "I'm Not Afraid", followed with prayer for the Chinese people, that the church may be strengthened in that land to bring the word of redeeming love and power to those whose hearts are open to Thy Truth, that it may make them free.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. N. Clark for flowers sent her during her recent stay in the hospital.

An invitation from the Cannifton ladies to join with them for the World Day of Prayer service was accepted. Mrs. R. Ritz offered her home for the next meeting. Reports were given and offering received.

Mrs. C. Eggleton was in charge of the program and opened with "My Daily Prayer", and Mrs. D. Martin gave a reading "That is Not Mine".

The 4th chapter of the Study Book was given by Mrs. O. Beer. It was presented in dialogue form with Mesdames G. Kerr, Geo. Sills and J. Ritz assisting.

"A Radio Message" was read by Mrs. J. Ritz.

Mrs. C. Eggleton closed the meeting with a poem "If We But Knew".

7:00 p.m. Friday to 7:00 a.m. Monday

Regulations 4, 5 and 6 (under the heading "Part III Lighting") of the Regulations Respecting the Use of Electricity in Ontario Put Into Effect September 14, 1948, and Amended October 13, 1948, Are Suspended Between the Above Hours.

Continued improvement in water conditions, coupled with unusually mild weather, now enables the Commission to meet normal demands during night hours and on weekends. In view of this, the lighting restrictions set out in regulations 4, 5 and 6 (under the heading "Part III Lighting") of the Regulations made by the Commission under the Power Commission Act, are suspended each night from 7:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m., Monday to Friday inclusive, and from 7:00 p.m. Friday to 7:00 a.m. Monday. However, during the daytime from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Monday to Friday, resources are still inadequate to meet power demands fully. The Commission therefore requests that the Regulations be strictly observed during these hours and that voluntary conservation be continued.

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario and the Municipal Systems wish to express their sincere appreciation to all Hydro users who were affected by these Regulations. Your splendid co-operation provided invaluable aid during the critical period of the power emergency.

Witnesses Retell Stories They Gave At First Trial

Simcoe, Ont., Feb. 17 (CP) — Seth Linton's second trial for murder in the rifle-butt slaying of Lew Stewart last June today heared its end.

Corporal John Clark, 10th crown witness, was called as court opened today. He will be followed by Dr. W. J. Deadman, pathologist, and Sgt. Sutherland, an R.C.M.P. ballistics expert.

The 41-year-old well digger, who got a second trial when the Ontario Court of Appeal threw out a conviction and death sentence at his first trial last November, will not testify in his own defence. This was announced by defence counsel G. Arthur Martin this morning. Linton testified at his first trial.

Corporal Clark testified that Lew Stewart had the reputation of being "quarrelsome" after he had been drinking.

Dr. Deadman said Stewart received a fractured nose, lacerations to his left eye and fractured skull as well as other injuries. He suffered three gunshot wounds in the body. Death was due to the skull fracture and brain damage. The bullet wounds were superficial.

Crown witnesses yesterday retold the story they gave at the first trial last November concerning an early-morning argument which ended in a blaze of gunfire and the death of Stewart and of John Kipp. Stewart, Kipp and Stewart's wife had gone to the Linton home to obtain some personal belongings of Mrs. Stewart, who had been working as Linton's housekeeper.

Neighbors said they heard Linton repeatedly order the Stewarts and Kipp off his property that Sunday morning. Leonard Maylin said he saw Kipp kick in the door of Linton's home.

Mrs. Maylin said that two hours before that incident, Linton came to her door, his face blood-smeared, and said that Kipp had beaten him up. Later, she was awakened by Linton's voice shouting "get the police!"

Bert Mills, another neighbor, said that after the first shots he saw Kipp run down the front verandah steps of Linton's home. He said he saw Stewart stumble back on the verandah and fall. Five minutes later he saw Linton, carrying a rifle, come out of the front door and strike Stewart with the butt of the rifle, he said.

BUSINESS REALISM

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — A Sydney store is displaying mail trays for desk use. Instead of the usual "inward" and "outward" signs, the mail trays are marked: "Too hard" and Left for tomorrow."

Vital to better vision are AO Belleville-made lenses, an essential product that enables AO to face the future with confidence.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

The future is something to which we all look forward .... and for each of us it holds the answer to many things hoped for and desired. But to no one is given the ability to foretell what actually will come about. And even those who make a profession of forecasting the future for industry are often wrong.

Here at American Optical Company Canada Limited we, in common with all Canadian business, have been pondering deeply what the future holds for us .... for our lens plant here in Belleville and our employees .... for the optical industry as a whole. But lacking the gift of second sight, we can only plan to the best of our abilities and prepare today for the happenings of tomorrow.

We have just completed what we proudly feel to be the most modern ophthalmic lens producing plant in Canada .... we have bettered working conditions to insure worker comfort and efficiency .... and we have developed plans for adding sun glass lenses and a new, more complex bifocal lens to our already noted line.

In every way possible we have prepared our business for the unforeseeable conditions that lie over the horizon. We feel strongly that by preparing today, by having faith in our workers and in Belleville .... that we have established the firm foundation which is the best kind of long-range planning.

What the future holds we face with confidence. By applying our best thinking, by preparing to the best of our ability ....we can weather the vicissitudes of changing economic conditions and the keen competition that we face.

Planning for the future .... managing our assets wisely and preparing our strength for the long pull .... will enable us to continue to be a good citizen and a good neighbor to the community and people of Belleville.

Government Plans Defence Outposts In Indian Oceans

By LESLIE BRODIE

Canadian Press Correspondent

Sydney, Australia (CP) — Christmas island, a tiny dot in the Indian Ocean about midway between Ceylon and Perth, West Australia, is destined to become a vitally important link in empire defence plans.

The British and Australian governments are expected to turn the island into a secret defence base. It will house observation posts for scientists studying the results of experiments connected with the rocket-testing range at Mount Ebo, 2,000 miles away on the Central Australian desert.

The island is in the path the rockets will take when they are fired across the desert range, and it is understood it will be used as a target for some of the guided missiles.

Secrecy surrounding work on the island is to be tightened up and it is expected to be as closely guarded as the rocket range itself.

The Australian and New Zealand governments were reported recently to have purchased the rights to the phosphate deposits on Christmas island from the British government. The price was stated at $9,600,000. Work on the deposits will continue, but all workers will be subjected to a tight security check.

Also Considered

Cocos island, 100 miles from Christmas island, also is being considered as a defence base. Cocos is owned by the Clunies-Ross family in Australia, but the British governments interested in purchasing it for defence reasons. Representatives of both parties are in Singapore negotiating the deal.

Cocos, although within range of the guided missiles from Mt. Ebo, would be more valuable strategically as a landing strip for long-range aircraft than as a target for the rockets.

The island is well situated to replace the trouble spots of the East Indies should it again become necessary to by-pass them. The present air-strip was used during the war by Liberators and Lancastrians flying direct from Colombo to Perth.

It will be used also as a stepping-stone from Australia to South Africa and Britain in the event of India or Middle East being cut off in any future conflict.

A Lancastrian has surveyed the route to South Africa via Cocos, Mauritius and Durban, and it is hoped that a regular air service will be put into operation over this route shortly.

Cocos figures strongly in Australian naval history. It was here that the cruiser H.M.A.S. Sydney fought it out with the German raider Emden early in the First World War. After a running battle the Sydney forced the Emden on to the beaches of Cocos.

American Elm Near Extinction In Dominion

Written For The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

Is the stately American elm, queen of shade trees in so many Canadian towns and villages, doomed to near-extinction, the fate of the sweet chestnut that until recent years was thriving everywhere?

If the present visitation of Dutch elm disease and other diseases is not conquered, this gloomy fate seems likely.

So serious is the situation already in many regions of the United States and Canada, that foresters and nurserymen are urging forward-looking communities to prepare now to make replacements when elms dying or dead from the plague must be burned in an attempt to check its spread.

Trees of the maple family are recommended for the purpose. Sugar, Norway and red maples are especially desirable because they are reasonably free from serious disease, have long lives in which their beauty of form is maintained, and there are no other shade trees more easily or successfully transplanted. They also have the virtue of adequate height and spread.

Even under adverse city conditions such as narrow streets and none too much sunshine, the Norway maple will thrive, experts report.

Diary Notes of 1749

An entry on June 25, 1749, when the Simcoes were at Niagara (now Niagara-on-the-Lake) tell of a rattlesnake found under radish leaves in a nearby garden: another one found 100 yards from their house, four days later. The latter specimen was supposed to be from a nest beneath the wharf. Her young son Francis, also came across a dead snake, and proudly presented it to a guest of the Colonel's.

Other entries that summer of 1749 record her first examination of a "Recollect" bird, with "red wax on its brown wings and a tuft of feathers on its head" — a cedar waxwing, of course. She also reports seeing fine eagles, to say nothing of "the finest red melons she ever saw," and her descriptions of Indians spearing fish, are vivid.

On September 8, Mrs. Simcoe has a long entry telling of a visit from Mr. Mackenzie (later, Sir Alexander Mackenzie), who had just returned from his famous trip to the Pacific coast, "and brought the governor a sea otter skin as proof of his having reached that coast." And he told the Simcoes stories of sheep in the Rocky Mountains whose horns were like those of cows(but curiously curved.

Scientific terms occasionally have a ray of poetry and romance in them. An example is "chen hyperboreus," the highbrow label for the snow goose. It means, freely translated, the goose from beyond the north wind. And since these immaculate white birds spend their summers within the Arctic rim, and are seen flying over the prairie vastness in Canada in spring and fall, to and from that region of the far north, this name is apt enough.

WillRemoveBonds Of Segregation From Amerindians

Georgetown, British Guiana, Feb. 17 (CP)—"Western civilization"—radios, penicillin, safety razors and four-speed tractors—soon may remove the bonds of segregation from British Guiana's 15,600 Amerindians.

For years the Amerindians, aboriginal Guianese, have lived on government-sponsored reservations as protection against disease and inter-tribal warfare. Given reservation rights they were extended general protection in dealings with other residents of the colony.

Government officials say they realize segregation can not be treminated overnight. It will take years. However, their long-range plan is to introduce western ways to the primitive natives scattered along the Brazilian and Veneculean borders.

The seven Amerindian tribes, speaking seven distinct languages and dialects are located on 14 reservations ranging in size from one to 4,500 square miles.

As the plan to remove segregation progresses, authorities intend reducing the number of reservations to three.

So far, the government has not released details of the modernization scheme. However, reliable sources believe it includes introduction of suitable cultural and local administrative facilities. Under this policy, the colony's reservations will be regarded as temporary sanctuaries.

Eventually, Amerindians on reservations and their tribal brothers will take their places in the general life of the community.

Mental Hazard Cause Of Pain in Childbirth

By MARIENNE IZSAK

New York (CP)—For a year, Yale University School of Medicine has been testing "natural childbirth." It has found it highly successful.

Based on the theory of Dr. Grantly Dick Read, a British obstetrician, that virtually all pain in childbirth is caused by fear, the "new" method strives to eliminate that mental hazard. It teaches that childbirth is a natural function not necessarily accompanied by pain.

Dr. Frederick W. Goodrich, Jr., of Yale University, said in an address here that 90 per cent of the 400 mothers who tried the method once say that they "definitely want" to use it for their next child.

But he warned against two misconceptions: that natural childbirth is absolutely painless and that no drugs what soever are used under the 'natural" method.

Of the 400 women, only two per cent reported absolutely no pain.

Pain Minimized

"The majority say there is some pain, but that they are quite willing to tolerate it during the exaltation accompanying the birth.

In slightly more than half the cases, "a very mild sedative" was used to help the mother relax, Dr. Goodrich said. Stronger drugs were available at all times, if the mother requested them or if abnormal complications made it advisable to use them.

In 87 per cent of the cases, the mother was fully conscious when her child was born. This is an important factor psychologically, he said.

The method, as adopted at Yale, consists of a lecture and two exercise classes in the early months of pregnancy and the same routine during the last month.

Any woman no matter what her intelligence or education or class of life, can be taught to face childbirth with confidence, Dr. Goodrich said.

Dr. George W. Kosmak, editor of the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, urges other teaching centres to adopt similar methods. He called the Yale project a sign of a "general awakening to the fact that the less artificiality in the childbirth process, the better the result.

Paris Crippled by Power Shortage

By ROBERT YOAKUM

Paris (Reuters)—Shortage of electricity, recently described by French newspapers and government officials as "critical" and "serious" because of a prolonged dry spell, is one of France's most difficult long-range problems.

With most other European countries, France has suffered from a post-war coal shortage and, as a result, from a lack of electricity generated by steam turbines.

From the Parisian housewife, who is without electricity two days a week, to large industries which are under orders to cut consumption of electricity by 15 per cent, the French have been reminded constantly of their power shortage.

Paris, traditionally the "city of lights," has had advertising signs and store windows blacked out.

The government has been working on a program of electrification under which 40 per cent of rail traffic will be powered by electricity from hydro-electric stations. The total annual saving in coal under the plan is expected to be 2,600,000 tons a year.

But this winter's dry weather has forced the ministry of transport to fall back on its slim coal stocks and to replace many electric locomotives with steam engines.

It is precisely this kind of economic spiral which the French hope to eliminate by using water power.

The ambitious program is concentrated almost wholly on plans of the Compagnie Nationale du Rhone for 19 hydro-electric stations along the Rhone Valley, producing total of 13,000,000,000 kilowatt hours per years. The entire hydro-electric output of France in 1945 was only 1,000,000,000 kilowatt hours more than this estimated future Rhone production.

Largest dam in the chain—and the second largest in Europe—was put into operation in January, 1948, at Genissiat. The Genissiat Dam lies on the Rhone, 31 miles below Geneva and 100 miles upstream from Lyons. It forms a reservoir more than 14 miles long.

Two turbo-generators with a total power of 140,000 kilowatts have been producing electric power for sections of eastern France. When functioning at full capacity in 1950, the dam is expected to produce at the rate of 1,550,000,000 kilowatt hours a year.

The Genissiat Dam took 10 years to build and it is estimated that when all the work is finally completed the station will have cost 45,000,000 working hours and 12,000,000,000 francs (about $45,300,000).

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

"The first day I had a date with Tubby and he began telling me things, I was shocked, but I don't know very much about people and I thought if you liked him, it would be all right, but" — Rosalie rushed on, stifling the impulse to giggle. Mrs. Rutherford's face was so very funny! — well, when he told me he'd help me to get in the movies, I didn't know what to make of it."

"He . . . he what?"

"Oh, yes. He has loads of friends in the movies You know that blonde actress, Fern De Lea? He says she is a very good friend of his. He got her her job."

"Very interesting. Go on."

"His first wife was an actress. She gives him quite a lot of trouble. I guess she hounds him for money and . . ."

"Rosalie! His first — what?"

"His first wife. He was married when he was in college, you know. He says that's the reason why he won't ever get married again. And that's why I wouldn't want to see very much of him. He says he wouldn't even marry — well, I can't tell you what else he said. Only when a bachelor has every thing he can't see any reason for getting married." Rosalie stopped because she ran out of breath. If her conscience bothers her, she had only to remember that what she was saying was practically the same that Tubby had said to her.

She thought of something else "He says he doesn't care anything about society. He says society can go you-know-where. But I suppose that's because society won't have anything to do with him."

Mrs. Rutherford said, "Did be say that?"

Rosalie nodded. He had, too.

"Well . . . this . . . this is a surprise to me."

"It was to me, too," Rosalie said simply. "I'll tell you a confidence now. The kind of man I'd want if I were a girl who wanted . . . well what Cecil's got, I'd . . . Mrs. Rutherford, isn't it wonderful about Cecil?"

Mrs. Rutherford was prepared for anything. "What's happened to Cecil?"

"Why his diplomatic post! Did you not know that he is going to Diplomatic school next month and his brother has the most wonderful post for him?"

"What a wonderful life that will be! Living in some beautiful castle, entertaining lords and ladies. and princes and barons. And shooting in Scotland at Lord Somerville's box! And weekending at Countess Holl . . . at her schloss. Oh, I suppose this sounds dreadful to you, Mrs. Rutherford. But. . . I . . . think international society must be fascinating. We don't have anything like it over here. And to think that in six months Cecil . . ."She broke off. Her story was done.

Mrs. Rutherford tapped a cigarette idly on the table beside her. "Rosalie," she said after a pause, "I hope you're not going to take Cecil too seriously. I mean those English boys are charming but they . . ."

"Oh, I understand, Mrs. Rutherford. I don't think I misunderstand Cecil."

Angela knocked at the door, entered without waiting her mother's invitation.

"Hello, Rosalie," she said. "I didn't know you were here. Did I interrupt something important?"

"Angela, dear." her mother said. "we're going to make this a dinner to celebrate dear Cecil's luck. Will you tell Raffray I want to rearrange the seating arrangements."

Angela said, "Rosalie's such a help. Perhaps we could do it together."

In the hall, the door back of them closed, the two girls shook hands solemnly.

"Rosalie! . . . Oh, Rosa-leee!"

Rosalie got up off her knees from in front of her trunk. She dried a stray tear with the hem of an evening slip and splashed some powder over the tip of her small pink nose before Angela Rutherford reached the door of her cottage.

"Come in, Angela," she called.

Angela burst in and hugged Rosalie.

"Something tells me you have good news," Rosalie said, dropping the curtain on her trunk.

"Good? Pinch me, darling. I think I'm dreaming!"

Rosalie closed her eyes. "I'm feeling psychic," she said. "I can see two women. A mother and daughter, I think. Mother has done a right - about face in her attitude toward a certain young man. She's discovered that another certain young man isn't quite so eligible as she had hoped for her daughter and ..."

"It worked!" Angela said. "Rosalie, it really worked! Mother isn't very subtle, you know, but I wouldn't let on for a moment that I could see through her."

Rosalie sat down on a suitcase. "Tell me about it."

"Mother's consented to my marrying Cecil. We're going home on Saturday and be married in New York the first week in November. Then we're sailing for England."

"I sort of knew that," Rosalie responded in the voice she used to use on the judge, patient, but in a waiting way.

"Cecil can't quite believe it either."

"I can well imagine. But how about mother? What happened?'

"You saw how different she was to him at dinner night before last? As I said, mother isn't very subtle . . . Oh, Rosalie, you must have been perfectly wonderful! I'd give anything to have a record of your conversation with her."

"I didn't really lie, Angela. Everything I told her was the truth, but it does seem rather dreadful of me to have wormed all those things out of poor Tubby... and then used them against him."

"Why, Rosalie! You said he did not want to marry me. And an old maid's life is a terrible thing!"

"I've been thinking that today," Rosalie answered flatly.

Angela didn't notice the flat note. She went on, "This morning mother chatted and chatted about everything under the sun. Then finally she said, 'Angela, do you think Cecil is in love with Rosalie?' "

"Good heavens!" Rosalie interpolated.

"That was her way of getting at things. I said, 'I shouldn't be surprised.' Mother thought that over for a while and she said, 'A man in Cecil's position needs a wife who would know the ropes, know how to entertain for him. The society in which he will now move is the most demanding in the world.' "

"And what did you say to that?" Rosalie wanted to know.

"I wanted to laugh, darling. You should have seen mother handling the Ladies Aid meetings when I was a little girl. There's training for you! So I pulled a very sad face and said, 'Mother, you've always been fair about things and you must admit that Cecil will be needing a wife. He can't wait forever for me. Besides, there's Tubby.' Then you should have heard her! Mother's really pretty small-town stuff after all— you know, good and clean and old - fashioned—and she didn't take to the idea of Tubby's ex-wife and the Hollywood actress."

Rosalie closed her eyes again. "And she said, 'Angela, I think you and Cecil should have a talk. You two old friends understand each other . . ."

"You are psychic! She said just that."

"So you and Cecil had your talk and . . ."

"I said, 'It's okay, darling,' and after that we didn't talk. We didn't need to. And now mother is checking up on the climate in England and picturing me in Burke's Peerage."

"That's marvelous, Angela. I'm so happy for both of you."

"We'll never forget you, Rosalie. Every time I meet a gorgeous prince or somebody like Anthony Eden, I'll lock him up in our castle dungeon until you can get over and look him over. And my allowance oh, mother goes whole hog or nothing — will be big enough so that Cecil and I can pay you back very quickly. Incidentally, you're going to be my bridesmaid."

Angela was suddenly aware of the traces of tears. "Rosalie, what is the matter? I'm so selfish talking about myself and you're unhappy."

"Not really unhappy, Angela. Maybe I'm just homesick. I'm feeling sorry for myself and that's pretty unpleasant, isn't it?"

"Not necessarily," Angela replied sagely. "You've listened to my troubles. Suppose I listen to yours for a change?"

Rosalie kicked the corner of her trunk. "I don't have any real trouble. I've been pursuing a dream and there isn't anything to pursue. But first, I'll have to tell you the truth; I'm not an heiress, Angela."

"So what?"

"I mean I haven't any social background. I'm an orphan and I come from a little Connecticut village where I was a stenographer, and lived with my brother and sister-in-law and the two sweetest babies in the world. Then . . . then I won a sweepstakes prize. A big one and . . ."

URGE HOUSING PLANS

Montreal (CP)—Women want more houses in Canada. A resolution urging the discussion of large scale housing schemes by Dominion, provincial and municipal governments was presented recently to Hon. R. H. Winters, minister of reconstruction by the Canadian Association of Women Voters.

INDUSTRIAL INCREASE

Britain's engineering, shipbuilding and electrical goods industries output in 1948 was 20 to 25 per cent higher than in 1947.

Vital Statistics Prove Revealing to Bureau Expert

Ottawa (CP)—No clairvoyants are Canada's government statisticians, but they can tell the most revealing thinks with a crystal made of figures.

And "in some sense," says the government's current statistical review, "the most fundamental of all figures published about a country" are its records of—guess what- — births, marriages and deaths.

In effect, an intimate knowledge of Canada's births, marriages, deaths "promotes a clearer and more accurate interpretation of developments in the Canadian economy."

Sounds simple; but it isn't "Size and rate of growth — or decline—of a country's population is basic to the interpretation of most economic statistics," says the review.

This does not mean, of course, that there is any simple correlation between the size of population and the degree of prosperity enjoyed in a country; many intricate and highly complex factors enter into the picture.

But they still can tell the trend in the average national income per head of population by knowing and relating the change in the growth or decline in population to the increase or decrease in the national income.

"Again," says the review, in the birth rate are of considerable importance in forecasting the probable level of construction activity, with its important bearings on other economic activities."

Intricate Procedure

To read and interpret the figures may take more than just a clairvoyant's skill; but to extract the figures accurately and quickly from the current scene requires a maze of intricate procedure from the individual through the village, town, city and province, into the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The bureau gets everything. Divorce figures are received through "co-operation of the provincial authorities." Statistics of divorces granted to Quebec residents are supplied by the clerk of the divorce committee of the Senate.

Reports on communicable diseases from which the bureau deciphers the growth or decline of the country are forwarded from the provinces to the health and welfare department and to the bureau and published for the Dominion as a whole.

Every 10 years, people go round with pencil and notebooks and add up Canada's population but in between times the statis- "changes in the marriage rate and ticians don't go by old and outdated figures. A check is made each year of the number of persons entering, the number leaving, the number dying and the number born.

Figures enter and leave Canada's Bureau of Statistics in soldiering fashion and the reports that march out of the bureau are like precision-made tools.

There's the monthly report on births, marriages and deaths and annual reports on vital statistics, "containing over 700 pages of comparative and analytical tables giving a wealth of information on births, marriages, deaths and communicable diseases."

Estimates on population and reports on marriage, violent deaths and causes of death and reports on divorces, health and life tables and cancer mortalities all follow each other regularly and with the neatness and conciseness that it seems only statisticians can master.

31-Year Waiter On Orient Express Given 20 Years

Specific Charge Not Given After Trial at Munich

Munich, Feb. 17 (AP)—The United States army, partially lifting a heavy veil of secrecy from a spy trial, today publicly sentenced Frontisek Klecka, 31-year-old waiter on the Orient Express, to 20 years at hard labor.

The eight-man United States military commission, ordered by Gen. Lucius D. Clay to relax its secrecy, made known the name of the first defendant and invited the press to hear the verdict—but it did not reveal the specific charge against Klecka.

Neither would it disclose any details of the testimony tkaen in the last two days behind locked doors. The proceedings concern a Czechoslovak spy ring case.

The Orient Express is a famous train which threads its way through central Europe and the Balkans between France and Turkey.

Clay, American commander in Germany, last night began an investigation to see if such super-secrecy really was necessary to protect the security of the United States.

Today's order to reveal the names and verdict was given by Maj.-Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chief of staff of army ground forces in Europe. It was to him that Clay directed his request for full information on the trial's secrecy.

Only Two Trials of Five in Secret

Only two of the five trials were to be conducted in secret.

The precautions of secrecy had been announced by Brig.-Gen. John L. McKee, chairman of the military commission. He said army intelligence had asked for secrecy and that identification of witnesses, disclosure of the testimony or even announcement of the verdict might imperil American safety.

Clay, in ordering an investigation, said "I want those trials to be open unless completely convinced that secrecy is absolutely necessary for the protection of United States security or the safety of innocent individuals."

He explained that he was afraid unfriendly persons might seize upon the secrecy of the trial for propaganda purposes.

NEWS EDITOR DIES

Smiths Falls, Ont., Feb. 17 — (CP) — James J. Johnston, 41-year-old popular news editor of the Smiths Falls Record-News, a weekly, died in hospital Wednesday. He underwent an operation for appendicitis a week ago. Johnston got his start in the newspaper field as a reporter with the Ottawa Journal. Twenty years ago he came to Smiths Falls and became known locally through his News-Record sports column, "The Baron of Beckwith Street."

Wm. H. Kyle, General Manager Central Region

Toronto, Feb. 17 — (CP) — W. H. Kyle of Montreal has been appointed general manager of the Canadian Railways' Central Region with headquarters at Toronto, it was announced today.

Mr. Kyle was promoted from the position of general superintendent, Montreal district. The announcement was made by A. J. Lomas, recently appointed regional vice-president to succeed J. F. Pringle, who died two weeks ago.

Reginald Hayes, a native of Halifax and formerly general superintendent of the Northern Ontario district, was appointed to a similar position in the Montreal district.

W. J. Hotrum, formerly superintendent, Montreal terminals and St. Jerome division, becomes general superintendent of the Northern Ontario district with headquarters at North Bay. Mr. Botrum is a native of Hamilton.

Say Youth Admits Wound Accidentally Self-Inflicted

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—Arnold Covell, 23-year-old Toronto youth who was allegedly shot in the leg and robbed of $12 early today, has informed police the bullet wound was accidentally self-inflicted, investigators reported.

He concocted the bogus hold-up, he said, to keep his mother and sister out of the case.

Police said a public mischief charges may be laid against Covell now in hospital where the bullet was removed from his right leg.

The injured youth said the two men left his Jarvis Street home after he had taken the gun. Covell fired the gun while it was in his pocket.

A police search has so far failed to reveal any sign of the two men allegedly involved.

OPPOSITION HITS AT GOVT. POLICY DURING DEBATE

Three Divisions Seen Since House Opening

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)— The Ontario legislature today enters its fourth day of a lively Throne Speech debate after having divided three times since formal opening ceremonies last Thursday.

Mr. Oliver moved an amendment to the Throne-Speech reply Thronnrwosf MeOlrm.er ande ri to express the legislature's regret that the government had dropped hog subsidies without consulting the House; had failed to give assurance that the report of the Royal Commission on education would be tabled this year and had failed to implement the recommendations of the Royal Commission on forestry.

Subsidies on quality hogs, by the terms of legislation passed last year, should have been continued until March 31, Mr. Oliver said. The subsidies, granted in 1941 to compensate farmers for low prices on the British market. had been renewed each year.

He said the dropping-off of the British market in recent years had made subsidies necessary as a stabilizing influence.

He charged the recent hydro-electric power shortage in Ontario could have been averted if the government had carried out an agreement with Quebec for upper Ottawa River development immediately after being elected in 1943. Since that time the agreement had been altered but the new terms were not made known. It was possible that Quebec now would demand half of the power development.

Conservation Measures Feeble

Ontario needed a "conservation policy of some magnitude" and the government's conservation measures had been "feeble," he said.

The Royal Commission on education, appointed in 1945, still had not tabled its report. The government, meanwhile, was proceeding with an education policy which might not conform with the Commission's recommendations.

Mr. Oliver said the Commission should either table its report or surrender its Commission.

Mr. MacLeod (LPP-Toronto-Bellwoods) said the Throne Speech should have forecast a four-year house-building policy; compulsory chest X-rays for public hospital patients; and repeal of the 20-per-cent amusement tax.

Mental institutions were outmoded and many of them should be "padlocked," Mr. MacLeod said.

House Upheld in Division

"The failure of this government and the federal government to recognize the need for subsidized low-rental housing" had forced thousands to live in places "not fit for animals."

For the third time since the session opened last Thursday, the government was upheld in a division.

C.C.F., Liberal and L.P.P. members unsuccessfully supported a motion by W. J. Grummett (CCF-Cochrane South) to have the select committee on elections and privileges restored from 17 to 35 members. The committee has been instructed to investigate C.C.F. charges of irregularities in the election last June of Education Minister Porter in Toronto St. George. The motion was defeated 51 to 37.

West Europe Still Hopeful Of U.S. Military Support In Atlantic Defence Treaty

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP) — Western European countries were reported still hopeful today of obtaining American agreement to some open promise of military support in the proposed North Atlantic security treaty.

Diplomatic informants predicted that when the Europeans next meet with State Secretary Acheson they will again press on this point.

They are seeking to include in the defence clause of the treaty the clearest possible statement on unity of the forces of the west against any future aggressor.

They are expected to urge on Acheson some reference at least to the possibility of military action by all of the members of the security organization in event of an attack.

It is understood that, provided the "military" reference is subordinate to other kinds of action along diplomatic and political lines, Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep. Mich.) will have no personal objection to the wording.

The Senator's position is important because of his leadership among Republicans on foreign policy.

The major difficulty in making a completely explicit statement of this problem in the treaty arises, officials said, from the United States constitutional provision that only Congress has the power to declare war.

Along with this is the immediate and practical political problem of drafting, in a manner acceptable to the Senate, whatever commitments the United States government may be willing to undertake short of an actual promise to declare war.

Last Monday's Senate debate brought out strong opposition to any automatic "war" pledge. In view of that, some Senators are reported to feel it might now be smarter politics for the negotiators of the treaty to leave out any reference to military action because its specific inclusion might prove a new rallying point for critics.

Emergency State To be Proclaimed In Siam

Bangkok, Feb. 17 — (Reuters) — A state of emergency will be proclaimed in Siam within the next 24 hours "to combat the growing communist menace in neighboring countries," Prime Minister Pibul Songkram announced today.

Songkram added that Siam has agreed to a British request to seal the Siam - Malayan frontier, scene of an anti - communist drive in the last few days.

The countries bordering Siam are Malaya, Indo- China and Burma. Though there is no common border with China, Chinese territory at one point comes within 100 miles of the Siamese frontier.

Reports Pope Pius Will Create 14 Cardinals

Vatican City, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Recurrent reports that Pope Pius will create new cardinals to fill 14 vacancies in the Sacred College were revived today by news of a secret consistory to be held next month.

Vatican sources said the consistory will be convoked to get final approval of the cardinals on the proposed canonization of Jean De Lestonnac, French founder of the Daughters of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and Maria Giuseppe Rosello, Italian founder of the Daughters of Our Lady of Mercy.

There now are 56 cardinals, including Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, under sentence of life imprisonment by a Hungarian court. Fourteen cardinals have died since 1946. Thirty-seven have died in the 10-year reign of the present pope.

Three years ago tomorrow, the pontiff created 32 new cardinals to build up the membership of the college, which then had fallen to a record low of 38.

If the pope should present nominations for the college next month, Vatican sources say it would be possible to hold a cardinalitial consistory at Easter time, April 17. The Vatican sources also point to the fact that the pontiff's own golden jubilee as a priest is April 2.

DR. C. WEIZMANN BECOMES FIRST PRES. OF ISRAEL

Heads First Jewish State in 2,000 Years

He has been provisional head since last May of the first Jewish State in 2,000 years, after Israel proclaimed its independence as Britain gave up her 25-year mandate over Palestine.

Dr. Weizmann, a pro-westerner and outspokenly anti-Russia, will be formally inaugurated with pomp and ceremony in the Jewish agency building near the old walled city. The old city is still held by the Arab Legion forces as an aftermath of the fierce fighting that accompanied the birth pains of the new state.

The swearing in will take place before the 120-man assembly which last night chose Dr. Weizmann on the first ballot, after adopting a new constitution.

Dr. Weizmann is expected to designate David Ben-Gurion, Prime Minister of the provisional government, to form a new government. Ben-Gurion is the leader of the Mapai Labor party which holds 44 seats, the largest bloc, in the assembly.

Dr. Weizmann received 83 votes to 15 for the only other candidate, Prof. Yosef Klausher, 73, a retired professor of Hebrew literature, when the assembly voted on a president, Klausher was the candidate of the Herut (Freedom) party, headed by Menachem Belgin, former leader of the Extremist Irgun Zvai Leumi.

An uproar arose when the Herut party nominated Klausher. The Herut spokesman who put Klausher's name before the assembly ended his speech with "we won't argue with collaborators."

The new constitution requires a majority of 61 votes for election of president on the first ballot. This was achieved by intense lobbying before the actual voting took place.

Dr. Weizmann's election had been expected, partly as a tribute to the major role he has played in the establishment of Israel. He has devoted most of his life to the Zionist cause.

FORMER MAYOR DIES AT BRAMPTON

Brampton, Ont., Feb. 17—(CP) —Mayor of this Peep county town from 1939 to 1942, Robert P. Worthy, 71, died yesterday. He moved to Brampton in 1912 and founded a monument business. Later he served in various capacities in municipal affairs.

Invalid Youth, 15, Burned To Death At Morgan's Park

Neighbors Trying to Rescue Turned Back by Smoke, Fire

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—Invalid son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lang. Donald Lang, 15, was burned to death yesterday when fire swept through his home at Morgan's Park, some 12 miles east of here.

Mrs. Lang left the house for a few minutes and looked up to see smoke pouring from the windows. She screamed for help but the fire swept through the frame house so rapidly no attempt could be made to rescue Donald.

Two neighbors, Lloyd Cooper and James Gibson, tried to get inside but were forced back by smoke and flames.

"The whole house seemed to go up in a burst of flame," said Cooper. "There was no hope of rescuing the boy."

Pickering Township firemen managed to save two adjoining houses. Two trees were burned as the flames spread.

Mrs. Lang collapsed at the scene and was put under a doctor's care. The father was at work and two other children, Heather, 14, and Gale, 10, were at school.

Lying just inside the front door of the destroyed home was the charred body of the Langs' dog, who died with his master.

HAPPY WITH TRIPLETS

Smiths Falls, Feb. 17 (CP) — William O'Prey of nearby Portland figures it's a joy to walk the floor nights with his boy triplets. Born January 26, the boys —Bernard, Billy, Bruce—are all over six pounds. There are three other children in the family, Anne, 5, Beryl 3, and Donald 2.

Mother Awarded $3,062 Damages

Toronto, Feb. 17. (CP)—Because Mary Bentley, a widow and mother of a 16-months-old child is "young and attractive and there is every possibility she may re-marry," Magistrate F. H. Barlow awarded her $3,062 when he assessed damages for the death of Mrs. Bentley's husband at $12,000. Her husband was killed in an automobile accident.

Three actions resulted from a collision between an automobile driven by Roy Merlo and a car driven by John Homer Lyons. Thomas Jennings Bentley was killed when he was a passenger in the Lyons car. Joseph T. Crothers was a passenger in the Merlo car.

At the court hearing Wednesday negligence of 75 per cent was placed against Lyons. The judge allowed George W. Crothers Ltd., owners of the car Merlo operated $1,662 against Lyons and Joseph Crothers received $373. Lyons was awarded $550 in a counter claim.

FARES BOOSTED 5 CENTS

Montreal, Feb. 17 — (CP) —An increase of five cents in the minimum railway passenger fare for adults travelling short distances was announced Wednesday by J. A. Brass, chairman of the Canadian Passengers Association. The new rate will become effective Feb. 20 and will apply to all railways in Canada.

Resume Passion Play After Lapse of Sixteen Years

Oberammergau, Germany (Reuters)—This little Bavarian community has decided to resume the performance of its world-famous passion play in 1950.

But to put the mechanics of the theatre in order and replenish the wardrobe of the 1,200 local peasant-actors, it will have to appeal for voluntary contributions amounting to 1,000,000 deutschemarks ($300,000).

The need for extensive repairs is due to the 16-year interruption since the tercentenary performance of 1934, the longest interruption since the play was first instituted. The lack of funds now is due to last summer's German currency reform which wiped out all municipal savings—and the play is a municipal enterprise. Ever since 1840, the community had succeeded in paying all the expenses of the play out of receipts.

But now, the community has lost its reserves and has to ask for help. If necessary, it will send a mission to the United States to collect donations from admirers of the play.

What is certain is that Oberammergau is determined that the play round which local life has centred for more than three centuries, must go on. Johann Georg Lang, who produced the play in 1930 and 1934, has been chosen to produce it again in 1950.

To Let Beards Grow

Next May, the potential actors will start to let their hair and beards grow so that a final selection for the 103 speaking parts can be made by the fall.

Johann Lang is the brother of village mayor, Raimund Lang, and cousin of Alois Lang, recently "denazified" who played the part of Christ at the last two presentations of the play, and his predecessor Anton Lang.

No less than 11 Langs took part in the 1934 jubilee presentation, and they are only one of many local families who have inherited prominent association with the play for 100 years and more.

One of the chief worries of the village during the long interruption has been to give the children and young people enough opportunity, by periodic rehearsals, to get acquainted with the atmosphere of the play.

By 1950, the first of the war and post-war refugees, who have swollen the village population from 3,000 to more than 5,000, will qualify for participation under the only rule: that newcomers must have been settled long enough to have seen one presentation before being admitted to the cast.

Rare German Dog of Hunting Type Owned by Sask. Man

Yorkton, Sask. (CP)— Matt Sterzer of Yorkton, one of five accredited Canadian members of the Weimaraner Kennel Club of America, owns a pup of that rare breed. There are only about 1,500 of the Weimaraner breed in the world, 400 of them on the North American continent. There are two in Saskatchewan.

Another Saskatchewan man, Frank Bush of Moose Jaw, recently bought a Weimaraner and was the first to have it registered with the Canadian Kennel Club. R. Y. McCully of Moncton, N.B., owns a dog of similar breed.

Mr. Sterzer's pup is named Elma von Elmatrandy, a name he conjured from his wife's name — Elma, his own Christian name, Matt, and the name of their son Randy.

The proud owners of Weimaraner dogs will tell you that the breed came into being shortly before 1810 and was developed by the nobles of the German court of Weimar, who desired a dog entirely different from existing species.

They wanted a dog whose appearance would match his ability; and fast, and an all-round hunt- who would be kindly, powerful ing dog of outstanding intelligence.

Instead of being kennelled, the dog was allowed to grace the hearthside of his master's castle. All weakling puppies were destroyed. The dogs could not be sold, traded or given away without the consent of their breeders.

Game Dogs

In Germany the Weimaraner was worked out on big game such as wolves, wild boar and bear. The dogs are noted for their skill with upland game and waterfowl, and are said to be unmatched at soft-mouth retrieving.

Dog owners commonly refer to the Weimaraner breed as "grey ghosts," not because of their silver-grey color but rather for their stealth afield. Soft, cushion-like pads on the Weimaraner's feet enable it to tread quietly through the woods.

The mother of the pup owned by Mr. Sterzer was Rob Rock Tina, which carried the famous blood of Silver Blue Sue and Silver Lor Eric, who made a name for himself fighting wolves single-handed in California.

Mr. Sternzer also has purchased from Germany a Weimaraner male named Bjax von Reinigne.

To own one of these dogs you must be an accepted member of the Weimaraner Club of America. It's necessary too to have the purchase price of several hundred dollars.

Cannot Send Alcoholics Thru The U.S. Mails

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP) — The United States Customs Service thinks gratitude is a fine thing, but it wishes foreigners would quit mailing liquor to their American friends.

Reporting it had seized "hundreds" of one and two-bottle mail parcels recently, the customs service pleaded for a let up.

Acting Commissioner Frank Dow urged Americans with friends and relatives abroad to advise them that alcoholic beverages simply can't be sent through the United States mail.

Stern duty requires customs mail examiners to "detain" — and later destroy —the packages unless the persons to whom they are addressed go through an extensive and expensive procedure.

POPE LEADS CARDINALS TO SECRET CONSISTORY

Pope Pius is shown leading members of the Sacred College of Cardinals to the secret consistory convened in the Vatican to denounce the imprisonment of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty by Communist Hungary. The extraordinary secret consistory was the first of its kind in half a century. While the proceedings were not made public immediately, it was believed possible that anathema, the most dreaded punishment of the church, might be invoked against all Hungarian Catholics involved in the arrest and trial of the cardinal recently sentenced to life imprisonment.—Central Press Canadian.

Experts Plan Broad Survey Of North Sea to Assist Fishermen

By CHARLES CROOT

Copenhagen (Reuters)— Large-scale and detailed plans have been drawn up here for a thorough exploration of the North Sea, in the hope of discovering the answers to questions which are puzzling Europe's fishing fleets.

Some of the questions which experts of six nations will pool their knowledge to answer are:

1. Why do certain varieties of fish suddenly disappear from areas in which they have been found for years?
2. How much of the water in the North Sea comes from where—and when does it come?
3. Are fish in the North Sea changing their feeding grounds?

For the purposes of this survey, six areas of the North Sea will be examined by the appropriate one of the six participants in the survey—England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland.

The work will be carried out by the fishery research vessels, lightships and some of the weather ships stationed in the Atlantic.

Widespread Survey

A survey of the North Sea, according to the experts, must start in the Atlantic, the southern Arctic and the Baltic. Water from each of these areas flows into the North Sea and each has very different properties. Some is warm and some cold; some is salt and some only slightly salt.

A survey of the precise nature of various waters entering the area would, it was stated, provide a clue from which it may prove possible to deduce the movement of the North Sea fishing grounds.

Temperatures of water all over the North Sea will be recorded at various depths and samples of water will be taken at regular and close intervals. These samples will be examined for oxygen, salt and other chemical content. It is upon this content that depends the growth of marine plants on which fish feed.

Prof. H. W. Ahlmann, well-known Swedish glaciologist, who first discovered that the ice and glaciers of northern Scandinavia and the Arctic were melting and retreating towards the pole, was one of the scientists who addressed the international council. He said that there had been climatic changes which had brought to Denmark 25 species of bird which had never been known so far north before.

In Greenland, he said, increased temperatures had become particularly noticeable. This had caused certain mammals, such as the seal—the Eskimo's main food supply—to retire to colder districts further north. Of interest to the fishing industries was the fact that higher sea temperatures had resulted in enormous catches of cod off Greenland.

He added that cold streams from the melting Greenland glaciers, similar to those which had driven herring from Idelandic waters, were threatening the cod fishery along the Norwegian coast.

Truman Forcing Issue In Steel Industry Fight

Washington (AP)—President Truman has demanded a showdown in the bitter fight raging between steel industry leaders and certain government officials and legislators.

Crux of the controversy is the question: "Is the steel industry expanding fast enough?"

Practically all the industry men reply "yes." Many say that production will catch up with the demand within two years. Their opponents say that present expansion programs are so inadequate that a continuing shortage of steel is in prospect and that it will prevent the nation's entire productive plant from reaching full capacity. More steel plants are needed, they add, for defence reasons.

Men in the anti-industry camp have even proposed that the government build steel plants if industry refuses to build fast enough.

The president in his message to Congress on the state of the union indicated he agreed that this should be done if it is true that more plants are needed than industry is willing to build. First, however, he proposed that congress "authorize an immediate study of the adequacy of production facilities."

If it is found necessary, he continued, Congress should "authorize government loans for the expansion of production facilities." Congress, he went on, should "authorize the construction of such facilities if action by private industy fails to meet our needs."

The cry immediately arose throughout the steel world that such a proposal was socialistic and amounted to nationalization.

Steel Statistics

1. The steel industry, engaged in a massive post-war expansion program, says it now has the capacity to produce 96,120,930 net tons of raw steel annually, greater than ever before in war or peace. (The commerce department concurs in this figure.) Wartime peak capacity was 95,505,280 tons in 1944. Further expansion now planned is expected to be 98,000,000 tons by 1950.

2. But the demand boost won't be enough, say the men on the other side of the question. C. Girard Davidson, assistant secretary of the interior, says steel production should be increased by 10,000,000 tons annually.

A present shortage of steel is generally admitted. Steel magazine, an industry publication, said in December that the steel shortage "gives every promise of continuing for months." Iron Age, a trade weekly, said "if steel is as short by the end of 1949 as it is now, there will be more fireworks over the capacity problem than the industry has seen yet."

Big steel makers predicted in the summer of 1947 that steel supply would catch up with the demand by the end of 1949. What they think now they have not revealed. Commerce department officials won't even guess publicly if supply is even within reaching distance of demand.

Steel men say that to increase the steel-making capacity faster than the present program will reduce, rather than increase, the immediate supply of steel. Their reason is that it would take a vast amount of steel to build the steel making plants. Also, they say, construction costs are now so high that to build more plants would make it necessary to raise steel prices again.

LANGUAGE TRENDS DIVERTING TOPIC OF RADIO SERIES

By JEAN THOMPSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Languages on the airways — a small, rather dull matter you may think—can be provocative. It is no exaggeration to say that since radio became an integral part of daily life, the broadcast word has caused thousands of teapot tempests in family circles.

The CBC must have been well aware of the mind-tickling appeal of variations in speech and accent when it ran a series of three 30-minute talks by W. H. Brodie, its supervisor of broadcast language. He entitled the series "The Well of English."

By the time the talks were well launched it was evident that Mr. Brodie had both a deep and fascinating subject, and one that could only be highlighted in the time at his disposal.

The talks were entertaining and illuminating. So much so that more than 65 letters came in from listeners in Canada, the United States and Bermuda. They wanted more broadcasts on the same topic.

Comments were all in agreement with Mr. Brodie's remarks. That is all except one, from a linguistic expert in the United States. And he disagreed only on minor points which he did not enlarge upon.

A Delicate Job

Mr. Brodie's is the voice of authority. He is the last court of appeal regarding the spoken word on the CBC. It is his job to achieve a uniformity which is neither hidebound nor unacceptable to listeners.

High standards and a certain degree of uniformity are necessary. Canadians are at the crossroads of the English and North American development of a common language. Canadians should stand firm, Mr. Brodie said. Just the same the overlap from England and the United States raises some fine shadings and distinctions.

An overlay of either English or American on Canadian is an artificiality. Enunciation, delivery and exactness in the use of words can be improved, of course, but Canadians should retain their own style.

It is a tantalizing topic, this "English as she is spoke." Aural awareness and sensitivity add zest to daily life, always bearing in mind Mr. Brodie's caution that tolerance keeps the mind open. Language cranks and hobby-horse riders defeat the purpose of flexibility within the bounds of good taste and understanding.

By radio, Canadians hear language in three different styles—on dialects as the experts describe them—English, Canadian, American. They are all different, all interesting, all intelligible and all correct.

Helps Wreckers Of Former Home

Vancouver (CP)—Bob McEwen, 240-pound veteran, who sparked the squatters' invasion of the old Hotel Vancouver three years ago, is back at the scene of his campaign helping to tear down the huge structure.

Now he is president of a trucking company, hauling away bathtubs and other weighty bricabac to be sold as salvage.

With his English war bride he lived on the hotel's 10th floor for eight months and their daughter was born there, but the Seaforth Highlanders' veteran has no regrets. "The old place needed to be torn down," he said.

When McEwen returned from overseas there were 7,000 veterans' families in Canada in need of homes and he was one of them.

He expressed his displeasure with housing conditions by pegging a tent on Vancouver's court house lawn. With three other veterans he kindled a fire and remained for a day.

On Jan. 26, 1946, he led 36 veterans to the Old Vancouver, just vacated by the army, arranged for foods and beds to be brought in. Soon there was 1200 in the building. These have all been cared for in new veterans' housing developments.

McEwen is credited also with organizing the "Bring Our Brides Home Association," and with getting three additional ships added to the war bride run.

Things are better now. The McEwens live in a four-room bungalow. His trucking company has three dump trucks and two flatdeck trucks, and he is vice-president of the Independent Truck Owners' Association.

New PURITY "Apple Queen"

. . . is a wonderful dessert

You'll make it again and again and, of course with Purity Flour. So scrumptious, such a tangy sweetness atop a feathery cake . . . and per serving so economical.

PURITY "Apple Queen" CAKE

3 tablespoons butter
¾ cup brown sugar
3 or 4 medium sized apples
8 red or green cherries
¼ cup shortening
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¾ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 cups sifted Purity Flour
1 cup milk

First—Melt butter in 7 or 8 inch square baking dish, add brown sugar and spread the mixture evenly over the bottom of the dish. Pare and core apples and cut each one in sections lengthwise. Set in rows in the butter-sugar mixture. Place a cherry in each corner and one in the middle.

Next—Cream shortening, add vanilla. Gradually add sugar and blend well together. Add well-beaten egg. Mix Purity Flour, baking powder and salt and sift together 3 or 4 times, then add alternately with the milk. Pour this batter over the apples in baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 40-45 minutes. Invert to serve. Remove from the dish as soon as baked. Serve hot as is or with a sweet sauce, or serve cold with whipped cream.

Best for all your baking . . . that's Purity Flour. Women who bake and bake depend on Purity for uniform results. It's the flour that's milled from Canada's fine hard wheat and sold everywhere.

Pretoria Enthused Over White Rhinos

Pretoria, South Africa (CP) — The National Zoological Gardens here is the first in the world to possess a pair of white rhinos. It is also the realization of a cherished ambition of the director of the gardens, Dr. R. Bigalke, to obtain a mate for the Zoo's young white rhino, Zuluana.

Named after his home, the bush around the Unfolosi River, in the Hluhluwe Game Reserve of Zululand, the year-old bull, Folosi, was captured after he had spent a week-long vigil over the body of his mother, gored to death by his father.

He kept hyenas, jackals and vultures at bay, and never wandered further than 10 yards from the carcass, even when hunger forced him to browse on the green grass and shrubs close by.

After a struggle lasting several hours a game ranger managed to lasso Folosi, who had become exhausted by repeated whirlwind charges.

Folosi was taken to Nongama where he quickly shattered the door of his lock-up which had to be barricaded with heavy logs and the back of a motor lorry.

J. Grobler, Zuluana's keeper, was rushed from Pretoria to care for Folosi.

He found a way in—through the roof and the famished rhinoceros accepted bottles of cow's milk offered by his keeper. Grobler kept up this bottle friendship throughout the day until his charge had consumed four gallons of milk, the day's ration.

Folosi and Zuluapa are housed in adjoining quarters, separated by iron bars. So far they have established little more than a nodding acquaintance.

Capetown Expects Big Whale Catch

Captetown (CP)—It is estimated that nearly 25,000 whales will be caught this season by fleets now busy in the Antarctic.

Capetown agents of whaling companies have received reports that whaling operations are going on in good weather.

This is an important factor in whaling in the south seas, and last season, when the weather was not so good, the total catch numbered more than 22,000.

AIR FORCE LISTS 225 WAAFS AS DESERTERS

London (CP)—The R.A.F. still lists 225 members of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force as deserters, but has little hope of locating them. Many of them, authorities said, are probably married now.

"In some cases parents may have objected to their marrying," a spokesman said. "In other cases women have just changed their names and taken up some occupation, usually in London."

Domestic trouble was cited as the cause of many desertions.

MOIRA

Moira—On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Welsh entertained Mr. and Mrs. Don McInroy, Mr. and Mrs. Don Holbert and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Regensburg and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Collins, Leon, Jerome and Sully and Miss Wilhelmine Huffman of Belleville.

Mr. Wesley Holbert is under the doctor's care. His many frinends hope for a speedy recovery.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson on Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, and Miss Dorothy Thompson of Belleville, and Miss Ada Thompson of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose Ketcheson and family, spent Sunday with Mrs. Hammond, West Huntingdon.

The Victory Class, Young People's Union and Mission Band were entertained on Thursday evening for a meeting and box social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Farrell.

Readings were given by Francis Thompson and Shirley Moreland. A quartet, composed of Misses Iva Thompson, Lola Emi Thompson and Beverley Foster, sang.

Mr. Burgess then deliveed an interesting and instructive address on "Religious History of China", giving an outline of the Confucian theory of religion; the failure of Marco Polo to provide Christian missionaries; the coming of the Buddhist priests, and the present needs of China, dealing particularly with Czechwan province.

Mr. Earl Thompson then undertook the arduous task of auctioneering the boxes and proved exceedingly capable and amusing a fine sum was added to the treasury.

Quebec Expenditures Raised $34,507,000 Over Last Year

(By The Canadian Press)

Record estimates of expenditures were laid before the Quebec Legislature Tuesday, but the Quebec revenue estimates are still to come in. Treasurer Onesime Gagnon's budget speech next week.

The Quebec expenditures for the 1949-50 fiscal year are estimated at $176,497,000, which is $34,507,000 more than in the current year. The Quebec House is already working on the estimates and yesterday passed the figures for legislation, $892,000 as compared with $865,900 in the current year.

At Toronto, the debate continued on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, with C. C. F. leader E. B. Jolliffe presenting an amendment which would regret that the government "has failed to meet the needs of the people of Ontario with respect to housing, hydro, health, welfare, education, agriculture and labor."

In the Ontario House Mr. Jolliffe said the "false issue of provincial rights" had reached absurdity in the move by George Drew, National Progressive Conservative leader, to call a Dominion - Provincial conference before the Newfoundland petition is presented to London. Premier Kennedy had said the Ontario government endorsed the attitude of Mr. Drew in demanding the provinces be consulted before Newfoundland is admitted to Confederation.

Debate Motion

At Winnipeg, the Manitoba legislature debated a motion by Edmond Prefontaine (LP—Carillon) asking legislation to regulate the sale of margarine and prohibit its coloring to resemble butter. Mr. Prefontaine said Canada now is about the only country where margarine may be sold without restrictions.

A Manitoba air force member, Wing Cmdr. Ronald Turner, said there was no necessity for further safeguards to protect the consumer of margarine; federal statutes provided ample protection.

The Saskatchewan legislature at Regina continued throne speech debate and Liberal leader Walter Tucker, in his maiden speech in the House there, moved a vote of no-confidence in the C. C. F. government. The form of his 14-point amendment however was questioned and the speaker reserved judgment as to whether it was a proper motion.

Want Sale by Glass

Tucker charged that the C. C. F. had failed to promote agriculture, had failed to relieve school costs and had failed to provide satisfactory health services.

At Victoria, the British Columbia government received a petition from the B.C. Cabaret Owners Association containing 23,000 names, asking for a one-year trial for cocktail bars. Sale of liquor by the glass is prohibited in British Columbia.

A C. C. F. member, Herbert Gargrave, charged that the B. C. coalition government's expansion plans could be attributed to opposition prodding. Gargrave's charge that Premier Byron Johnson's recent policy speech containing expansion plans smacked of a "political bribe" brought an objection from the premier. But the C. C. F. member said he was exercising his prerogative in terming it "a political bribe."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A solitude seeker has something wrong with him. Life must have passed him by. Or he never learned to play bridge. Which is almost the same thing, as any bridge nut will tell you without asking.

Who would want to be alone after the excitement of an unusual bridge deal? So many things happen to it that a recluse would die of bottled-up conversation.

NORTH
♠Q 10 6
♥5 3
♦8 7 6 5 4 3 2
♣4

WEST	EAST
♠A 8 4 2	♠K J 9 7 5 3
♥A 7 6	♥10 8
♦A Q 9	♦K J 10
♣A 9 8	♣10 7

SOUTH
♠None
♥K Q J 9 4 2
♦None
♣K Q J 6 5 3 2

South got it for a doubled contact of five hearts and made it against the opponent four aces and two kings.

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
2 H	Dbl	Pass	2 S
3 C	3 S	Pass	4 S
5 C	Dbl	5 H	Pass
Pass	Dbl	All Pass

Many players prefer not to open with two in a suit when their hand contains no ace. Their fear is that partner may take it to a slam if he has only one ace.

If this happens, one of two things can be said about it. The responder has exceeded his prerogative by not using the four no-trump convention. Or opponents could have made more by their bid.

An opening of two in a suit merely says it has at least nine tricks with a good chance for game. And south has ten tricks. They are four high cards; three shorts in spades; three shorts in diamonds.

North correctly showed the preference for hearts after south rebid one of his suits. Opponents, as you can see, could make five spades. And they could not defeat five in clubs or hearts.

The aces we admire may never cross the wire.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Will Hollywood have a place in the television picture?

The Roach studio, famed in Hollywood history, has cast its lot with the new medium. The Roaches see TV as a bonanza for the film industry.

"I believe that 60 per cent of television programs will be on film," Roach, Jr., commented. "Hollywood is the natural telefilm capital."

Bergen Says No

Taking the negative view is ventriloquist Bergen, one if the first star performers to become interested in video. He has just returned from a survey of the industry in New York.

"That's the big league of television back there," he said. "They seem to think that they don't need Hollywood."

Odds and Ends

Bing Crosby failed to show up for the Photoplay dinner, having found some excuse to beg off. He may be the most popular star with the magazine's readers, but not with its editors. Only Bing could get away with it.

June Allyson was telling me at the dinner about her harrowing return from Sun Valley. She said the train was stuck in a blizzard for four days with no heat and little food. Always optimistic, she commented: "Never had so much fun in my life."

Alexis Smith is one of the few gals I know who doesn't like to see the long skirts go. "I hate short skirts," says lanky Alexis. "I'm too long for them."

70-Game Schedule By National Loop Seen by Smythe

Toronto, Feb. 17 — (CP) — A 70-game schedule for the National Hockey League, instead of the present 60, is seen as a possibility next year by Conn Smythe.

"I think we can work in five more games at home and the same on the road," the president of Toronto Maple Leafs said Wednesday in an interview.

"It will help to take care of the present demand for tickets. We cannot accommodate all who want to see the N.H.L. teams in action under the present set-up and an extra five games at the (Maple Leaf) Gardens may be the answer to the problem."

With a 70-game schedule, Smythe forsees the necessity of extra players for each club. Leafs would carry four forward lines and six defencemen.

"We will need the same number of players in Pittsburgh (of the American Hockey League), with possibly three forward lines and five defencemen on our (Toronto) Marlboro senior roster. Then we have the junior clubs to think of . . . so you see we have room for quite a few good hockey players in our organization."

"STABILIZED SOIL"

New Delhi — (CP) — "Stabilized soil" has enabled the East Punjab government to build 3,500 houses in a very short time. Stabilized soil is just clay mixed with sand but has high insulating properties and costs much less than bricks, and the houses proved just as good.

GETS DIVORCE

Hillbilly songstress Judy Canova (above) was granted a divorce from Chester B. England, cosmetics dealer, in Los Angeles, Calif., on allegations that her husband was rude to her friends. England will pay a one-dollar per month token for the support of the couple's four-year-old daughter, Juliette Canova England, whose custody goes to the mother. Judy waived alimony.—Central Press Canadian.

Farmer Buried In Pile of Straw, Slightly Hurt

Picton. — George MacStephen, farmer, residing in Hallowell Township, near Picton, escaped with a minor injury to the nose and bruises when buried for half an hour beneath a pile of straw. Mr. MacStephen was on a sleigh beside the stack when the straw suddenly toppled over on him. His feet were pinned on the sleigh and his head and shoulders on the ground. Fortunately air space was provided by the section under the sleigh. Mr. MacStephen was unable to free himself. His calls went unheard for half an hour. Then his son, Bill and brother, Donald, returned to the farm and came to his rescue. A team of horses was attached to the sleigh but did not take fright.

Factory Sold

One of Prince Edward County's best factories, East Lake Canners, has been purchaser by Mrs. Gwen Trebell from Harry Leavitt and a group of shareholders. Associated with Mrs. Trebell are her sons, Fred and Frank, and her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Lennox.

Mrs. Trebell has sold her interest in Crofton Canning Co., between Picton and Belleville, to her brother, Beath Morden.

Mrs. Trebell plans to can fruits as well as tomatoes at the East Lake Plant.

IVANHOE

Ivanhoe—A charming miscellaneous shower was given in Ivanhoe town hall on Friday evening —in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rittwage (nee Irma MacMillan) at which an original address, in the form of a poem, was read by Miss Barbara Cooney.

The address embodied best wishes for happiness, a bright future, a joyous pathway and light troubles.

Many lovely gifts were received and the donors very graciously thanked, both for the gifts and the good wishes extended.

AT THE BELLE — Van Heflin and Lana Turner in M.G.M.'s spectacular Technicolor version of Dumas' "The Three Musketeers," continuing today and Friday at the Belle Theatre. Also starred in one of the year's greatest casts are Gene Kelly, June Allyson, Angela Lansbury and Frank Morgan.

Man Arrested In Cleveland Wanted in Ont.

Toronto, Feb. 17 — (CP)—Police records showed today that Gerard Denis, 38-year-old former Toronto man arrested in Cleveland, O., is a convict wanted in Ontario for escaping Burwash reformatory more than five years ago.

Denis, when arrested Wednesday, had $18,000 in unset diamonds in his possession.

Cleveland police said Denis, known in Canadian police records as Denis Gerard, alias James Martin, has admitted the diamonds were the loot from thefts in 15 homes in fashionable Westchester County, N.Y.

Denis served five years in St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary at Montreal before being sentenced to Burwash. He escaped from the prison farm in Northern Ontario on Nov. 30, 1943, police records show.

Police of New Rochelle, N. Y., had been trailing Denis for two years before he was arrested in the jewelery store with the gems, which police allege he ripped from their settings before throwing the settings away. According to Cleveland police, Gerard entered the United States illegally.

He has been charged with the 15 jewel thefts and is also wanted in Buffalo on charges of housebreaking.

O.H.A. President Opposes Reinforcements for Teams Entering Divisional Playoffs

Winnipeg, Feb. 17 — (CP) — Just as sure as hockey playoffs roll around, the old controversy arises over whether divisional champion teams should be allowed to strengthen by adding reinforcements for Canadian title play.

C. J. Boyle of Fort William, president of the Thunder Bay Hockey Association, says they should. But J. J. McFadyen of Galt, president of the Ontario branch, is just as definite that they shouldn't.

Both sides get plenty of support.

The C. A. H. A. at its last semi-annual meeting voted to let teams "deserving" branches strengthen for interprovincial play. That means the Maritime, Thunder Bay and British Columbia representatives can add players from within their own branch.

Last year, Port Arthur Bruins, with three reinforcements, went on to win the Canadian junior hockey title, downing Ontario's Barrie Flyers four straight in the east-west final.

Explains Situation

Backed by Frank Sargent of Port Arthur, former C. A. H. A. president, Boyle explained the Thunder Bay situation:

"The main reason we apply for reinforcements for our juniors is that the lakehead, with a population of only slightly more than 60,000, is supporting four junior "A" clubs, while much larger centres such as Regina and Winnipeg are only supporting one and three respectively."

McFadyen is opposed to giving reinforcements at playoff time, but "I believe something can be worked out to give Thunder Bay, B. C., and the Maritimes special privileges before the season opens, either by allowing them more branch-to-branch transfers or extending the date for branch-to-branch imports."

"We are all aware that B. C. and the Maritimes are poor developing branches while Thunder Bay is a good developing branch but are handicapped by a small population and with very few teams to draw from within their branch" he said.

Also opposed to reinforcements is Jimmy Dunn of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba Association, who feels that the Port Arthur Bruins' recent victories over Regina Pats in their two exhibition contests backs up his statement.

"Strengthening, even at the lakehead, should be done at the start of the season. Why, three of the four lakehead teams are sponsored by professional organizations. And if the pros can't help build up their juniors to compete on even terms with other clubs, then they shouldn't be in there."

Dunn said the situation in B.C. and the Maritimes is entirely different.

"Lack of real winter cannot be overlooked," he said, "I really don't know what can be done to foster better hockey there."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—While most sports promoters are worried about future television competition, the guys who run indoor track meets are finding it already has arrived...Dan Ferris, revealing that ticket sales for Saturday's A.A.U. meet aren't going too well, adds that fans have told him they like television better than the actual meets because they can see and hear more than they could at the Garden... "why, one fellow came in and asked to buy some programs for the New York A.C., meet in advance so he could follow it better on television," Dan gasps.

One-Minute Sports Page

Jeff Cravath, Southern California football coach, figures it will be "at least two years before coast football catches up with the big nine."...Norway's Erling Kaas, who finds the "spring" in board runaways a handicap to his pole vaulting, would like to show his ability in an outdoor meet...Hal Bacon, who runs the track dormitory at Santa Anita, has organized a jockeys' basketball team. They'd have to stand on one another's shoulders to play a regular team.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A wire from Secretary Jack Christie of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association informs us that the OMHA moguls are conducting a thorough investigation into the disgraceful Brockville-Belleville Rockets juvenile incident. The fact, Christie says, that the Brockville team was eliminated eases the urgency and "permits a thorough investigation."

The OMHA should investigate this incident thoroughly. At the beginning of the season, after what happened a year ago in various places, the OMHA came out with a stern edict warning all and sundry what would happen if such occurrences like the Brockville incident broke out.

• • •

And we do not believe that the OMHA is fooling. Hockey, especially in the minor loop, away back in the hinterlands, so to speak, has been productive of several outbursts like that in Brockville. In the main, these near-riots have not been started by the players. Inflamed partisan home-town fans, reluctant to acknowledge defeat are prone to blame the setback on the officials. Then the fun starts. Or is it fun? They pour on the ice regardless of what happens and vent their spleen on the visiting team.

• • •

Drastic action should be taken by the powers-that-be. Hotheaded fans are not doing themselves, their team or their community any good by such hoodlum tactics. And like Belleville, thank heaven, police departments, where possible should be briefed prior to the game. A blue uniform at times, will do a lot of good. It has been proven here.

• • •

Take the candy away from the baby and what have you. It is severe punishment but none the less warranted. A one or two year suspension on the community might teach these brainless fans a lesson. But at the same time it would be unfair to the kids, unless of course they were, in part, to blame.

• • •

We have been and will be all in favor of minor hockey. The Ontario Minor Hockey Association that has blossomed from a few sprouts into a flowering tree is doing a splendid job. It has fostered hockey among younger fry and through its efforts are readying the hockey stars of tomorrow. But at the same time, it should nip potential hockey "criminals" in the bud. We are not criticising the players themselves. We have discovered in our all too short association with the younger hockey players that they are in it for the sport alone. "Amacheers" in the strictest sense of the word.

• • •

But we do and will criticise coaches who deliberately egg their proteges play that is not sportsmanlike. Any oldster especially those who think or know something about hockey should instill in their charges the fundamentals of sportsmanship. The kids have that, we think without benefit of instruction. It is then up to the coaches to see that these ethics are adhered to.

• • •

And hometown fans who are prone to become hotheaded when things are not going their way should "look before they leap." Someone must lose. Someone must win. If the visiting team is better, then give them the credit due them. And vice versa. Rushing out on the ice with mayhem, and other emotions in their eyes, in an effort to "if we can't beatcha one way we can another" stuff does not do fans or their community any good. In fact reacts to everything that is good in sport.

• • •

And while on the minor hockey subject we must remind youse guys and gals that the Cobourg midgets will be here [illegible] night in a clash against the Belleville Gunners while the Port Hope juveniles tangle with the bruised but not defeated Belleville Rockets juves. Both Belleville teams are striding mightily down that championship trail and tomorrow night's games will be the first of a two-game goals-to-count series.

• • •

For the first time in a long while Belleville hockey teams are racing neck-and-neck down that titular trail we mentioned a few minutes ago. The CNR Diesels and the Rockets Juniors are riding proudly with the blemish of defeat on their escutcheons. The Gunners Midget "B's" and the Rockets juvenlies have overcome all opposition thus far in their quest for the titles of their various groups.

• • •

Belleville fandom while extremely loyal to the fast-stepping Diesels should remember that the other teams are also holding high the hockey gonfalon for the city. They deserve far better support than they have received hitherto.

Larry Silvestri Helps Pla-Mors

(By The Associated Press)

If Kansas City Pla-Mors have any hopes of overtaking St. Paul Saints in the United States Hockey League race they haven't any better example than their own little Larry Silvestri.

The third-period goal meant the Pla-Mors after eight losses and two ties in the last 10 games. Before the slump, Kansas City topped the division. Today St. Paul is in first place with 65 points, five more than the Pla-Mors.

Omaha won 5-2 from Minneapolis on the Millers' home rink. The previous night they battled to a tie at Omaha, the eighth time this season they have left the ice in a deadlock.

Bernie Strongman put Omaha in the lead 25 seconds after the game started. Keith Burgess and Eddie Reigle made it 3-0 before the first period was over.

Alouettes Team To Beat Says Jimmy McCaffery

(By The Canadian Press)

The team to beat in the 1949 Big Four season will be the Montreal Alouettes, Jimmy McCaffrey, manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders, predicted at Ottawa Wednesday.

A bit chagrined but not the least worried, McCaffrey admitted readily Ottawa wanted flinging Frankie Filchock, Hamilton Tigers playing coach who signed up with Lew Hayman's Alouettes for a two year term.

Now that they've got Filchock the Alouettes—who were "good" last year—will be the big gun in the 1949 season, McCaffrey said. He would make no predictions for his own Rough Riders —1948 Eastern Canada champions.

"We had negotiations with Filchock to quarterback the Riders this year, but I don't know ... negotiations fell through. Guess it was just a matter of terms."

Russ Barko of Hamilton decisioned Hec Charrette of Windsor, Ont., in a five round main bout of an amateur boxing show at Hamilton. The fight was a rematch in which Charrette sought to avenge a defeat he suffered at the hands of Barko here two weeks ago.

Charrette weighed 157 pounds, Barko 154.

Betty said at London Wednesday she feels that "if there's another opportunity," she will do better when she develops the skating technique used by the Russians, Norwegians and Finns.

The fourth test cricket match between England and South Africa ended in a draw at Johannesburg Wednesday.

It was the third draw in a row in the series. England's touring Marylebone cricket club won the first match. One match remains to be played.

In the first innings the visitors scored 379 and the home team replied with 257 for nine declared.

At Washington the justice department spiked rumors that the government will intervene in the $300,000 damage suit Danny Gardella is pressing against organized baseball because of the so-called reserve clause.

Gardella, former New York Giants outfielder, is suing for damages on grounds that organized baseball took away his livelihood by invoking the reserve clause's five year ban against his playing because he jumped to the Mexican League three years ago.

Herbert A. Bergson, assistant attorney-general in charge of the anti-trust division, said there is no government intention to interfere.

Dick Button, of Englewood, N. J., gave a remarkable display of rhythm at Paris Wednesday to take a long lead in defence of his world men's figure skating championship.

The 19-year-old wizard of the flashing blades, holder of both the Olympic and world titles, amassed 638.1 points in skating six compulsory figures to move far in front of the 12-man field. The scoring was unofficial.

The second phase of the competition —free skating, which is Button's specialty —is being held today.

Ken Watson and his Winnipeg Strathcona rink Wednesday captured the Manitoba curling championship and the right to represent the province in the Dominion finals at Hamilton next month.

Hockey-mad Crowd Crashes Gates at Stockholm Arena To See Canadians Tie Sweden

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Stockholm, Feb. 17. (CP) — Anything can happen in a world hockey tournament—sticky ice, fist fights, committee-room squabbles and disagreement over rules.

But the current 1949 world championship tops them all. Here not even the spectators are exempt. Last night 14 persons were injured — none severely — when a hockey-mad crowd crashed the gates of Stockholm's big Olympic stadium to watch Canada and Sweden battle to a bitter 2-2 tie.

The draw was a setback to the Canadian hopes of retaining the world crown, won a year ago by R.C.A.F. Flyers. It meant that Sudbury Wolves, the Dominion representatives, must win their three remaining games to retain an outside chance in the six-country round-robin finals.

The Wolves have only one point in the tournament to four points for Czechoslovakia, three for Sweden, and two for Switzerland. The Canadians play once-beaten United States tonight, Austria Friday and Switzerland Sunday.

But as usual in world amateur hockey doings, what happened on the rink last night was strictly secondary. The story was what happened outside.

An estimated crowd of 25,000 pushed and mauled one another for a view of the Canadians, who were billed in the Swedish press as "dangerous man". The result was a virtual stampede outside the stadium with fences and gates trampled in the rush.

First reports said the scramble started when the crowd tried to stop the Wolves—criticized in Stockholm newspapers for poor sportsmanship—from entering the rink to play the Swedes.

Denied by Silverman

But this was denied by Max Silverman, manager of the Wolves, and police captain Carl Holmberg. Silverman said the demonstration looked to him as if it had been exaggerated. "There was no riot," he said, "or at least if there was any rioting I didn't see it." (The Toronto Globe and Mail quoted Silverman in a telephone interview from Stockholm as saying: "They (the crowd) certainly weren't after us. The trouble was that about 30,000 fans wanted to get into a rink that will hold only about 14,000. They tore down iron fences to get in and we got caught in the middle of the traffic jam.

("They don't want Canada to win and they're trying to beat us. There's too much politics. We might as well go through with it now and finish the tournament. But it would be very foolish to send another Canadian team over under the present circumstances.")

Holmberg said the stadium was packed long before game time and 25,000 fans still were outside, pressing against an iron fence. The fence broke along a 35 yard stretch. In the ensuing panic, 14 were hurt and hundreds had their clothing torn.

Normally the stadium seats at least 20,000 but partitions were erected around the ice, leaving seating space for only about 11,000. Most of the huge crowd outside were good natured and tried to hold back when they saw people being crushed against the fence. Gatekeepers estimated 1,000 forced their way into the stadium without tickets although other estimates placed the figure at more than 4,000.

When the panic began, only 28 police —two of them mounted— were on hand to control the overflow. Police then rushed foot, mounted and motor reinforcements to restore order. Mounted police had to force a passage through the crowds for ambulances to take away the injured.

Enthusiasm Built Up

Enthusiasm of Stockholm fans had been built up to a white-hot pitch by front-page splashes in the Swedish press about the rough match Tuesday night between Canada and Czechoslovakia — the game which led to official protests and press charges that Canadians behaved in an unsportsmanlike manner against the Czechs.

Canada protested the 3-2 loss to the Czechs on the ground that the second Czech goal was scored by Augustin Bubnik while his stick was high above his head. The protest was disallowed by the directors of the International Ice Hockey Federation, world governing body of amateur hockey, by a vote of 6 to 0.

The International Committee also warned that any players starting fights or other incidents would be banned from further play. Tom Russell of Hamilton, who got into a brawl with a Czech player, was warned specifically.

Police, taking note that feeling in the rink between the Canadians and Czechs was running high, escorted the Canadians' bus to their hotel Tuesday night.

Again last night, Stockholm authorities took no chances. After escorting the Sudbury bus from hotel to stadium, a 12-man police chain protected Canadian players on their way from the dressing room to the rink for the game against Sweden.

Inside the stadium thousands of more fortunate fans got a look at the Canadians. But they probably were disappointed that the trans-Atlantic visitors didn't get penalized as severely as they did in the disputed loss to Czechoslovakia.

Given Double Penalties

(Dispatches said the Canadians were given seven penalties compared with one for Sweden. But Silverman was quoted in his telephone interview with the Globe and Mail as saying the Canadians were awarded 14 penalties "A lot of them were double penalties," he said, "and we don't know what they're for.")

(It was not clear what Silverman meant by "double penalties.")

Despite the manpower differential against the Swedes, the Canadians played one of the best games of the tournament and, Silverman said, they might have won if an unidentified Swedish spectator had not interfered with a Canadian player.

Canada led 2-1 midway through the third period when centre Joe diBastiani of Cobalt, was benched for elbowing and Herb Kewley, 22-year-old defenceman from Toronto, drew his second penalty of the game moments later.

Sweden put on a power play. As the partisan crowd rose to its feet one fan leaned over the boards and held Joe Tergesen's stick. The interference with the Gimli, Man., defenceman went unnoticed in the wild cheering which followed the tying goal by Sweden's Ake Andersson, Silverman said.

The Canadian manager said he would not protest the game but he complained: "It's hard enough to play the teams without playing the spectators, too."

Young Russell had put the Canadians ahead 1-0 in the fourth minute of the first period and the lead stood until the second period when Sweden tied it up 1-1 on a marker by Lars Pettersson.

Sent Away for Tackling

The second period was marked by penalties to Kewley, Tergesen and Ray Bauer of Waterloo who was sent to the box for what was described as "tackling." But goalie Al Pickard in the Sudbury net was superb as he resisted all Swedish assaults.

Kewley then came through with the second Canadian goal in the fourth minute of the third period. He scored after a brilliant power play with winger Don Munro and Tergesen. But three minutes later Ake Andersson tied it up for Sweden while the Canadians were two men short.

Off the ice, the question of global hockey supremacy seemed to have spilled into disagreement over rules interpretation. North America took one side, the Europeans took the other.

Silverman claimed that the I.I.H.F., tournament sponsors, agreed to adopt Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rules. He acknowledged that the international body was trying to adopt the Canadian rules but they had not always applied the correct interpretation. The result was that the Canadians did not know how much the I.I.H.F. rules allowed in body-checking and other hockey tactics familiar in the Dominion.

"They try to apply Canadian rules, but evidently they (the I.I.H.F.) are still confused," Silverman said. "Consequently our men have no idea what they are allowed to do and why they are sent to the penalty box.

"Most of the time what they do is perfectly all right — by C.A.H.A. rules."

On the other hand, Rudolf Eklow of Sweden, a member of the I.I.H.F., said:

Don't Like Tendency

"We in Europe are trying to make hockey a little more human. We do not like the North American tendency to brutalize the game."

Eklow revealed that when the Canadians considered withdrawing from the tournament he had asked Frederick Palmer, Canadian Charge D'Affaires in Stockholm, to intervene and keep the Canadians in it. There was no indication whether Palmer's diplomatic efforts influenced the Canadian decision to remain in the tournament.

"I had the idea of withdrawing but I talked to the Toronto authorities and they said we better carry on," Silverman commented.

In Midland, George Dudley, business manager of the CAHA, said he talked by telephone to Silverman and F. W. (Dinty) Moore, who is doing some refereeing at Stockholm but not in Canadian games, and advised them to continue in the tournament and "make the best of it".

Dudley admitted the whole affair was "quite a mess". However he said the outbreak might focus attention on conditions under which international hockey tournaments are played and bring some improvement.

Dudley, who went overseas last year with the Canadian Olmypic hockey team, said refereeing in Europe differs greatly from Canada. Referees have less experience than the men who officiate in the Dominion. Moreover, Europeans avoid bodychecking and if a player as much as brushes another he gets a penalty.

Ottawa Army Defeats Cornwall To Even Series

Ottawa, Feb. 17 (CP)—Ottawa Army, underdogs in an Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League semi-finals tilt, Wednesday edged out the powerful Cornwall Calumets 4-3 to tie the best-of-seven series 7-7.

The Army victory sends the series into an extra eighth match to be played at Cornwall Friday for the right to meet Hull Volants for the league championship.

On a point basis, Army had five points to the Calumets' seven when the crucial game opened last night. A Cornwall win, or even a tie, would have shot the soldiers out of the series. Almost 4,000 fans—biggest E.C.S.H.L. turnout here—watched the puck fight.

Grabbing the lead quickly, the soldiers rapped in three markers in the first frame, followed through with another in the second stanza and held a 4-0 lead before Cornwall recovered with only a few minutes to go in the middle frame. Five penalties in the final period held back the Cornwall rally.

Eddie Emmerton's bracer was the only two-goal effort of the night. Only other Cornwall marksman was Flanigan.

Just a minute went by in the first period when Gagnon put the first one in for Army. Grant followed up at the 2.37 mark and Tresidder took one from Laroque at 15.49 to make it 3-0 for Army at the end of the frame.

Foster scored at 12.54 of the middle period to make it 4-0 for Army before Emmerton started his two-goal effort.

Cornwall began to roll in the last frame but was held back when Hodgson was tagged three times for charging and holding. Only goal in the final frame was Emmerton's at the [illegible] mark.

Chicago, New York Enhance Playoff Chance by Knocking Off the Two Top-Place Clubs

Whether it was the home - ice atmosphere or the lure of playoff gold, New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks rose up from their low - place spots last night to smite the two top clubs in the National Hockey League.

And both looked like hot stuff in victory. Rangers, behind the superb goal-tending of Chuck Rayner, blanked the league-leading Detroit Red Wings 4-0, and the Black Hawks, with their one-two punch of Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher setting the pace, knocked off the second-spot Boston Bruins 5-1.

The upset triumph threw the torrid battle for the fourth and last playoff spot wide open. Chicago moved into a tie for fourth with Montreal Canadiens. Each team has 43 points, three more than New York who bring up the rear.

Rayner, in chalking up his seventh shutout, gave the 12,201 fans in Madison Square Garden a great display of puck-stopping. The Ranger goalie kicked them out from all angles, blocking 42 shots compared to the 23 drives Harry Lumley had to stop at the other end.

Play their Best Game

Doug Bentley regained the scoring leadership by collecting one goal and making the plays for two others. Linemate Roy Conacher racked up two assists and now trails 58 to 57 in points.

Mosienko, third member of the league's highest scoring trio, potted two goals to lead the marksmen, while Bentley, Bep Guidolin and Jimmy Conacher garnered the others.

Veteran Jack Crawford scored Boston's lone counter on a solo effort.

NATIVE NURSES

London (CP)—One hundred and twenty-four nurses from West Africa are expected to complete their training in the United Kingdom in the next three years.

Bill Ezinicki To be Golf Pro At Uplands Club

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP)—Wild Bill Ezinicki has realized one of his fondest dreams—and it has nothing to do with hockey.

The Maple Leaf right-winger yesterday signed a contract as golf pro at Toronto's New Uplands Golf and Country Club. The course, closed since 1942, is being reopened this spring and Ezinicki is highly pleased at landing the job.

"This is the job I've been working at golf for," he said.

The National Hockey League star has made a name for himself in the golf world in recent years. Two years ago he reached the Canadian amateur finals, only to be beaten by Frank Stranahan and last summer he turned pro and played in several United States tournaments.

"I think it will work out very well with my hockey," he said. "It certainly will keep me in shape the year round, and It'll stop me from gadding about Canada and the United States during the summer."

Ezinicki didn't disclose the terms which he had signed with the club's owner, William Kojola. Kojola, a 42-year-old business man, came from Finland 18 years ago.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Doug Bentley climbed back into the leadership of the National League scoring race last night when he picked up three points while his Chicago linemate Roy Conacher collected two. Bentley's one goal and two assists boosted his point-total to 58, and Conacher's pair of assists gave him 57.

The Leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.

Hamilton Tigers Even Series With Flying Dutchmen

(By The Canadian Press)

Don't sell the Hamilton Tigers short!

Last night the Bengals showed they're still in the playoff picture by defeating the potent Kitchener Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 3-2 in overtime play.

In three junior A games last night, lanky Harold Kewley snipped three goals and paced his Guelph Biltmores to a 11-4 victory over the league leading Windsor Spitfires. The win gave the Biltmores sole possession of sixth and last playoff spot in the league race.

The second place Barrie Flyers defeated the fourth place Stratford Kroehlers 4-2 and the third-place Oshawa Generals downed the lowly Toronto St. Michael's College Majors 6-5 in other junior games.

The Tigers clinched their game when Clare Shillington counted before the overtime session was three minutes old. The game, roughest seen in Hamilton in years, brought 19 penalties, including one to Hamilton coach George Redding.

Redding was banished from the bench in the third period for grabbing referee Percy Allen after had handed Polly Miocinovich his second penalty of the period.

Dick Behling and Art Hurst were first period scorers for Kitchener with Bobby Laurent counting one for the Bengals. Robinson got the other Hamilton goal.

At Guelph, Kewley got all his goals in the first as the Biltmores drove in a 5-1 lead. Guelph added two more in the second frame and four more in the third. Windsor got one in the second and two in the third.

Tommy Mouncey also got three goals for the Biltmores, while Lorne Ferguson got two and Bob Palmer, Don Bellringer and Lenny Speck notched one apiece. Glen Skov, brothers Bert and Bruce Giesebrecht and Doug McGinn tallied for the Spitfires.

At Barrie, the Flyers took a three goal lead in the first period, increased it to four in the second and Stratford drove back with two in the third.

At Oshawa, the Generals were paced by Dick Gamble who notched three goals. The Toronto squad put up a stiff battle and held a 5-4 edge at the end of the second period. Gamble tied the count early in the third period and Sullivan got the winning tally with two minutes left in the game.

Other Oshawa marksmen were Ron Stephen with two and Chapman with one. Bud Marshall scored twice for the Irish while Bob Decourcy, Bill McNamara and Don Rope tallied singletons.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma bawt me a pair of rubber sneekers on account of me prooving to her that they would make my reguler shoes last longer on account of me wearing them less. Taking me about 2 days arguing to prove it, and I was practicing walking around the house in them without making any sound, and ma was in her room reeding a book, and I sneeked up in back of her on my sneekers, saying, High, ma, how you been?

Goodness but you startled me, ma said. I forbid you to do that again, especially when I'm reeding a merder mistery, she said, and I said, Well jimminies, ma, all I did was ask you how you been?

Now dont make it werse with explinations, ma said. If you dont get rite out of this house I'll make you stay in she said.

The result being I started to go out, sneeking downstairs as quiet as a bergler, and pop was in the living room lying on the sofa with his eyes open, and I snuck around and sneeked in the other door so he couldn't see me, and I snuck up rite behind him, saying, Heads up, pop, there's a boy in the room.

Horse blanket to blazes, what kind of a trick is that? pop said. Now I'll never be able to drop off to sleep. Take those confounded gum shoes off and keep them off till ferther orders, he said, and I said, But G roozalem, pop, you always claim it makes you feel werse instead of better when you take a nap in the afternoon.

By gollies you've got a point there, pop said. Okay, I'll take a walk instead, and you'll take it with me, he said.

Which I did feeling lucky, on account of giving me a chance to keep sneeking in back of pop on my sneekers and walking on his other side, the result being he kept trying to talk to me on different sides of him when I really wasn't there.

SOPHIE TUCKER'S SCRAPBOOKS SPAN 40-YEAR CAREER

By PAUL PETT

What is there about it that wets the eyes of old-timers with nostalgia, hypnotizes the young and makes so many people starve at it or live out of a trunk rather than "go straight?"

A good place to go for the answers is the personal history amassed by Sophie Tucker — the more than 200 scrapbooks she has just turned over to the New York Public Library.

"The last of the red hot mamas" never threw anything away. Since 1907, she has been pasting up press notices, programs, ads, notes that came with flowers, opening night telegrams, and hundreds of other mementoes of a lifetime before the footlights.

Magnetic Star

1910-1911—Ashton Stevens, Chicago critic, wrote: "Miss Tucker is not as big as a steamer but she will compare favorably with a yawl, and every ounce of her is magnetism. How she can shout a coon song!"

1914—At long last—the Palace Theatre, mecca of all vaudeville acts. Minus blackface by this time and billed as "Mary Garden of Ragtime."

1918—Now performing with "Five Kings of Syncopation," she played many benefits for tobacco fund of First World War soldiers.

1922—First London performance, at Hippodrome. First-night diary note: "I was so nervous I nearly died." Another night. "Prince Henry (now the Duke of Gloucester), son of the King and Queen, was guest at cafe tonight. Very nice looking chap, but a very noisy bunch with him."

1927—Movies had moved up to top billing: "Milton Sills in 'The Silent Lover'—also Sophie Tucker and other acts on stage."... Visit with President Coolidge.

1932—Played Palace and Bill Robinson, Smith and Dale and Jack Whiting. Fire broke out backstage while Sophia was on. She tried to calm the crowds with jokes and songs. Later, Texas Guinan wired: "Pal, better change your billing, you're burning them up."

1948—London again, at age of 61, clipping said: "Smashing personal triumph...tremendous applause...for 15 minutes after her act she stood bowing, dabbing at her eyes...."

4TH SIDNEY

6th Sidney — Between 35 and 40 people enjoyed the W. A. pot-luck dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sine on Wednesday of last week.

A number of people in this community have been ill with the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe and Mr. and Mrs. C. Frost were supper guests on Thursday night of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Martyn, Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harrington of Frankford were Friday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sine were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Westlake of Batawa and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Westlake, Stockdale.

Mrs. J. A. Lott was a Saturday afternoon caller of Mrs. Wm. Moon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Frost and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Faul.

Tap-Ballett Turn Wows Broadway's Revue Audience

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York (CP)—Out of the antagonism between tap dancer Johnny Coy of Montreal and ballet-dancer Viola Essen was born a dance routine which stops the show nightly in the revue "Along Fifth Avenue."

When rehearsals started, he and Miss Essen didn't get along too well, Coy says. But as opening night approached they began to work together.

They built up a sketch, "Challenge," based on their own experience. Coy does some tap steps while Viola looks on scornfully. Then she goes into her routine and he watches in disdain. After several turns, their hostility breaks down and they do a dance together.

It has been getting the biggest hand in the show and caught the eye of the critics.

Howard Barnes of the Herald Tribune said Coy and Miss Essen were "first rate." The New York Sun wrote: "Johnny Coy and Miss Essen put taps against ballet steps most charmingly." The Morning Telegraph said: "Viola Essen and Johnny Coy in a battle between ballet and hoofing were the audience's delight.

Now Coy is full of praise for Miss Essen. "She is absolutely divine," he says. "Along Fifth Avenue" is Coy's first legitimate stage show on Broadway.

His mother, Mrs. G. Ogilvie of (2217 Marcil Avenue), Montreal, and his six sisters came to New York to see the opening.

Had His Struggles

Coy has run into upsets as well as boosts in the entertainment world. At 14 he came to New York. His first job was in a night club show with Joe E. Lewis. Later he was in a dance act in Chicago's swanky Palmer House.

After that Johnny found himself idle. He took a job as a "soda jerk" in Des Plains, Ill. When the Second World War started he enlisted in the Canadian Army, only to be discharged for disability after six months.

Coy came back to New York. Soon he was getting $35 a week touring in Massachusetts night clubs. He moved to New York's posh Copacabana club and stayed in a dance act for 26 weeks.

Mary Martin saw his show, and gave him a part in her musical "Dancing in the Streets." It folded in Boston in 1941 without reaching Broadway, but Coy got a contract with Paramount Pictures. He figured in "Bring on the Girls," "Duffy's Tavern" and "Ladies' man."

After almost seven years at the coast Coy decided to head east. Producer Arthur Lesser signed him for "Along Fifth Avenue." Now Coy hopes to stay in New York.

"In New York you have only one ambition: to keep pushing yourself ahead. You know if you fall down there's always someone waiting to take your place. My ambition is to get into television and into a book show—a play with a story to it."

Coy is married to Dorothy Babbs, a singing star in another big revue, "Lend an Ear." They have a 2-month-old daughter.

URGE HOUSING PLANS

Montreal (CP)—Women want more houses in Canada. A resolution urging the discussion of large scale housing schemes by Dominion, provincial and municipal governments was presented recently to Hon. R. H. Winters, minister of reconstruction by the Canadian Association of Women Voters.

Outdoor Life for Holidays Popular in New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)—While Canada is in the grip of winter, summer holidays are in full swing in the southern Dominions. The school vacation lasts from the week before Christmas until the end of January and most people take their annual holidays during this period.

Most New Zealanders go to the seaside as no part of the country is more than 100 miles from the sea. There are hundreds of little beach resorts on sheltered bays and inlets along the coast.

The accent at these resorts is on simplicity. Holidaying New Zealanders like to be as "uncivilized" as possible and few resorts have the piers, promenades, fun fairs and amusement parks which are typical of the English seaside. Even picture theatres, cabarets, seaside hotels and boarding houses, are infrequent.

Most people live in two or three-roomed cottages, known as baches, or camp out in tents or caravans. Baches are usually owned by the occupiers.

Clothing is reduced to essentials. A sun suit for women and a pair of shorts for men are the accepted wear for all occasions. Meals are prepared as a community effort, and are often eaten in picnic fashion out of doors.

Yachting Popular

There are many fine surf beaches in New Zealand and children, who learn to swim at an early age, soon become expert in handling a surfboard.

Many children while still at school acquires their first yacht—tiny sailing dinghies which can be capsized and righted by a one-man crew. They become expert in handling and racing these small craft.

At this time of the year many yacht races are held, including an annual ocean race across 1200 miles of stormy sea to Australia.

Horse racing and harness racing, known locally as trotting, reach their peak during the summers holidays. During the Christmas and New Year holiday alone this season $11,377,912 was wagered on totalisators and it is estimated that as much again was laid (illegally) with bookmakers. This amounts to over $12 for every man, woman and child in the country.

Thelonius Monk, Brooding Genius Of Pianist, Wows Be-bop Addicts

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York (AP)—The spark that ignited the be-bop school of jazz music is a lonely and rarely seen pianist who lives in the San Juan Hill section of New York —a Negro tenement neighborhood in which all the dime novel plots you ever saw about the joys and sorrows of jazz musicians are continually going on.

This pianist's name is Thelonious Sphere Monk. Not for one minute does he consider himself eccentric. But:

He wears a thin and scraggly goatee because he hates razors. He wears blue berets because he hates hats. He is partial to green knit neckties, and he wears gorgeous spectacles of gold and silver whose ear-hooks are half-inch wide.

Jazz historians and critics are pretty well agreed that Thelonious is the true originator of be-bop. This form of music is an offshoot of swing with twitching rhythms and unmelodic harmonies which began to make itself felt 10 years ago and has grown into a reconizable movement only in the last two years.

Monk says flatly that he is the originator of the school. Such be-bop greats as Dizzy Gillespie, Charlie Parker and others say they gathered at Monk's feet 10 years ago to "hear the new sounds" as he worked out the chords in after-hour sessions in Minton's Playhouse in West Harlem.

They found Monk a man with "great musical imagination," whose piano has been likened to the surrealism of Dali. In the little seven-by-eight-foot room where Monk broods and culls his mystical rhythms there is a photograph inscribed, "to Thelonious, my first and only inspiration—your boy Dizzy." Gillespie is a talented trumpeter whose band is billed "King of Be-bop."

Be-bop Defined

Technically, be-bop is characterized by the accenting of passing notes, especially flatted fifths and ninths. It is a dissonant and staccato spasm, played at breakneck pace. As boogie-woogie went back to Bach, be-bop must have some kind of kinship with Stravinsky, for nearly all be-boppers are Stravinsky fans.

Aside from occasional professional appearances and in record cutting sessions at blue note records, Thelonious is rarely seen. He was born in the same small shabby apartment on San Juan Hill where he lives today with his mother.

So peculiar in habit is this brooding musician he has been known to refuse jobs which were sorely needed, preferring to remain in the little room which some call the inner sanctum of be-bop.

This room is lighted by a single dim bulb. In addition to the scarred piano there is a single couch and a chair. Plastered to the ceiling is a photograph of Bill Holliday, Negro night club singer.

Though Thelonious at 30 is heavy with inspiration, he doesn't work much at commercializing his wares—a circumstance that makes his mother unhapy.

His behavior at the piano is similar to his life—he broods and composes for two days and nights without pause. He is as likely to eat four or five meals in a few hours and sleep for two days.

Quebec Entry in Dog Derby Talk of Town

Ottawa, Feb. 17 — (CP) — The talk of Ottawa today was about shy Wilf Lepine and his short-haired mongrel hounds as the international 90-mile dog derby entered its third, and final day.

Well-groomed figure-skaters from various parts of Canada arrived in town for the weekend Canadian championships, curlers from Ottawa and district held forth in rinks around town and carnival queen Norma Munro was on hand to help in official ceremonies, but the 31-year-old musher from Quebec City held the spotlight.

He has captured the imagination of citizens as no one else in the week-long sports fiesta.

He was a last-minute darkhorse because he had a tough time scraping up the $76 transportation costs from Montreal and his dogs, compared to the huskies of other mushers, looked like a bunch of street scrappers. To the onlooker, they're a mixture of collies, greyhounds and great danes.

And the dogs have shown that "something" since the race started Tuesday. They were just a few second off the time set by Big Bill Shearer of Norfolk, Mass., in the first 30-mile heat but in yesterday's heat, the "hounds" came through in championship form to take a six-minute-and-21-second elapsed-time lead.

Other drivers figure the Canadian's edge is too much to overtake in today's final 30-mile hike and he's the "people's choice" to win the $1,000 first-prize money.

As for Lepine, he's taking the plaudits of the populace in his stride. He just shrugs his shoulders and says he "hopes" to win.

Any money he takes home will be split with his 19-year-old partner, Victor Giguere, also of Quebec City. Victor has a half interest in the dogs which they figure have cost them about $2,000 in food alone the last four years.

"I split even with my partner Victor," Wilf said in halting English.

Wilf, who runs about 15 miles of each 30-mile heat to "help out the dogs," says he has $25 of any prize money spent. "I'm going to buy my wife, Therese, a dress—a red dress," he says.

Providence Reds Clinch Title East Division

(By The Canadian Press)

While four teams in the Western Division of the American Hockey League are battling for first position, Providence Reds last night mathematically clinched the Eastern Division championship by snowing under the lowly Washington Lions 12-4.

It is the second consecutive year in which the Providence club has won league honors. Last year, the Reds finished out in front with a 17-point margin over second-place New Haven. With five weeks still remaining this year, Providence has a 32-point lead over Hershey Bears. It is the biggest margin any team has held in league history.

In other games, Indianapolis Capitals defeated Cleveland Barons 6-3, Buffalo Bisons gained a 6-2 victory over St. Louis Flyers, and the Philadelphia Rockets upset Hershey Bears 6-3.

Bedard, who needs one more tally to win membership in the league's 100-goal club, paced the Reds attack with four markers. Fraser contributed three goals and four assists and Liscombe two goals and three assists. The three collected 17 points in all.

Come From Behind

Philadelphia came from behind three times to defeat Hershey, with Phil Hergesheimer leading the Rockets with three goals. It was Hergesheimer's 11th hat trick of his A.H.L. career. The three goals raised Hergesheimer's all-time league goal mark to 242.

Phil Maloney of Hershey also potted three oagls.

Indianapolis tightened their hold on first place in the Western -Division with their victory against Cleveland. Gordon Haidy fired three goals for the Caps. Al Dewsbury, Don Morrison and Nelson Podolsky notched the other Cap markers while Ken Schultz, Dan Sprout and Bob Carse tallied the Cleveland goals.

Buffalo's Joe Lund, a former St. Louis Flyer, turned the heat on his old teammates as the Bisons swamped St. Louis. Lund scored four times. Ab Demarco and Geo. Pargeter notched the other Buffalo tallies while Steve Black and Ernie Trigg accounted for the two Flyers scores.

The Bison triumph shuffled the Western Division standing, dropping the Flyers to fourth place. Pittsburgh went into a second-place tie with Cleveland.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Winnipeg, Feb. 16 — (CP)—Are the executive members of Winnipeg Blue Bombers asleep at the switch?

Some sports writers and radio announcers in these parts feel so and have minced no words about it lately. The latest blast comes from the typewriter of Gorde — (Winnipeg Tribune) Hunter, who accuses the football club of adopting a "distant attitude" toward local players.

Hunter says that although it's three months since the 1948 Bombers hung up their cleats, the club has made no move to stage any "windup" party, give out information on the coming season, or contact local talent.

Bye-bye Juniors

"How come?" asks Hunter. "Has the Bomber brain trust already forgotten about last year's exodus of the city's best junior talent?,

"Last year it was the Calgary Stampeders who were rebuilding and who turned their attention to Winnipeg talent, now we have the Edmonton club (which will enter the western Interprovincial League this year after a seven-year lapse) to contend with.

"One unconfirmed rumor, circulating around town, has the Edmonton club offering the junior backfield whizz, Paul Cholakis, $2,500 for the coming season.

Edmonton Alert

Hunter reports that the new Edmonton entry has "sent out feelers" to Norm Gelle, Ernie Williams, Ron Vaccher and Bruce Pirt and that Williams and Pirt already are said to be in Edmonton to talk turkey.

The Tribune writer quotes Vaccher as saying:

"'I'd like to play here but if they (the Bombers) don't show up soon, and I get a chance to better myself elsewhere I'll take it.'"

Hamilton Rink In Semi-Finals Of Royal York

Toronto, Feb. 17. (CP)—Ross Tarlton's Hamilton Thistle rink made the semi-finals of the Royal York trophy in the 22nd annual Ontario Bonspiel Wednesday night. But they scored a four-point extra end to do it.

The Thistles' quartet was drawn against A. J. Simon of Toronto High Park and the game was played very close to the ice, with Tarlton's boys coming through in the pinch. In the semi-final to be played here this afternoon, they meet Toronto Royals' Andy Grant and Co. Both Tarlton and Grant are previous Royal York and grand aggregate winners.

The other semi-final sees Wes Allen of Toronto High Park battling with C. F. Mason of Montreal, playing in place of W. Maynard of Toronto Granites.

The last two United States entries in Birks-Ellis-Ryrie trophy competition were eliminated last night, leaving two Toronto and two out-of-town rinks to fight it out for the second ranking prize.

Semi-finals in the two events are scheduled for the afternoon and finals are to take place this evening. Play continues in the remaining five consolation events during the day.

Says Syntona Is Best Medicine She Ever Used

Suffered Long Time With Stomach, Kidney Disorders. Had Backache, Headaches, Dizzy Spells. "Feel Like Different Person Now," She Says.

MRS. R. PITT

"After taking Syntona Herbal Compound only a short time, I do not hesitate to say it is the best medicine I ever used," said Mrs. R. Pitt, 318 King Street, East, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"For a long time I suffered with stomach and kidney disorders. I could hardly eat a meal without having gas, indigestion and sour acid risings afterwards. I would get heartburn, dizzy feelings and sick headaches. My kidneys disturbed my sleep often at night and I had a dull, aching pain across my back.

"I cannot tell you how pleased I am with the grand relief I got by taking Syntona. Although everything else I had tried had failed to help me, this medicine has given me the most wonderful relief from the symptoms I had.

"Am now able to enjoy my meals with no distress afterwards and I am free of headaches and dizziness. Also my kidneys do not disturb me as they did before, so I am getting sound, restful sleep and I have more strength and energy to do my work. I would gladly recommend Syntona to any one suffering as I did."

Build Hatchery For Large-Mouth Black Bass

Ottawa, Feb. 17 (CP)—Construction of a $500,000 fish hatchery at Westport, 27 miles from Smiths Falls, in the Rideau Lakes chain will start this summer Lands Minister Scott said last night.

The hatchery will concentrate on breeding large-mouth black bass a favorite species of game fish and one suited to life in the Rideau Lakes.

Mr. Scott said re-stocking of Ontario lakes and streams is of paramount importance to the tourist industry and construction of the West port project is only one of many moves in aid of the industry.

How To Hold
FALSE TEETH
More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. Negotiations In Transit Strike At Standstill

Philadelphia, Feb. 17. (AP)—Negotiations in Philadelphia's week-old transit strike were at a standstill today and the end of a city-wide walkout of taxi drivers was not yet in sight.

Millions of trolley, bus, subway and tax riders got to work again as best they could while police stood by to prevent a recurrence of yesterday's violence in which three motorists were beaten.

A conference between representatives of the Philadelphia Transportation company and the Transport Workers Union (C.I.O.) ended abruptly last night.

The P.T.C.'s 11,000 transit operators and maintenance workers went on strike last Friday after reducing their original demand for an increase of 25 cents an hour to 20 cents. They later pared this to 17 cents. The workers now average from $1.09 to $1.63 an hour.

The Yellow Cab company's 4,000 employees walked off their jobs Tuesday. Joined in the walkout by most of the city's independents, they are seeking 50 per cent of gross receipts or $1.20 an hour, rather than the present 45 per cent.

TRAFFIC HELD UP

Toronto, Feb. 17 — (CP) — A five-hour delay on the Canadian Pacific Railway Toronto-to-Sudbury line was caused early today when one empty box car of an extra freight train was derailed by a broken rail.

The accident, some 30 miles south of Parry Sound, held up traffic from 12.40 a.m. to 5.55 a.m.

PLAYBOY HELD

Sought for the past six months on gambling charges rising from a so-called "benefit charity party" in a swank New York apartment, William P. Buckner, Jr., (above), society playboy, is being held in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Arrested as he stepped from an airliner, he said he would not fight extradition. A number of wealthy guests were said to have lost large sums in the "charity" games. — Central Press Canadian.

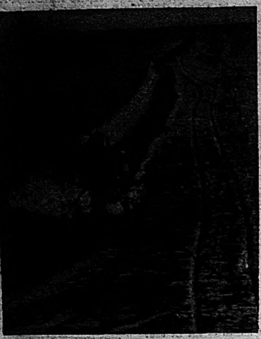
WOMAN MURDERED, HUSBAND WOUNDED IN HEAD

"DOZER" TO RESCUE OF RANCHERS



Undaunted by a deep freeze which followed a wind-borne snowstorm, an army bulldozer clears drifts from the highways a mile from Allen, S.D. Federal and state agencies are using tanks, weasels, snowplows and the "dozers" to open up transportation and rescue trapped ranchers caught by the new storms which have swept the U.S. west.—Central Press Canadian.

Royal Commission Adjourns Hearings Until March 14th

The Royal Commission inquiry investigating charges by Constable J. E. Keays of maladministration of justice, of perjury and obstruction on the part of provincial police officers and by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan was adjourned until March 14th following the morning session today.

It had been understood during the week that the hearing would be adjourned at noon on Friday but the date for the investigation to resume was not known until announced by Commissioner Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay at the end of the morning session.

The adjournment—until March 14—was made to permit Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay, the Royal Commissioner, to sit at the Toronto assizes.

More than 500,000 words of evidence have gone before the commission since its investigation began Feb. 7 into Constable Keays sweeping charges of fraud, perjury and maladministration of justice.

Questioned on Fingerprints

At that the hearing adjourned on a rather unsatisfactory note in that a witness who spent the entire morning on the stand will have to return for cross examination. Inspector R. W. "Tony" Wonnacott, head of the R.C.M.P. Identification Bureau, testified in connection with fingerprints relative to the suicide of Jean Badgley and for more than an hour was questioned by Constable Keays on fingerprint procedure.

Purpose of Constable Keays' lengthy questioning relative to the technical procedure in lifting prints, apparently was to the effect that "trick" fingerprints could be obtained and that it remained for the trustworthiness of the investigating officer to place the investigation properly before the courts.

Must Get Facts

Before questioning the inspector, Constable Keays said Commission Counsel C. P. Hope had issued a summons for Inspector Wonnacott as a witness only after the hearings started.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Feb. 18 (CP)— Synopsis: A surge of very mild air from the southwest is invading Ontario today. Temperatures have risen during the night in all regions. A disturbance centred in the Gulf of Mexico will move towards the lower lakes Saturday and bring rain to southern regions.

Constable Beaten About The Head With Stick

Toronto, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Constable Gordon Burgon of the Toronto police department was attacked by two men early today, beaten about the head with a stick and kicked.

The two assailants, described by police as powerfully-built "muscle men," continued the battle against four other officers who went to Burgon's rescue.

Arrested on a charge of wounding Burgon were Allan McDaniels, 28, and Frank Brancetti, 23.

Constable Burgon, treated in hospital for head and facial injuries, was returning home from work when the men attacked him.

He said the attack was unprovoked.

Armored Cars Used Against Workers

Rome, Feb. 18 — (AP)—Armored cars were used against 1,000 entrenched factory workers Thursday to break up the worst disorders in Italy in the last six months. The ministry of interior said 30 persons were wounded, some by gunfire, at Isola Liri, a town of 10,000 population 50 miles south of Rome. The workers had occupied a paper mill in an attempt to halt the dismissal of 50 employees.

ONTARIO WILL MEET ALL POWER NEEDS SOON

Ten Million Monthly Budget Is Laid Out

Toronto, Feb. 18 (CP)— Hon. G. H. Challies says Ontario soon will be able to meet all its electric power needs.

As vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the cabinet minister responsible for hydro, he told the Ontario legislature yesterday that the commission, working on a $10,000,000 monthly budget in 1949, is extending and improvising service throughout the province.

Speaking in Throne Speech debate, he said the new Des Joachims plant on the Ottawa River northwest of Pembroke will have a capacity of 480,000 horsepower ranking second only to the big Queenston plant. Four or five of the eight generating units there might be in service by the summer of 1950.

Other plants expected to be in full-time or part-time service next year are those at Thessalon 60 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, providing 56,500 horsepower, and on the Nipigon River in the Thunder Bay District, with an ultimate capacity of 160,000 horsepower.

Mr. Challes said wartime controls prevented the commission from going ahead with major developments between 1943 and 1945.

Mr. Challies told E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the C.C.F. opposition, that the Shipshaw power development in Quebec's Saguenay River valley required two years and seven months to complete, despite the "combined strength of Ottawa and Washington" in obtaining priorities. The first Shipshaw generator was completed in 1940 and the last in 1943.

$15,000 Fire Loss at Whitby

Whitby, Feb. 18 — (CP) —One of this town's main business blocks was threatened with destruction last night when fire from an overheated stove caused $15,000 damage to buildings and equipment.

The blaze started in a shed at the rear of the Whitby Home Appliance Store, which suffered an estimated $9,000 loss in stock and equipment.

One family, living in an upstairs suite, was forced to flee when smoke seeped into their apartment.

Toronto, Feb. 18 (CP)—Toronto's community chest received $2,143,000 in its subscription drive for 1949 funds, according to the financial report released last night. The amount was 93.2 per cent of the fund objective and 9.2 per cent more than the previous year.

Mardi Gras Pageant In New Orleans Wackiest Binge In North America

By KRIS KREEGER

New Orleans, Feb. 18 — (AP) —The lid comes off the Mardi Gras season this Sunday, letting loose the biggest program of public pageantry in the colorful history of this city's ancient prelenten carnival.

Just a week from next Tuesday is Mardi Gras, and if anybody acts sane around here by then, he must be crazy.

A New Orleans Mardi Gras is the wackiest binge in North America. New Year's Eve seems like a garden club meeting in comparison.

There'll be 10 days of delirious fun for everybody except the police. More street processions than ever before are scheduled. Except for next Monday, there'll be at least one every night or day through Mardi Gras itself, Shrove Tuesday, March 1.

About a hundred thousand people — there's no way to count them — will "mask for Mardi Gras."

There are no rules or limits to the masking, allowed from sunrise to sunset, except the legal requirements of decency.

Close to 500,000 people will try to crowd into a few blocks on Canal Street, the main business thoroughfare, and the lower reaches of intersecting St. Charles Street.

Theoretically they go there to hail Rex, King of Carnival and Lord of Misrule, but the celebrants spend some very pleasant hours before Rex's arrival, entertaining themselves and each other, getting rid of energy and inhibitions.

The day's highlight for the city's Negroes is the barbaric parade of the Zulus, who ride and march in paint and skins reminiscent of savage Africa. Band leader Louis Armstrong, a native of New Orleans, will be King of the Zulus this year.

Then comes Ash Wednesday, ushering in the quiet of Lent. By then New Orleans will be able to use all the quiet it can get.

Says Aggressive Immigration Needed to Maintain Canada's Standard of Living

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Two word-pictures of sweeping changes in the standard of living and population of Canada were given in Montreal this week, both at the annual conference of Canadian retailers.

Said Oswald W. Knauth, research economist of New York:

"Around the year 1910 you had in Canada less than 25,000 passenger automobiles; today you have more than 1,500,000.

"You had 300,0000 telephones; today wou have almost 2,000,000.

"On the other hand, the production of your crops was about the same then as it is today. Your railroad mileages has not increased.

"Our standard of living, in terms of articles and services to be enjoyed, depends on the effectiveness of our industrial system in producing them."

A paper prepared by Wallace Goforth, research economist of Toronto, comments that by the end of this year Canada's population will exceed 13,000,000 and by the end of 1951, the next census year, will be crowding close to 14,000,000.

Up to and including the 1941 census, Mr. Goforth said, it could not have been expected that this figure would have been reached before 1966.

"There are some of us who feel," continued Mr. Goforth, "That Canada now has reached a point in her affairs where an aggressive —but still selective— immigration policy, 'taken at the flood' will "lead on to fortune"; that our problems of railway freight rates, an adequate home market, or reasonably diminished dependence on external trade, and our capacity to exercise a self-reliant and healthy independence of policy, would soon shrink to manageable proportions."

White Plains, N.Y., Feb. 18 — (AP) — An unruffled 28-year-old Canadian who allegedly used society pages for tips on jewelry robberies was brought here today from Cleveland to face charges of looting wealthy Westchester county homes.

Gerard Graham Dennis, the dapper Canadian, had been hunted for two years.

These things came to light about him at once:

Police said he had $1,400 in cash and $18,000 worth of unset diamonds in his possession.

They reported also that he had in his wallet a list of 22 top movie stars and their secret addresses as a "list of prospects."

At a Beverly Hills, Calif., apartment which he gave as his home address, authorities found $100,000 worth of jewelry and furs valued at $20,000.

Police arrested a woman occupant who said she was Betty V. Ritchie, 24. Police identified her as a former Toronto school teacher. She was booked on suspicion of burglary.

Also taken into custody there was the occupant of an adjacent apartment, Julius Bruck, 24, a jeweler. He was booked on a suspicion of receiving stolen property.

Montreal authorities, describing him as one of the greatest burglars of all times, said he was wanted for $150,000 in thefts.

Kelly explained he had been hunting the Canadian since a New Rochelle man was wounded by an assailant Sept. 20, 1946.

The police said these names of movie stars were included on the list found in Dennis' pocket: Jack Benny, Betty Davis, Eddie Cantor, Edgar Bergen, Dorothy Lamour, Harold Lloyd, Mary Pickford, William Powell, Kay Francis and "Olivia de———" presumably Olivia de Haviland.

In Cleveland, where Dennis was arrested Wednesday, Police Lieut. Lawrence Denk explained how the alert eye of a salesman who is a fishing pal of Denk resulted in the arrest.

The salesman spotted Dennis' picture in a "Wanted for Burglary" bulletin in Denk's office, and exclaimed "I know that man", the police office said. Later the salesman chanced to see the Canadian outside a hotel, and phoned Denk to tell him that Dennis had said he was going to a jewelry store. The Canadian was nabbed at the store by police.

Clinton Anderson, Beverly Hills police chief, said the jewelry in the apartment was in a trunk in a closet with a reinforced door.

Compartments in the trunk were filled with diamonds, rubies, pearls and loose gold, silver and platinum, and $1,000 in cash, Anderson said.

Rome, Feb. 18. (Reuters)—Dr. Enrico Insabato, 70-year-old Italian journalist, has outlined a plan for a Mediterranean defence bloc stretching "from Spain to the Persian Gulf".

Dr. Insabato, president of a "Mediterranean Centre" established to form a group complementary to the proposed Atlantic Pact, said last night "the very fact that our movement has aroused such bitter opposition from Soviet Russia shows its necessity".

The organization, now comprising an honorary committee including Italian ministers, would form an executive committee in the next three weeks to organize its first Mediterranean Conference in Rome next September or October, he added.

Unofficial representatives from all countries with "Mediterranean civilizations" will be invited. These include Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania, the Ukraine, Israel, Greece, Turkey, Syria, the Lebanon, France, Spain, Egypt, and North Africa.

Dr. Insabato was secretary of the Italian Peasant Party from 1922 to 1924 and was at one time a member of the Italian Fascist Party but claims he was never active.

Centres also are being formed in Spain, Egypt, Turkey, and Greece, Dr. Insabato said.

Countries such as France and Italy would be able to belong to both the Atlantic Pact and the Mediterranean Bloc.

The Centre also aims to bring closer the three great Mediterranean religions —Christianity, Judaism and Islam.

St. Peter's Square Demonstration Will be Broadcast

Vatican City, Feb. 18 (AP) A mass demonstration of Roman Catholics in St. Peter's Square Sunday against the treason trial of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary will be broadcast over Vatican radio and the Italian National radio network.

Vatican short wave stations at 31.06 and 50.26 metres will start transmitting descriptions of the rally — expected to be one of the largest of recent years — at 11:15 a. m. (5:15 a. m. EST).

It has been announced that the pope will impart the blessing "Urbi Et Orbi" — to the city and the world — and Vatican sources have said he will also address the throng.

SIX-YEAR-OLD HERO

St. Thomas, Feb. 18. (CP)— Six-year-old Johnny Paddon is this city's hero today. Johnny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Paddon, saved the life of schoolmate Bobby Dennis Wednesday by pulling him out of the path of a locomotive. The two chums were on their way to school and were on the tracks at a crossing when a locomotive bore down on them.

GOV.-GENERAL TO GIVE ROYAL ASSENT TO UNION

Commons Gives Third, Final Reading to Bill

Ottawa, Feb. 18 (CP)— Parliament, its legislative task of creating a new and greater confederation completed, today will see Royal assent given to the historic bills to bring Newfoundland into the Canadian family of provinces.

Yesterday the Commons gave third and final reading to the Newfoundland "omnibus" bill, which will bring Canadian laws into force in the new, 10th province after the formal joining of the countries takes place March 31.

"The Senate approved the terms of union and the "address" which asks the King to have the United Kingdom parliament endorse union by amending the British North America Act. Both already have passed the Commons.

The "omnibus" bill still has to be approved by the Senate, but its passage is expected to be swift.

The Governor-General will then go to the Senate Chambers and give the three measures Royal assent.

As the bills went through the Upper Chamber, Senator Wishart Robertson, governor leader, expressed belief Newfoundland was making a wise decision while Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, urged anti-Confederate Newfoundlanders to take their place in the Confederation.

Man and Wife Killed at Windsor Street Crossing

Windsor, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Harvey J. Dishman, 51, and his wife, Mary, were killed today when struck by an automobile while crossing a midtown street. The deaths of the two Windsor persons bring the total of traffic fatalities here this year to seven.

Driver of the vehicle, Reginald Herbert Morrison of Windsor, was taken into custody by police but released on his own recignizance to appear in magistrate's court today. Police said both bodies were mangled and the car damaged due to the blow.

JEWELER CALLS OFF FEUD

Pembroke, Feb. 18 — (CP) — A purchase-tax feud between a Pembroke jeweler and the government fizzled out Thursday night. George J. Simpson said he has decided not to appeal court convictions on 10 counts of refusing to collect or pay the 25-per-cent luxury tax on retail sales. Simpson has been sentenced to pay fines totalling $2,177 plus $100 court costs. He also had to pay the government approximately $2,000 in tax assessments.

Terrific Struggle Preceded Tragedy In Windsor Home

Body of Pauline Stancek Found in Burning House

Windsor, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Mrs. Pauline Stancek, 56-year-old mother of three grown children, was murdered in her East Side home at about 10 a.m. today and her husband, Michael John, 63, is in critical condition at hospital with what police say was a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head.

Mrs. Stancek's body was found by a neighbor in the kitchen of her home after smoke was noticed pouring from the house.

Fires had been set in three closets, one downstairs and two on the second floor of the small dwelling.

Mrs. Stancek was found in a pool of blood which led from the basement, where there were indications that a terrific struggle had occurred. Her face and head were cut in numerous places. Found on the scene were a bloodstained butcher knife, axe and hammer.

Bullet Wound in Head

Michael Stancek, the husband, was found in a field across the street with a bullet wound in his right temple. Several witnesses said they heard two shots. Police found a 25 calibre automatic revolver in the right pocket of his coat.

In the operating room he talked incoherently of a fight, but hospital officials failed to catch any details.

Stancek's condition is "not very good," according to hospital authorities.

Doors Locked

There were indications that Stancek had been in a struggle. The doors and windows of the house were locked when neighbors were attracted to the scene by smoke. The person who telephoned firemen and police was forced to smash a window to gain entry to the house.

Despite the multiple cuts on her head, which was almost unrecognizable, it is believed Mrs. Stancek managed to crawl from the basement to the kitchen.

The basement floor, furnace and stairs leading to the kitchen were like a shambles.

A son, Julius Stancek, 25, told a Catholic priest that family squabbles had been going on "for years."

"We went down to the police station about a year ago to get them to do something about him but they said they couldn't."

Sons Angered

"I'll kill him," was all Julius muttered after he was led from the home. A brother, Victor, uttered the same threat when he was told what had happened.

Julius described his mother as "an angel" who never missed a communion on Sunday.

Neighbors said the brothers worked to pay for the house in which they lived. The father worked intermittently as a laborer.

Life In Hungary Defies Description Says U.S. Minister Chapin at Paris

Paris, Feb. 18 — (AP)—Selden Chapin, United States minister to Hungary, said today life in that country "is beyond imagination and defies description."

En route home to report to the United States government on the case of Cardinal Mindszenty, Chapin told reporters last night the arrest of Roman Catholics in Hungary is continuing. He gave no details. The Hungarian government has asked Chapin's recall.

"I can say — and you may quote me on this — that unless a person has actually lived in Hungary or any of the curtain countries and learned from personal observation the facts of life, he or she cannot possibly conceive what life is like."

Regarding the trial and life sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty on treason charges, the United States minister said: "You have all seen President Truman's full endorsement of (State) Secretary Acheson's statement. I consider that the secretary's characterization of the trial was stated in measured and restrained terms."

(Acheson in a statement in Washington Feb. 9 said Hungary's wanton persecution of the cardinal had "sickened and horrified" the free world)

As to the "so-called Hungarian government's" various charges against him in the case, Chapin said these were "deliberate and fabricated lies, beneath contempt."

The government charged that Chapin encouraged the cardinal in opposing the government.

Canada Retains Slim Hope By Defeating Austria

Stockholm, Feb. 18 (CP)—Canada today handed Austria an 8-2 defeat in the world amateur hockey tournament to hold on to their slim hope of retaining the world title they gained last year.

Sudbury Wolves, the Canadian entry in the tournament, outscored Austria in all three periods. In the preliminary stage of the tournament, the Canadians trounced Austria 7-0.

Canada rang up a three goal lead in the first period and then added another three in the second. Austria retaliated with single tallies in the second and third while the Canadians garnered their last two points in the last frame.

The victory left Canada with two wins, one tie and a loss so far in the round-robin final portion of the championship play. Czechoslovakia defeated Canada 3-2 on the first day of the finals and Sweden held the Canadians to a two-two draw in the second game. Last night Canada outclassed the United States 7-2.

Czechoslovakia and Sweden still are unbeaten in the play and rule as co-favorites. United States and Austria now are out of the running.

Peron Will Not Take Wife Out Of Public Life

New York, Feb. 18 (CP)— The New York Times says today in a Buenos Aires dispatch that diplomats there are "convinced that the army within the last week has increased its pressure upon President Juan Peron to get his wife out of public life."

Peron's answer to the army appears so far to have been "no," the dispatch said. He was understood to have threatened to resign if the army continued in its determination to force Senor Peron into the background.

"Since the military apparently has no appetite for a group," the dispatch added, "the situation has reached a deadlock with each side trying to stare the other down."

Buenos Aires has been without newspapers for several days due to a strike, and rumors have been frequent throughout the city, including many regarding Peron.

City and District News

MINOR TRAFFIC CASES HEARD

Minor traffic cases and the usual number of inebriates took up the time in magistrates' court this morning. Magistrate T. Y. Wills assessed the usual "ten and costs" on the bleary-eyed gentry. Three, however, decided to take advantage of the county's hospitality and will spend the next few days "on the hill."

STOLEN TRUCK SOON RECOVERED

Trenton police reported yesterday afternoon that a woman had stolen a truck belonging to a Trenton firm. The truck was later recovered near the Riley Pavilion.

Residents of Grier Street reported to police yesterday that window peepers were in action in that section of the city. Police investigation resulted in two young boys being hailed to the police station today to interview Chief Probert.

TABLE MODEL RADIO TAKEN FROM HOME

A thief or thieves broke into the residence of Donlad Archer, 84 Station Street yesterday and got away with a table model radio valued at $40. Entrance was effected by forcing a transom window. Archer reported that an electric iron had been taken from his house a few days previously. Police are investigating.

"BUZZERS" DEFEAT A. AND P. 7-0

Bell Telephone "Buzzers" defeated the A and P Redmen 7-0 in a Mercantile League game last night. Lyall led the Buzzers' scoring parade with two goals and two assists. Rollins and Carey also scored a pair while Green got the extra goal. Arnold Ross in the Buzzer nets played an outstanding game in keeping the grocer team scoreless.

Mock Trial Feature of Y's Men's Meeting

At the regular Thursday evening meeting of the Y's Men's Club a mock trial provided the evening's feature. The charges of conduct unbecoming to a Y's Man, against the accused Bud Trill, Archie Boyd and Robbie Clarke, was laid following a tie cutting episode which took place at the meeting for one week ago. At that meeting it was alleged that Archie Boyd did wilfully cut the tie of Robbie Clarke, who in turn cut the tie of Bud Trill and then the tie of Archie Boyd.

The president levied a fine of 25c each for this behavior not becoming to a Y's Man which the three accused refused to pay. Dr. Williams provided bail of 75c for the accused and the president appointed a court as follows to hear the case at the next meeting, Judge, Frank Nichols; Clerk of the Court, Austin Watkin; Crown Attorney, Jerry Hyde; Assistant Crown Attorney, Doug. Eaton. The defendants retained Don Amos and Ralph Black as co-defence counsel.

During the course of the trial the Crown Attorney called upon the following creditable eyewitnesses to give their account of the happenings, Joe Shortt, Ralph Bailey and Vern Weir. In brilliant fashion the Crown drew from them the firm statements that the accused were guilty as charged. In rebuttal the defence called Ross Booth, Bill Hutchison and Mac Dowsett to the stand to back up the accused but in each case the evidence offered was quickly overcome by brilliant cross examination on the part of the two crown counsel.

In judgment Judge Nichols convicted Bud Trill and Robbie Clarke, acquitted Archie Boyd and fined Ross Booth for perjuring of his evidence. All club members agreed a most interesting evening's entertainment had been provided and as a result of the fines levied by the court, Dr. Williams got his 75c returned.

During the meeting the club members reported on the progress of disposal of tickets for "Talent on Parade" to be held under the sponsorship of the club in the Collegiate Institute auditorium.

Indications point to a sell-out crowd being in attendance although a few tickets are still available from club members.

TAX COFFERS FULL

Edmonton — (CP) — Tax collections in Edmonton hit an all-time high last year of $5,319,250 compared with $4,881,003 collected in 1947.

R. L. COULSON
(Thomasburg)

The following obituary, which appeared in a recent issue of the Brownville, N.Y., newspaper, will be of interest to many residents in the Thomasburg district, as the deceased's parents lived at one time in that vicinity and an aunt, Mrs. Wesley Ray, now resides at Springbrook:

Raymond L. Coulson, 34, son of J. Earl Coulson, now of Snowden, Sask., and former resident of Watertown, died suddenly at his home in Descanso, Calif., near San Diego, on Sunday, according to word received by his aunt, Mrs. Calvin (Mary Hawley) Thomson, Brownville.

Mr. Coulson was born in the House of the Good Samaritan, Watertown, June 18, 1914, son of J. Earl and Jennie Hawley Coulson. His father was press foreman at the Taggart Brothers paper mill here at the time.

The family left Watertown when he was about three years old, moving to Middletown, O., where the father was foreman in a paper mill. Raymond's mother died there in January, 1919. Subsequently, the family moved to Canada.

A former sergeant in the First Marine Division, Mr. Coulson was captured in World War II by the Japanese on Wake Island in December, 1941. Although badly wounded he was taken to Shanghai, China, in the hull of a ship, many of his fellow prisoners dying of suffocation and wounds before reaching their destination. He was a prisoner of war for nearly four years, the last 16 months of that period in military prison at Peiping, China, having been sent there to serve a term of from eight years to life for his second attempt at escape.

When released by an American Airborne Division, only he and one other prisoner were able to walk out, the others had to be carried. Finally, he was flown to San Diego, Calif.

Mr. Coulson developed tuberculosis among other ailments, but appeared to be recovering from the disease. He was up and around his home when he was suddenly stricken with a lung hemorrhage and died within a few minutes.

Surviving him, besides his wife, Mrs. Doris Coulson and his father of Snowden, Sask., are two small daughters, Doris and Elizabeth; a brother, Allen E. Coulson, Lakeside, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. E. G. (Pauline) Coombs, Victoria, B.C.

Mr. Coulson spent several months in a Veterans' hospital in Massachusetts, his wife's former home, later returning to California, where he purchased a home. On his return trip, he stopped at Brownville to visit his aunt, Mrs. Thomson.

MISS ANNIE MABEL FOSTER
(Bloomfield)

Miss Annie Mabel Foster, Bloomfield, died in the Belleville General Hospital Friday morning. She was widely known and highly regarded as a Reg. Nurse and she served overseas as a Nursing Sister during the First Great War.

Miss Foster, who was in her 57th. year, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Foster of Bloomfield.

Anteroom of Officers' Mess At Armouries Gutted by Fire, Caretaker's Dog Gives Alarm

Fire of as yet undetermined origin gutted the ante-room of the officers' mess and caused heavy smoke damage to the mess proper in the Bridge Street Armouries yesterday afternoon.

Nothing but charred remains of furniture and fittings remained after prompt action on the part of the Belleville Fire Department prevented the blaze from spreading to the rest of the building. The fact that doors separating the ante-room and the mess proper were closed prevented the flames from destroying the latter.

"Tip," a small dog owned by Caretaker George Lancaster of the Armouries gave the alarm to his master and to Mess Steward Bob White who were in another part of the building.

Hearing strange noises the dog ran out and started to bark furiously. What attracted his attention was glass of the transom above the mess door breaking from extreme heat.

Lancaster and White rushed out to ascertain the cause of the trouble and discovered the fire. The mess door was locked. They broke it down and seized fire extinguishers while the alarm was rushed to the fire department.

The fire had made rapid headway in the room housing the bar when the department arrived. Volumes of smoke and heat rolled into the mess proper. A valuable rug in the mess is seriously damaged.

The fire was promptly extinguished before it got the chance to spread, but water and smoke damage will increase the amount of the loss. Water seeped through floors to rooms below where further damage will likely be heavy.

The mess had been recently renovated. Damage was roughly estimated at $2,000.

188 Applications for Restocking District Waters Were Filled In 1948

One hundred and eighty-eight applications were made and filled for restocking lakes and streams last year Dr. Van Blakslee told a large gathering at a regular meeting of the Belleville District Anglers and Hunters held at Kiwanis Centre on Thursday night. There will be meetings on March 10th and April 12th before the boys get their lines oiled for the trout season.

In giving his report the restocking chairman stated the association had come a long way from the time that the club was started. In the first year of operation about a dozen asked for restocking but now the work has progressed so far it is necessary to give considerable time to this phase of the work. Twenty-nine applications were made for bass, 12 for 'lunge, 16 for pickerel, seven for brown trout, four for herring, 31 for lake trout and 87 for the speckled beauties. The speaker showed that many streams in this district, which were devoid of speckled trout for years, now have good fishing. He expressed his thanks to members in the outside areas for help given in placing the fry and fingerlings also to the game wardens and the department in Toronto, which has always been very co-operative.

Discussion Period

At the conclusion of his talk a discussion period was opened, W. A. Davern, Wellington, suggested that instead of fry and fingerlings being placed would it not be better to transfer the parent fish just at spawning time. Ald. "Sandy" Lummiss thought the province was paying a big price to get American dollars. "The time is coming," he said, "when the youths now growing up will not be able to catch any fish because there will be none to catch. Another member thought more supervision should be given at Consecon and Roblin Lake and that restocking should take place on a large scale in these two waters.

Inspector W. A. Page brought up the question of dip netting for smelt and Game Warden Fred MacDonald stated that dip nets could be used by any person to secure a feed of smelts but that a licence must be secured if the smelts are to be used for commercial purposes. He also stated that the Bay of Quinte is polluted with smelt and that is probably the reason bass fishing in these waters had not been so good.

Hold Fishing Contests

Bruce Smith, chairman of the program committee, stated his committee wished to please all members and any suggestions would be cheerfully received. He also said fishing contests would be held on the Bay of Quinte this year and in this manner hoped to keep up the enthusiasm of the members. George Whitman announced that a casting competition would be held on two or three nights at the armouries before the trout season opened and if possible instructors would be on hand.

The fishing competition for this season was explained by W. Adams. Information was furnished on the Sportsmen's Show to be held in Toronto and a plea was made for mounted fish with which to decorate the booth to be conducted by the city of Belleville and county of Hastings.

Fred McDonald, game overseer for this district, told of the pickerel taken as he termed illegally, during the spring run. He made a plea for assistance at Trenton, Belleville, Shannonville and Napanee during the spawning season. Mr. MacDonald stated the run on the Shannonville River last year was the greatest in records and literally hundreds of tons of spawning pickerel were taken from the waters.

Joe E. Shortt reported on the annual meeting held in Toronto and also on the zone meeting held at Kingston. Before the meeting was adjourned two films were shown, one of the bird life of the province and the other on the scientific methods taken to make the cod fishing better.

Rev. N. Burke Gives Entertaining Talk at Party

Thursday evening, the parishioners of St. Thomas' Church assembled in large numbers at the Parish House, the occasion being a parochial party and the event was highly successful and most enjoyable. The first part of the proceedings took place in the upper assembly room and the guest speaker, the Rev. Northcote Burke, formerly of Ottawa, and now rector of Christ Church, Deer Park, Toronto, was introduced by the rector, Archdeacon the Ven. Arthur Smith.

The subject of Mr. Burke's address was, "A Parson Looks at a Mule" and from beginning to end he kept the large audience in a state of merriment. He possesses great ability as a story teller and is endowed with rare wit, the combination of which resulted in delightful entertainment. The appreciation of the audience was expressed to Mr. Burke by Archdeacon Smith.

Letter of Congratulation

During this part of the program Mr. P. W. Geen suggested that a letter of congratulation be sent from the congregation of St. Thomas to His Grace, the Most Rev. John Lyons, a former vicar of the parish, upon his elevation to the high and honorable office of Archbishop of the Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario. The suggestion was gladly adopted and will be put into effect. Two enjoyable trumpet selections were rendered by Mr. Bruce Parsons, with piano accompaniment by Mr. Kay Martin.

Mrs. Gemmell-Shaw, the oldest parishioner of St. Thomas', in the point of age and membership, was present and was welcomed by the rector in a few appreciative remarks. The audience voiced its welcome by standing and applauding Mrs. Gemmell-Shaw and singing, "For She is a Jolly Good Fellow". Mrs. Gemmell-Shaw, who has reached the age of 92 years, expressed her appreciation in a few nicely worded and witty remarks.

Bridge, Games Enjoyed

At the close of the program an adjournment was made to the lower hall where delicious refreshments were served by members of the Parochial Guild. Bridge and other games were played and excellent music was furnished by an orchestra for dancing in the upper assembly room.

SOME WOLF!

St. Hilaire, Que. — (CP) — A six-foot wolf with four cubs was sighted near here. At least that's what a 15-man hunting party claims. They were after the marauder following farmer's complaints about sheep losses.

Given Year, Strap For Attack On Toronto Waitress

Toronto, Feb. 18—(CP)—Lloyd Whitwell, convicted of assault on a cocktail bar waitress, today was sentenced to one year in jail and 10 strikes of the strap.

"This was a vicious, unprovoked, sexual attack," said the magistrate. "I would like to commend Miss Mills for her courageous resistance."

Evidence showed that Lillian Mills was on her way home late in the morning when she was attacked by Whitwell. During the scuffle she received a severely-injured eye and other bodily injuries, but she defended herself with a hatpin. Whitwell was cut on the nose and chin and fled, but police found him in the vicinity soon afterwards.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Bogota, Colombia, Feb. 18 — (AP) — A small fire was discovered aboard the plane of Col. Robert M. McCormick while it was crossing the Andes en route to Colombia today. The publisher of the Chicaggo Tribune said on landing that it was quickly extinguished and did little damage. He is touring South America.

IN MEMORIAM

GOULD—In loving memory of a dear brother William Gould, who passed away, Feb. 18, 1947.

Two years ago our dear brother was called,
To his eternal rest;
Gone where the angels sing so sweet
And taken when God knew best.
We miss him here so very much,
His presence oft seems nigh,
But we all hope in heaven to meet,
Where no one says good-by.

Sadly missed by sister Mae and family. F18

MURRAY—In loving memory of my dear father John Murray, who passed away Feb. 18th., 1947.

No one knows how much I miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain,
I have suffered since I lost you,
Life has never been the same.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear daddy,
That I do not think of you.

Ever remembered by his daughter Marguerite and son-in-law Ernest. F18

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Prices slipped downhill from yesterday's moderate gains here today. Industrials tended fractionally lower to lose almost all of yesterday's advances. Base metals and western oils were quietly easier and golds moved narrowly on a steady note.

Volume for the first three hours at 546,000 shares, was about 8,000 shares more than yesterday's similar period.

Senior golds were quiet while juniors showed losses ranging to five cents. New Jason, a feature of recent markets, dipped two cents under pressure of profit-taking.

Torbrit Silver spotlighted a quiet base metals group, adding two cents in brisk action for a gain of 14 cents in two days.

PRODUCE MARKET

Receipts were light on the egg market. Demand is good and prices are unchanged. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free, Grade A large 42-43; grade A medium 41-42; grade A pullet 39-40; grade B 39-40; grade C 33-34. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 46-47; grade A medium 45; Grade A pullet 42-43; grade B 42-43; grade C 37.

Butter solids are unchanged. First grade 68; second grade 67.

Private Agencies Organize to Aid Released Convicts

Ottawa, Feb. 18 (CP)—Private agencies are co-operating with federal penal authorities in establishing a complete and efficient organization to help released convicts, it is disclosed in the annual report of the penitentiaries commissioner.

"It has been truly said," writes Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, commissioner, in his 1947-48 report, "that for most prisoners the real punishment begins when the individual is released from the institution. . . ."

The report, tabled yesterday in the Commons, paid tribute to the work of private agencies, notably the Canadian Penal Association" which has undertaken establishment of local prisoners' aid committees in all parts of the country. Most of the associations are known as "John Howard Societies", named after a great penal reformer of the 18th century. The Salvation Army was also lauded for similar work.

The report dealt with all phases of the treatment of the 3,851 prisoners of Canada's seven federal penitentiaries.

The federal government had established grants to aid societies undertaking rehabilitation of prisoners and was co-operating with them wherever possible. Prisoners were urged on discharge to visit the local offices of these societies.

Duplessis Accuses Immigrants Of Spreading Soviet Propaganda

Quebec, Feb. 18 (CP)— Premier Duplessis said last night he had drawn the federal government's attention to a "well-prepared, hypocritical campaign" to bring pro-Soviet immigrants to the United States, Canada and to Quebec.

"I am not accusing anybody," said the Premier, "but I definitely am drawing attention of a known fact which anyone can see for himself by use of a little observation.

He said he had observed the activities of pro-Soviet propagandists in his own hotel in Quebec City and added:

He blamed faulty selection for the situation and suggested that some immigrants possibly were unwilling spokesmen of subversive ideas.

The Premier said some of the Europeans brought to Canada had been "displaced, disoriented and disorganized" by war and evidently had been influenced by their surroundings in Europe.

But he said he did not understand why the federal government permitted "militant Communists to move about freely."

"These people can even go to Moscow to get their instructions and complete and perfect their Communist propaganda courses, and then return here to continue their nefarious work."

Rene Chaloult (Nat.-Quebec) said Canadian immigration policies are partly "racist," designed to upset the Canadian population balance, and "not sufficiently selective."

He said French, Belgian and Italian imigrants, carefully selected, should be encouraged to come to Canada and he proposed "moral as well as medical examinations" for prospective immigrants.

Chaloult suggested that the department appoint agents in Paris as well as Haiti, Mexico and Havana.

He said a Quebec agent in Paris might keep an eye on immigration from France to Canada which was supposed to be on the same basis as immigration from England.

ROYAL

The constable said the inspector's evidence might reflect on his credibility and in defence he might have to bring in the names of people not directly concerned with the inquiry.

"If that happens it will be unfortunate, but the commission is determined to get the facts," Mr. Justice Mackay said.

Mr. Hope asked the inspector about fingerprints in connection with the suicide of Jean Badgley in 1947. The prints were found on a rifle near the girl's body by Const. Keays who believed she had been murdered.

Prints Received

The constable sent him the fingerprints of Jean Badgely and those of a "suspect, Harold Hagerman," Inspector Wonnacott said.

He also sent a print "lifted" from the gun but it was unsuitable for identification.

Later the Inspector said, Const. Keays came to Ottawa and was told nothing further could be done.

Inspector Wonnacott said the R.C.M.P. preferred prints from the original article, or a photograph rather than a print "lifted" on a rubber impression.

He said they used "lifted" prints only as a last resort.

Under questioning by Constable Keays, the inspector said lifted fingerprints had been used in court work by the R.C.M.P.

For more than an hour, the constable questioned Inspector Wonnacott about technical fingerprint operations.

Then Constable Keays asked for the Inspector's opinion of him.

"I'm overly cautious because I'm dealing with you," the Inspector said. "You're known as a smart investigator, I believe it ...by some of the inferences you've made this morning...."

He said Constable Keays had been "trustworthy" in all his dealings with him.

Constable Keays claimed it would be possible for a police officer to "frame" a suspect with fingerprints and that the Bureau of Identification was forced to rely on the trustworthiness of police officers taking the prints.

George Smith, Navan farmer, expected to give testimony clearing up certain matters pertaining to the Dent-Miki inquest in 1940, was not called during the morning and will have to return as witness when the investigation resumes next month.

In apparent direct contradiction of the evidence given by Judge C. W. A. Marion last week, Inspector T. W. Cousans, chief police officer in No. 9 district of the O. P. P., on Thursday afternoon told the Royal Commission that George Smith, Navan farmer, testified at the Dent-Miki inquest in 1940.

Judge Marion, then crown attorney for the joint counties of Prescott and Russell, told the court that he had never heard of George Smith until he had met him in Belleville last week.

The two men gave evidence at the Royal Commission hearing investigating charges by Constable J. E. Keays of maladministration of justice, perjury and obstruction on the part of senior provincial police officers and Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan.

Keays in his charges against Sgt. J. A. Stringer of Ottawa, who shot and killed John Miki, transient, in a gun fight in 1940, stated the George Smith was a material witness of the shooting but had not been called at the inquest. He charged Smith's evidence had been suppressed.

Smith was expected to testify today before Commissioner Mr. Justice Mackay and tell the court whether he had testified at the Miki inquest. Yesterday Keays told the court Smith had testified at the Dent inquest but not at the Miki inquest.

"I admit that I am certainly baffled by this," stated Constable Keays as he cross-examined Inspector Cousans. Keays referred to the evidence of Judge Marion who had stated in the witness box he had never heard of Smith.

"Then was Judge Marion correct when he made that statement?" asked Keays.

"I am not giving Judge Marion's evidence," was Inspector Cousan's reply.

"You have not answered my question" pressed Keays.

"No, he was not", answered Inspector Cousans.

Memorandum

Substantiating Inspector Cousan's statement regarding Smith's giving testimony at the Dent inquest was a memorandum to this effect from the inspector to the police commissioner.

Keays in his testimony quoted George Smith as saying that only one shot had been fired by Sgt. Stringer when he killed John Miki in the gun duel. He charged Sgt. Stringer with making out a false report by stating there had been an "exchange of shots."

Question Over Fatal Shot

Keays referred to the shot which had killed Miki and asked how it was possible for a bullet fired from 30 feet to pass horizontally through the head from one side to the other when Miki was standing on a log facing Sgt. Stringer's gun.

"That is impossible, I could not explain," returned Inspector Cousans.

Sgt. Stringer had testified Wednesday that he had shot Miki when the latter had turned toward him and aimed his revolver.

Keays referred to the fact that only one chamber had been soiled in Sgt. Stringer's gun and asked that an empty .38 revolver be given the witness to demonstrate Sgt. Stringer's explanation that he had reloaded after each shot.

He asked if it was likely that Sgt. Stringer under the circumstances would reload after each shot.

The witness stated he did not know, neither could be recall if Keays had testified at the Dent inquest.

Keays submitted the gun taken from the body of Miki had not been properly identified at the Miki inquest and claimed he was the only one who could have properly identified the gun. Keays said he had not given testimony at the inquest and stated he had taken the gun from Miki's body.

"There were three or four officers who could have properly identified Miki's gun." said the witness.

At Liberty to Testify

Referring to the right of an investigating officer to give evidence at an inquest Keays asked the witness if he was satisfied that Keays in presenting the facts was only trying to uphold his oath as a police officer.

The Inspector replied he had not issued instruction regarding Keays giving evidence at the inquest. He said Keays had been at liberty to testify.

On question by Keays, Inspector Cousans replied that in the eight years which Keays had been under his command the Dent-Miki inquest was the only occasion that an officer starting an investigation had not been called to testify.

Under cross-examination by Malcolm Robb the Inspector said he always relied upon the judgment of the Crown Attorney as to what officers should give evidence.

Report of Inquest Produced

Mr. Robb produced a report of the Dent inquest made out by Keays which indicated George Smith had testified at the hearing. The Inspector stated Keays had not later said Smith had not appeared at the inquest.

Reference was made to Miki having been standing on a log when he was killed and on suggestion by Mr. Robb the witness agreed Miki would have to be crouching to maintain his balance.

On re-examination by Keays, Inspector Cousans stated George Smith had testified at the Dent inquest on June 26th, 1940, but had not given evidence at the Miki inquest on July 9th.

During cross-examination by Robb reference was made to a certain revolver which it was stated Keays had brought to Belleville from Rockland in 1944.

Inspector Cousans said he was not satisfied with Keays' explanation as to how the gun came into his possession.

Under re-examination by Keays, Inspector Cousans again stated he had not been satisfied with Keays' explanation and stated it had been Keays' duty to submit the proper report to his district inspector. The gun in question had been returned to its proper owner.

German Bystander Killed as Reds Tighten Blockade

Berlin, Feb. 18 (AP)— Russian-controlled German police killed another German while tightening their blockade within a blockade, and the incident heightened tension today between Communists and their foes, who charged the shooting was "murder."

Sporadic fist fights were reported on subway and elevated trains between German passengers and Communist-controlled police, who sought to search and seize their belongings.

A German and a 14-year-old girl, innocent bystanders, were wounded in another sector border incident. The scrape occurred when a vegetable dealer missed the blockade halt signal of the Soviet controlled police. The police fired four shots at the truck. They missed the driver but hit the bystanders. The truck escaped into the American sector.

Meanwhile, rumors of a new Soviet zone currency reform sent the Russian sponsored eastern mark tumbling on Germany money markets, despite Russian denial that any change is impending.

Against this background, the Western German constitution committee advised Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American Military governor, that it has completed drafting a basic law to serve for a democratically-governed Germany of the future.

Clay said the target date of May 1 for establishment of the West German Government "now looks pretty good."

Reports from east Germany were that the Soviets, who violently oppose the creation of a vast German government, will have a German constitution of their own whipped together by March, to be presented as a charter for all Germany. The Russians refuse to recognize the division of Germany.

Snarled Harness And Bread Truck Cost First Money

Ottawa, Feb. 18 (CP)—Snarled harness line and "unforeseen hazard" in the form of a five-ton snowplow and a bread truck cost Wilf Lepine, a "hungry musher from Quebec, $500 in the International Dog Derby ended yesterday.

The "incident" raised almost as much noise in the week-long winter carnival as the howling dogs in the eight-sled 90-mile race.

Talk of the race was going on today as more than 60 figure-skaters from various parts of Canada prepared to take over the Minto Club ice for the two-day Canadian championships.

Leading contenders for the women's senior singles title are Suzanne Morrow of Toronto, Jeanne Matthews of Vancouver and Marlene Smith of Niagara Falls, Ont. Ann Aubin of Copper Cliff, Ont., is entered in the junior singles and also is a competitor in the senior group. The juniors compete today.

But with all the activity, the dog derby and Lepine was still being argued by officials and carnival competitors.

Wilf, who came here on borrowed money, lost out by only 40 seconds to big Bill Shearer of Newport, Mass., in elapsed time over the three 30-mile heats.

Thousands Line Bank

Thousands of persons lined along the Rideau Canal banks, route of the race, gasped as the French-Canadian's six-dog team of hounds tangled at the start of the heat, costing him nearly a minute and crowds stomped and yelled three hours later when Lepine and Shearer came in with only minutes separating them.

The Governor-General was on hand to present the Chateau Laurier challenge trophy to the winner but the ceremony was postponed when Lepine, told his elapsed time was slower, protested that the snowplow and truck, which temporarily blocked the course 15 miles from the starting line, was responsible for his loss. Lepine claimed the delay was five minutes but witnesses said it was at least two.

Judges ruled it was an "unforeseen hazard," that on one was at the spot with a stop-watch to time the holdup and that the protest could not be considered.

"There is no justice in Ottawa. I am not satisfied with the judgment at all and am not sure whether I'll race here again — there are no gentlemen here," he said through an interpreter when the decision was announced. Later he accepted the $500 second prize money.

He went into the final heat with a six-minute elapsed-time lead and was considered a cinch to take first money but no one figured on a snarled harness rope and such obstacles as a snowplow and bread truck.

Colder Weather Helps to Check Rash of Floods

Chicago, Feb. 18. (AP)—Colder weather helped check the rash of floods and snow slides in parts of the Pacific Northwest States today as a new blast of snow and winds punched weather-groggy Wyoming.

But floods threatened the coastal area where temperatures were higher.

Wyoming, pounded almost daily by snow and wind storms for weeks, was in the path of the fresh mass of cold air which spread into the northern plains and reblocked newly-cleared roads. The mercury fell rapidly after yesterday's readings of above freezing.

The storm moved into Montana and North Dakota and the mercury plunged to below zero in some areas. It fell to five below at Lewistown, Mont., and dropped 29 degrees in six hours at Minot, N.D. The cold wave was headed for the North Central States and the weather bureau said temperatures would drop to 15 below in Northern Minnesota tonight.

Temperatures were much higher over the Central States and seasonable in most other sections of the country.

Rains in Western Washington and Oregon left many highways flooded. But transcontinental trains resumed service through the Washington mountains. The colder weather in Northern Idaho temporarily halted the slides that threatened the mountainous area.

Meanwhile, the job of clearing roads and feeding stranded livestock in the western blizzard states progressed. The air force's haylift in Nevada ended after 25 days and 25-flying boxcars were to return to their home bases. The planes dropped 1,800 tons of hay to the 300,000 sheep and cattle stranded in the Ely, Nev., area since the service started Jan. 24.

BUTTERFLY TIME

Edmonton — (CP) — Bobby Laplante, 11, could hardly believe his eyes when he found a brown and orange butterfly flitting around his home. Temperatures were around the zero mark outdoors.

Police Search Stirs Resentment In Chinatown

Toronto, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Chinatown is seething with resentment today over a charge of police invasion of privacy which came on the heels of a judge's assertion that colorful Elizabeth Street is made up only of "eating houses and gambling joints."

Dr. H. W. Lore, head of the Chinese community centre, charged last night in a letter to Mayor Hiram McCallum that a city detective carried out an investigation in stores and homes on Elizabeth Street last Wednesday without producing a search warrant. Dr. Lore said the officer was Detective Walter Jarman of the anti-gambling squad.

But Detective Jarman said in a message relayed by his wife:

"There has been no search of any premises. Dr. Lore has made a false statement. They have been trying to get rid of me and Sutton down there for a long time."

Sgt. Harry Sutton is head of the police anti-gambling squad.

Dr. Lore said in his letter that the policeman forced his way into a bedroom in which Mrs. Lee King was dressing, thereby exposing her to embarrassment.

Still rankling among the 3,500 members of Toronto's Chinese community who live in downtown Toronto just west of the city hall is Judge T. H. Barton's remark about eating houses and gambling joints.

Suffer Loss of Face

Chinese citizens feel that they suffered loss of face. They say Judge Barton overlooked the hundreds of persons engaged in useful, gainful employment in Chinatown.

Gambling? Yes, they say, but it is confined to six or seven establishments, private clubs closed to non-Chinese. Anyway, among the Chinese, fantan and poker are considered pastimes.

Eating places? Indeed, yes, The assortment of chop suey palaces makes up the largest business in Chinatown and attracts countless citizens and visitors.

But tucked into the narrow street with its exotic display windows and its aura of mystery are small grocery stores and Chinese herb shops, curio stands and bookstalls. Newspapers are published in Chinese. And in a Chinese school,boys and girls learn the difficult calligraphy of the mandarins while their older brothers and sisters con the maxims of the ancient sages.

Earl Baldwin Likely to Return To Leeward Is.

London, Feb. 18 —(Reuters) — Political circles said Thursday night that Earl Baldwin probably will return to the Leeward Islands as governor.

The Socialist son of the former Conservative prime minister has been recalled to London for "consultations" after a speech in the Leeward Islands legislature critical of colonial office policies.

After a two-hour conference with Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones Thursday night, Lord Baldwin said "there is a lot of good news for the islanders."

Asked if he would return to his duties as governor, he said: "Well, I hope so."

His remark about "good news" was taken to mean the colonial office is sympathetic to reforms he has urged in handling the islands' problems.

The colonial office has all along insisted that Lord Baldwin was recalled merely for consultations on administration but as he sailed back to Britain last week on a banana boat reports flew thick and fast that he was in trouble over his speech criticizing London authorities. It was said he had offended the West Indies sugar barons by a "to friendly" native policy.

When he landed last weekend Lord Baldwin himself seemed to think he was in trobule. In outspoken statements to newspapers he warned that the Leeward colored population "loved" him and said he "feared there might be serious trouble among them if he was sacked."

Union Organizer And Reporter Arrested at Paris

Paris, Feb. 18 (CP)— A union organizer and a Toronto newspaper reporter were arrested Thursday during a textile strike demonstration outside the plant of Penmans Limited.

The organizer, William Stewart of the United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.) was charged with being part of an unlawful assembly and was taken to county jail at Brantford. He was refused bail.

The reporter, Jim Hunt of the Toronto Star, was charged with obstructing police and was put in the same cell with Stewart. He was later released on $50 bail and will appear in court Tuesday.

The demonstration, which started late Thursday afternoon, was said to be one of the noisiest since the wage strike started five weeks ago.

The action began when workers at the plant left at 5 p.m. The picket line followed them along the street, jeering at the non-striking workers and at the police who cruised alongside the workers.

Reports said the pickets formed a circle around the police and Stewart was arrested when the police broke out of the circle.

Hunt and another reporter were said to have run after the car in which Stewart was placed. He was seized and put into the car.

Closely Study Clauses

In the Commons, the membership completed two days of close-checking study of the "omnibus" bill, a 53-clause measure made up largely of insertions of the name "Newfoundland" into existing Canadian laws to make them applicable to the new province.

The House opening was quiet and uneventful.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said the government expected to receive the report of the royal commission on prices, which sat during the off-season period, before the month-end.

Trade Minister Howe said the government does not expect any action by the United Kingdom to reduce an unfavorable trade balance with this country by restricting Canadian imports.

The Chamber gave first reading to a private bill, introduced by George Cruickshank — (L-Fraser Valley), to prevent manufacturers of margarine from giving the substitute the color of butter.

Mr. St. Laurent assured Maritime members that Newfoundland's entry into Confederation will in no way change the application of the Maritimes Freight Rates Act, which gives that section of the country preferential treatment on rail hauls.

Health Minister Martin said the federal government will be prepared to make its old-age pension legislation applicable to Newfoundland as from the date of union, dating the payments from that period if that is agreeable to the Newfoundland provincial government when it is established in office.

He reported also that family allowance payments in the new province will total about $8,400,000 a year. The payments will start as soon after March 31 as possible.

Brought in Case

John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) brought in the case of the four alleged French traitors, charging that they had been admitted to Canada under "secret" and "illegal" government orders.

Mr. St. Laurent replied heatedly that there had been no secret or illegal orders and suggested to the western member that this was not the time to discuss that case.

Veterans Minister Gregg said Newfoundlanders will get every benefit of veterans legislation that other Canadian ex-servicemen receive.

Finance Minister Abbott said he could give no estimate of what Canada will contribute this year to the civil service superannuation fund on behalf of Newfoundlanders who will transfer to the Canadian government service. They will receive the same pension and rates of pay as other federal employees.

Rodney Adamson (PC — York West) called for modification of a provision in the Canadian Citizenship Act which deprives Canadian women who married foreigners before Jan. 1, 1947, of their Canadian rights and citizenship.

State Secretary Gibson said amendments covering this and other difficulties which had arisen were being considered.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged that federal legislation be amended to extend war veterans allowances to so - called "imperial" veterans both in Canada and Newfoundland. These are veterans of British forces who later settled in this country.

ONTARIO SOON

Recent Hydro shortages had been brought about by a combination of unprecedented power demands and water shortages, he asserted. Critics of Hydro policies had not only alarmed the public unnecessarily concerning the cause and effect of the recent shortage but also had tried "to paint a sombre picture regarding the future of the entire Hydro system."

Following Mr. Challies in the Throne-Speech debate were G. B. Ellis (CCF-Essex North) who described Ontario labor legislation as "a Taft-Hartley Act under a new name", and Charles W. Cox (Lib-Fort William) who called for an embargo on crown timber export from Ontario.

Mr. Ellis said the Ontario Labor code, an adoption of Federal Labor legislation, represented an "attempt to curtail the hard-won rights of organized labor."

The government "might well study the political history of the Taft-Hartley Act in the United States congress and what happened to the congressmen and the party who sponsored and legislated it."

Mr. Cox called for an embargo on export of crown timber from Ontario. The province annually exported some 300,000 cords of this wood—enough to keep five "reasonably large" Ontario mills and 2,500 men employed. A timber merchant, Mr. Cox said the government did not impose sufficiently high timber stumpage dues. An additional $1,000,000 in dues could be collected in the lakehead area.

The House today will consider government bills.

TILDEN GETS YEAR TERM

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 — (AP) —William T. (Big Bill) Tilden, 56-year-old former worlds tennis champion, was sentenced to a concurrent one year term in the county jail Thursday by a judge who said "I hope sincerely you'll learn your lesson this time." He pleaded guilty to a charge of molesting a 16-year-old boy last Jan. 28. Just a week ago the tennis player was sentenced to a year in jail on a charge of violating probation on a previous conviction for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Looking Towards Spring

It is less than four weeks to St. Patrick's Day and a little more than a month to spring. The spring "feel" is in the air these latter days and reports of freshets and breaking-up streams come in. This is suggestive of the character of the present stage of the winter and of the entire season. The sense of liberation from the bondage of this time of the year, which is usually cold, but now rarely drops below zero, is felt these days. What will the spring be?

The sight of the Moira River has been like a bird of good omen to the people for mild weather can be called a blessing. That it is keenly welcomed goes without saying. The sight of open water in the stream has been a barometer of the winter's gentle away.

Whatever the future weeks bring the mild season which has been the winter's fare so far will be remembered as most unusual. This winter has been almost consistently moderate. There has been the rare instance of a zero night but that is forgotten in the number of fine days and nights.

This hope of spring is eternal in man's heart. One of the great poets of all ages, Shelley, sums up this spirit and feeling in the line,

"If winter comes can spring be far behind?"

Some seasons go by opposites. That this mild winter may not be succeeded by an unruly and boisterous spring is the wish of all. So far there has been no sign of a sterner spell to come. But only the future can tell.

The weather is a theme that has a natural appeal to people for they have to put up with it and enjoy it. It is their companion through life and man has been associated with it all through his long ages of inhabiting the earth. It will last either hotter or colder or little changed while earth endures. Scientists know that conditions of weather have changed long down the ages. It is confidently stated by geophysicists that the earth is growing warmer and that some day such northern climes as these will have more moderate temperatures than we now enjoy, that is that the temperatures we have here will be what they are now farther south. And then — that the heat wave will wane and another cold or ice age come. But that will only be in the far geological future, just as the ice age was many thousands of years ago. Man will inhabit a temperate earth for long ages if science is any guide.

Radio Cars' Part in Preventing Crime

300 radio equipped cars patrolling hundreds of thousands of miles along the provincial roads have played an important part in crime detection and prevention since they were inaugurated a year ago last November and according to the Ontario Government Bulletin have already made possible a fine record of achievements.

More than fifty rapid arrests and captures of criminals are to their credit. Two marks of the effectiveness of the radio communication in the squad cars are seen in prevention of major crime materially and in fewer bank hold-ups, the Bulletin states.

At the present time the radio-equipped cars of the Ontario Provincial Police are located in Southern Ontario from Windsor to Cornwall and as far north as South River near the North Bay area. Consideration is being given the question of similarly equipped cars for Northern Ontario.

The cars are divided into 11 districts, each with its own headquarters with the main dispatching office that contacts all districts located in a building in Toronto. There is in each district headquarters a 250 watt station and there are 41 fixed stations besides the district headquarters. Each has its own auxiliary power station equipment and consequqently they are never affected by Hydro power interruptions or cut-offs. All the 250 watt district stations have antennae mounted on 200 to 300 foot self-supporting steel towers in the country and distant from buildings. They are remotely controlled by telephone line.

What the would-be offender against the law has to contend with is the organization of the police who have in their dispatching rooms at district headquarters magnetic wall mounted maps to enable the dispatchers to spot readily and control the mobile equipment. Every little magnetic block represents a patrol car on a definite highway in a district.

The strength of the force is now 865 approximately besides 373 cars all but 73 of which are radio-equipped.

BACKWARD LOOK

The more I dwell on my affairs
The clearer I can see
Too soon I dropped my work and stopped
The task of bettering me.
Now there are books upon the shelves
Which stand there still unread.
I could have gained what they contained,
But chose to play instead.

I'd heard the day divided is
For sleep and toil and play.
When done my bit I'd haste to quit
And romp eight hours away.
But had I worked a little more,
Then more I should have earned;
And there is lore, by reading more,
I surely could have learned.

The wiser man I might have been
Has never grown to be.
I'm sure he died the day I sighed:
"The task's too great for me."
There was a goal I might have reached,
But, weary or afraid,
I thought to rest would suit me best,
And where I stopped, I've stayed.

RELIGION BECOMES PRACTICAL

A converted man was telling about the joy which had come into his life when he "got religion." "When I was converted," he declared, "the words of the Bible got on their feet and walked around the room."

In other words, the teachings of the Bible became real for him, and practical. Before his heart and mind had been touched by the supernatural power of a great religious experience, the words of the Bible were dead and sterile. But the experience of conversion put life into them. Jesus said that when people "got religion," the Holy Spirit would come to them and be their guide, revealing the truth of things they had not previously understood.

People whose lives are held in the bondage of evil habits cannot understand religious truths. Neither can the scoffers or the people who care precious little whether religion is true or false. The significance of religious truth is reserved for those who are sincere in their seeking, and when this sincerity leads one to yielding his life to the vast spiritual powers which undergird the universe, and which have been personalized for us in the life and message of Christ, then religious truth suddenly comes to life before oun eyes. The words of the Bible get on their feet and walk around the room. Christian doctrines peel off their coats and go to work for us, helping us solve the practical problems of life.

The Packsack
of Gregory Clark

It is not the cars that are parked on the down-town streets that actually slow up and snarl the traffic. It is the cars looking for a place to park.

It is those gloomy and slightly indignant citizens slowly poking around the down-town areas looking for a free parking space at eight miles an hour who are the real problem. A car comfortably parked, even in an illegal zone, is no problem. It is that sulky citizen slowly grinding along, who pauses every few yards in hot hope; who proceeds on, in low gear; who stops again and glares reproachfully at a space too small; and then grinds, in low, on his way again, all contemptuous of the traffic bottled up behind him — each item of which he believes to be somebody else trying to beat him to a fee parking spot.

From an upstairs window in an office building, I watched seventeen minutes slowly and solidly balling up the million dollar traffic of the heart of a big city. His car roof had a cross-shaped patch on it. I noted him edging slowly along the street, at the head of a parade urgently attempting to pass him. Three minutes later, around the block he came again: so I watched. Four times in seventeen minutes he toured that block full of big business. Each time round, he slowed, halted, dallied. Twice he nearly snatched a spot, when cars moved out. But both times, he was beaten to it by nimbler drivers. Yet in doing his best, old Patch-Top succeeded in blocking traffic behind him as far down street as I could see. It might have been ten or twenty times I might have counted him round the block, if I had not been called in to see the man I was waiting for.

These are the costly characters in the traffic problem: and there is nothing to prevent forty of them getting loose in the down-town district, at the one time, any day of the week.

Mackenzie's Column:

Citizen Shirkers Given Drubbing By Gen. Bradley

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Gen. Oma N. Bradley, United States Army Chief of Staff and one of the outstanding wartime commanders, preaches a powerful sermon on the dangers of "delinquent citizenship" today in an article in Collier's Weekly.

As a matter of fact, this ordinarily-quiet-spoken soldier rolls up his sleeves and administers a sound drubbing to shirkers.

The General is dealing with such a vital truth, in such a forceful manner, that this column welcomes the opportunity to report his views. He imparts the feeling that it's high time to take stock. He points out that democracy's struggle against the forces of evil may be long and that "ideas are as important as the atom bomb."

"Our danger lies not so much in a fifth column whose enmity is avowed. It lies in a first column of well-meaning American citizens . . . who are 100 per cent Americans in their daily protestations and 10 per cent citizens in their daily routine of neglect."

Elders Fail

The failure of the elders to meet the demands of citizenship is responsible, he believes, for "political immaturity, economic ignorance, philosophical indifference and spiritual insolvency" of many American youth.

That strikes home to those who have children just arriving at maturity. It seems to me that the younger generation is reaching for ideas as youth never has before. Unhappily that search is being conducted in the unhealthful atmosphere which follows any great war and which is especially bad these days as the result of the division of mankind into two hostile ideological blocs.

Clearly this is the time, as the General indicates, when the elders must turn to and help youth adjust itself.

Greater Problems

Bradley uses the homely expression that what the United States needs is some old-fashioned willingness "to do the chores" —a sense of responsibility. He further says:

"At a time when peoples throughout the world are being courted by an aggressive stateism that would have them abdicate their personal share in government and entrust their welfare to rule by clique, the American people must put their faith in not less — but more — personal responsibility in the affairs of their community and nation . . .

"A democracy such as ours cannot be defeated in this struggle; it can only lose by default."

Civil Servants Get Pay Raise

London, Feb. 18 (Reuters) — The government has approved the principle of big salary increases for top-ranking civil servants.

Increases ranging from £1,250 ($5,000) a year in the case of the treasury permanent secretary — who is head of the civil service— to £300 for other grades are proposed.

The treasury permanent secretary at present receives £3,750. His new salary will equal that of a cabinet minister. Other permanent department heads will have their salaries increased from £3,500 to £4,500.

In deference to Britain's present "freeze" of wages, prices and profits, civil servants have indicated they are willing to accept postponement of the increases and their eventual application by gradual stages.

Some political quarters professed to see a hint of wilder "unfreezing" in a written answer given by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, to a parliamentary question last night.

Referring to the recommendations, the chancellor said the government intended that a start should be made before long to give effect to the salary improvements recommended by the committee. It hoped it might be possible to do this before the end of 1949.

Alberta May Seek To Have Privy Council Retained

(By The Canadian Press)

Alberta may seek to have the Privy Council retained as Canada's final Court of Appeal until a special court is set up to take its place.

The Throne Speech at the opening of parliament in Edmonton said the Federal Government planned to make the Supreme Court of Canada the final Court of Appeal. The Alberta proposal was put forward yesterday in a notice of motion tabled by Attorney-General Lucien Maynard.

The notice said the Privy Council appeal should be retained "until such time as arrangements have been worked out for the setting up of a special court with judges appointed by the Dominion Government and the Provinces to act as final Court of Appeal in all constitutional cases".

The Alberta Throne Speech forecast legislation to augment financial help to municipalities, to spend more for highways and to increase the province's health services. It said other legislation would provide for increased pensions, power and irrigation development.

Study of budget estimates for the trade and commerce department led Quebec's legislative assembly into discussion of 'immigration and prompted Rene Chaloult, Nationalist member for Quebec City, to assert that more French, Belgian and Italian immigrants, well-selected, should be encouraged to come to Canada.

Blames Faulty Selection .. ....

Premier Maurice Duplessis declared that some persons coming to Canada as immigrants carry out "pro-Soviet propaganda". He said he thought faulty selection of immigrants was to blame.

Ontario's recent power shortage was discussed in Throne-Speech debate at Toronto by Hon. G. H. Challies, the Cabinet minister responsible for hydro. He predicted that Ontario soon will be able to generate sufficient power to meet its needs.

British Columbia's exporting of lumber was blamed for holeing up home building in that province. Sam Guthrie, C.C.F. member for Cowichan-Newcastle, said at Victoria that even a five-per-cent decrease in exports would have helped home-building.

During throne-speech debate at Winnipeg, Errick Willis, Manitoba Works minister, said that unless the federal government pays more than 50 per cent of the cost of the trans-Canada highway, efforts to complete the road will fail. He said the provincial governments could not afford to finance the 1,790 miles of highway still to be constructed.

Promotion of more moderate drinking in Saskatchewan was suggested in the House at Regina by V. P. Deshaye, Liberal member for Melville. He suggested that the C.C.F. government spend on temperance $1,000,000 of last year's $8,000,000 liquor profits.

Safe Robbery Carried Out At Brantford

Brantford, Feb. 18 (CP)— A daring safe robbery early today at the Hartley Foundry Company, 249 West Colborne Street, was carried out by four men, two of whom were reported to have been armed. Two employees were struck over the head when they were surprised by the bandits in the firm's office.

Charles Beckham, the night watchman, and Ernest Skinner, a night worker, both of 18 Mount Pleasant Street sustained head injuries and were held at gunpoint in a lavatory while the safe was rolled to a side door to a waiting vehicle.

Officials of the firm reported the safe contained only about $50 in cash but records and a payroll cheque also were taken. The cheque, covering the payroll that was to have been distributed today, was not countersigned and will be valueless to the thieves.

Thawing, Freezing May Cause Crop Damage

Toronto, Feb. 18 (CP)—Recent thaws followed by freezing temperatures may damage Southern Ontario crops, a spokesman for the Provincial Agriculture Department said Thursday. Water which has frozen during the last 24 hours may smother seedlings over large areas of farmland, he said. The spokesman said normal conditions from now until spring would improve the agricultural situation.

17 IN RETIRED TAXI

Halifax — (CP) — Retirement did not mean easier days for a 1930 model London taxi when it was bought by a Halifax high school student. Never in its busiest days in the British metropolis did the cab have to carry as many as the 17 passengers Ramsay Armitage once packed into the vehicle.

TRY MORE SALAD

Growing boys and girls and adults who do real work (physical work) or get a reasonable amount of exercise daily should have meat, fowl, fish, eggs or cheese in mid-day meal. People who do real work or who get a reasonable amount of exercise every day may include meat in their lunch menu if they like. White collar workers, sedentary people, professional and business people, parasites, loafers and people who live by their wits had better eschew such food at lunch—except, perhaps, wee bits of chicken, ham, lobster, cheese, egg etc., in the salad or in the salad dressing.

Salad. That's a dish of herbs. A salad proper contains only raw greens, leafy and root vegetables, fruits, nuts — with wee bits of meat, egg or fish in the oil dressing, if you like.

Salad should be served and eaten at the beginning of the meal, if more substantial food is to follow.

People of limited intelligence—shucks, why beat about the mulberry bush?—you know what I mean. People who are ignorant of physiology, hygiene, nutrition, vite and the ways of health generally harbor a half-baked notion that salad is fancy stuff, like finger bowls, and hence an item one can afford to dispense with, at least at home when there are no luncheon or dinner guests. That's where people show their ignorance.

Salad has everything that everybody needs—vitamins, minerals, cellulose—and hence it must be included in the basic health diet, in the reducing diet, in the growing child's diet and in every well balanced dinner menu.

If you are more intelligent than an imbecile yet not above the moron level you may regard cellulose (wood fibre) as roughage, filler or rabbit food and refuse to have it on your dinner table.

Cellulose is as essential and as important in the diet of a healthy person as any other food element. The fibrous part of green leaves, stalks, roots, fruits and seeds serves an important purpose in digestion and nutrition. It aids the chemical and physical processes of digestion and it is the adjuvant of the vitamin B complex that grows with it for the prevention or correction of that common complaint of ignorant people—constipation.

In the pamphlet Young Folk and Old Folks—ask for it in writing, not with a clipping; inclose stamped self addr envelope—I explain in detai what vite is and how to get it o keep it Whether you are young o old or betwixt and between you will make a long step toward better than average nutritional condition if you restore to you everyday diet wheat in place o white flour products or in plac of some of the refined whit flour you consume. How to g about it is described in anothe pamphlet Wheat to Eat—if yo want this too inclose ten cent additional.

Milk, wheat, salad. There yo have my prescription for wha ails you most of the time.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Cardio-vascular Degeneration

Please accept our thanks [illegible] the CVD booklet. It gave [illegible] husband a great deal of re[illegible]surance about his coronary condition and he is again enjoying life. (Mrs. A. K.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am—your husband evidently got precisely the effect I hoped the booklet would have on readers with angina, coronary thrombosis, valvular leakage, myocarditis, etc.

Grand-daughter's Bracelets

My grand-daughter's silver bracelets, rings, etc., turn dark or tarnish when she wears them only part of a day. (Mrs. T. L. H.)

Answer—Blackening or tarnishing of silver due to reaction of the silver with sulfur-compunds in the air, in the normal skin excretions, in such food as egg yolk, cabbage, etc. Remove the discoloration with diluted ammonia water or with silver polish. Ha[illegible] jewelry gold plated.

No Egg Yolk Powder Today

I have been unable to find egg yolk powder anywhere. (C. E.)

Answer—I'm sorry, but I don't know where it can be had now. Perhaps it is being sent to help feed Europe. You should be able to use the other suggestions in the pamphlet How to Gain Weight—for copy send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

ONE STEP AT A TIME

In the days of my youth I recall that a boy was glad to get any kind of useful job that would give him a start. And the starting salary was usually satisfactory, for the opportunity was what he had his eye upon.

Today almost the first question asked by the application for a position is: "What salary do you pay?" He wants to take six steps before he has taken one. A step at a time takes one far. The home that is built substantially and well, upon a quickly built foundation, at an early date begins to crack and settle in the wrong places. It's that way in the building of one's success in life. If the foundation is faulty the entire structure of character is injured.

One step at a time is better than trying to take two or hree steps at a time, and slipping down on the ladder! The plodder isn't spectacular but he takes his time — and more often than not outdistances he one who is in a hurry.

Many who have only a scant knowledge of American histo often have asked why such a comparatively unknown man as Rutherford Hayes could have been elected to the Presidency of the United States, much less even nominated? I used to think this way until I made a study of the early life of this man, who kept steadily climbing, gaining both experience and prestige with every step forward. Though he was not popular, he had an honesty and a directness of purpose that many more brilliant men never had. And he had courage.

The child learns to walk — one step at a time. It's nature's way. Too rapid a pace often results in a setback. The famed tortoise only took a step at a time — but he beat the hare! Or so it is said.

Every day we read in our newspaper of some man suddenly selected for an important place, and we wonder why we haven't heard of him before. The reas[illegible] is that he was undoubtedly d[illegible]voting his time to one step at a time until people began to note that he had climbed high! People are always looking for a man high up on a ladder.

Parliamentary Policemen Must Answer Many Questions

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 18— (CP) —The metropolitan policeman stands in the dignified House of Commons corridor, calm, well-informed, in tune with his surroundings.

There are distant shouts. He tenses, listens. He opens his mouth wide and bellows:

"Speaker in the chair!"

Far off, in the echoing corridors, other policemen pass on the shouted announcement. And thus, according to sure tradition, all Britons who care to listen are informed that the Commons has started its daily work.

Unique Group

The parliamentary policemen are unique. They must preserve law and order within the Parliament Buildings, facilitate the movement of members and answer innumerable questions from visitors.

But, most important, they must recognizze each of the 640 members and hundreds of other regular callers who have business in the buildings.

Who Goes Home?

When the House rises, the policemen's final cry is welcomed. It is heard rollicking along the corridors:

"Who goes home?"

Sgt. Andrew Forbes, a Scot 22 years in service with the London police, has spent 10 of them under Big Ben, the great clock that booms the hours from the Parliament Buildings. [illegible] is a veteran of questions, shot at him by the curious. Recently a United States couple who appreciated his courtesy sent a gift addressed to:

His colleagues remember that in a wild night of wartime bombing, when the Commons building flamed to ruin, he climbed up 300 feet in scaffolding outside a tower to help subdue flames.

Talk on Juvenile Delinquency Given At H. & S. Meeting

Shannonville — A large representation from the Shannonville Home and School Association journeyed to Cannifton on Monday evening where they were the guests at a meeting in Cannifton S. S. 6, Thurlow, of the Cannifton - Corbyville Home and School Association. This was the occasion of "Founders Day" of the association all across Canada. Cannifton - Corbyville association were also celebrating their second birthday on that date and with a beginning of 12 members they now have over 100.

Mrs. Plumpton, the local president, presided over the interesting evening's entertainment. All enjoyed a sing-song with Mrs. Jack Parott presiding at the piano.

Several Reports Given

The presidents of the associations present were called on to say a few words. Mr. Churchill of Foxboro, who reported an association numbering 51 members and a school enrolment of 78 pupils; Mr. E. Hart of Centenary, who described their initial meeting. Mrs. A. Spencer the Shannonville secretary, reported an enrolment of 58 parents with a school enrolment of 60. Mr. Bob Duval of Hillcrest reported 94 pupils in their school.

The Cannifton - Corbyville association have a very interesting feature each month, an attendance prize for the school room having the most parents present at their monthly meetings. Mr. Darling's room was the "victors" for the second month in succession.

Al. Davis Guest Speaker

Rev. E. M. Caldwell of Shannonville, in the absence of Inspector Macklem, introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Alfred J. Davis, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at Belleville, who gave an address on "Education and Juvenile Delinquency."

Mr. Davis dwelt on the causes, results, prevention and cost.

"How can we block it at the source?" he asked. "What is the cure?" "Where can an individual club fit in?" Mr. Davis stated, "hardened criminals from 17 to 24 cost us $25,000 each and that delinquency could be eliminated if parents, teachers, Sunday School and social workers and others, understood and used techniques of personality, development, and character-building. Personality develops as deepset desires are satisfied.

Mr. Davis stated that difficulties often reverted to early childhood and need of security in the family. The child must feel himself worth while and that the school was in the most strategic position to help parents. School programs should teach children rather than subjects.

"We must understand the child and his behaviour," said the speaker. "Leaders should have very careful training." He mentioned the importance of a family and juvenile court, such as Hastings county now has. Mr. Davis suggested a solution to the delinquency problem should be in keeping the youth off the street by supervised hours in tools and skills — tolerance, discussion meetings, democratic, the home, school and church all playing a large part in this character building. Personal growth takes place in forming friendships, feeling the impact of ideas, being called on to make decisions, carrying out responsibilities, having experiences of deep spiritual renewal, was Mr. Davis' suggestion. He summed up his interesting talk with "There are no problem children, but children who need guidance in their solutions."

The latter part of the program was a contribution for the evening's entertainment from each association.

Mrs. Mabel Hayton of Foxboro gave an amusing reading, "A Colored Lady in Society."

A quartet from Shannonville rendered "The Bells of Saint Mary." The quartet was composed of Miss Verna Fox, Mrs. James Vesterfelt, Mr. Reynolds, Rev. E. Caldwell, with Mrs. G. M. Fraser as the accompanist.

An interesting feature was the recording of a half-hour of the evening's proceedings, by Mr. William Stovin, manager of radio station CJBQ, and Mr. Phil Flagler, to be broadcast at a future date.

Ladies' Guild

The weekly meeting of the Ladies' Guild of Holy Trinity Anglican Church was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Pickells. Eleven members and one visitor were present.

The president, Mrs. William Coles, presided.

So many are ill at the present time that prayer was made for the parish.

During the business section of the meeting the committees in charge of the Valentine tea and euchre party held recently were thanked for their splendid effort.

Sewing was discussed and it was decided to quilt in the very near future.

Mrs. Coles thanked the hostess for the use of her home and also expressed thanks to her son, Mr. W. Pickells, who so generously donated prizes for the recent euchre party.

Mrs. Conley acted as the secretary treasurer for the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Spencer.

The next meeting was arranged to be held on March 3rd at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hill.

Rev. A. W. Lougheed was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Newton DeMille. During the day he visited Mrs. Frank McCullough of Lonsdale who has been confined to bed for some time, and Mrs. Sherry DeMille and Mr. Fred Davis, both patients in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murphy recently celebrated their 37th wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Bolton and Mr. Bolton of Belleville. A lovely anniversary cake graced the dinner table on this special occasion. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott and Mrs. Bolton, Sr.

A number attending the Home and School meeting in Corbyville on Monday evening had great difficulty in returning home due to the treacherous icy condition of the roads and sleet falling. Some spent two hours en route.

Prepares Program

By all reports the members of the Shannonville Home and School Association are preparing an interesting program for their amateur show to be held in the local Orange Hall this Friday evening. In the afternoon it is planned to hold a tea, rummage sale, a holiday show and a bake sale. Proceeds are to be used for worthy community requisites.

At the regular Sunday evening service in the United Church the minister, Rev. A. W. Lougheed, took as his sermon subject the parables, "The Lost Coin," "the Lost Sheep" and "the Prodigal Son."

Recently, Holy Trinity Anglican Church received the gift of two lovely electric candles. These now adorn the organ and add to the beauty of the church. Mr. and Mrs. William Coles were the generous donors of same.

Little Barbara Caldwell is now home again after her recent operation and stay in Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. E. Caldwell is now improved in health after her recent "bout" with the flu.

"Our Living Faith", Subject Of Address by Dr. R. Chambers To Fellowship Conference

The Fellowship Conference sponsored by the members of the Christian Education and Social Service and Evangelism committees of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church and held in the Tabernacle United Church on Thursday afternoon and evening was quite a success and was attended by delegates from Bancroft, Coe Hill, Eldorado, Madoc, Ivanhoe, West Huntingdon, Foxboro, Stirling, Rawdon, Napanee, Odessa, Shannonville, Point Anne Bayside, Trenton, Wellington, Bloomfield, Cannifton, Rednersville, Marmora, Queensboro, Belleville, and a number of other places.

Rev. J. D. Martin, of Trenton, chairman of Presbytery, introduced Rev. C. D. McLellan, of Napanee, who, on behalf of the Christian Education committee, presided at the afternoon session. In the absence of Rev. Noble Hatton, Napanee, due to illness, Rev. C. A. Perkins of Belleville, presided at the evening service. At the close of a brief worship service Mr. McLellan introduced Rev. R. C. Chalmers, Ph. D. Associate Secretary of Social Service and Evangelism who was the special speaker for the day.

Outlines Two Year Plan

Dr. Chalmers, speaking on "Our Living Faith" outlined the plans of the church for the next two years, and stated that for the ensuing six months emphasis is being placed upon doctrine. He pointed out the necessity of Christians knowing what they believe. This he said "is essential to intelligent living and good work." The speaker noted the opportunity which the Lenten season offers church members and especially leaders to reach people and influence them to take an interest in the highest and best things. Dr. Chalmers referred frequently to St. Paul's letter to the Romans as containing the essential doctrinal truths of the Protestant faith and said "Romans is the theology of a converted man.

"Good deeds are not enough," said Dr. Chalmers, "We attain by getting right with God by faith and believing. By surrendering life to God and by making His will the centre of all our ambitions and doings. Man becomes free in Christ, not as a criminal is freed in a law court, but as the father freed the prodigal son when he said, 'come in you are welcome' and not, 'what have you to say for yourself.' Good works are result of a living faith" "The church" said the speaker is the channel through faith which manifests itself. Men get into heaven by accepting the works of Christ and not by their own works. The minister plays the part of a shepherd, but does not possess supernatural power. Faith in God leaves the Christians free to do what he ought, but not free to do whatever he might desire to do."

Sin Offence Against God

"Sin," said Dr. Chalmers, "is not coming short of a law. It is an offence against God. It is smiting God, and is manifest in the activities of the Body."

"Grace is God reaching out to men, who receive Him by faith and the shackles of sin are removed and we become free as a slave becomes free when someone pays the price of his ransom "Faith is an inner spiritual experience and not something to be debated. Under its influence men of clay become men of steel and go out to dare and do for God and truth.

All basic questions are theological questions in that they are related to God. The greater the sense of community the more effective the church. The true church develops the spirit that men take out into the world and use there. A humble living faith is essential to nationhood as it is to community an individual usefulness.

In his evening address Dr. Chalmers emphasized means and ways in which Christians might increase their spiritual strength and power. He suggested that men generally were like students in a certain college, some had definite Christian convictions, others knew very little about Christianity, while a large number were seeking for light.

Must Seek Truth

"Character," said Dr. Chalmers "is an earnest seeking after right and truth. Many young men," said the speaker "are seeking an experience of brotherhood. There are a lot of troubles that cannot be packed in an old kit bag. The future of Christianity is the future of mankind. There is hope for the church if it is a living institution. Too often Christians just play around with the dynamic of life. They pray, study the Bible and go to church at their convenience when they should discipline themselves in the systematic use of these means of spiritual development and power.

Religion to be effective must be something more than a tag. Now is the time for Christians to rise up and oppose the tides that are running dead set against Christianity.

Sessions of the Presbytery are continuing on Friday.

Rev. W. Vesterfelt Given Pastorate Appointment

The Reverend Walter Vesterfelt, one of the city's native born sons, and nephew of Mrs. William T. Taylor, Grier Street, has recently been appointed to the pastorate of the Union Church at Cedarville, Michigan, U.S.A.

"From 1936 to 1939 he attended the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago. After his marriage, he left Canada where he had been employed at the Ford Motor Company, prior to his enlistment in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

In April 1948 he returned to Chicago and resumed his studies at the Institute, graduating last August. Since then he has been taking a post-graduate course until his appointment at Cedarville Union Church, on December 19th of last year.

Many Initiated Into Moose Lodge

At the regular meeting of Belleville Lodge No. 1004 Loyal Order of Moose on February 17th a large class of candidates from Belleville and Trenton lodges were initiated into the first degree of the Order.

The Degree team of Trenton lodge conducted the initiation ceremony and at the conclusion were complimented by Governor Freeman of Belleville Lodge, on the capable manner in which the ceremony was exemplified.

Past Grand Governor Speaks

Past Grand Governor of Ontario, Oscar Pierce, addressed the class, paying tribute to the officers and members of Belleville lodge who had labored unceasingly during the bad times of a few years back to keep the lodge alive and to bring it to the splendid position it holds today.

Continuing he said while the average member joins chiefly for the protection he receives his greatest gain is in meeting his fellowman and learning tolerance for all creeds. The Moose being a non-sectarian order.

He also spoke briefly on the Moose City of Childhood at Mooseheart, Illinois, where there are over 1,000 children of departed brother Moose being educated and taught trades, and of Moosehaven, the City of Contentment at Moosehaven, Florida, where aged members are spending their declining years in comfort. He quoted several incidents where families had benefited by the protection provided.

Oil Painting Presented

After meeting refreshments were served and Brother Pierce presented Belleville lodge with a handsome oil painting of the founder of the Moose, the late Senator Jas. J. Davis of Pennsylvania which the lodge had won by exceeding the quota in the James J. Davis Memorial Membership Campaign in 1948.

The refreshment committee was under the direction of Bro. Past Governor Ed. Patrick to whom a vote of thanks was offered.

LOST TREASURE

Edmonton — (CP) — City police in Edmonton held an unsuccessful treasure hunt recently. Even with a mine detector, they failed to locate a metal cash box containing more than $100. The box is believed to have been buried in a vacant lot.

6th Sidney— Stone Church W.M.S. held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. E. B. Phillips, with 12 members present.

Meeting opened with quiet music played by Mrs. J. Detlor. The call to worship was given by Mrs. E. B. Phillips, the president. Offering was then taken and dedicated. Solo "I Will Not Be Afraid" was given by Mrs. Detlor. Prayer of intercession for China was given by the president and the roll call and secretary's reports were given by Mrs. Lloyd. One new member joined.

Plans were made for a day of prayer service to be held at the church on March 4, inviting Wallbridge to join.

Mrs. H. Phillips gave a good synopsis of the study book using as the study "Growth of Mission Work in China".

So much has been done by Rev. Mr. Jolliffe and one of his young converts, Mr. Yang, by printing tracts from the Bible lessons, also how much good work the late Mrs. Kitchen had done with her printing. Much of this work is held up on account of shortage of paper and ink there.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her helpers.

IVANHOE W.M.S.

The roll was called and responded to by each member handing in a quilt block, the whole to be made in a quilt for the supply box. This showed an attendance of 18 members and two children present. The literary secretary, Mrs. H. MacMillan, gave an outline of the work from her department and urged all the members to read more books along the missionary work.

The president read a letter outlining what was needed for the supply box. The March meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. D. Fleming, with a dinner and work to be done in connection with the supply bale.

Owing to the resignation of the 1st vice president, Mrs. Harry Lovibond, Mrs. E. Benson was elected to that office for the coming year.

Mrs. Don Reid was also elected as second group leader.

It was decided that for Easter Sunday the W.M.S. would conduct the evening church service.

"World Day of Prayer" Friday, March 4, is to be held in Beulah United Church.

Group Leader, Mrs. E. Benson, conducted the program suggested in the Missionary Monthly. The theme "Thy Kingdom Come Through the Work of Christian People".

Mrs. Clarence Reid favored with a solo.

A chapter from the Study Book was taken in the form of questions and answers by Mrs. E. Benson and Mrs. G. Wood.

At the close of the meeting an installation service of the new officers was held.

A worship centre was used showing the picture of Christ and the open Bible. A beautifully tinted background of red paper and brilliantly lighted candles made a very fitting centre for such an occasion. This very impressive service was conducted by Mr. G. A. Creaser.

At the close refreshments were served by the host and several ladies. A social time was enjoyed and a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Creaser for his very kind hospitality.

WEST HUNTINGDON Y.P.U.

West Huntington — The Young People's Union held their regular meeting at Russell's and Lindsay's home on Friday evening with an attendance of 23.

The Reverend Harold Burgess gave the special address and Mr. Bob Gay gave a report of the rally he attended at Peterborough.

Mr. Arthur Hassall conducted the devotional part and a reading on Scripture was given by Lois Emerson.

Miss Margaret contributed a solo, while Mrs. Sills and Shirley Elliott were in charge of a couple of contests which were greatly enjoyed.

The roll call was answered by the "Most Interesting Place I Ever Visited."

Variety Program Presented By Harmony Club

Tweed—A large number of members of St. John's United Church Harmony Club, Tabernacle Church, Belleville, "Good Companions" group and guests from Sulphide enjoyed a social evening Tuesday night in the Sunday School rooms of St. John's.

The program in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Porritt's group provided excellent entertainment and the numbers rendered by the junior choir were also enjoyed.

After the arrival of the guests from Belleville, Mr. C. E. Way, Harmony Club president, welcomed the visitors.

The program was opened by two choruses by the junior choir, and then Mr. G. H. Cotton of Sulphide gave two well-rendered readings of Henry Drummond's "The Stovepipe Hole" and "Little Baptiste".

Mrs. S. H. Connor sang "Smilin' Through" and "It's Quiet Down Here," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ken Belch.

An amusing skit was given by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Way. Then a well presented history of "Activities Along the Moira River since 1800" was read by Arnold Montgomery.

The junior choir under the tutelage of S. H. Connor sang. Mr. Chas. Porritt literally "rolled 'em in the aisles" with his reading "How We Hunted a Mouse" and a reading by Mrs. Emerson Hodgins was also well done. A contest and refreshments completed an entertaining evening.

Purchases Farm

Mr. Chas. Rutter who recently sold his fruit farm at Lockport, N.Y., has purchased the farm owned by Jas. Ervine between Stoco and Bogart. It is the old Rutter homestead. Mr. Rutter has had an ambition for some time to return to this locality and take over the old family farm. He will take possession March 1st. Mr. Rutter is a brother of Mrs. C. M. Moon of Tweed.

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held its monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. S. B. Rollins. The meeting was opened by the president.

The treasurer's report was presented by Mrs. Jardine. The Day of Prayer which is to be held on March 4th in the Presbyterian Church this year was discussed and arrangements made for a meeting to plan for the program.

Mrs. Hall then read a portion from the study book on China.

Women's Association

The February meeting of the Women's Association was held in St. John's United Church on Thursday afternoon in the Sunday School room with 26 in attendance. Mrs. E. Jordan, the new president, was in the chair.

Meeting was opened by Mrs. Barnett and the minutes of the last meeting read by the secretary, Mrs. C. E. Way.

The worship service was in charge of Miss Margaret Kerr, in the absence of Mrs. Harold Foster, leader of Group 2 who is ill.

Miss Kerr's reading was taken from the verse in the Bible — "Where there is no vision the people perish." Mrs. Wallace Provost sang a solo.

Mrs. Brook Clarke gave several short readings on the Christian Home". Parents are challenged on all sides today to make their homes truly Christian. Theirs is the responsibility for the Christian nurture of the youth. Every mother should make religion the foundation of the home. Boys and girls need God desperately. Without Him they will be like ships without sails or rudders. Mrs. Sisco closed the meeting.

PICTON

Sister, Brother 98 and 92 Years Old Respectively

Picton — Himself 92, with a sister 98, is the record of ex-mayor Robert A. Norman of Picton. Yesterday, his sister, Mrs. Phoebe Ruttan, marked her 98th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. Armstrong, in Winnipeg. Mr. Norman was 92 last November.

Not only does longevity run in the family but good health as well. Mr. Norman, an ex-M.P.P. and famed for years as an orator, says he hasn't an ache or a pain. He is outdoors nearly every day.

Mrs. Ruttan is also in the best of health, retaining the full use of all her faculties. She enjoys motor rides. She was born in Picton but has resided in the west for many years.

Elected Chairman

Picton — J. L. Pickering was elected chairman of Picton Collegiate Board at its meeting this week. Gerald Norman was named vice-chairman.

Members of the finance committee are: G. Norman, Major G. T. Walmsley, Dr. C. S. Slack, Keith Reynolds. Property committee members are: Dr. W. B. Lane, John Mallory, Morley Williams; Supply committee, —Dr. Slack, K. Reynolds. Vocational advisory committee: G. Norman, J. Mallory, M. Williams, Dr. Lane, H. R. MacDonald, L. E. Calnan, Ross Clow, Emerson Mason, Mayor W. Henley, D. Thompson, W. G. McLean, Clifford Cooper, Mrs. C. R. Widdifield, Mrs. F. J. Webster.

There were 23 tables in play at the euchre in St. Gregory's Parish Hall, Wednesday night. Mrs. J. Helferty and Mrs. R. McNally were conveners. Prizes for high scores were won by Mrs. Percy Bailey and Floyd Gorsline and the consolation prizes by Mrs. George Hobson and Floyd Young. Prizes for most tricks taken with the Queen of Hearts were won by Mrs. H. Moore and Bernard Cole, and the door prize by Miss Hilda Dulmage.

K. I. Mitchell has returned from Granby, Quebec, where he attended the funeral of his mother, Mrs. A. W. Mitchell.

97th Birthday Celebrated By Mrs. C. Minaker

Picton — Though marking her 97th birthday yesterday, Mrs. Charles Minaker continues to live alone and do practically all her own housework. She is in excellent health for her years. Unlike the majority of persons here, she has not had a cold this winter, and had none last winter. She enjoys listening to radio programs, reads a good deal and her letters to friends are written in a clear hand.

A number of relatives and friends gathered at her home yesterday to mark the occasion. Featuring the menu was a birthday cake with 97 candles. Mrs. Minaker enjoyed visiting with the party and was not unduly excited.

Mrs. Minaker is the last surviving member of the family of eleven children born to the late Mr. and Mrs. William McQuoid of South Marysburgh township. All her life has been spent in Prince Edward County.

"Keep useful and busy", is the recipe for a long and happy life, given by Mrs. Minaker.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

The Men Jesus Preferred

By ROY L. SMITH

A very great deal of misunderstanding exists in the mind of the average man concerning the quality and character of Jesus' disciples—the men to whom He committed the responsibility of perpetuating His work.

They have been called "ignorant fishermen," "humble men of toil," "the unschooled and the unlettered," and a good many other names even less complimentary. As a matter of fact, they were individuals of some importance in the life of the land in which they lived.

Four Fishermen

The first glimpse we get of the future disciples is at the moment when they are engaged in their daily work as fishermen. But they were more than mere creatures of luck and chance. They were not men who went fishing for him. They were business men engaged in a useful and important work.

> The Sunday School Lesson for February 20: "Jesus Chooses the Twelve." Matthew 4:18-22; Mark 1:16-20; 3:13-19; Luke 6:12-16.

The fish of the Sea of Galilee, because they were taken in fresh water, commanded top prices throughout the ancient world, and the Galilean fishermen were business men who sold their catch in Rome, Carthage, Athens, Ephesus, and the best cities of the world. At the upper end of the Sea of Galilee there were extensive salteries which prepared the fish for shipping, and the larger firms engaged in the business had correspondents and agents in probably a score of the major cities of the Roman World. At least two such firms were represented in the little group of 12 who were associated with Jesus. Peter and Andrew, and James and John, could have been called "representative business men" of Galilee.

A Radical and a Conservative

The population of Galilee was a mixed one, with perhaps a dozen races represented. Just east of the Sea of Galilee half a score of Greek towns of some size were located, being made up of immigrants settled in the region by Alexander the Great. Just a few miles farther east was the desert into which fugitives from justice, radicals, and outlaws could flee with ease and be lost to civilization for a time at least.

This was the region from which trouble emerged for Rome. All the malcontents, radicals, and revolutionaries found it easy to recruit gangs and followers in the desert. One considerable party of such, sworn enemies of everything Roman, made their headquarters in the desert and were called "Zealots." At least one of Jesus' disciples was a member of this party.

The customs officer in Capernaum was a highly trusted official of the Empire, who was required to furnish a huge cash bond. He also had to hire a considerable number of clerks, inspectors, etc., and at least one authority estimated that he had to have a working capital of something the equivalent of half a million dollars. Matthew, another one of Jesus' disciples, was the customs agent in Capernaum and was called from that office by Jesus to become a disciple. He represented the opposite extreme, to that of "Simon, the Zealot."

All Were Galileans

With a single exception (Judas Iscariot), all the disciples were Galileans. They came out of a province noted for its liberality, democratic ideals and Jewish patriotism. As natives of a cosmopolitan province, and all apparently of early middle age, they must have been a commanding little company.

Comparatively little is to be known of them, for the actual historical data is very limited. Very odd traditions, generally accepted but as yet unproven, indicate that with the single exception they all died the death of martyrs in behalf of the Christian cause. They are known to have travelled as far as India, and to have enjoyed in some instances amazing success as evangelists.

It is extremely unfortunate that no one of the eleven original disciples numbered among his friends such a faithful follower as Luke, whose Gospel and Book of Acts found a place in the New Testament and established Paul as the greatest of all the early Christians. No one can guess what the history of the Christian Church might have been if Thomas, for instance, had been followed by a chronicler who told the story of his amazing journeys and ministries.

In spite of the shadows which have fallen over their memories, there was not an unimportant member of that original band.

3RD SIDNEY

3rd Sidney. — Friends of Mr. Stanley May were shocked to learn that he had the misfortune to fall from a ladder in his barn, while attending the morning chores on Sunday. Mr. May is now a patient in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from fractures in both heels.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ritz and Barbara, of Corbyville, spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Harley Hubble and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sills of Centenary, spent Tuesday evening with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hollinger.

Mrs. Bart Hogle is spending a few days this week in Pembroke where her sister, Mrs. Hester Brown, is critically ill in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Briggs, of Detroit, and Mrs. John Denike of Toronto, spent Sunday with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Denike and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Van Osten, of Belleville, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Spafford on Sunday and attended Aikens' Church Service in the evening.

Mr. Gordon Grills, first year student at Queen's University, spent the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Grills.

Mrs. Wilmot Bailey, 2nd Line, left Thursday morning by motor for Toronto, where she will spend the next few days with her sister, Mrs. McPherson, Mr. McPherson and Peter, at their home in Willowdale.

Mr. Orval May, president, and several members of the Sidney Junior Farmers' motored to Stirling on Tuesday evening, and attended a party given in the High School by the members of Rawdon Junior Farmers and Junior Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. John McKenzie, of Belleville, have moved into the farm home belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Jones of Belleville and formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alf Murray.

SECOND DIVORCE FROM WIFE BECOMES FINAL

Mexico City, Feb. 18 —(AP)— Joe Louis' second divorce from Marva Trotter Louis became final Wednesday, a lawyer acting for both of them said Thursday. Joe and Marva were divorced in Chicago March 27, 1945 and remarried a year later in Indiana.

FRANKFORD

Scout Troop Entertained By Lions Club

Frankford — The local troop of the Boy Scouts, as well as fifteen prospective Scouts, were guests of the Lions Club at their bi-monthly meeting Wednesday evening, in the Community - Memorial Hall. In all, approximately 80 boys and Lions sat down to the bounteous banquet prepared for the occasion.

During the meal, Lion Arnold Stickle, announced that Lion Adrian Babcock, had a birthday coming in a couple of days. Lion Adrian was presented with a pink and white baby bonnet, a baby's rattle, and a tiny birthday cake with one lighted candle. Lions and boys joined in singing "Happy Birthday."

An invitation was read from Trenton Lions Club, inviting Frankford Lions to attend a special banquet to be held in Wooler, March 10. It is hoped that a large number from Frankford will be able to attend.

Field Commissioner Heard

Lion, Floyd Ketcheson then introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Arthur L. Jackson, Field Commissioner for the Boy Scouts. Mr. Jackson outlined the origin of the Boy Scouts, and the life of the founder of the organization, Lord Baden Powell. He stressed the training given in the Scouts, particularly in character and citizenship. Mr. Jackson told of the many duties performed by the Scouts, some small, but nevertheless essential, others of the heroic nature. He stressed the great part taken by the scouts during the war. Mr. Jackson gave some idea of the size of the Scout organization, by pointing out that the Boy Scout Organization is larger than all the Service Clubs, or all the fraternal organizations in the world combined.

President Bates then called on Scoutmaster Walter Pavlica for a few words. With the assistance of several scouts Scoutmaster Pavlica outlined the Scouts' Promise, and the Laws of Scouting. They also gave a demonstration in tying knots. Walter concluded with a few remarks in regard to the work being done by the Frankford Scouts.

Ex-Scoutmaster Arnold Creaser was called on for a few remarks. Arnold thanked the Lions for the fine evening, and extended an invitation for one and all to attend services at his church in Ivanhoe.

USE FEMALE BLOOD TRANSFUSION

Moncton, N.B., Feb. 18 —(CP) —Female blood will be used today in another of the many efforts made to save the life of a seven-year-old boy, suffering from an obscure blood disease. Doctors admit the ailment which has kept Alderic Dionne unconscious for nearly two weeks has them puzzled. So far transfusions, all from male donors, have not been effective.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

"Good for you! How many times in the last three years I've wished I had something like that to make me independent! Go on . . . this is thrilling."

"Well, I don't know whether you know what a small town is like, but you . . . you know everything that's going to happen to you all your life. I wanted something thrilling and unexpected."

"The only thing that can be thrilling is to fall in love with some one who loves you. That can happen in a small town."

"But it didn't. Oh, I had a beau but he is the stubbornest man in the world!"

"Maybe you're a little bit stubborn," Angela contributed.

"Poor lamb — Haven't you had any?"

"I've had people ask me for dates and pay me compliments but your romance is the nearest I've come to any, except" — she broke off, remembering Norman Ellis Carteret — "I met a man in New York, Angela, but I ran away from him. You see everybody thinks I'm incurably romantic because I want to get the humdrum out of my life. But way down underneath, I'm practical and sensible. And I knew that this boy—he comes from a very social family without any money — well, I knew he probably wouldn't marry me and my out-of-the-Social-Register money. So I ran away before I got hurt."

"And now?"

"Now, I'm going home. I feel cheated. I wanted to be the leading lady, and I'm only a bystander. Oh, I didn't mean Cecil exactly. I guess you know what I mean. I have a feeling that if something exciting had happened to me, I could go home content to stay there . . . Now George Frame is leaving and it will be dull here, so I'm going back."

"No, you're not! I've got a grand idea! Janet Hartpence, a very good friend of mine, has a beautiful cottage at Pembroke and she's begged me to stay with her because her father has gone back to New York. Jan's house is always jammed with parties. She'd adore having you. Where's the telephone?"

Heedless of Rosalie's protests, Angela ran across the garden to the telephone. She came back in a few minutes. "Janet adores the idea! I'll take you over in our boat. But you've got to be in New York for November third. I won't have you miss my wedding. Here . . . give me those sweaters. I'll help you pack."

• • •

Janet said, "It's all too, too grand, Angela. If I'd been you I'd have eloped . . . And this is Rosalie, the miracle worker! I'm delighted to have you. Last room on the right. Make yourself to home. I've got a mob coming in after the cricket."

Rosalie hadn't caught her breath since Angela took her into Janet Hartpence's small, charming cottage. She said, "You're awfully sweet to take me in but..."

Janet was replacing some wilted flowers in a vase. "Skip it. It must have been frightfully lonesome where you were. It's going places and meeting people that make a holiday . . . Good heavens, Angela, I haven't any food ready. Can you do things about hors d'oeuvres?"

"I can," Rosalie proffered.

Rosalie hurried to the kitchen. This was different! This promised all the things she had hoped for. Now, then, to have a look at the beau situation.

There were plenty of them that afternoon, and later that night when she and Janet, fast friends by that time, returned from the movies.

But it wasn't until two days later that Rosalie opened her eyes considered disentangling herself from her spilled bicycle, and closed them again. The broad shoulder in tweeds that smelled of tobacco and leather soap against which her head was pillowed was very comfortable.

She sighed gently, wondering if this were another dream. Or did her rescuer look like Clark Gable?

He said, "Try to drink this. You will be all right in a minute."

Rosalie drank something fiery, opened her eyes and smiled a little. It wasn't a dream; he did look something like Clark Gable, only a little older.

She said feebly, 'What happened?"

"My horse scared your bicycle and you spilled. Let's see if there is anything broken."

There was a bump on the back of her head but her bones seemed to be intact.

She said, "My bicycle scares easily."

"Then I ought to get to know it better. I'm going to take you both home.

A blue velvet ribbon bound Rosalie's curls high on her head. There was bows of the same blue velvet at the wrists of her housecoat. They flitted in and out amid the silver of the tea things and the thin china cups on the low cozy table beside the shadowy hearth.

Rosalie was aware of the grace with which she poured their tea, as if she had been doing it all her life in some such room as this.

Charles, broad - shouldered and bronze in his tweeds, balanced a teacup in his delicate hands. He suggested rolling lawns beyond, a beautifully kept stable of thoroughbreds, civic clubs, important board meetings, a gentle, luxurious but conservative life.

"We'd got up to the paleozoic age," she said. "I can't wait to hear more." He lit his pipe slowly and drew on it. Rosalie loved his pipe. Terry always smoked a pipe, but he didn't do it with an air.

Charles turned to her, "Not the paleozoic, my dear, the paleolithic. The paleozoic, if you'll remember was the age of fishes, amphibia and the beginning of swamp forest. Now, the paleolithic was far beyond that in advancement. The latter was during the glacial periods, and paleolithic man had replaced—"

Rosalie composed herself to listening and hoping she would be able to remember enough to make some intelligent remark the next time she started such a conversation. She hadn't been doing well these last four days since Charles Minturn carried her home from her bicycle accident, and she had discovered he was an ardent student. But she had tried hard, albeit often with a sigh.

Cecil's poetry had got her down. But posing as a Victorian heroine was harder. And, of course, Cecil was a mere boy who would expect more of her. Charles she thought, about forty-five. The stern, silent type. Not that he was silent once he got off on his favorite subject.

Also, it wasn't what Charles said so much as the way he said it. Charles had an old - world charm that made her feel very much the gracious lady. Charles, who the day after her accident had called to inquire about her health, had stayed to tea. He'd come the next day for lunch. The day after that for tea. And now he was here again. Janet's room seemed so different when Janet's gay young friends were not around. They were off fishing or swimming or playing tennis. Rosalie had lost her taste for such things. Charles didn't ask her to run about. His monotone voice went on:

PREDICT FAST TRACK

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 18 (AP)—The lure of a fat stack of money tomorrow draws some of the finest three-year-olds in the country to post in the 12th running of the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby.

The distance is at a mile and one-eighth. Track officials predicted a fast track and bright skies.

The Hooper colts, Olympia and Ocean Drive, barring any mishap, will be the heavy betting choice.

Belleville Minor Puckists Split Honors; Midgets Win, Juveniles Lose by 6-3 Score

Belleville minor hockey teams split the decisions here last night when the Gunners Midgets took an easy first-game victory over the Cobourg kids by a 14-1 score while the Rockets juveniles in one of the best games seen here this season dropped a 6-3 verdict to the starry Port Hope juves.

There was nothing to the first game as the Barriage-Strahan midget crew after a slow first period went on to show their definite superiority over the visiting children to romp home with a thirteen goal margin to take back to the Port on Monday night.

But the second game was different. The Belleville Rockets juveniles, down three goals and apparently defeated flashed back with a third period concerted effort that saw them tie the score at 3-all. Six penalties, most of them of the cheap variety spelled doom for the local kids and the smart Port Hope kids went on to score three goals, albeit when the Rockets were shorthanded, to win the game and take a commanding lead on the round.

Port Hope 6 Belleville Rockets Juveniles 3

The fast skating Port Hope juveniles went all out in the first period of the game in an effort to reap a substantial lead to take back home. They were fast and tricky. Their goalkeeper Ashton was "out of this world" in that period turning back the flying Rockets time after time while his mates were firing home three goals.

They scored two in the first period from Flesch and McKeen and added another in the second period from Downey aided by Freeman.

But in the third period it was different. The bus loads of Port Hope fans had their hopes suddenly dashed when the Rockets came to hockey life. Doran fired home the first goal to pass Ashton in the Port Hope nets. At the five minute mark in the period. Rivett sank the biscuit on a pass from Nolan. Two minutes later while the eighteen Belleville supporters howled their approval, Brown scored from Gilmour's pass to tie the count.

Weird Hockey

From then on it was more or less weird hockey. The Port Hope referee, G. Rowden, suddenly remembered he had a whistle. Rockets players went off by the handful. At one time there were no less than four Belleville players in the sin bin, Port Hope took advantage of the lapse. They bored in consistently with five players at times against 3 and rammed home 3 goals to score a 6-3 victory. Six penalties were handed-out by referee Rowden of Cobourg and all of them against Rocket players. Most of them were of the cheap variety. The handful of fans did not like the official decisions.

However, that is that. The teams clash again in Port Hope on Monday night so says the official word. Flesch, Downey and Freeman were the best for the winners while Doran, Gilmour, Brown and Rivett looked tops for the Belleville team.

Ashton in goal for the Port Hope crew stood out like a sore thumb. He kicked out plenty of Belleville rubber and until the time that Doran finally scored the first Belleville goal in the third period, appeared to be invincible. He did a good job.

The Teams

Port Hope: Goal, Ashton; defence Flesch, Gody; centre Wilcox; wings Medhurst, Campbell; subs, Freeman, Pillsworth, Fisher, Lennhan, McKeen, Downey, Evans.

Gunners 14, Cobourg 1

Belleville Gunners Midget 'B's' rode roughshod over the Cobourg team last night to defeat them 14-1 in the first of their two-games, goals-to-count series. The teams play the second game in Port Hope Arena on Monday.

After a slow first ten minutes in the first period, the fast-skating Gunners took over and despite a gallant effort on the part of the visitors, hopelessly outplayed them.

Gunners led at the end of the first period by a 3-1 score. They rammed home four more in the second frame and went on a 3rd-period scoring splurge to score seven goals with nary a return from the visitors.

Three Perform Hat Trick

Whelan, Carey and Lally each scored three goals for the Gunners with Barrett and Allen getting a pair each. Milligan got the odd one. Bowen scored the visitors' lone tally. Carey also got himself three assists and with Peter Green, who played an outstanding game all night, were two of the stars of the game.

Don Barclay in the Belleville nets did an outstanding job. Douglas, diminutive centre for Cobourg did a fine chore for the losers as did Bowen and Booth.

The teams:

Cobourg: Goal, Polke; defence, Booth, Cavanaugh; centre, Bowen; wings, Lengard, Fletcher; subs, Douglas, Campbell, Ashcroft, Crane, Cane, Campbell, Sponan, Fisher.

Summary:

1st Period.

1 Cobourg, Bowen 7.45
2 Belleville, Whelan (Carey, Barrett) 9.50
3 Belleville, Whelan 12.10
4 Belleville, Milligan 14.00
4 Belleville, Milligan 14.00
Penalties—Green, Booth.

2nd Period.

5 Belleville, Barrett (Carey) 2.30
6 Belleville, Barrett (Green) 3.50
7 Belleville, Allen (Green) 6.50
8 Belleville, Carey (Whelan) 14.30
Penalties — Elliott, Green, Booth.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Michael Rodden sports scrivener for the Kingston sheet while admitting that the UNR Diesels pack lots of power all round thinks that while the Diesels have an imposing record, they boast no such scoring line as the Gerew-Partis-Catlin trio of the Kingston Nylons.

Writes Michael: "One of the most vital games of the OHA Senior B group series will be staged here on Friday night when the undefeated Belleville Diesels clash with the vastly improved Nylons. On Jan. 24 the Belles, playing at home tore the Nylons apart at the seams and racked up a 10 to 1 verdict but it won't be that way on Friday now that Nylons have attained top strength.

"The Diesels, having outscored the combined opposition by 87 to 20 and having won seven consecutive games, one of which was a four-pointer, have mown down their foes with neatness and dispatch but none of their victims was anywhere nearly as powerful as are the improved Nylons.

• • •

"These Three Musketeers, Joey Catlin, Walter Gerew, and Kenny Partis, who in two consecutive starts against Queen's scored 17 goals and had 23 assists, will carry the attacking burden against the Belles and that without doubt. The signing of Gerew was a master stroke on the part of the Nylons' management who dared to take into the fold this noted former Belleville scorer.

• • •

"Defensively Belleville's record far overshadows that of the Nylons but it must be remembered that the Diesels were a formidable force from the start of operations whereas it was only recently that Nylons swung into their fastest stride.

• • •

"The fact that the group leaders trounced the Ontario Aces by 23 to 2 on Monday evening carries no weight relative to the test here. It was a makeshift aggregation that the Diesels crushed in racking up a score reminiscent of those assembled by the mighty Kingston Frontenac juniors of 1911.

• • •

"Six of the 12 players used by the Aces were making their debutes in senior company and only for a night at that. It was a dire emergency and while the locals did the best they could it cannot be said that the Belles strained that quality of mercy to a helpless foe.

• • •

"That the Diesels pack a lot of experience and power needs no stressing. They are a sound team and are strongly fortified in all positions. It is conceded that they have the best defence in the group but they haven't got any trio of forwards on a par with the Gerew-Partis-Catlin brigade unless, of course, recent performances are misleading."

• • •

Tonight the Rampaging Rockets go in search of their eighth straight victory in Junior "B" group competition when they meet the Kingston Aces in Memorial Arena here. With Renny Trussell back in playing harness again the team should be at full strength and on paper go on to extend their undefeated streak. The Rockets have but three more games to play including tonight's tilt. On Friday, Feb. 25 they will be the guests of the Kingston Navy on the latter's ice and on Monday, Feb. 28th, they wind up the regular group schedule against the Queen's University youngsters. This game, too, will be played in Kingston. And then, Yo Ho for the jolly old playoffs.

• • •

The Whitby Red Wings, as friend Ed Haynes, centre star of the Cobourg-Port Hope Combines informs us, have added considerable strength by taking aboard four ex-junior players from around Bowmanville way. The two teams are in the throes of Intermediate "A" group playoffs in a three-of-five series. Whitby copped the first game 8-5 with the Bowmanville players in a starring role. The winners of the series meet the Trenton Flyers in the group finals. And it is quite likely that the winners of this series will tangle with the powerful Gananoque squad, providing of course the Queen's University team does not dispose of them in the group playoffs.

• • •

Bobby Strahan's Midget "B" Belleville-Gunners midget crew flashed through to another outstanding victory against the Cobourg kids here last night, knocking them off by a 14-1 score to take a commanding 13-goal lead back to Port Hope on Monday. But enough about that. The story of the night was the juvenile game. The Port Hope crew, aided and abetted by a couple of busloads of supporters, thirty more than we had in the rink, shaded our Rockets Juves by a 6-3 count. And by shaded, we mean just that. The valiant Schrieder-led crew came back after a three-goal deficit to tie the score in the third period and after that it was any man's battle.

• • •

Then the penalties started to creep in. Referee G. Rowden of Port Hope blew his whistle willy nilly. Rockets filed out of the game into the penalty box in a steady stream. At one time there were four of Bill Cook's proteges doing durance vile. Quick to sense their advantage, the smart Port Hope squad went to work. They rammed home three quick goals and that was that. We do think, however, that some of Referee Rowden's penalties were of the cheap variety. The twenty-four fans present will vouch for that. However, the Port Hope-Juves are a damn smart team and we doubt very much, as much as we would like to see it, if the Eddie Schrieder crew can overcome that three-goal deficit in Port Hope on Monday night. Here's hoping, chum.

• • •

And so to Kingston, where tonight we see Diesels clash with Mike Rodden's favorite team, the Nylons.

Providence Reds Couldn't Stand The 13 Jinx

(By The Canadian Press)

Providence Reds ran up against the old number 13 jinx last night and they couldn't match it. The Eastern Division leaders, undefeated in their last 12 starts and who clinched the divisional championship Wednesday night, went down 6-3 before the New Haven Ramblers.

In the only other American League game, Indianapolis Capitals boosted their first place lead in the western loop over Cleveland to five points by coming from behind twice to beat Buffalo Bisons 3-2 before a hometown crowd.

Near the close of the second in a goal which gave New Haven a lead it never relinquished. Denis scored again at 2.50 of the final period and Bill Ramsden poked in the Ramblers final tally at 13.53.

The Morrison Brothers, with a fine display of stick-handling, gave Indianapolis their winning goal. Don slapped the puck under goalie Connie Dion from eight feet out on an assist from brother Rod.

Floyd Currie hit a rebound shot to get Buffalo away in front in the first period, but Nelson Podolsky tied it on a 25 footer. Joe Lund put the Bisons in front in the second period, but Freddy Glover tied it again. The score remained that way until the Morrison Brothers combined to get the winning counter.

Jeanne Matthews, Vancouver, Favored to Take Skating Title Recently Held by Barbara Ann

By ED ROMAINE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Mary Rose Thacker Baer, who missed her chance to win the Olympic figure - skating crown because of the war, believes she is training the next holder of the title that eluded her.

Miss Thacker, now a professional at the Vancouver Figure Skating Club, selects 19-year-old Jeanne Matthews to succeed Barbara Ann Scott.

The pretty Vancouver girl is the prize pupil among Miss Thacker's more than 600 students. Runner-up to Barbara Ann in the Canadian championships, she is a favorite to take the title in the meet opening in Ottawa today.

"Jeanne has what it takes and will go a long way in world competition," said the 26-year-old Winnipeg - born queen of the blades, who held both the Canadian and North American titles for four years.

Miss Thacker, wife of a construction engineer and mother of a four - year - old daughter, has lost none of the sparkle and ability that saw her voted Canada's outstanding woman athlete in the 1941 Canadian Press poll of sports writers. From morning until night she trains young skaters.

With her dreams of attaining the world title gone with outbreak of war she returned to Dominion and North American competition until 1942 before leaving the amateur ice lanes.

"There was little competition for the Canadian and North American titles then and I was heart - broken about being unable to compete for the world's title so I decided to quit and marry," she explains.

"Candy has been skating for more than a year and is shewing unusual talent. I know she will be a great skater when she grows up."

Asked what she thought of Canadian skaters compared with those of other countries, Mary Rose replied:

"Our skaters have always been great. But it's only in the last dozen years that they have been making good in the world games. From now on, however, Canada will be the top country."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—European sports fans apparently are just learning that hockey isn't hockey without a few punches for good measure ... when Tom Russell of Canada's Sudbury Wolves took the butt end of a Czech player's stick in his ribs and retaliated in the customary manner by taking a belt at his annoyer, officials of the International Ice Hockey Federation threatened to ban him from the current world hockey championships in Stockholm ... the next night the customers broke down the doors trying to get in to see the Canadians ... although jobs with the Missouri State Athletic Commission pay only $1,800 a year Governor Forrest Smith has had more than 60 applications for the three positions he has to fill ...seems business men aren't interested in the dough as much as those ringside passes for fights and wrestling bouts...

The Last Straw

This tale sounds too perfect to be true, but ... Ernie Fortner, Joplin, Mo., golf pro was on the first tee at Phoenix when he was called to the telephone (it says). Entering the club house, he slipped and sprained an arm ... the message was that his house in Joplin had burned down ... Ernie started to drive home, when he hit the mountains, the highway patrol notified him the roads were iced up and he couldn't go on ... learning by phone he couldn't do much at home, Fortner rejoined the touring pros at Tucson, Ariz. ... despite the injured arm, Ernie fired a 67 on the first round— and found he was tied for 19th place.

CASTELLANI FAVORED

New York, Feb. 18 — (AP) — Rocky Castellani, a rising young star from the coal mines of northeastern Pennsylvania, is a slight favorite to whip Charlie Fusari tonight in his first Madison Square Garden main go.

A sturdy scrapper, Rocky lost only once in 26 bouts and he reversed that defeat, by Billy Kilroy, in a later bout. He has seven knockouts and 18 decision victories.

Gordon Petrie Has Good Year

(By The Associated Press)

Gordon Petrie just about cinched his best season in the United States Hockey League when he fired Dallas Texans to a 6-1 victory over Houston last night.

The Dallas centre picked up three assists and two goals. The five points raised his season's output to 60, 43 of them assists.

With 13 games remaining Petrie needs only two points to equal his scoring mark of last year, his best of three seasons in the United States League.

In the only other southern-division game last night Tulsa rallied for three goals in the final period and a 5-3 victory over Fort Worth.

The Tulsa victory gives the Oilers an 11-point advantage in first place with 61, compared to 50 for second-place Dallas.

AMMONIA FROM HORNS

Ammonia once was distilled from the horns and hoofs of animals and was known as spirit of hartshorn.

Sudbury Wolves Defeat U.S. By 7-2 Score

Stockholm, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Canada's fate in the world amateur hockey tournament may well be decided today as the 1949 championships neared a climax.

Canada, the defending champion, held a slim chance of retaining the world crown won by R.C.A.F. Flyers a year ago. Sweden and Czechoslovakia, both unbeaten in the round-robin finals, ruled co-favorites. The United States and Austria were out of the running.

Today the Dominion, represented by Sudbury Wolves, was to meet Austria; Sweden faced the United States and Czechoslovakia engaged Switzerland.

The Canadians, 7-0 winners over Austria in the preliminary round, have one victory, one tie and a loss for three points. Victories over Austria and Switzerland Saturday would give them a final point standing of seven. Each of the six countries in the finals play five games.

Sweden has five points from two victories and a tie. The Czechs have four points on two victories with three games left to play. The Swedes have two games remaining including a weekend meeting with Czechoslovakia.

Against the Americans the Canadians never were behind. Perhaps mindful of the combination of circumstances which had deprived them of victory against Czechoslovakia and Sweden, they scored twice in the first period, once in the second and climaxed the scoring spree with four goals in less than eight minutes of the final period.

Equally Divided

The scoring was equally divided between seven Canadians — Tom Russell, Jim Russell, Joe Tergesen, Don Munro, Bill Dimock, Ray Bauer and Don Stanley. Bruce Mather and Prince Johnson scored the United States' goals in the second period.

The game was delayed for 45 minutes at the request of Stockholm police so they could clear crowds away from outside Olympic Stadium. Police took no chances of a repitition of Wednesday night's gate-crashing disturbances which resulted in injury to 14 persons. Thousands had tried to get into the stadium to see Canada and Sweden play a 2-2 draw.

The United States drew the only penalty of the game— one of the most cleanly played of the tournament. It was a marked contrast to the contests with the Czechs and Swedes during which the Canadians were heavily penalized for "roughness."

Max Silverman, manager of the Wolves, exulted over the victory, asked: "Why didn't they referee the other games like this?"

"Those (other) referees practically took the championship away from us," Silverman added.

Some of the Canadians had predicted that Thursday night's refereeing would be closer to the North American style because no European team was involved. But when Canada played Austria and Switzerland the refereeing would revert to the European way "because they don't want us to win."

Three stalwarts of the Rockets Junior "B's" who will seek their eighth straight victory tonight against The Kingston Aces in Memorial Arena. Ronny Trussell, starry young centre who has been out of action due to an injured arm will be back in harness again at his pivot position while Johnny Green and Hogan will be performing in their usual effective style.

Bowling

BOWL-O-DROME
Quinte Mixed League

The standing in the Quinte Mixed League remained unchanged after last night's games. Zombies held their one point lead over Yardettes by holding them to a draw, two points each. Eager Beavers took four points from Rovers, while in the other game Fearnots defeated Owls three points to one.

Highlight of the night was the remarkable three string of 932 turned in by J. Dunphy. His three games were 300, 280, 352. This is the highest score rolled in the league this season.

Other good individual scores were turned in by C. Hinkley 810 (313), H. Myles 754 and C. Hardwick 729.

B. Smith led the ladies with 716, followed closely by I. Moreau 700 and B. Hardwick 694.

Negro Co-ed Prettiest of All

Montreal, Feb. 19 (CP)— The crowning of a dusky beauty from the British West Indies will highlight festivities here today at the second annual winter carnival of McGill University.

Although the students secretly voted three days ago for 22-year-old Beryl Dash, result of the ballot was only scheduled to be released tonight. But a whispering campaign spread across the campus like wildfire and carnival officials reluctantly admitted that the Negro co-ed was "prettiest of them all."

Tonight as the four-day carnival swings into its second day, "athletics night" holds the spotlight with the coronation ceremony. Students will display their gymnastic tricks including parallel-bar, ring work and tumbling exercises.

Organizers of the gigantic carnival claim that it is the biggest extravaganza of its kind in North America.

At the Forum, McGill Redmen and Toronto Varsity clash in an intercollegiate game with second place in the league standing at stake.

Skiers will also see action. A two-day meet is scheduled to start at the Laurentian Mountain village of St. Sauveur today with Slalom and downhill events while the jumpers will test their skill on the slopes of Mount Royal.

The students will wind up the carnival Saturday at McGill gym where a grand ball is expected to attract more than 5,000 students and competitors.

The McGill carnival queen will distribute prizes from her throne to the athletic winners.

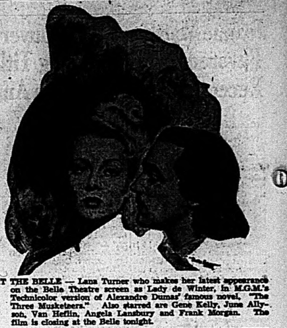
AT THE McCARTHY — Robert Cummings seems to be in a bad mental state as he is caught between Anna Sten and Hedy Lamarr in this hilarious scene from the sparkling romantic comedy, "Let's Live a Little," an Eagle Lion release opening today at the McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL—Cesar Romero reveals to an unimpressed Dana Andrews, his plans to quit sea-going life and buy a farm miles from the sea in this scene from "Deep Waters," which is now having its first Belleville showing today and Saturday. The 20th. Century-Fox filmization of Ruth Moore's best-selling novel, "Spoonhandle" was photographed on the fishing island of Vinalhaven, ten miles off the coast of Maine, with a cast which, in addition to Andrews and Romero includes Jean Peters, Dean Stockwell and Ann Revere. On the same program "Triggerman," starring Johnny Mack Brown. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.



AT THE BELLE — Lana Turner who makes her latest appearance on the Belle Theatre screen as Lady de Winter, in M.G.M.'s Technicolor version of Alexandre Dumas' famous novel, "The Three Musketeers." Also starred are Gene Kelly, June Allyson, Van Heflin, Angela Lansbury and Frank Morgan. The film is closing at the Belle tonight.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Life in a bridge game is always a problem for some players. It comes from their use of an unsound opening basis. This makes them unsure of their future bids; prevents their use of routine.

An opening based on honor tricks alone is not always sound. It may lack a fourth high card. So its later acts must be decided by inferences and adjusted by exceptions.

Such systems state there are 8 to 8½ honor tricks in all. Their opening is with 2½ to 3 honor tricks, presumably better than a fourth of the total. But there are more than 8 to 8½ honor tricks in all.

Take A K as two; Q J 10, a half. Or A Q as 1½; K J 10 as one. Or A J 10 as 1½; K Q as one. Such combinations could occur in all four suits. They would total ten honor tricks.

Shy a trick or high card, their worry is what not to do next and later. Not shy, they are uncertain what to do next or later. That is they must not use the same routine after every opening.

A Horse Sense opener is not short of any basic need. Therefore selection of his later bids may follow routine after every opening. There are no modifications, remifications to consider.

Take a hand like the one shown:

♠A Q 6 4 2
♥J 10
♦A K 3
♣9 6 2

It is a sound opening bid of one spade in any system. In Horse Sense it is exactly enough and no more. In the honor trick method it is stronger than needed.

So, on the second round a Horse Sense opener knows he has no second bid unless forced. An honor trick opener, however, may not pass without a force. His next act may depend on inference.

You could start a pretty good argument on the merits of this. Is it better to be sound and not be vexed, or have a wider spread and guess what's next.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 18 — (AP) — Fred Astaire is spending these days watching his nags run at Santa Anita, but he won't be idle long.

M.G.M. is whipping up a vehicle for Fred and he expects to be back at work. The new picture will not be with Ginger Rogers, with whom Fred makes a return appearance in "Barkleys of Broadway." Judy Garland may be starred.

! Meanwhile, the deal for "White Christmas" with Fred and Bing Crosby has bogged down temporarily. Paramount and Irving Berlin can't agree on terms.

A Marx or Two

The Marx brothers were called back for retakes on "Love Happy," but Chico couldn't answer the call. He's playing in England. So Harpo will double for him in the scenes.

Groucho Marx may join the march to CBS with his quiz show. He's still amazed at the success of the program. It's his first air hit after many tries.

Bob Hope was miffed at George Jessel, who narrated the photoplay awards. Bob was ready to reel off some gags, but Jessel cut him off with a "thank you." Jessel's boss, Darryl Zanuck, spoke later.

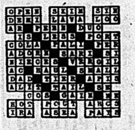
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, Now really, William, I mean really, this is an imposition on the public.

Tell me more. pop said, and ma said, Of all the things to of happened to all the people, Paulette Paul and Roger Gillingway, it's inexcusible. Paulette Paul and Roger Gillingway, who have been in a duzzen pictures together, and always as the perfectly married and ideally happy husband and wife, I'll never forgive them, she said.

What's happened to them, for Peet sake? pop said, and ma said, You'll be shocked and disillusioned when I tell you, you'll never want to set eyes on them in another movie. Paulette Paul, who has always been the sole of tolerance and saintly forbearance tords Roger Gillingway in their pictures, has just been divorced by her real husband for petty nagging. It seems she actually went so far as to lock him out of the house after she peeked out of the window and saw that he was about to come in without wiping his feet ferst. And on the very same day, to add to the blow, Roger Gillingway, who is invariably the last werd in gallantry in his pictures with Paulette Paul, was divorced by his wife because he never uttered a civil werd in her presence and sometimes didn't even utter any kind of a werd for weeks at a time. Can you imagine 2 sutch hippocrits, William? ma said.

Not at all, my dear, pop said. It's entirely the fault of the movie studio, with duzzens of expensive script writers on its payroll, for forcing Paulette and Roger to make up their own dialog in their own homes, he said, and ma said, Well, I hope I'll be able to look at it in the same charitable way, because I'd hate to have to stay away from all the rest of their wonderful pictures.

Being the happy end of the subject.

Dr. G. J. Trueman, Sackville, Dies

Sackville, N.B., Feb. 18 (CP)—Dr. George J. Trueman, President Emeritus of Mount Allison University and noted Canadian educationist, died in hospital today. He was 76.

Elected mayor of this college town by acclamation only a few weeks ago, Dr. Trueman suffered a stroke last Friday and had been unconscious since.

Native of Point de Bute, N.B., he was born Jan. 31, 1872, the son of the late Howard Thompson Trueman and the late Mary (Main) Trueman. His ancestors from Yorkshire settled in Nova Scotia in 1774.

After attending common school he attended the Provincial Normal School at Fredericton and received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Mount Allison in 1902 and 1904.

Later he studied in Berlin, Heidelberg and New York where he received his Ph.D. degree in 1919. At a special convocation on the centenary of Acadia University in 1938 he received the degree of D.C.L.

Rayner Suffers Painful Reaction To an Injection

(By The Canadian Press)

Chuch Rayner, goalie of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, spent several hours in a New York hospital Thursday after having suffered a painful reaction to an injection for prevention of hay fever.

Rayner received the injection before Wednesday night's game in which he blanked the Detroit Red Wings, 4-0. After the game his face swelled alarmingly, his temperature rose and he spent a sleepless night.

Taken to a hospital Thursday morning, Rayner was attended by Dr. Vincent Nardiello, Madison Square Garden staff physician. After several hours Dr. Nardiello reported Rayner's condition greatly improved and said he would be able to play against Montreal Saturday night at Montreal.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., a $750,000 arena and recreation centre will be opened Sunday.

Started three years ago, the city-owned project will bring the Soo district's first artificial ice arena, and hockey enthusiasts hope to see the city recapture its previous position in the game. Seating capacity is 4,000 with room for another 1,500 standing customers.

At Rochester, N.Y., Johnny Graham, 133 3-4, Paterson, N.J., gained a technical knockout victory over Joe McPhee, 133 1-2, Oshawa, at the end of the fifth round of a boxing bout here, Thursday night. In another bout scheduled for four rounds, Harry Goulding of Oshawa knocked out Bobby Smith of Williamsport, Pa., in 2.21 of the third round.

At Valleyfield, Que., Andre Charest, fleet centreman with the University of Montreal Carabins in the senior intercollegiate circuit, Thursday signed a contract with Valleyfield Braves of the Quebec Senior Hockey League. Charest will be ineligible to play any more games with University of Montreal, who only need one more victory to clinch the college crown.

Two figures in the pro football gambling scandal which led to the barring of former New York Giant stars Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes Thursday asked the United States Supreme Court to review their convictions for bribery it was announced at Washington. The men, Harvey Stemmer and David Krakower, were convicted of offering bribes to the Giant players to throw a crucial game between the Giants and Chicago Bears during the 1946 National Professional Football League season. Stemmer and Krakower both were given five to ten-year prison terms.

At Miami, the once-mighty Armed made the second start in his current comeback attempt on Thursday, and as in his recent return to competition, finished third in the $350 seven-furlong race. Consistent Gray won the dash by three lengths. Armed, third greatest money-winner in turf history, added a mere $350 to his earnings, which now total $774,400.

Flats Boys Defeat Empire Groceteria 6-5

Thursday night Flats Boys nosed out Empire Grocteria by a score of 6 to 5. Andre Roy notched the first three goals with Young getting 2 and Barrett the 6th goal. For the losers Doyle scored twice with Martin, Morrell and Christie getting the other three. The playoffs in this league begin next week, with Bell Telephone meeting Quinte Paint and Flats Boys playing Empire Groceteria.

Flats Boys—Goal, Cook; defence, Duffy, Garvin; centre, Young; Rt. wing, Walsh; L. wing Andre Roy; Subs, E. Barrett, A. Heard, G. Donovan, R. Hull.

Frankford Takes Norwood 4-1

Frankford—Frankford-Batawa Combines took a 4-1 game from the second place Norwood club Wednesday, on the latter's home ice. Bill McKee had a field day, as he counted three of the four Combine goals, with Jim Howard getting the other. Davis played a good game in the net, and deserved a shutout, rather than the 4-1 count.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By TREVOR ECKTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Feb. 18 — (CP) — At least one enemy hockey writer expects Toronto Maple Leafs to finish the National Hockey League season with a rush that will carry them into second place.

Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan relays the prediction he got recently in a chin-fest with Herb Ralby of the Boston Globe. The way Ralby dopes it out the Leafs will pull off the climb at the expense of his favorite Bruins, now the occupants of the second-place slot.

The Leafs and Bruins play each other six times before the schedule winds up — roughly half of the remaining games for each. The Toronto team has beaten Boston five straight so far.

Plug Broda for Hart

If his Toronto backers get their way, Walter (Turk) Broda may be the first National Hockey League goalie to win the Hart Trophy since Roy Worters got the nod 20 years ago as the league's most valuable player.

Ralph (Toronto Telegram) Allen started a full-throated chorus on behalf of the Brandon native who tends the nets for Toronto Maple Leafs. It was the first major plug for Broda for the Hart.

Allen resolved his argument into two parts: 1. A better-than-average goalie does his team more good over the season than a player in any other position; 2. Broda is the boy who has done the most good for his team this season — keeping the Leafs in the fight when they played inept hockey and giving them solid backing in their late drive for a playoff position.

Job No Tougher

Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle got talking to Bill Durnan and found that the Montreal Canadiens' goalie thinks modern puck-stoppers have a less hazardous occupation than their predecessors of 10 years ago or so.

Bill, taking the opposite line to most fans and writers, says the present-day netminder gets defensive help from all five players in front of him. Years ago only the defence helped.

Adds Andy: "Durnan doesn't think a goalie is often in peril. He won't get hurt as often as a moving target. He's fully protected except on the face. If he gets hit there it's usually because he forgot to duck."

Canadiens Back In Fourth Place Of National Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Back in sole possession of fourth place — the last National Hockey League playoff berth — Montreal Canadiens breathed a little easier today.

The Habitants Thursday night came through with a 3-0 shutout over the haughty Toronto Maple Leafs to move within one point of the third place queen city crew.

Prior to Thursday night's contest the Montrealers were tied with Chicago Black Hawks. Montreal has another chance to widen the gap between them and the windy city crew Saturday night when they tangle with New York in Montreal.

Centre Kenny Mosdell was the main spark plug for Canadiens as he potted two goals. Rookie Gerry Plamondon, who was brought up from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior Hockey League last month, notched the other.

Leafs lacked the fight and color they usually bring with them when they appear in Montreal. Any flashes of scoring power displayed by the Leafs were easily turned away by veteran Bill Durnan who chalked up his fifth shutout of the season.

Wild Bill Ezinicki was given a misconduct penalty by referee Bill Chadwick after he protested a minor tripping penalty too hotly.

On another front Thursday night, the condition of Don Raleigh's injured knee was in the news at New York.

The New York Daily News said in an exclusive story that Raleigh is through for the season. But Stan Saplin, Ranger publicity director, said no decision has yet been taken by the club on whether or not the lanky centre will play again this season.

Raleigh was injured Feb. 6 at Toronto and has missed six games since.

Frankford's Rankin Family Outstanding In Sport

Frankford—The Rankin family of Frankford, are all out for sports in the community. Herb Rankin, eldest son, has successfully managed the Frankford-Batawa Hockey Club to a playoff berth in the Trent Valley League this season. For the past two summers, Herb has managed the Frankford Softball Club, while holding down first base himself. During these two seasons, Frankford has won one league championship, and were playoff finalists the other year. Herb was also assistant coach for the Frankford Juvenile Softball Club, who were Eastern Ontario finalists last year.

Brother Wilson, or "Willie" as the boys call him, plays on the first line of Frankford-Batawa Hockey Club, and is among the top scorers of the team. During the summer, "Willie" plays third base for the Batawa Baseball Club, and handles the job quite capably. He is also one of the best softball pitchers in the district.

Sister Maisie is always a star on the Frankford Girls' Softball team. She is a loyal fan of the home town team, regardless of the kind of sport. Mr. and Mrs. Rankin are always assisting in the promotion of sport in one way or another. Mrs. Rankin has for several seasons sewn crests and numbers on softball and hockey sweaters, besides mending torn sweaters, always free of charge. Mr. Rankin has dry cleaned sweaters and equipment many times for local sports teams without charge.

With families like the Rankins in town, Frankford can always be assured of a good showing in sports the year around.

High Scores Feature Major "A" League

Games played in the Major "A" Bowling League at the Bowl-O-Drome last night resulted in no change in the league standing.

Belleville Golf and York Trading scored major points defeating the Central Cigar "Stogies" and Lawn Bowlers respectively by seven points to nothing.

The CNR team set back the Electronics five points to two while Callaghan's Ice defeated Northern Electric by a similar score.

High individual scores were racked up with several players topping the 700 mark. Included are, J. Bennett 788; E. Barlow 785 (310); J. Legault, 782 (304); Art. Cruji 774; H. Myles 772; L. Lennox 757; P. Drumm 748; C. Hardwick 739 (300); T. Greenfield 732; B. Fraser 718; A. McMullen 717 (304); J. Semark 715; C. Vickers 711; K. Peoples 710; T. Cook 703 and A. Miller 700.

The scores:

Belleville Golf (7)	3510
Central Cigar (0)	3233
York Trading (7)	3464
Lawn Bowlers (0)	3050
CNR (5)	3551
Electronics (2)	3273
Callaghan's Ice (5)	3126
Northern Electric (2)	3054

B.C.I. Hoopsters Defeat Kingston In Exhibition Game

(By MOE BURKE)

Thursday after four Red Townsend's B.C.I. senior hoopsters journeyed to Kingston to defeat the K.C.I. basketballers 57-34 in on exhibition tilt at Kingston Collegiate.

The game on the whole was very well played except for the last portion of the game when B.C.I. came back strong to swamp the Kingstonians with a barrage of baskets. The opening half was by far the best, and Kingston at one time held an eight point lead over the Belleville "Redmen". The play was fast throughout and scoring was very close till the end of half time when the score stood at 25-21 in favor of B.C.I.

In the second half B.C.I. really went to town and outscored their rivals by 19 points resulting in the final score of 57-34 for B.C.I. For the winners Kip Summers led the parade with 12 points, while Buchanan and McMillan each notched 9. Lyons was the best for Kingston getting 18 points while following him was Purcell with 9.

Oshawa Presents Brief Against Tracks in City

Ottawa, Feb. 18. (CP)—Removal of Canadian National Railways tracks from Oshawa's main street was asked Thursday in a brief presented to Transport Minister Chevrier by the city's Chamber of Commerce.

The Minister promised to take under consideration representations of the group who contended that trains being shunted along King Street three or four times daily were a menace to safety.

The 41-page brief contended that rail traffic sometimes held up auto traffic on the thoroughfare which forms part of Ontario Provincial Highway No. 2 and that movement of fire apparatus sometimes was impeded.

It contained letters asking for removal of the tracks from the City's Businessmen's Association and police and fire departments as well as photographs showing holes in the street.

One letter, from P. N. Heritage of Toronto said that on a visit to Oshawa he had damaged his car in the street and "what happened to me shouldn't happen to a dog."

Marlboros May Get Fight Through To Promised Land

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto's battling Marlboros may yet fight through to the promised land — the playoffs of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A league.

Still languishing in seventh-place, two points behind Guelph Biltmores who hold the sixth and last playoff spot in the loop, Syl Apps' young charges came close Thursday night when they lost a heart-breaker to the league-leading Windsor Spitfires 7-5.

But they can still overcome Guelph's lead by defeating eighth place Toronto St. Michael's College Saturday in a game which means four points to the winner.

Sixth-place Guelph has one more game to play tonight, against Barrie Flyers, but even if both Guelph and Marlboros win their games, tying in points for sixth place, the Dukes would be given the nod for the playoff booth on the basis of their superior goals-average during the season.

Windsor took a three-goal lead in the opening period, with Bruce Giesebrecht, Bob Rawlyk and Gerry Lavergne striking for goals. Marlie came back with two more in the same period by Hugh Bolton and George Armstrong.

Spitfires again outscored Toronto 2-1, in the second stanza as John Wilson and Marcel Pronovost tallied for Windsor with Lawrence Regan providing Duke's only goal.

Alaskans Wear Parkas With Evening Dress

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jefford of Anchorage, Alaska, are shown in Regina, Sask., en route to Mexico City, where they plan to have a holiday. Despite Regina's blustery day they were warm and comfortable in their fur parkas and were amazed to find Reginans shivering in their collarless coats. "Fur parkas are indispensable in Alaska, even over formal evening wear," stated Mrs. Jefford. Mrs. Jefford owns a curio shop in Anchorage, largest city in Alaska, with a population of 15,000. Her husband flies for the Civil Aeronautics Administration there. — Central Press Canadian.

Municipalities Will Get Government Assistance To Build Community Centres

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP)—All Ontario municipalities are eligible for government help in building community centres by a bill given second reading in the Ontario legislature.

Taking time out yesterday from the lively Throne-Speech debate, the house gave second reading to 20 government bills. Members will continue consideration of government bills when they reassemble Monday.

The legislature met Friday at 1:30 p.m. instead of the usual three o'clock to let out-of-town members leave early for the weekend at home. Premier Kennedy said he hoped this would be the custom each Friday.

Mr. Kennedy said the community centres act is designed to "build character" and reduce the number of "gangster youngsters". The bill will extend to all municipalities the provisions of the community halls act which now applies only to townships, villages and, in certain cases, towns. It provided grants of up to $3,000 for construction of the centres and an additional $10,000 for skating arenas. The Premier said the bill would likely be amended in the committee stage to provide for swimming pools.

Discussion of a routine amendment to the crown attorneys act brought from C.C.F. leader E. B. Jolliffe the suggestion that the Attorney-General's Department appoint full-time Crown Attorneys rather than part-time men who must divide their attention between Crown cases and private practice.

Linton Given Eight Years For Manslaughter

Simcoe, Ont., Feb. 19 (CP)—Tried twice on a charge of murdering his housekeeper's husband 44-year-old Seth Linton now faces an eight-year term for manslaughter.

An assize court jury yesterday found Linton guilty of manslaughter, but not guilty of murder in the rifle butt slaying of Lew Stewart, 44. Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier, in passing sentence, said Linton had a "fair trial."

He added "the unfortunate part is that you have been guilty of killing a human being."

The tall, slender well-digger was found guilty last November of murder in Stewart's death and was sentenced to be hanged. An Ontario Court of Appeal found the jury had been misdirected and ordered a new trial.

Linton is also charged with the murder of John Kipp, shot to death on the same day, last June 6, that Stewart died of head injuries received from a rifle butt. Officials said the second charge would be traversed to a later assize.

Evidence was that Kipp and Stewart died at Linton's small farm home, two miles west of Simcoe, after a quarrel in which Linton had been beaten. The two men had come to the house to get the belongings of Mrs. Stewart, who planned to return to her husband after working for Linton for several years.

Pope to Broadcast On Cardinal's Conviction

Toronto, Feb. 19 — (CP) —The CBC said Friday it will carry a broadcast Sunday of the Pope's speech on the conviction of Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary. The speech, in Italian, will be carried at 9:30 a.m. EST along with an English translation. The announcement said CBC stations in Western Canada will open earlier than usual to carry the broadcast.

Badly Scalded, Engineer Crawls Along Icy Engine Ledge, Stops Train

North Bay, Feb. 19 — (CP) — A routine railway report today told a hair-raising northland version of Casey Jones and the Promised Land — but with a happy ending.

The report described how the engineer of a Canadian National Railways passenger train, his face and hands scalded by steam, crawled forward along the icy ledges of his locomotive as it thundered through the night at more than 50 miles an hour.

W. F. Ryan of Nakina, Ont., made his perilous passage in below-zero weather Wednesday night on Train No. 3, bound for Winnipeg out of Toronto, near Tashota, in northwestern Ontario.

Driven from his cab by a sudden break in a steam pipe, Ryan clambered along the outside of the swaying locomotive, clinging with his scalded hands to the ice-coated metal.

He reached the nose of the engine and turned a cock that applied the brakes and stopped the train. Fireman B. Kearney, badly scalded about the head and right hand, meanwhile clung desperately to a handrail outside the cab.

Both men were taken to hospital at Kearney, Ont.

The passengers? Some slept peacefully and others chatted quietly. All were unaware of the drama up front.

'Just One of Those Things'

Toronto — (CP) — Engineer Fred Ryan looked at an arm swathed in bandages and said his brush with death on a stampeding locomotive was "just one of those things."

The wiry, 140-pound Toronto engineer crawled 60 feet along the outside of his engine near Tashota in Northwestern Ontario Wednesday night to halt a speeding Canadian National Railways passenger train after a coupling broke, scalding Ryan and fireman Bruce Kearney of Oshawa with live steam.

For six minutes, clinging to an ice-coated handrail, with his scalded hands, Ryan clambered to the nose of the engine. Finally he applied the emergency brake at the nose and stopped the train.

Exhausted from their ordeal in 10-below-zero weather, Ryan and Kearney dropped to the roadbed. A male nurse from a car transferring a group of prisoners applied first aid and the men were taken to hospital at Nakina, Ont.

Recuperating at his Toronto home, Engineer Ryan said he'd be back at his old job in two or three weeks — just as soon as his burns healed.

"That kind of accident would not happen again in the life of a dozen engineers," he said.

FOURTEEN KILLED IN AIR COLLISION NEAR COVENTRY

Burning Wreckage Spread Over Wide Area

Coventry, England, Feb. 19 — (Reuters) — Fourteen persons were killed today when two planes collided in mid-air near here.

One of the planes was a twin-engined Dakota transport of British European Airways, en route from London to Renfrew, Scotland. The other was an R.A.F. Anson trainer.

Airways officials said the Dakota carried a crew of four and six passengers. The passenger list was temporarily withheld. The R.A.F. plane carried a crew of four. Two of the victims, presumably from the R.A.F. plane, were wearing parachutes which appeared to have opened only partially. There were no survivors.

The Coventry fire brigade recovered the bodies from the burning wreckage which was spread over a wide area. Eleven ambulances and nurses from a nearby hospital were rushed to the scene.

The two planes were said to have "disintegrated" in the air after a head-on collision. One eye-witness said that after the crash he saw a "tremendous mass of black smoke out of which a plane fell, twirling like a sycamore seed."

Other bystanders saw a wing fall off one of the aircraft.

Today's disaster was the worst air crash in Britain since last Oct. 22 when 40 passengers were killed in the crash of a Royal Dutch Airlines plane at Prestwick, Scotland.

Arena Opened in Large Recreational Park

West Lorne, Feb. 19 (CP) — This Elgin County village last night officially opened its new arena which has one of the largest natural ice surfaces in southwestern Ontario, a 15-acre lot, donated by former Reeve Henry Miller, has been converted into a community park with baseball and softball grounds and other recreational facilities.

504,000 Tourists in U.K.

Halifax, Feb. 19 (CP)—Monday, the 50,000th displaced person to seek a new home in Canada—free from fears and deprivations in unsettled Europe — lands at Halifax. She is Ausma Ivalds, eight-year-old Latvian girl, who will disembark from the liner Samaria.

KUHN APPEAL

Munich, Feb. 19 — (AP)—German appellate court officials said last night they will announce next week their verdict on the appeal of Fritz Kuhn from a 10-year sentence. Kuhn, former laeder of the German - American Bund, was convicted of being a major Nazi.

Motion Picture Stars Next Intended Victims Of Accused Jewel Thief

New Rochelle, N.Y., Feb. 19 (AP)—Tall, suave Gerard G. Dennis, a Canadian described by authorities as one of the greatest jewelry burglars on record, is said to have admitted Hollywood notables were his next intended victims.

The 28-year-old Dennis, once of Toronto and Montreal, is suspected of looting wealthy homes of the east and west coast and in Canada of $800,000 in jewels and furs.

He was arraigned here yesterday on charges of first-degree burglary and felonious assault, and held without bail for a grand jury.

District Attorney George M. Fanelli, of Westchester County, N.Y., said Dennis told him he had been planning his next forays at homes of various screen figures, including:

Jack Benny, Bette Davis, Eddie Cantor, Edgar Bergen, Olivia De Havilland, Dorothy Lamour, Harold Lloyd, Mary Pickford, William Powell and other film stars and executives.

Dennis was arrested in Cleveland Wednesday with $18,000 in unset diamonds and $1,400 in cash in his possession. He was returned here yesterday.

Dennis was described by Fanelli as 'very frank' about his exploits, and "polished, sympathetic and regretful."

Fanelli said Dennis readily admitted robbing 16 Westchester County homes of $140,000 in jewels and furs and took officers on a tour, pointing out as many of the places as he could remember.

No statement was obtained from Dennis concerning recent alleged thefts of $250,000 in the Beverly Hills, Calif., area, and $170,000 in robberies in Canada.

Found Trunk of Jewels

In a Beverly Hills apartment, which Dennis gave as his address, police Thursday night said they found behind heavily reinforced doors a trunk containing rubies, diamonds, pearls, loose gold, silver and platinum valued at $100,000.

In the apartment in Beverly Hills where the jewels were found, police arrested Betty Ritchie, former Toronto school teacher, on suspicion of burglary. She said she entered the United States illegally about 18 months ago and that her mother lives in Fenelon Falls, Ont.

"This is all a terrible shock," Miss Ritchie said when arrested. "I didn't know what he was doing. He told me he made his money during the war and said he was going to open his own business, manufacturing an invention of his own for an automobile.

"I thought I loved him but I don't love him any more."

In Fenelon Falls, Miss Ritchie's mother, Mrs. John Ritchie, said "I just can't imagine how it could be our Betty."

Wont Bring Girl Here

Westchester authorities said they did not expect to bring Miss Ritchie here because of the expense and because they did not think she would be able to offer much help in the case against Dennis.

Montreal police said they want Dennis in connection with a $150,000 jewel and fur robbery. Ontario provincial police want him for escaping from Burwash Reformatory in 1943.

Police said Dennis served sentences in Ontario for shop-breaking and administering a drug to procure an abortion.

Another girl friend of Dennis, Gloria Horowitz, was credited by police with supplying information leading to his arrest.

Dennis will be held in a Westchester county jail pending a special session of the grand jury Wednesday.

50 Witnesses Await Hearing By Royal Commission

By GEORGE FORSTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With some 50 witnesses still to be heard, Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay Friday ordered a three-week adjournment of the Royal Commission investigation of a provincial constable's charges of misconduct by crown and police officials.

Four witnesses—and nearly 500,000 words—had been heard when adjournment until March 14, was announced. The Ontario Supreme Court Justice must sit at the Toronto assizes until then.

The witnesses will tell what they know about the allegations of obstruction, maladministration of justice, perjury and fraud that the constable, 44-year-old J. E. Keays, levelled at seven provincial police officers and a crown attorney.

Another Ten Days

The Royal Commission probably will take at least 10 days to finish the inquiry.

Adjournment Friday came in the middle of testimony by Inspector R. W. Wonnacott, head of the R.C.M.P. Identification Bureau. After a long, technical argument about fingerprinting methods, he told the constable: "I am overly cautious because I'm dealing with you."

Const. Keays, who changed his name from Soubliere during the war, had his innings during the first week of the inquiry. For five days he stood in the witness box, telling of alleged drinking parties which provincial officers attended in uniform, of alleged suppression of evidence by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of Belleville and of his repeated attempts to report the irregularities to the authorities.

The eight men he accused began to reply during the second week. They suggested Constable Keays himself had been guilty of some of the charges he levelled at them.

The eight men are Mr. Donnan, Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer, Inspector T. W. Cousans, Inspector W. A. Page, Sgt. J. A. Stringer, Cpl. Sam Ervine and Constables G. R. Purdy and J. B. Driscoll.

FIST SWINGING AT LABOR RALLY BUT REDS LOSE

Toronto, Feb. 19 —(CP)— A meeting of the Canadian Congress of Labor executive council March 24 will decide whether to suspend the red-tinged Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union from the C.C.L. indefinitely.

This was announced by C.H. Millard, a C.C.L. vice president and the Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) at the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor, a C.C.L. affiliate.

Mr. Millard indicated that the C.C.L. is committed to a policy of weeding out Communist leadership from unions affiliated with the congress His address was interrupted several times by boos and jeers from Communists among the 200 delegates.

Split Rail is Blamed, Only One Person Only of 150 Seriously Injured

Banff, Alta., Feb. 19 (CP)— An investigation was launched by railway officials today into the derailment yesterday of a Canadian Pacific Railway trnscontinental passenger train. Only one of the 150 odd passengers aboard the train suffered serious injuries.

The mainline No. 3 train, westbound for Vancouver from Toronto, was derailed on a sharp curve three miles east of here near the site of a ghost town known as Old Bankhead.

The accident was believed due to a split rail, possibly a result of the intensely cold weather prevailing in Alberta.

Seriously injured in the accident was 71-year-old Mrs. Mary Bunting of Winnipeg who was en route to Vancouver. She suf-

GOVT. CONTROL POLICIES UNDER TWO-WAY ATTACK

Two Opposition Parties Take Opposite Views

Ottawa, Feb. 19 (CP) — The government's control policies came under two-way attack in the Commons yesterday, with C. C. F. members demanding that the restrictions be continued and Progressive Conservatives urging they be modified.

It was a repetition of debates which have taken place in the chamber in each session since the war as the government has asked for power to continue wartime controls which it feels should be continued in this peacetime period.

It developed this time on legislation preliminary to a bill to continue for another year controls in rentals, steel, timber and the prices of such foods as butter, bread, sugar, canned fruits and other dinner-table staples.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner stepped into the debate to defend the government's control policies and report that butter, for example, had been brought under control because spectators had purchased it at low prices and sold it for high prices.

He favored some kind of continuing, permanent control to regulate the price of butter, but said the government did not have the authority to exercise such control.

In the Senate chamber the Deputy Governor-General gave royal assent to Canada's legislative instruments to cement the approaching union of this country and Newfoundland.

One-Time Teacher Invented Suction Fan

Thornbury, Feb. 19 (CP) — James Emmanuel Foster, 80, former school teacher and a resident of this district for more than 75 years, died yesterday in hospital at Collingwood. He was credited with inventing a suction fan which was later used commercially on threshing machines.

Cornerstone Laid

London, Ont., Feb. 19 (CP)—Cornerstone of Thames Hall, the new physical education building at the University of Western Ontario, was laid in a simple ceremony today. The structure will be the latest on the campus. The building of which is estimated at $1,250,000, is expected to be finished next year.

Reject Weavers' Claim

Manchester, England, Feb. 19—(Reuters) — Employers yesterday rejected a claim by 140,000 weavers in the cotton industry for a 10-shilling ($2) weekly wage increase. The workers' wage demand now will go to a conciliating committee.

Increased Emphasis on Quality Goods, Less on Bargains, Predicted

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Director)

Mr. and Mrs. Canada may look for more emphasis on quality, and perhaps less on bargain sales, according to views expressed at this week's conference in Montreal of Canadian retailers.

For one thing, they appear to want quality, and this runs through virtually all salary classes.

Mrs. F. E. Wright, of Port Credit, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, who hears a great deal about what the women of Canada think, remarked:

One advertising executive for a department store, admittedly an extreme advocate of quality edvertising declared that bargain sales are 25 years behind the times.

Probably the house wife who likes her bargain days needn't worry about it's disappearing. But the trend seems more likely to be towards increased emphasis on quality, rather than any great lessening of eye-catching reductions.

W. L. Stensgaard, of Chicago, an adviser on merchandizing, said reduced prices and events such as dollar days, clearances and anniversaries, are necessary to traffic and to being competitive but "best sellers" the things that sell day in and day out without reductions, are the foundation of the profit volume and repeat business.

Virtually all speakers, men and women, emphasize that the needs of modern living are developing a tremendous market which can open up hitherto undreamed of opportunities if handled properly.

They envisaged advertising pages which would be education in home making and living. They felt that the urge to buy, properly tended, could be almost a decisive factor in warding off depression and maintaining prosperity.

Mrs. Wright and other women speakers were most emphatic that store and advertising policies should be based on full, frank and friendly information to the customer.

They said the woman buyer is learning more every day and will resent being fooled.

The Canadian retail federation which sponsored this week's conference, found they had elected a versatile president in James Wilson of Saint John, N.B. One of his first acts was to be pianist for the National Anthem at luncheon.

Border Shooting Incidents Include Two Fatalities

Russia Sets up No-Man's Land Thru Centre of Berlin

Berlin, Feb. 19 (AP) — Russia set up a no-man's land through the centre of Berlin today after several border shooting incidents, including at least two fatalities.

"Danger zones" were established around various control points and all pedestrians and loiterers banned.

These control points — already strengthened by roadblocks of iron stanchions and paving stones —are at places where the Communists stop and inspect traffic crossing from their sector to western-occupied Berlin.

Divided Berlin also is in the grip of a currency scare. Signs increased that the Russians intend a new money switch here and in their surrounding occupation zone. The Russians denied this, but Germans living in the east sector reported restrictions had been placed on buying to prevent a dumping of marks.

There were these other developments:

1. The Russians set the stage for what may be another "peace offensive" gesture. The Communist "Democratic Women's Federation" handed to Soviet Ambassador V. S. Seminov a message for Prime Minister Stalin asking that Stalin meet with the chiefs of the other great powers "for peaceful settlement of international problems." Similar messages were sent to President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Premier Henri Queuille, of France.

"People's Judges" Used.

2. After having split the city's court system and forced the elected judges to move to the west, Soviet Commandant Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov issued a decree replacing them with "people's judges." He said the new judges need not have legal training "but are chosen for their common sense and their moral and political qualities."

3. West Berlin police charged that Russian agents are trading large amounts of eastern marks on the black market for the more stable western marks.

4. The Anglo-American airlift passed the 1,000,000-ton mark for supplies flown in since the Russians imposed their land blockade last June 26.

The latest fatal shooting involved a drunken motorist who was killed yesterday when he attempted to flee the Soviet-controlled police into the American zone. Two bystanders, one a 14-year-old girl, was struck by stray bullets in another incident yesterday.

YANKEES PULL UPSET

Stockholm, Feb. 19 — (AP) — The United States hockey team pulled a stunning upset today by handing the favored Czechoslovakian team its first defeat in the world amateur ice hockey championships. The score was 2-0.

Three Children Burned to Death At Woodstock

Woodstock, Feb. 19 (CP) — Three small children died in a flaming one-storey house while their 19-year-old mother had to be restrained by friends from rushing into her tar-paper home here yesterday.

The victims, Michael, three, Larry, two, and Judy, two months, children of Mr. and Mrs. David Stephenson were in bed when fire levelled the dwelling on the outskirts of this city.

"My babies are in there — all three of them," Mrs. Stephenson screamed when she was called from her mother-in-law's house next door where she had gone to get some water.

Believed caused by sparks from a cookstove, the fire spread rapidly through the cardboard-walled house. The mother-in-law caught the frantic mother as she was about to plunge into the blaze in a rescue attempt.

"She got to the door which already was on fire," said the elder Mrs. Stephenson. "I got a hold of her skirt and managed to pull her away. But I saw that her head, arms and face had been singed by the flames."

Three other neighbors threw the young mother to the ground and sat on her to keep her from dashing into the fire after her children. The father, a factory worker who was unemployed until recently, reached the scene only after the home was in ashes.

Soviet Expands Area Of Cotton Growing

Moscow, Feb. 19 — (AP)—Tass news agency said today that the Soviet government is expanding cotton acreage in the Southern Ukraine. The agency said 1,500 collective farms in the region are in cotton cultivation this year, compared with 1,000 in 1948.

A new hobby class in ceramics and pottery has been formed in the city under the direction of Mrs. Clifford Argue, ~~162 Charles St. and~~ the class is meeting regularly in the old unemployment office in the city hall each Wednesday afternoon. So great has been the enthusiasm for this hobby, it has been found necessary to hold evening classes. Anyone wishing to join this class should contact Mrs. Argue.

Groundhogs, Bears May Have Been Mistaken

Those groundhogs and bears which crawled back into their lairs for another six weeks' sleep when they saw their shadow on February 2nd must have been mistaken after all.

At least that would be the impression gained by the many signs of spring which have been seen since that time.

Today (Saturday) early risers were somewhat surprised to hear the birds singing cheerfully and a Prince Edward county market vendor reported that already his tulips had sprouted above the ground.

Also virtually all the snow has disappeared from the fields and it is reported there is no frost in the ground.

One farmer reported he had not driven his horses in his swamp all winter, knowing they would be mired in the mud because of the lack of frost.

Miss Campbell's Hat Shop will remain closed until Thursday, Feb. 24th., owing to the absence of Miss Campbell and her assistant, Miss Harrison, who are attending the Spring millinery opening in Toronto.

Reserve tickets for the Annual Ice Show may be obtained only at Cook's Cigar Store, and not at the merchants listed in Friday's advertisement.

Police Blotter

Story of Robbery Only Brings Drunk Charge to Man

A story that he had been beaten up by nine men and robbed of $45 in the footbridge gangway proved of little avail to a local resident, who last night was picked up by police and after receiving first aid at the hospital, was lodged in the police cells on a drunk charge.

When picked up by police the man had scratches about his head and face and blood was spattered freely about. Police stated he was noticeably intoxicated and after having his scratches attended to at the hospital was detained on the L.C.A. charge.

Two overcoats disappeared from local restaurants last night, with one at least apparently having been taken by mistake. The owner of one who went home without an overcoat last night, today was searching for his rightful property.

Motor splashers were also active yesterday with two residents complaining of having their clothes dirtied as they walked on the sidewalk. Both were successful in ascertaining the licence number of the vehicles responsible and one of the drivers expressed his willingness to pay the cost of a dry cleaning job.

Window peepers were also active during the night with two such operators being reported. Police, checking the districts in the cruiser, were unable to find any suspicious characters.

Hunting for Woman Said Hiring Agents In Hitler Propaganda

Dueseldorf, Feb. 19 (AP) — German police today started a hunt for a mystery woman said to be hiring agents to spread propaganda that "Hitler is alive and will return soon." A flood of leaflets has appeared during the last week in this industrial region.

Police announced today they had arrested a man distributing the leaflets. He said he had been hired by a "female foreigner."

Printed with a Swastika on the top, the pamphlets declared: "Our Fuehrer lives and will return soon with unheard of power. Oppose our persecutors and wait. Heil Hitler."

RATEPAYERS OF AMELIASBURG

Your Township Council has been requested to take the necessary steps towards having either part or all of the Township of Ameliasburg become a part of the South Hastings Secondary School Area in order that transportation facilities may be provided for all within any defined area who may wish to attend a Secondary School.

In order that the people of Ameliasburg may obtain all the information available as to whether or not this step is advisable, and to enable the Township Council to act in accordance with your wishes in this matter, Major H. Morgan of the Ontario Department of Education, has agreed to address and answer all questions at a meeting to be held at the TOWN HALL, AMELIASBURG, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24th., at 8 p.m.

Whatever your school section may be, if you want the Council to act in accordance with your wishes, it is urgent that you attend, hear the facts, and voice your opinion.

REEVE OF AMELIASBURG.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARION E. SHURIE
(Trenton)

Mrs. Marion E. Shurie, widow of James Shurie, Trenton, died suddenly on Thursday. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Jean Watt, Brooks, Alberta. Another daughter, Mrs. Donald T. Fraser, died some years ago.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon.

JOHN BRADDEN
(Plainfield District)

John Bradden died early Saturday morning at his home in the 6th concession of Thurlow township, near Plainfield, after an illness of three weeks' duration.

Born in Thurlow township 76 years ago the late Mr. Bradden was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bradden. He was a farmer and all his life was passed in the district where he was born. He was a faithful member of St. Charles' Church at Read and in connection with the parish was a member of the Holy Name Society and the Altar Society.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Rose O'Leary; two daughters, Mrs. Daniel Coffey, and Mrs. Harold Meagher, both of Read; two sons, Edward and Joseph, both at home; one brother, Joseph Bradden of Belleville, and one sister, Mrs. Theresa Shannon of Carleton Place.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

MRS. E. W. TINK
(Muskegon, Mich.)

On Friday Mrs. Nettie W. Tink, beloved wife of Rev. E. W. Tink, died at the family residence, North Muskegon, Michigan. She had been in failing health for the past six months.

Mrs. Tink, daughter of the late Richard D. Watson and his wife, Sarah Canniff, was born near Belleville, Ont., in 1876. In 1908 she married Rev. E. W. Tink, minister of the Methodist Church, their first charge being at Cherry Valley. Through many happy years she shared in the ministerial life on charges in the Bay of Quinte Conference. In 1922 they moved to Chicago, serving in the Evangelistic Institute and on charges in Michigan.

Besides her husband she is survived by three sons, Rev. W. W. Tink, North Muskegon, Michigan; A. Beverly Tink, Cincinnati, U.S.A.; Rev. R. F. Tink, Glasgow, Scotland; also two sisters, Mrs. J. G. Sills, Foxboro, Ont., and Miss Allegra Watson, North Muskegon.

The funeral service will be held in the United Church, Columbus, Ont., on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 23, 1949.

client, a partner's client, or a relative of the Crown Attorney, the official opposition leader said.

Attorney General Blackwell said his department "wherever practicable" appointed permanent full time Crown Attorneys. This was possible in communities such as Oshawa and Welland which were large enough to keep a competent man busy and could afford to pay him "a decent salary."

To appoint full-time Crown Attorney's in all Ontario communities, however, would mean a "tremendous raise" in the department estimates and would not be justified by amount of work available for the attorneys to do.

Other bills would lower from 21 years to 18 the age at which children admitted to training schools should cease to be wards of the schools; increase the jurisdiction of county courts and revise and consolidate the statutes.

$13,000 Objective Red Cross Drive For Belleville

An objective of $13,000 has been set by the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross for its forthcoming campaign commencing on March 1st.

The campaign is being held in conjunction with the national Red Cross appeal for five million dollars to finance their emergency blood donors and a comprehensive peace time program and service.

The objective for Belleville is $13,000 with separate quotas having been set for Hastings and Prince Edward Counties.

Leo B. Riggs has been named as the campaign chairman with M. P. Duff as vice chairman.

Chairman of Public Relations is Archdeacon F. A. Smith, Industrial Relations G. A. Freeman with W. Harry Rollins as vice chairman.

Chairman of the women's committee is Mrs. H. McCabe with Fred Barton as publicity chairman and Wm. H. Stovin and T. G. Wrightmeyer as committee members. Secretary director is J. E. Shortt and Treasures, Vic Lancaster, Royal Bank.

An appeal for volunteer canvassers to act during the campaign has been made by campaign officials and anyone willing to assist in the work are asked to telephone the following officials: Mrs. McCabe, 1712; Mr. Duff, 753, or Mr. Shortt at 2152, or the campaign office at 224 Pinnacle Street, telephone 2233 or 116.

The canvass for the campaign will be made during the first two weeks in March, it was stated.

Engineer Held After 27 Killed In Train Wreck

Paris, Feb. 19. (Reuters)—The driver of a locomotive which collided during the night with the Metz-Dijon express at Port D'Atelier, causing 27 death, was arrested today.

More deaths were feared among the 30 gravely injured of a total of 50 hurt. Among the dead were two children.

Arrest of the driver followed a police inquiry conducted as rescue squads used blow-torches to cut through the twisted wreckage.

French press reports said the driver has passed a warning signal and a red danger signal.

He and an apprentice driver who was with him survived unscathed.

The heavy death toll was in part explained by the fact that the uncoupled engine plowed into three wooden coaches of the express.

fered severe head injuries and shock but was reported in "satisfactory" condition in Banff hospital today.

T. Wood, superintendent of the Calgary division and other C.P.R. officials went to the scene to investigate.

More than a dozen passengers suffered minor cuts and bruises. Scores escaped with nothing more than a shaking up as nine coaches of 13 coach train hurled off the rails.

Four Cars Turn on Sides —

Four of the nine cars turned over on their sides—three of them baggage and mail coaches—while the rest remained up-right although thrown off the tracks. The passenger cars were packknifed together in a snow-filled creek bed beneath towering Cascade Mountain. More than 500 feet of trackage was torn up. The two locomotives remained on the track.

Doctors and nurses went from Banff to attend to the injured. A wrecking crain was sent from Calgary and by evening was clearing the wreckage and laying temporary track.

C.P.R. officials in Calgary said they expected the trains would be running through again early today. Westbound No. 7 was being held at Canmore, Alta., and passengers from the derailed train would be placed on extra cars on it. Eastbound No. 4 and 8 trains from Vancouver were being held at Banff.

F. W. Adams of Glen Ewen, Sask., said if it hadn't been for the steel coaches, it would have been far worse.

"There was mass hysteria, with women screaming all over the place. I saw one lady with her head badly cut crying that she was dying. We were all thrown from our seats. We were able to get out the front door of the coach."

CATCH UP WITH BACKLOG OF ORDERS

Detroit, Feb. 19 — (AP)—The Burroughs Adding Machine Company yesterday announced the indefinite layoff of 522 production and salaried workers. Company officials said the firm has caught up with its backlog of orders.

Goose Bay Will Retain Role After Union Completed

Goose Bay, Labrador, Feb. 19 —(CP)—This big base, assuming an ever-increasing importance on commercial airline and interior development and defence routes, retains the role of No. 1 mercy and search station of the north country.

When the multi-million dollar base becomes Canadian in territory as well as accomplishment following the March 31 Confederation deadline, there will be little noticeable change in its activities.

The R.C.A.F. represented by Group Capt. Jim Verner of Ottawa and his staff, will continue as landlords. The United States air force will continue as chief tenants.

Some of these problems have just been discussed by Verner and his immediate chief, Air Commodore Frank Waite, Eastern Air Chief, who with Wing Cmdr. Broadie Searle, second in command, has just visited the base.

Looking after the wilderness city that has its own power, telephone, bus and public works utilities and its own school, bakery, post office, bank, stores, and theatres, is possibly second to its main mission of mercy.

Accessible only by air most of the year and never connected with civilization by a land link, Goose gets tired explaining to grounded casual travellers that the local telephone system can't handle calls to Washington and there is no way of making alternate rail reservations as the nearest rail head is nearly 1,000 miles away.

Important Base

Air commerce passes through for a mere cursory look. Mineral development traffic, which is soon to spell untold riches for the area, pauses longer to appreciate the role and accomplishment of the base.

But to the more explorative visitor, Goose opens up wide new vistas of the north and its importance in peace and war. The scientists, geologists, defence experts and Arctic explorers who base their prodding trails at Goose serve to emphasize its stature.

It is the supply headquarters for many Arctic cold weather defence operations.

Goose, too, is the end of the line for Canada's search and rescue contribution to the International Civil Aviation Organization and its R.C.A.F. unit, working closely with the American air force, has everything from dog sleds to a hospital at its disposal.

Flt. Lt. B. C. (Barney) Hartman, 31, of Tisdale, Sask., is chief of the search unit. In two years at Goose he has 28 searches and 24 mercy missions to his credit.

Hartman runs his search crew of 30 along the same lines as the Cape Breton mines run their Draegermen. In other words, he uses only a small nucleus of men actually engaged in full-time search and rescue duty. The remainder can be drawn on at a moment's notice from other fields as widely separated as the motor transport section and the hospital.

Ex-worker Held On Suspicion Of Murder Attempt

Beverley Hills, Calif., Feb. 19 (AP)—A sick ex-shipyard worker who police say was disgruntled over failure to get accident compensation is held today on suspicion of attempted murder by trying to dynamite state officials.

One of four dynamite parcels, which police said Ward placed, exploded and badly damaged the $75,000 home of H. D. Hover, owner of Giro's restaurant and brother-in-law of Dr. David Weller, a physician for the California Industrial Accident Commission. Dr. Weller formerly lived at the Hover residence. There were no injuries.

Police said Ward was picked up by a radio-car officer, who reported the man was lighting a fuse outside the home of another commission doctor, F. W. Ilfield.

Just as the man was brought to the station, the Hover blast shook the entire area. Ward fainted and was removed to hospital in a diabetic coma.

Checking a list of seven addresses found in Ward's pocket, police reported finding bundles of dynamite at the homes of Milton H. Silverberg, commission referee, and Anthony Racine, member of the commission.

"It's a little unorthodox, but before leaving I'm going to try and shake a few of the medical racketeers and shysters that I ran into."

FIRE DAMAGE

Stratford, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Fire early today caused considerable damage to the roof and front of a garage used as a machine shop by Bettger Industries. Cause of the fire was undetermined and extent of damage not yet ascertained. The garage is owned by Peter Smith.

50 WITNESSES

Fingerprint Smudged

Inspector Wonnacott testified that a fingerprint Keays submitted to the R.C.M.P. during investigation into the death of a girl was useless for identification because it was smudged.

Keays' theory was that murder had been committed. A coroner's jury decided that the girl took her own life.

Near the end of his testimony, the inspector looked at the dark-haired constable and said: "I've given you every break. I've been told to be careful in dealing with you. I've heard you in court this week and I'm somewhat convinced there must have been something in what they're saying about you."

The inspector conceded that Constable Keays was "energetic" and a "smart investigator" and "you've never double crossed me—yet."

Referring to himself as "Keays" or "Soubliere," the constable time and time again said he did not want and had not asked for a royal commission.

He said his career as a policeman was ruined by the allegedly perjured testimony of other officers. He wanted only to clear his name and felt the inquiry should have been kept within the attorney-general's department.

Five Main Charges

These were, in effect, the charges he made in five days of testimony:

1. Commissioner Stringer and Inspector Page brushed aside his reports of irregularities by Mr. Donnan and other officers.
2. Constable Driscoll falsely accused him of drunkenness while investigating a traffic accident.
3. Mr. Donnan, allegedly involved in a fraudulent cancer-cure scheme, suppressed evidence when his business associate came up for trial.
4. Const. Purdy made a false report on a traffic accident at the request of Cpl. Ervine who altered police records and committed perjury to exonerate the suspect.
5. Sgt. Stringer lied, and Inspector Cousans suppressed contradictory evidence to a coroner's inquest investigating a 1940 double shooting.

But the first three witnesses told a different story. They all testified about the shootings — the slaying of Constable Harold Dent by John Miki and the subsequent shooting of Miki by Sgt. Stringer.

Const. Keays claimed he could have proved the Sergeant lied, but he was not allowed to testify at the coroner's inquest. The shootings took place at Navan, 14 miles from Ottawa.

Theory Not Proved

But both Judge C. W. A. Marion, Crown Attorney of Russell and Prescott counties in 1940, and Inspector Cousans testified they investigated the constable's theory and found nothing to substantiate it.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Donnan and Malcolm Robb, counsel for five of the policemen, Keays admitted there was an incorrect entry in his police diary.

He had accused Cpl. Ervine of falsifying his diary—the record each provincial officer keeps of his actions and investigations.

Mr. Donnan and Mr. Robb threw out continued suggestions that Const. Keays himself had committed perjury while testifying in court. He denied each hint.

$50,000 Rink Plan of Trenton Kinsmen Club

The town of Trenton will have a $50,000 artificial ice arena if plans of the Kinsmen Club of that centre materialize. The clubmen will bring the matter to the attention of the town council at the next meeting.

Presen plans call for utilizing the ice plant at the Trenton Cold Storage so selection of a site for the arena must be made suitably close to the cold storage building.

Kinsmen hope to get a grant from the town council and also from the town's industries. It is felt that expanding recreational activities in the community warrant the construction of the ice arena. At the present time Trenton hockey teams are playing their games at Belleville.

Tweed Bantams Win Eastern Ontario Title

Tweed—(Special)—The Tweed Bantam "C" hockey team won the Eastern Ontario OMHA championship in its class here last night when they defeated the Napanee team 6-2. The Tweed youngsters won the round 10-5 having defeated the Napanee squad 4-3 in the first game of the goals-to-count series.

Tweed has defeated Madoc, Campbellford and Napanee in their march to the title and will meet the strong Ajax team next week in the fourth round of the playdowns.

Seven Charges Laid, Three Men Held

Toronto, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Three men were arrested and two others were taken to hospital today following an early-morning brawl outside a West End Toronto hotel.

Two brothers, Harry and Barry Fox, were treated in hospital for minor injuries suffered in the fight, which allegedly followed an argument in the hotel.

Drew Launches Series of Weekly Press Conferences

Ottawa, Feb. 19. (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader Friday launched a weekly series of press conferences and the opener was more than an hour's discussion ranging from constitutional amendments to the sartorial splendor of political leaders.

Mr. Drew told reporters that he wanted immediate Dominion-Provincial action to permanently determine the method by which Canada should obtain amendments to the British North America Act.

He claimed that this could be done before March 31, the day on which Newfoundland is scheduled to become the 10th province of Canada.

That was why, he said, he opposed the joint parliamentary petition to the Crown for B.N.A. Act amendments necessary to confirm the union, without prior consultation with the provinces.

His efforts to that end were defeated by House votes earlier this week. Prime Minister St. Laurent has claimed that if Mr. Drew's efforts had succeeded it would have delayed union beyond the March 31 deadline on which terms of union were based and thus nullified all the long negotiations leading to agreement on the terms.

Mr. Drew declined to say what his attitude would have been if one or more of the provinces had opposed the Union legislation.

But he said he had no doubt that by "consultation" a "satisfactory result" would have been achieved.

Mr. Drew exchanged lengthy arguments on this point with press gallery constitutional "experts" but parried all efforts to pin him down to a detailed explanation of what he had meant by "consultation" and "satisfactory result."

He told the correspondents, as he has already told the House of Commons, that he fears the use of Gander Airport as an international cross-roads of the air will be prejudiced when Newfoundland becomes a province of Canada.

Nothing should be done, he argued, to prevent the use of Gander, as at present, as an international airport where foreign lines may pick up and set down passengers on the North Atlantic flights.

Mr. Drew said he had already gone on record as willing to see appeals to the judicial committee Privy Council abolished and said there should be a "constitutional tribune" set up in Canada to deal with matters now taken on appeal from the Supreme Court of Canada to the Privy Council in London.

A government measure to abolish appeals to the Privy Council now is before parliament.

FIST SWINGING

Disagreements over Communist views provoked a mild flurry of fist-swinging after the convention defeated a leftist bid for endorsement of Russian peace offers and for a motion criticizing the North Atlantic Security pact.

Pro-Russian speakers, shouting to be heard over comments by hecklers, argued that the North Atlantic Pact was aimed at fostering war with Russia. Anti-Communists speakers said the western countries were being forced into the Atlantic pact by the eastern blocs formed by Russia and her satellites.

Jackson Principal Speaker

Joe Bellis, a textile union delegate who said he is of Lithuanian origin, told the convention:

"Since the Russians took over Lithuania, I have not heard from my cousins, aunts or uncles. One woman who got out of the country told before she left, 'what's the use of going to Canada? Russia will take it over, too.'

"If any one of us today went to Russia and spoke like Jackson (C. S. Jackson, a pro-Russian speaker) did, they would pick us up in the middle of the night and put us in a concentration camp."

Mr. Jackson, Canadian director of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.), was one of the principal speakers in favor of the pro-Russian resolution.

The fist fight started near the rear of the hall when the meeting adjourned. Fellow unionists separated the battling delegates.

The convention by resolution demanded repeal of the new Ontario labor code and its replacement by other labor laws.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers Union (C.I.O.) charged that management already is using certain clauses of the act to "smash unions." He said one provision permits the Ontario Labor Board to decertify unions.

Mr. Jackson, speaking on the labor code resolution, predicted that in 1949 employer resistance to union demands will be greater than at any other period during the war.

"You can be certain that in 1949 the government and employers are going to invoke every penalty in the books for illegal strike action," he said.

Demands on Government Made

The convention in other resolutions demanded that the Ontario government:

1. Establish a housing authority to direct building of houses under joint auspices of the federal, provincial and municipal governments.
2. Amend the Municipal Act to permit low-rental homes.
3. Seek federal co-operation in building low-rental dwellings.
4. Keep provincial police out of strike situations and withdraw provincial officers now keeping order at a strike scene in Paris, Ont.
5. Enact legislation providing for two weeks' holiday with pay after one year's service and for a 40-hour work week without decrease from present take-home pay.

A storm blew up over the report of the credentials committee against seating delegates from the Port Colborne local of the smelter workers. It was stated the delegates were not seated because of failure to pay the per capita tax. The Sudbury local of the union—both embrace International Nickel Company works — said the tax was unpaid because it is held in escrow in a jurisdictional dispute with the workers and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

"It is a strange thing that the people who are questioning the credentials committee's report are the very people who refused to take their part in the last provincial election," said Mr. Millard a C.C.F. member of the Ontario legislature.

Says 20 Firemen Responded to Alarm Of Fire in Farnham

Farnham, Que. Feb. 18 (CP)—Maurice Archambault, attorney for the town of Farnham, in a communication to The Canadian Press today said a report of a fire Feb. 9 was erroneous in stating that Farnham has only four firemen.

Mr. Archambault said 20 of Farnham's 24 firefighters answered the call to the early morning fire that caused estimated loss of $200,000 when Canadian Pacific Railway station was destroyed.

Mr. Archambault said civic authorities as well as business men and citizens generally had protested the erroneous report which he considered harmful to Farnham's prestige.

Hay Lift Ends, Fed 300,000 Animals

Fallon, Nev., Feb.18. (AP)—The United States airforce hay lift ended Thursday after feeding 300,000 sheep and cattle starving in Nevada snowdrifts. Since start of the program Jan. 24, Air Force transports have flown 270,000 miles to drop 1,800 tons of hay to the snowbound stock.

GOVT. CONTROL

Summoned to Senate

Possibly 60 members of parliament, all those in the Commons at the time, answered the summons to the senate in the late afternoon to attend the historic ceremony, which marked the end of Canada's part in the union negotiations.

Assent was given to the terms of the union, another measure to make Canada's laws applicable to Newfoundland after union and an address asking the King to have the United Parliament amend the British North America Act to make union effective.

In the Commons, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, sharply criticized the government as the "main culprit" in the high cost of living through its taxation policies and said its attitude had been "tyrannical." It had overtaxed the people by $600,000,000 through indirect and hidden levies.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) attacked the administration on his favorite subject — government by order-in-council —and said this practice was continuing in "extraordinary measure." All orders passed since Jan. 1 this year should be tabled.

Other speakers included Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East), Rodney Young (CCF—Vancouver Centre), F. S. Zaplitny (CCF-Dauphin) R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon) Harold Timmins (PC-Toronto Parkdale) and Arthur Williams (CCF-Ontario.)

Veterans Minister Gregg said the government is considering a Canadian Legion request for increases in war veterans' allowances.

Partly to Blame

Mr. Low said the Canadian Congress of Labor, encouraged by the C.C.F. party, was partly to blame for high prices because of its "blind and determined" drive for high wages which had the effect of causing prices to rise.

The government, he went on, had boosted living costs by collecting $600,000,000 more in taxes than it needed. Another price stimulent had been its action in imposing taxes on machines which had resulted in lower production costs.

Some manufacturers, for their part, had "charged all the traffic will bear" and sent the price structure up there.

Mr. Williams said that any party which dealt with the price situation "constructively, effectively and boldly" would win the support of the people. He did not care how prices were brought down so long as there was an "arrest" factor in the government's program.

He said the Progressive Conservatives and Liberals would like to return to their "great system" in which they "ruled the roost." The lot of the people then was much worse than it now is.

There were people "running wild in this country who believe in buying for as little as they can and selling for as much as they can." It was those people who caused the high cost of living.

Hydro Development on Old Nile

The ancient Nile which was at the basis of one of the greatest of civilizations still attracts the world. It is the longest river on the African continent and the second longest in the world. It has an estimated length of 4,000 miles and the area of its basin is over one million square miles. It extends through 35 degrees of latitude and 2,450 miles in a direct line. It received divine honors from the Egyptians and later from the Greeks and Romans.

It is demonstrated that by a hieroglyphic inscription that 4,000 years ago the average height of the river was at its flood 23 feet higher than at the present time, while inversely the yearly inundations of the river in Egypt are continually rising the level of the whole surrounding valley.

Last week it was announced that the Egyptian Government had agreed to participate with the United Kingdom Government in a comprehensive plan for the utilization of the waters of the Nile for irrigation and hydro-electric power. Construction of works on the upper reaches of the Blue and White Nile are contemplated. It is proposed to construct a dam and hydro-electric works at Owen Falls near Jinja where the Nile leaves Lake Victoria. The level would be raised, the lake becoming a storage reservoir regulating the flow of Nile waters.

This would mean very substantial electric power from this source for Uganda. Other regulating works would be necessary. One of the projects embraced is a second dam on Lake Albert, a canal system bypassing the swamps in the Sudd region of southern Sudan in which much of the White Nile is lost. Lake Tana in Ethiopia would be converted into a reservoir.

The project looks to the provision of sufficient water to permit a vast increase in the cultivable land in Egypt and in the irrigable area in the Sudan, including expansion of cotton growing in Gezira, Ethiopia would derive huge reserves of power from Lake Tana.

Egypt has already approved expenditure of $16,000,000 on the Lake Victoria dam, and hydro-electric works, and promised the United Kingdom co-operation in the entire scheme.

This is seen by Hector McNeil, U.K. Minister of State, as "a magnificent enterprise in international co-operation." Points about it are notable, it is not based on strategic conceptions, nor primarily for commercial profit for "it will mean real wealth — food, power, minerals and services like transport — for millions of people."

The ancient Nile was one of the main factors in the development of ancient civilization along the Nile and in the Middle East. It was the land of "corn" to the ancient world and plans are that it will become an area producing much greater volumes of food than are grown today in the Valley of the Nile.

Reports From Bulgaria

Recently there were reports of the arrest of 15 Protestant church leaders in Bulgaria and then came a story brought out by a traveller and delivered to the press telling of events leading up to the arrest of the pastors. This report claimed that the "outright persecutions" began a year ago in January 1948 on secret orders from Communist headquarters in Sofia and that from 30 to 40 pastors of the United Evangelical Church were jailed last year on the report of "local agitators" spurred on by a directive which had been sent as to their duties as members of the Fatherland Front (the communist party). The report added that the pastors were visited by communist teams in their homes and pressure of threats made "that pastors must join the communist party." Some were held as hostages, says the report, and "their wives and families were grilled to make accusations and sign statements."

This would show the spirit of communism as the enemy of religion. The faiths represented in those reported held by the authorities are minorities and yet there is no assurance of religious rights even for these smaller groups.

The arrest, trial and sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty of the Roman Catholic Church to life imprisonment by the Hungarian court and these events in Bulgaria indicate the unity of the attitude of communist-dominated states against religion.

The best rules to form a young man, are, to talk little, to hear much, to reflect alone upon what has passed in company, to distrust one's own opinion and value others that deserve it. — Sir William Temple.

QUESTIONS FOR A NARROW MIND

If your dwelling were on fire,
Would you bother to inquire
What the creed of those who came
To put out the searing flame?

If your little one were ill,
Would you ask for more than skill
From the surgeon at the bed?
Would you care what creed he said?

You're in business! At your shop,
Do your customers you stop
With this query: "Ere you buy,
Do you think the same as I?"

Run your list of friendships through,
Knowing all they mean to you,
And though differ as you may,
Is there one you'd throw away?

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

Somewhere between twelve and fifteen billion wild birds—many of them song birds, all of them either beautiful or astonishing — are right now starting from Central America, Mexico, the West Indies and the southern United States for points north.

Some billions will stake out their claims to nesting sites all across the United States. Several billion, however, will keep right on coming north into Canada and on even into the Arctic Circle.

It is a sort of tidal wave of birds. Though the land is still ice-bound here in Canada, the wave is already building up and sweeping across the far southern edge of the continent. It will not engulf us until May.

Like a tidal wave, it pushes ahead of it smaller waves: this week, the horned lark, for instance, from Halifax to Victoria, is on the wing, its more northern members heading for the polar islands, its southern members arriving to nest right here, often amidst the snow drifts.

The estimate of between twelve and fifteen billion birds in North America is that of the National Audubon Society. For years, they have been counting them. The scientists say that if anything should prevent the birds coming north this spring—say, an atomic or bacterial warfare attack on the birds in their distant winter congregations—our civilization would vanish in one year under an indescribable plague of insects, rodents and trash vegetation.

It may be so. The economic attitude is taking possession of our thoughts on every conceivable thing. But it is a horrible — even a blasphemous — way to look at birds. If the Creator put birds in the world solely for the economic security of greedy, anxious little man, why did He make them so beautiful and fill them with a small, incomparable music?

C.C.F. Member Withdraws Charge Made in Speech

Ottawa, Feb. 19 — (CP)—Rodney Young (CCF — Vancouver Centre) Friday in the Commons publicly withdrew charges that his fellow - members were "a bunch of crooks" and thereby dispelled a threat of expulsion from the chamber.

There was no one, he told the Chamber, who deserved to maintain respect for parliamentary institutions than did he and he wished to withdraw the charge, made in a speech to a C. C. F. audience at Vancouver last July.

A moment later, James Sinclair (L — Vancouver North), who had threatened to have Mr. Young summoned before an appropriate House committee, rose and said the withdrawal was "quite satisfactory" and the incident was closed.

Commons and Senate Crowded To Hear Sharp, Spirited Debate

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Feb. 19 — (CP)—The Chambers of the Commons and the Senate are drawing well-crowded houses in this new parliamentary season.

Daily, since the session opened Jan. 26, the public and official galleries of the two houses have been thronged with an increasing number of spectators and visitors.

Part of the increased attendance is attributed to the debates on the historic legislation to unite this country and her sister commonwealth neighbor, Newfoundland.

Another drawing card has been George Drew, the new Progressive Conservative leader. Many are believed to have been drawn through a desire to see the new opposition chieftain. This is his first session in the federal arena.

Many are there, too, to see the new prime minister, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent. Though he is no newcomer to the federal chamber this in his first session as government leader.

On occasion, the public has seen sharp and spirited debate, featured by sometimes bitter and angry, sometimes humorous and friendly, words sparkling across the floor.

Real or Fake

Can a woman tell when a fur coat is fake and when it isn't?

A senator thought a woman could and he was rash enough to say so in front of the Senate banking committee this week. Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative chief, made the statement as the committee argued over whether fur coats and other commodities should be labelled as their exact nature.

A light gasp came from the back of the crowded room from Mrs. F. E. Wright of Port Credit, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, who had testified earlier on a bill covering the labels.

"Oh no," she breathed.

The males asked her to get up and elaborate. She did.

Many women, said Mrs. Wright, don't know the difference between, say, imitation seal that is really died rabbit or dyed muskrat.

That's why she and other housewives favor compulsory labelling of furs and other commodities. They don't trust their feminine intuition against the wiles of the market.

Mackenzie's Column:

Russia May Be Getting Set To Absorb Satellites

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

High authorities in Washington on relations with the Communist countries say there are indications that Russia may be getting set to absorb the European satellites into the Soviet Union.

That isn't a surprising viewpoint. Observers in non-Communist countries long have figured the trend was in that direction. The idea finds supoprt from the manner in which Moscow absorbed the three Baltic states—Lithuania Latvia and Estonia — in 1940 and split Poland with Hitler in 1939 when the Fuehrer launched the war.

The eastern European dependencies of course, already are controlled by Russia, their local government's being merely the executive bodies which carry out instructions from Moscow. Therefore absorption into the Soviet Union would seem to be a logical move, since this would render the numerous small states much less unwieldy to handle and so more profitable to the "mother country."

The territory, population and wealth involved in such a transaction would be great. The countries concerned are Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland. Their total area is about 340,543 square miles and their combined populations are 62,354,000.

Would Swell Population

The present Soviet Union, comprising 16 republics, has a population of some 194,409,000 and an area of 8,358,369 square miles. If the eastern European countries were included, the U.S.R.R. would be swollen to a population of 256,763,000 and an area of 8,699,110 square miles.

Comparisons of area and population among commonwealths don't get us far, because many other elements like development and wealth enter in. However, it's interesting to note that the United States and its possessions total 3,619,623 square miles and have a population of 150,621, 213. The British commonwealth comprises 12,974,410 square miles with a population of 551,336,810.

Great Prize

These dependencies represent a great prize in material wealth. Whether they represent a prize in other categories is open to much doubt. They are intensely independent, liberty-loving countries and could be expected to seek their independence again when opportunity arose. And only two have real Slavic populations.

Could Moscow make amalgamation stick? That's anybody's guess. Mine is that it's extremely doubtful whether Russia can hold the satellites in line indefinitely, either as pseudo-independents or otherwise.

Charged With Wounding

Toronto, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Stanley Hollingsworth, 32, was charged with wounding last night after what police described as a stabbing during a party in a suburban home. Norman Chapman was taken to hospital with serious knife wounds in his chest, stomach and shoulder.

WINTER STOCK OF APPLES

St. Thomas, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Local wholesalers report that the entire winter stock of 1948 apples, with the exception of domestic apies, has been depleted. The St. Thomas Growers' Co-operative said it had to turn down an order from Iowa for 25 carloads.

Mother Cannot Believe Daughter Has Been Held

Fenelon Falls, Feb. 19 (CP) — Mrs. John Ritchie of Fenelon Falls said Friday "I just can't imagine how it could be our Betty" who was arrested Friday at Beverly Hills, Calif., on suspicion of receiving stolen property. Betty Ritchie, former Toronto school teacher, was arrested in connection with jewel robberies attributed to Gerald G. Dennis, a 29-year-old native of Homer, a small community 40 miles east of Timmins.

Friends in this community 15 miles north of Lindsay said Betty was a "heavenly" beauty and were astonished at news of her arrest. She had visited her parents just before Christmas.

Montreal police said they want Dennis in connection with a $150,000 jewelry and fur robbery. Ontario police want him for escaping from Burwash Reformatory in 1943. He served sentences in Ontario for shopbreaking and administering a drug to procure an abortion. He was arrested at Cleveland two days ago on jewel robbery charges.

Bishops Study Letter Said Sent By Cardinal

Budapest, Feb. 19 (AP)— A usually well-informed source said today Hungary's Roman Catholic bishops have received a letter from Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty urging state-church peace.

The bishops met privately yesterday, the informant said, but adjourned without making a decision on the letter.

The letter was said to have been written after Cardinal Mindszenty's trial earlier this month. The Cardinal was convicted Feb. 8 of treason, espionage and black-market dealings and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Yesterday's meetings was the third the bishops have held since the Cardinal was sentenced. The bishops left Budapest for their church residences in the country without making any statement.

The informant said Cardinal Mindszenty advised the bishops "to come to an agreement with the government." The imprisoned Roman Catholic primate was said to have added that he would work in the interests of such a compromise (with the Communist controlled regime) if he were meeting with the bishops.

The bishops, the source continued, made a "profound study" of the letter without announcing any decision. It was reported that some bishops believe they cannot act without previous consent of the Vatican.

Others were said to have suggested that Cardinal Mindszenty should write to the Holy See instead of to the bench of bishops. It was understood that the Cardinal would be informed of these viewpoints. The primate is in a Hungarian prison awaiting the outcome of an appeal.

Head Master to Retire

Toronto, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Dr. H. C. Griffith, headmaster of Ridley College in St. Catharines, Ont., was guest of honor last night at the 49th annual dinner of Ridley College Old Boys' Association. Dr. Griffith is retiring this year after 28 years as headmaster.

THE WAYS OF YANKEE STOMACH

A reader asked several druggists for saleratus which I recommended (the reader does not say for what purpose) but none of the druggists has ever heard of it.

Come, come, now, what's going on here?

Surely, some of you folks have heard of Webster's Dictionary.

Practically every word you ever find in this column is in Webster—except an occasional interpolation of my own when Noah lets me down. You know what I mean—such indispensable words as cri, vite and geek.

Baking soda, saleratus, sodium bicarbonate or bicarbonate of soda are one and the same thing.

Instead of recommending saleratus or sodium bicarbonate I generally advise people not to use it as an antacid or to relieve distress attributed to "sour stomach."

A single dose of saleratus, bicarbonate of soda, on rare occasions is harmless enough. If bicarbonate is used frequently or regularly to relieve "sour stomach," gastric acidity, acid eructations, waterbrash, heartburn, uneasiness from fulness after eating, bloating, hunger pain, "gas" it tends to aggravate these very symptoms by stimulating the secreation of acid in the stomach.

These are the familiar complaints of poor geeks with what I call Yankee Stomach — for reasons described in the pamphlet Yankee Stomach, mailed on request if you provide stamped self addressed envelope.

An excess of sodium bicarbonate disturbs the acid-base balance in the blood and tissues and interferes with the assimilation of vitamins and minerals from food.

A comparatively harmless antacid for occasional or regular use is prepared chalk (calcium carbonate) combined with magnesium trisilicate, which enhances the acid-neutralizing value of the calcium carbonate without disturbing the acid-base balance in blood and tissues—acts as buffer against or absorbent of excess hydrochloric acid.

Aside from the familiar ulcer diets—perhaps too familiar to some persons with peptic ulcer or peptic ulcer complex—milk or any modification or derivative of milk should constitute a fundamental part of the diet of every one with Yankee Stomach. In the pamphlet I explain how to make lime water at home. A tablespoonful or two of lime water mixed with each glass of milk will enable many a person to take milk who otherwise avoids it on the fallacious reasoning that it is bad for his stomach because it doesn't "agree". Lime water, by the way, contains more lime (calcium. than milk itself—in case you have any peculiar notions about "too much calcium."

Tobacco smoker's hyperacidity or peptic ulcer complex is different in some respects from Yankee Stomach but the chalk and trisilicate combination gives relief.

All of this, you will please keep in mind, is mere symptomatic relief or mederation of discomfort or distress. If you have Yankee Stomach or smoker's peptic ulcer complex don't you think it worth while to seek treatment for what ails you now while the trouble is amenable to treatment? Think it over, and meanwhile if you hope even to hold your own, to say nothing of recoering good digestion it is absolutely necessary to keep all 28 to 32 teeth or dentures functionally efficient. A good dentist is a stomach specialist we all should consult.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Citrus Fruits and Peptic Ulcer

Stomach trouble twenty years, recent X-ray films show duodenal ulcer.. Am told I must stay strictly on diet. How am I going to get my vitamins. I love citrus fruits but am told... (Mrs. T. M. J.)

Answer—You had better not listen to M. Told or his brother Ben. It is for the doctor who prescribes the diet to instruct you how to get the vitamins you require. Avoid citrus fruits or their juices unless your physican advises them. Menus for the ulcer patient for a week and for other members of the family are given in booklet So You Have Indigestion. For copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

The Gray Sickness

When you had some interesting articles about the gray sickness I felt sorry for the poor old girls you described, but now the doctor says I have hypochromic anemia and wants to give me a series of 30 shots. (Mrs. R. W. H.)

Answer—After all, —we have to find something to keep the office girl occupied. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on The Gray Sickness (Hypochromic Anemia).

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

SHOULD THEY COME BACK

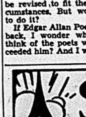
I was reading recently about the times of Shakespeare and the tough time that he had. I was informed that he spent much of his time in litigation, but it couldn't have worried him too much, for it was a Herculean task to write all those plays that he did. He had a few friends no doubt, but he understood human beings as no other writer. Wouldn't he gasp at the knowledge that his books had sold by the million, and that he was known and quoted all over the civilized world, should he suddenly drop in on us at this date?

I wonder what George Washington would think of his America if he should come back for a visit? Washington city and Radio City would undoubtedly give him something to think about. And I wonder what he would think of the Marshall Plan and of his successor, Mr. Truman? Certainly his Farewell Address would need to be revised to fit the present circumstances. But would he want to do it?

If Edgar Allan Poe should come back, I wonder what he would think of the poets who have succeeded him? And I wonder if people would treat him today as they did in his lifetime? Would he be so grossly misjudged as when he walked the streets of Baltimore and New York? Wouldn't he be surprised, that his first little pamphlet publication of poems had been sold for $20,000? He—who could hardly scrape up the price of a meal at the time of publication.

What would Lincoln think of the Western foreign policy? We are sure that he would emphasize anew his statement of "malice toward none; with charity for all." And moral rearmament would be his theme. He would be saddened at the world's war fever and the deadly means now invented for the killing of human beings. But his plea "that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth" would still thrill the world today as when he first uttered those immortal words.

These great of the earth can only come back to us in the record and deeds of their lives once lived. We are the custodians of their ideals. The world's heritage is what they were and did. If they could but speak today their message would simply be to —carry on!



STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

EVEN THOUGH THEY BURN THE FINGERS

The Christian Church is the world's only hope, yet it must be confessed that the Church today is frequently inadequate in its approach to modern moral problems.

Too often the pulpit deals with matters which constitute no problem at all for 95% of the Christian people and leave untouched problems in which most people are intensely interested. Many sermons are preached today on the necessity for racial and religious tolerance, church unity, a more liberal approach to truth. That these are important no one can deny, but 95% of the parents are struggling with the moral problems of their adolescent children. Most young people between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five are confronted with problems having to do with sex, for this is the mating period. Drinking is increasing by leaps and bounds, and many people are at a loss to know how they should conduct themselves with reference to it. Yet very seldom does one hear a straight-from-the-shoulder sermon on matters of this sort.

The challenge to preacher and teacher is to begin to handle the questions in which the majority of congregations are interested, even though these problems may have a tendency to burn the fingers.

Beryl Dickinson-Dash Cinderella Girl Chosen at McGill

Montreal, Feb. 19 (CP)—McGill University's Cinderella girl—lovely 21-year-old Beryl Dickinson-Dash —received the "thrill of my life" last night as she was crowned queen of the University's Winter carnival by Mayor Camillien Houde.

In a setting with all the sugar-coated trimmings of a nursery story, the dusky beauty accepted the crown and sceptre from the mayor as 8,000 students cheered.

Daughter of a railway porter, the third year Arts co-ed was chosen "prettiest of them all" by students in a secret ballot. Her attendants, all white girls, were other finalists in the competition.

Miss Dash, with a trace of soft huskiness in her voice, said that her selection proved that "Canadians are the most democratic people in the world."

"I'm so thrilled I can hardly believe it," she happily told admirers.

The honor came to her on her 21st birthday and "it's the best birthday present I've ever had."

The carnival queen, whose parents came to Montreal from Trinidad in the West Indies, said she wants to become a school teacher. However, she may change her mind as she has received several offers to be a model.

Euchre Drive Held at Home Of J. Belanger

Foxboro.—Last Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jack Belanger opened their home to forty members and visitors of the Foxboro Home and School Association for the first in a series of euchres being given by the Association.

Mr. Jack Bush of Bush's Ambulance kindly loaned chairs for the occasion and prizes were donated by the Foxboro Garage and Ducette's Grocery, of Foxboro.

First prize went to Mr. Milford Waller, second and third were won by Mrs. William Rombough and Mrs. Alf Wickett. The consolation prize was win by Mr. Cecil Hubble.

Delicious refreshments were served by the social committee of the Home and School Association.

Mrs. William Rombough tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Belanger for the use of their home.

Staff Members Hold Party At Club Commodore

On Wednesday evening last, a gay party was held at Club Commodore for members of Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co. of Canada Limited office staff and their guests.

Games and dancing were enjoyed during the evening, with music being supplied by a unit of the Commodores Orchestra.

Prize winners for elimination dance were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Young, Mr. and Mrs. J. McCarey, consolation prize and Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGuire, door prize.

At midnight dainty refreshments were served after which the party broke up around one o'clock.

Everyone agreed to a grand time and those responsible for its success should be congratulated.

Euchre Party Much Enjoyed

A pleasant party was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Mason, Hillcrest, R.R. 8, who together with Mrs. E. Murphy entertained a group of friends on Thursday evening. Card games were played, the euchre prize winners were ladies' 1st, Mrs. F. Moore, 2nd, Mrs. W. Thomas and consolation, Mrs. Parm. Men's 1st, J. Murphy; 2nd, J. Baker, consolation, Anna Murphy. Mrs. F. Fisher and Doris G. Clark won on the freeze-out. Mrs. A. Mason and Mr. F. J. Fisher won at cribbage. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses and helpers. The proceeds go to the sponsors' committee, for the Women of the Moose and were very gratifying.

WIFE WON'T TESTIFY

Denver, Feb. 19 — (AP)— Joe Walker, 31, free on $150,000 bail while awaiting trial on a charge of murdering Theresa Foster, 18-year-old Colorado University co-ed, was married last night to Eleanor Fleming, 27. Miss Fleming had been married previously to Walker but the marriage was declared invalid because Walker's divorce from his first wife was not final. The new marriage rules out the possibility that Mrs. Walker might testify against her husband at his trial starting March 1.

Hospital Auxiliary Prepares For Fashion Show in March

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held Tuesday afternoon in the nurses' residence with the President, Mrs. Gilbert Scott, in the chair.

The minutes were read by the Secretary, Mrs. E. B. Lally. Miss Ivy Dickens, treasurer, reported the acquisition of 22 new members since the last meeting.

Minutes were read of a special meeting of the Fashion Show committee at which Mrs. Harley Wray, fashion show convener, was chairman. The committee appointed are as follows: Tickets, Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, Mrs. Archie S. Lewis and Mrs. H. Alford; Stage, Mrs. R. E. Peterson, Mrs. Malcolm Robb, and Mrs. R. H. Tanner. Hair Dressers, Mrs. R. G. Weese and Mrs. Howard Graham; Ushers, Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon. Mrs. Wray herself has charge of contacting the exhibitors. Mrs. Stobie has kindly consented to act as commentator. The place is the Capitol Theatre, March 16th. In order that there will be no confusion in accommodating those who have bought tickets—separate tickets are being sold for the afternoon and evening performance—both at 60c.

Reports on Progress

Mrs. E. O. Keeler then reported on the progress of the Opportunity Shop which the Auxiliary operates in the Market Building. This shop is open on market days, Tuesday, Thursdays, and Saturdays from 9.30 to 11.30 in the mornings and from 2.00 to 4.00 in the afternoons. It remains open during the noon hour also, on Saturdays. This undertaking has been successful, netting a profit of over $1,000 since it was opened in October. Three hot food conveyors have been supplied to the hospital by the Auxiliary through the help of the shop proceeds. Just now the shop is disposing of Winter clothing at very reduced prices in order to make room for the Spring merchandise.

On Saturday, March 5th, a rummage sale will be held in the market building—further notice and details to be announced later.

Mrs. Norman Edwards has accepted the convenership of the "Opportunity Shop Bags" which are being distributed to members and their friends for facility in accumulating and collecting items for the shop. Other members of the "Bag" Committee are Mrs. St. Claire Hurlbut, Mrs. Bert Boyce, Mrs. L. G. Dandeno and Mrs. Archie Lewis.

The president announced a city wide free Chest X-ray Clinic to begin April 4th and members were asked to give their assistance in publicizing this project and in aiding in the house to house canvass to encourage people to avail themselves of this service.

Cost of Patients Given

Mrs. W. H. Wakefield, superintendent of the Hospital, gave an analysis of the daily cost per patient, explaining that it required one and one-quarter workers per patient to provide hospital care, such as is provided at the Belleville General Hospital. The break-down of actual expense for salaries, food, heat, light and all that goes to make up the hospital care was explained. This pertinent talk stressed the difficulties to be met because of high labor costs and ever rising costs of food and other essential commodities. The various explanations of specific financial problems peculiar to every hospital, unavoidable yet very costly, proved of great interest to the members of the Auxiliary. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. W. L. Langlois, after which the meeting adjourned and tea was served by Mrs. MacDonald and her student nurses.

Presbytery Opposes Legislation On Commercial Enterprises Operating on Lord's Day

The sessions of Belleville Presbytery of the United Church entered upon their second day, Friday with Rev. J. D. Martin, Trenton, presiding and conducting the worship period. Rev. J. R. Trumpour, Cannifton recorded the minutes. There was a large representation of both the laity and ministers, from the area extending from Odessa and Bath on the East, Picton on the South, Bancroft on the North and Trenton on the West.

Early in the proceedings was the report of the Christian Education committee given in three parts. Rev. A. W. Lougheed, Shannonville boys' work counsellor, told of a conference he attended in Toronto late in December and urged that greater recognition be given boys' groups. He quoted Rev. Willard Brewing, D.D., Moderator of the United Church as saying "There is no more powerful influence than that of a boy's life. Mr. Lougheed recommended, camps, field days, father and son banquets and conferences as projects through which to interest boys.

Advocates Fellowship Groups

Rev. D. C. Amos, young adult counsellor in presenting this work urged the forming of Fellowship groups as a means of developing a wider inclusiveness and of saving small groups from hiving off by themselves. Such a group, Mr. Amos believed should have representation on the Official Board of the charge.

Mr. Don Williams, chairman of the Quin-mo-lac corporation explained the progress to date of the new Moira Lake camp. Approximately $6,000 has been spent. This camp is on Moira Lake, just off the twelfth concession of Huntingdon township and about half way between the Madoc and Tweed highways.

Rev. Ralph Barker, Stirling, in presenting the report of the Social Service and Evangelism committee expressed the Presbytery's opposition to any form of legislation that would allow commercial enterprises to operate on Sunday.

Against Sunday Activities

It was resolved that the attention of the Minister of Justice of Canada and of the Attorney General of Ontario be drawn to the threat to introduce dog racing, with its attendant evils and express the opposition of Presbytery to the same.

It was further resolved that the members of Belleville Presbytery endorse the action of the General Council, held in Vancouver last September, opposing the sending of an envoy from Canada to the Vatican and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Prime Minister of Canada.

The Home Mission report given by Rev. A. L. Sisco, Tweed, recommended the following grants to pastoral charges, Bancroft, $160 Coe Hill $400; Flinton, $465; Northport, $50; and St. Ola $725. Where there are six displaced persons desirous of learning English books and instructors will be provided free.

Dr. J. L. McKay of Montreal, superintendent of Home Missions stated that there were 2,016 ministers in the active work of the church across Canada, but 425 pastoral charges where there should be ordained men, but for which none were available. After pressing into service all superannuates, students and lay supplies available the church still has 140 charges without anyone to give spiritual leadership.

Dr. Harold Young, of Toronto, chairman of the Board of Colleges and students in his address to Presbytery said: "The United Church has $20,000,000 invested in schools and colleges and 10,000 students now attending these. Four hundred and sixty-five are students in theology. The Bay of Quinte Conference has forty candidates for the ministry and 20 of these are in the Belleville Presbytery. He urged publicizing the need; shoulder tapping or personal interviews as a means of interesting young men. Dr. Young closed his address by reminding congregations of their responsibility for securing recruits and said "every minister should at least hold himself responsible for securing a successor when he is no longer able to serve."

The congregation of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was given permission to sell their shed and the congregation at Mount Pleasant, Prince Edward County, permission to sell their church in which services are no longer being held.

Call Sustained

The call of Rev. D. M. J. Buttars of Bloomfield to Inglewood in the Toronto conference was sustained and that of Springbrook pastoral charge to Rev. Howard Beare of Sturgeon Falls, Toronto conference, was approved. Rev's. Lloyd Shorten, Foxboro; A. W. Lougheed, Shannonville and J. R. Trumpour, Cannifton, requested a change of pastoral relations, all of the above to take place at the end of June.

The spring meeting of Presbytery is to be held at Roblin, on Tuesday, April 26th.

Resolution Approved

At a meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference committee of Social Service and Evangelism held in Tabernacle United Church on Thursday with Dr. James Semple, Ph.D., of Peterborough presiding and attended by Messrs. A. A. Martin, Brighton; Fred Fallis, Millbrook; Rev's. J. D. Martin, Trenton; M. J. Aiken, Peterborough, President of the Ontario Temperance Federation; C. A. Perkins, Belleville and R. C. Chalmers, Ph.D., Associate Secretary of Social Service and Evangelism, Toronto, it was resolved to write to the Attorney General of the Province of Ontario expressing opposition to any enabling legislation that would allow commercial enterprises to operate on Sunday. Secondly to draw the attention of the Minister of Justice of Canada and the Attorney-General of Ontario to the threat to introduce dog racing with its attendant evils and express the opposition of the United Church to the same. Thirdly to endorse the action of General Council in opposing the sending of an envoy from Canada to the Vatican and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Prime Minister of Canada.

Women's Activities

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The executive meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the John Street High School, on Monday last. After the usual routine of the general meeting the Blue Cross convener explained the increase in the fees which would come into effect in June of 1949.

Several meetings were announced to take place in the near future, and some of the new bylaws of the league were discussed. The treasurer's report was read which was very gratifying and encouraging, as well as other reports, and an acknowledgment of the boxes sent to the Sisters of Service was also read.

The appreciation of the League was expressed to Mrs. Malette and Mrs. McDougall for the splendid result of their convenership in the sale of a blanket.

The Right Rev. Monsignor J. F. Nicholson, V.G., related the impressions of an author when he had an interview with Cardinal Mindszenty during the Marion Congress which was held in Ottawa. The author was favored with the Cardinal's autograph.

HOLLOWAY STREET W.A.

On Thursday afternoon the regular meting of Holloway St. Woman's Association was held in the Sunday School rooms with a large attendance. Mrs. A. Campbell, the president was in charge and opened the meeting in the usual manner.

The business of the meeting consisted of arranging for a St. Patrick's tea, a meeting with Albert College Guild in March, and a special April meeting with Mrs. Inglehart as guest speaker. A banquet in the interests of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Legion was also arranged. The treasurer's report, and that of the Flower Committee were very gratifying, and the minutes of the last meeting, as well as those of an executive meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. R. Andrews was appointed to look after the subscriptions of the Observer, and Mrs. Lennox, Mrs. Hitchon and Mrs. Grills were appointed as property committee for the church kitchen.

The devotional service was taken by Mrs. R. Kilbank, using as her topic "Friendship", reading from the Scriptures and a short meditation on friendship, as well as the hymn, "What a Friend we Have in Jesus".

Mrs. Aspinal very sweetly rendered "O Saviour Hear Me" and a skit entitled "Adventures in Friendliness", was presented by Mrs. E. Hubbs, Mrs. L. Hopkins, Mrs. J. Grills, Mrs. R. White, Mrs. B. Moorman, Mrs. A. Campbell and Mrs. J. Cordes, after which are ladies assembled in groups while refreshments were served by Mrs. Moorman's and Mrs. D. Ferguson's group.

HALLOWAY W.M.S. - W.A.

Mesdames Herbert Townsend and Coleman Townsend were hostesses to the W.M.S. and W.A. dinner and meeting on Wednesday. Twenty-two members, visitors, and children partook of the pot luck dinner.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Harry McMullen, president of the W.M.S., conducted the opening exercises.

Mrs. Coleman Townsend read a prayer of intercession for China after which Rev. A. L. Shorten led in prayer.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted and roll call was answered by "A Favorite Hymn".

It was unanimously agreed to send for greetings cards to be sold by members of the W.M.S.

Mrs. Earl Snider president of the W.A., then took charge of the meeting. She called on Mrs. Geo. Foster, who brought greetings from the Moira W.A., and gave a few highlights on their society re ways of raising money and how it is used in the work of the church.

The W.A. Roll Call was responded to by each member paying her dues.

Mrs. Harold Wilkinson and Mrs. Coleman Townsend were appointed program, convener for March and April and plans were made to have a C.G.I.T. group in this community.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

BACHELOR BIRDS

"Mr. Wren is back," Edith announced, pleasure showing in her voice. "He's hopping in and out of his old home, singing lustily."

Everyone then thought that, without doubt, there would again be the fun of having a Wren family within a few yards of the cottage. But it was not to be. For weeks Mr. Wren sang in vain; no Mrs. Wren ever appeared. The little house remained vacant. The girls felt more disappointed than the Wren sounded, for his song remained as cheerful as ever.

We are inclined to think of all birds being paired, but naturally this is not always so. In the 1920's, J. P. Burkitt made a study of English Robins in northern Ireland, being one of the first persons to place colored bands on their legs for identification purposes. He found that in one year 2 of his 9 males, and in another year 4 or 5 of 13 were unmated. These, he discovered, "sang steadily far into the summer, while song in the mated males declined with the progress of the first and second nesting." It now seems to be generally accepted that bachelor birds keep on singing after the rest have ceased. We can only guess the reason. Probably they will not give up until all hope of attracting a female has vanished.

Some birds are known to wed for life. An observer reports that Wren-tits, a species peculiar to California, are faithful to a wife as long as she lives, but if she dies, the widower stays in the same territory until he can find another. If both die, thus leaving the territory vacant, young bachelor Wren-tits take possession.

When there are too many birds of one sex to go around, what happens? Though unusual, a male occasionally has two wives at a time. A bird watcher in Mexico actually saw two female Anis sharing a nest. Viscount Grey tells us that male European Cuckoos seem to be much more numerous than females, and that there are sometimes two husbands to one wife. He also says that unmated birds of various kinds "sometimes join in the feeding of young birds that do not belong to them."

Immature, unmated birds of some species live together in colonies throughout the summer. For some years this is known to have been the case with Double-crested Cormorants which occupy a section of Ile au Heron Sanctuary, near Montreal.

Deaf Students To Present Play

Costumed in the colorful dresses of mid-European peasants, students of the Ontario School for the Deaf are presenting a short three-act play entitled "Hansel and "gretel" next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, February 22 and 23 in their own auditorium. The citizens of Belleville who have attended with such pleasure the annual Christmas Pageant put on by the students, will be interested in this mid-term play. Everyone who has read or had read to him the lovely old fairy tales will remember how Hansel and Gretel get lost in the woods and how Rosina, the wicked old witch almost succeeds in fattening them up for a meal and how the two children succeed in roasting the old witch thus freeing many 'cookie' children from her evil spell.

The part of Hansel is taken by Lula Vorvis and Dolores Henault, who lost her hearing before she was three years of age makes a very convincing Gretel. Lula Cayer, one of the 'star' basketball players of the school takes the part of the witch.

An offering is being taken at the door, which will be put in the Pupils' Benefit Fund, a fund which is used to assist less fortunate students.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

"Friendship Rings" have no social standing

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last Christmas I received a friendship ring from the boy with whom I had been going steady for two and a half years. Several of my girl friends also received this type of ring as Christmas gifts. They wear their ring on the left hand. I am the only one who wears the friendship ring on the right hand, and I do this because I think that only an engagement ring and a wedding ring belong on the left hand. Am I right or are my girl friends right?

M. M.

About the so-called "friendship ring" there are no rules or regulations. The real point is not on which hand it should be worn, but whether it should be worn at all. For it is definitely not good form or good taste or good judgment for a girl to accept a ring from 'just a friend'. . only from her fiance.

Going Steady vs. Playing the Field

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My friend B is 22 . . . I'm 21 . . . and we'd like to have you settle an argument we're having. He thinks a girl should go out with only one fellow, and when she finds out that he isn't "the one" she should drop him and try going steady with a different one. I maintain that she should go out with different fellows, that if she goes out with only one, she might go out with him three months or even three years, then find out that he isn't the right one for her. . . .and she has wasted all those months or even years. I think that if she goes out with three or four fellows she has a better opportunity for comparison, and could be surer of her choice. Which is right?

P. and I

Your point of view is the wiser one. . .it's sound and practical makes good sense. Unless she is engaged to the man, or hopes to be, the girl who concentrates on one man foolishly cuts herself off from the friendship of all other men, who hesitate to cut in on the "going-steady" pattern. Then, as you say, perhaps after several years of friendship with a boy who she comes to realize isn't "the one", she finds that most, if not all, of the desirables have established their home-sweet-home.

How bride may enter at informal church wedding

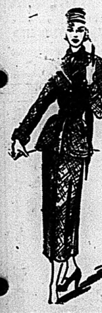
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This is to be a church wedding. The bride will have only one attendant, and since both she and her attendant are going to wear suits, we think it would not be appropriate for them and the bride's father to walk up the aisle. What is the proper procedure?

Y. B.

At an informal church wedding particularly when only a few seats in the church are to be occupied, the bride usually prefers not to walk up the aisle. Instead, the procedure often chosen is for her to enter from the side door at the left of the altar, either with her maid of honor, or following her. (The groom and the best man come from the vestry door on the right, in the customary manner.) Sometimes the maid of honor enters first, alone and the bride and her father follow, walking together. Or the bride's father may stand in the first pew on the left of the aisle, or stand just outside the pew, ready to take his part in the ceremony when he gives his daughter in marriage.

Trim Suit



For town and country wear.

For town and country wear

IMPORTED IRISH tweed makes a handsome suit that can be easily dressed up or down for town or country. The coloring is beautiful, a subtle muted purple and blue mixture with an overtone of brown. The belt and buttons are of dark brown leather. The flapped pockets have side slits. The bodice is snugly fitted, and the back has a vent. The skirt is slim with a looped-over fold in the centre front.

The Right Powder for You

To carry your powder with you during the day, a good - looking compact is a nice fashion accessory. This one, of black and gold, is especially smart

By HELEN FOLLETT

SKIN tints vary to a considerable degree, from pale, to gold, to florid, to tawny, with many intermediate tones. Time was when white powder was used. The blonde is likely to select a faint flesh tint, believing that it is the proper choice for her strawberry-and-cream complexion, but that may be an error. Even the true blonde may carry a slightly golden cast on he face. For her there is the blend . of flesh and light rachelle.

The girl with the sallow skin must be canniewhen buying complexion calcimine. She does not want to accent the sallowness so she chooses a lighter tint. But powder will never make the flesh look lighter. A shade darker than the natural tone will serve as a camouflage to a certain extent.

Average Woman

It would seem that, the moment the average woman picks up her powder pad, her mind is on her nose, so she slaps on the powder. A good old custom, but all wrong. The nose should be treated last when the pad carries a light load of the powder. Whenever you see a powder-spotty face you can know that the nose got more than its share.

Powder your neck and ear lobes. Use the pad lightly over the cheeks, forehead and chin. Tap lightly with your finger tips. A powder brush is useful for removing the surplus, gives the skin a neat, finished appearance.

You will find more shades of powders on cosmetic counters than you ever imagined could be produced. There is deep peach, creamy peach, medium peach. There are rachelles, ranging from ivory to brunette. Rose-rachelle gives life to the complexion and, if your skin has a little natural coloring, you can dispense with the drug store blushes.

To carry your powder with you during the day, a good-looking compact makes a nice fashion accessory. Choose one in a design that harmonizes with your lipstick and handbag.

The Experts Say . . .

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, (CP)—Woman's place may be in the kitchen, but it's surprising the number of men who carry a food recipe around in their pocket.

We quizzed a few of them the other day about their special dishes, and came up with a flock of instructions on how to make everything from Welsh Rarebit to hash brown potatoes.

"For me, breakfast is not complete unless I have hash brown potaoes," said one chap, digging around in a wallet for his recipe:

Hash Brown Potatoes

Boil the spuds just enough to allow a fork to go through them easily, and then chop in small pieces. Heat in frying-pan with one tablespoon butter. Season with onion salt. Moisten the mixture with milk or cream, and then keep turning until potatoes are well browned.

Another male gourmet described as 'a very nice midnight snack' his recipe for Welsh Rarebit.

Ingredients—one cup of old Canadian cheese (grated); one tablespoon butter; one-half cup of beer; one egg.

Heat the cheese and butter in a frying-pan and gradually mix in the beer. Beat egg and add a little of the cheese mixture before returning entire egg to cheese in the pan. Season with salt, pepper, celery salt, dash of cayenne, dash of Worcester sauce, one-half teaspoon dry mustard. Add a few stuffed olives (sliced) and pour mixture over hot buttered toast.

Ingredients: three or four meaty pork or lamb chops; three large tomatoes; one can of corn and one can of green beans; dash of Worcester sauce; one can stewed tomatoes; two large-sized onions; one medium-sized red pepper and a green pepper; salt, pepper, dried parsley, sage and a bay leaf.

Rub the sides of a roasting-pan with garlic and put in the chops. Cover with corn, beans and the sliced tomatoes and onions. Sprinkle with seasoning and then cover contents with the canned tomatoes and finely chopped red and green peppers. Add as much Worcester sauce as desired. Peel four potatoes, cut them in half and place around the sides of the pan so that just half of the potato is immersed in the liquid.

Place a lid on the pan and put it on the stove to simmer for a while before removing the lid and placing the pan in a hot oven. Bake for 45 minutes.

Here's a thought for the gal with a yen to please the male sex. Men don't appreciate 'sweet' desserts. A couple of comments:

"Never touch them—just give me a good meat and potatoes." "The only dessert I like is sliced bananas in maple syrup and cream—my wife says I'm probably the only person on earth who eats bananas that way."

BEAUTY

Shadows on the eyes

Women find pleasure and satisfaction in playing with the powder pad, the rouge compact and the lipstick, but most of them are afraid of monkeying with eye shadows. And well they might be. That tricky little make-up item calls for expert application. It can glamorize or it can make the face look ghastly and messy. Used cleverly it is just about tops in making the feminine countenance appear delightfully mysterious.

It takes a woman with flair and a keenly developed dress sense to get away with eye shadows. They are not for ordinary run-of-the-mill girls who find it difficult enough to get their synthetic blushes on straight and their lips painted.

At cosmetic counters you will find a wide choice of colors. If you are a brunette, you can use blue or brown. The girl with the golden skin and blue eyes will find a bronze shadow a happy selection. For the redhead there is a delicate sage green that will do something for her flaming thatch. The blond with blue eyes can use blue pigment ,but she must be most careful to see that it does not conflict with the blue of her eyes. If she has hazel eyes, light green may be the best bet.

When applying the shadow, start at the roots of the lashes, blend delicately up over the fullness of the lids. Leave the merest film. More than a little is too much. The application should not extend beyond the far end of the eyebrow, should not go above the edge of the eye socket. If the skin is dry, a little cream should be used as a conditioning agent before the coloring is spread on.

No make-up can be really lovely and flattering unless the skin beneath it is smooth and soft. The tissues surrounding the eyes are more delicate than elsewhere on the face, which is the reason why lines show up first in this area.

The daily practice of applying cream helps guard against puckered eyelids and turkey tracks, coaxes away crepiness of the skin. So don't miss out on the nightly beauty chores. Apply a cream all over the face and neck with light, tapping movements. Do gentle circles around the eyes, working from the inner corner of the upper lid to the temple, doing several circles there, coming back under the eye to starting point. Leave the cream on all night.

One reason women fear eye make-up is that they fancy it will make them look theatrical. It won't if restraint is used, if the right colors are selected.

If you want to experiment, go ahead. There will be some excitement in the family circle, but what's that in the great and glorious cause of pulchritude?

Always Stylish

By ALICE ALDEN

THE HALLMARK of the really great designer is the ability to design clothes that are timeless, that always appear unobstrusively right and smart, and all this despite a most individual handling of fabric and design. Elizabeth Hawes is a leader in this select coterie. Something to wear and look well in for any afternoon or informal evening is this softly flared skirt of deep brown wool, unexpectedly teamed with a blouse of gunmetal silk taffeta, and bound at the waist with a black satin cummerbund. Note, please, the novel neckline and shoulder treatment, individual without being overdone.

POPULATION UP

Highest number of births ever registered in Belleville for one year was recorded in 1948. Of a total of 1,586 births, 839 were boys, 747 girls. There were 18 sets of twins.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Letters and Answers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a boy of 16 who has lost his girl friend because of what another fellow said.

It all started when a friend of my girl friend told her that I had told the other fellows I had made advances to her. This is untrue, but she naturally believed him and got in an argument with me and said she never wanted to see me again.

Can you tell me any way I might get her to believe it is all untrue? I hope she reads this and sees that I didn't say anything, and that her friend was lying.

"D. W."

Dear "D. W.":

It seems to me you have a perfect right to ask your girl friend for a show down on this matter. If you know who this mischief-making friend of hers is, I would advise you to go directly to her and find out, if possible, who it was that made any such remarks about you. Then go to the boy, or boys, and ask if you can't get them to be decent enough to repair the damage they have done by admitting that they had made up the story.

Of course, it seems to me that your girl friend can have very little real feeling for you, or confidence in you, if she is so ready to believe disagreeable rumors about you. My own feeling would be that you wouldn't lose much if you lost her.

• • •

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I had been going with a fellow who I hoped would marry me, but one day he told me that he had been dating another girl who, to this day, I have a deep hatred for this fellow burning in my heart. Please advise me.

"P.M."

Dear "P.M.":

I doubt if you are still in love with this chap, but I think you still feel angry and humiliated at having been jilted. It is, as you yourself have practically said, your desire to revenge yourself on the girl who took him away from you that makes you keep on thinking about the whole thing, rather than any real feeling for him. As a matter of fact, although you don't say so, it is possible that you married in an attempt to show both this man and this girl that you could get another man easily, and perhaps you were so eager to do so, that you didn't wait till a man you really loved came along, but took your first chance to marry after the other man left you.

Be that as it may, since you have married, you had better make up your mind to put all thoughts of any other man out of your mind and concentrate on making happy the man who married you. You would not only be very mean to your husband to do anything else, but to yourself, as well. The best way to get the 'last laugh in this situation is to show this other man, and the girl who took him from you, that you have made a very happy marriage.

Spring Clothes Feature Pleats for New Detail

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London (CP)—Get out your "old look" again. Shake out the mothballs. The old styles are about to get a new lease of life.

This will be the reaction of many British women to the recent spring fashion shows. For London's "Big 10" have set their seal on slim classic lines with naturally fitted waist.

The keynote is one of "controlled elegance." Daytime skirts are 13 inches from the ground and there is a spontaneous return to moderately-padded shoulders for coats, suits and coat frocks.

Suits have an air of deceptive simplicity with jackets, mostly of waist length, having plain classically-moulded lines. Intricacies are confined to lapels, pockets, cuffs and fancy buttoning.

But fashion's big news is back interest—back flaring jackets, back fullness in skirts. Pleats are used everywhere: in panels on capes and jackets in groups on skirts, in ruffles at skirt hems, Vandyke tucking or seaming may emphasize the hem of a jacket or skirt.

In fact pleats are the main detail theme. They are the answer to the simplicity of line with its combined freedom of movement. All types of pleats are used: accordion, sun-ray, crystal, small knife, large and small box.

Designer Hardy Amies used them right through his collection. For instance the skirt of a grey check fine Yorkshire tweed suit has a hip yoke, Vandyked at the back and rounded in front, from which hang three groups of pleats at back and two in front. He also balances a panel of pleats on the back left-hand side of a jacket with a corresponding fan of pleats on the right-hand side of the skirt.

Creed inserts a diagonal panel of pleats across the front of a coat frock. Peter Russell emphasizes an almost tubular silhouette with flat pleats encircling the hips; Digby Morton pushes them to one side. Victor Stiebel concentrates them at the back into a pigtail—this, like hair, is brushed smoothly round to the back neatly caught up and then dropped like a pigtail.

There is a hint of the built-up waistline on skirts which gives the peg-top look and many waists have slotted belts of contrasting colors.

With holiday travel in mind Hartnell and Molyneux design some excellent dual-purpose clothes. Beige wool and silk jersey are used by Molyneux for a four-piece ensemble—loose coat, slim wool skirt and cap-sleeved jersey blouse, with the wool skirt interchangeable with a full ground length evening skirt in matching jersey.

Hartnell designs a monkey jacket suit in grey wool that reveals—when the jacket and tie-on skirt are removed—an afternoon dress in grey and white polka dot silk.

The princess line, with moderately flared skirt is most popular for spring coats. To this line Hardy Amies adds the most flattering collar of the season — an attractive face-framing affair, crossed in front and standing well out on the shoulders.

In fitted coats high collars and capes are popular. The tent swagger is confined to country, holiday and yachting ensembles.

When your BACK ACHES...

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order excess acids and poisons remain in the system. Rockets Jrs. Make it Eight Straight, Defeating Kingston Aces by Lopsided 12-1 Score

Belleville Rockets junior "B's" took the Kingston Aces in their stride here last night to chalk up their eighth consecutive victory in the district junior "B" group by a score of 12-1 while their Senior "B" pals, the C.N.R. Diesels were wiping out the vaunted Kingston Nylons by an 8-6 score.

There wasn't much to this junior "B" game here last night before the usual handful of fans. Rockets ripped home seven goals in the first period before the hard-fighting but ineffective Aces team scored their lone counter with but seconds to go.

Green Gets Four

Johnny Green was the hero of the piece from a Rockets standpoint as he surged home four goals in a standout performance. Hogan, Peter Jones, Art Wright, the latter with a trio of markers stood out for the Rockets. Peter Jones got himself two with as many assists while Taylor scored his first goal in two years. In fact the extra Rockets team stood out. Tommy Schreider with Joe Nolan sparked the defence with their aggressive and defensive tactics but Tommy spoiled a good effort with three penalties.

Rockets ripped back to the goal-scoring activities with four in the second period to make the score 12-1. The Aces, playing the best hockey of the night rampaged back into the picture in a gallant but hopeless effort. Rockets were held by the hard-checking Aces in this session and scored but one marker that being Johnny Green's fourth tally of the night.

It was more or less fair hockey with a hard-fighting Kingston team, hopelessly defeated trying their best to whittle down the score. To the credit of the Kingston kids it must be said they battled to the last ditch. Vivian, Aces goalie, saw 32 pucks flash by him the other night played an outstanding game despite the fact the Rockets fired plenty behind him. Compeau and Lesonde, the latter one of the best players on the ice, Bradley and Stewart played stoutly in a lost cause.

The Teams

Aces Goal, Vivian; defence, Lesonde, Compeau; centre Jamieson; wings, Lyons, Gregory subs Bradley, Stewart, Tozer, Tibbett, Perslowe, Irwine, Millar.

Rockets: Goal, McKay; defence, Schreider, Nolan; centre, Jones; wings, J. Semark, Hogan; subs, Wright, Green, D. Semark, Taylor, Bone, Barrett, Creeggan.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

These nawsty 'ockey blighters from Canada, to wit the Sudbury Wolves, have been drawing down the wrath of foreign fans and officials in the World Hockey Tournament with their alleged mayhemic tactics in leaning slightly on a foeman when he comes charging in on the defence, or the goal. Something of a furore was caused recently when the Canucks allegedly played too rough and a lot of them were banished from the ice. Meanwhile their ancient enemies from Czechoslovakia went on to hand them their first defeat of the tournament, while all the hockey world wondered.

• • •

Reams have been and are being written anent this Sudbury Wolves team. Any bantam "D" kid knows that the Wolves are not truly representative of the hockey strength and ability of the country they represent. And they are playing under a set of rules that smack of the Milquetoast variety. It seems that if hockey opponents over in these countries as much as cast an angry look at one another, they immediately apologise. And Heaven forbid, if they accidentally jostle an opponent they are deprived of their liberty for the prescribed time. And horrors, if as much as a drop of blood is spilled, it creates an international incident.

• • •

No wonder the Canucks proved unpopular. No doubt the foreigners from Canada couldn't resist stepping right lustily into their opponents. That is the way they play the game. Wonder what would happen if this "brutal, and unsportsmanlike" way of playing hockey, as Canadians play it, broke out into a regular donnybrook with players, officials and spectators throwing punches right and left, as is sometimes the case over here?

• • •

The question has been asked in various places. "Should Canada continue to send hockey teams to the World Tournament?" If the CAHA insists on sending mediocre teams, which could not win a Senior "B" title at home, we would say no. If Canada is to continue with the sport that originated within her confines, the powers-that-be should send the best talent procurable. She has everything to lose and not much to win.

• • •

And we agree with Jim (Globe & Mail) Coleman who wrote in his column the other day, or words to this effect. "Let some of these European teams come over here and play the best we've got under Canadian rules. Chums, they'd never know what hit 'em.

• • •

The Cy Barriage-Bobby Strahan starry little band of Gunners Midget "B's" trek to Port Hope Monday night, ice conditions permitting to take on the hard-fighting crew of Cobourg youngsters. They carry plenty of goal margin into the second game of the round and should come home with the series in their ammunition pouches.

• • •

The Rockets Juveniles, however face a sterner task. Down three goals to the speedy Port Hope juves the Schrieder crew will have to step but lively if they intend continuing down the playdown trail. They nearly pulled the bag out of the fire on Thursday night with a spirited second period rally when they scored thrice to even count, but the fine goalkeeping of the Port Hope custodian and some very cheap penalties on the part of the visiting official ruined whatever chances they had. They miss the services of Billy Strahan who will likely be out for the rest of the season.

• • •

The Rockets junior "B's" showed a clean-cut superiority over the Kingston Aces here last night defeating them by a lop-sided score of 12-1. After the first few minutes of play it was a matter of yawning and how many. The Kingston kids, a stout battling crew came to life in the third period and aided and abetted by Compeau and Lesonde held the rampaging Rockets to a single counter. Vivian, the Aces goalie established some sort of a record. He was the little valiant Joe who assayed the goalie job against the Diesels in that 33-2 debacle earlier in the week. He was beaten by 45 pucks in two efforts but that should not be held against him. He played a grand game against both the flashing Diesels and the equally goal-hungry Rockets last night. We salute a game little guy. Last night according to our demon statistician, Eddie Lee, the Aces were outshot by 52 to 17.

• • •

Like their Junior "B" hockey comrades, the flying CNR Diesels maintained their undefeated record in Senior "B" company last night despite the raucous pre-game Kingston ballyhoo and desperate attempts to strengthen a team that might take the measure of the Trainmen. The Diesels held a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period, got a bit scared in the second when the Nylons rammed home a couple to their one and then went on to win 8-6.

Canada's Chances To Retain Title Appear Bleak

Stockholm, Feb. 19 (CP)—Canada's chances of retaining the world amateur hockey championship appeared today to rest on an immorable sequence of events.

Czechoslovakia now leads the six-team-round-robin series with three victories, no defeats and no ties for six points. Canada and Sweden are next in line with five points apiece—results of two victories, one defeat and one tie.

The Czechs have two games left—against Sweden and the United States. Sweden and Canada have one game to play.

Thus the prospects of Sudbury Wolves are bleak. Manager Max Silverman's charges probably will defeat Switzerland in the last remaining contest but even that will not help much.

The Czechs can take the title by defeating either Sweden or the United States or by drawing both contests. The only chance for Canada would be if the Czechs were held to one point or less in the two remaining games—that is, one loss and one tie, or two losses.

Even in the latter event if one Czech loss happened to be against Sweden Canada would still be out in the cold. Sweden would be tied for the lead with Canada but probably would take the title, won last year by the R.C.A.F. Flyers, on the goal average.

Sweden has the highest total in this department thanks to its 18-0 victory over Austria, the only finalist which has failed to win a game.

In Friday's games, Canada defeated Austria 8-2. The Canadian's attack was led by Joe Dibastiani, Don Munro, and Bill Dimock who tallied twice each. Don Stanley and Emile Gagne garnered one goal each.

The pace-setting Czechs downed Switzerland 8-1 and, scoring one of the major upsets of the tournament, the United States handed Sweden a 6-3 defeat.

$765,000 Arena Will be Opened By Veterans

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Feb. 19—(CP) — A $765,000 community building will be officially opened here tomorrow as a memorial to the men of this Northern Ontario city who fought and died in two world wars.

Lt.-Col. C. Stone of Ottawa, principal chaplain of the Canadian armed forces, will officiate at a solemn service of dedication, attended by a half-dozen veterans' organizations and uniformed civic employees.

Besides the religious service, the opening day's program includes a rally of Algoma District Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. Feature performers at an evening concert will be three local artists who have achieved wide distinction in their chosen fields, Metropolitan Opera tenor Joseph Victor Laderoute, coloratura soprano Doreen Hulme and pianist Jennifer Klym.

On Tuesday night the Hiawathaland Fancy Skating Club from the sister city of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., will put on a two-hour show with more than 200 persons taking part.

The first hockey game ever played here on artificial ice will see the Sault Indians meet Port Arthur Bearcats in the community building Feb. 26.

Seats 3,800 People

The 155-by-350 foot community building known as the Sault Memorial Gardens, comprises a main auditorium seating 3,800. It has a regulation-size ice surface and equipment suitable for a year-round entertainment program including concerts, roller skating shows, circuses, summer skating exhibitions and dances.

Residents of this hustling steel city of 28,000 population a questionnaire in January, 1945, gave overwhelming approval to a proposal that the centre be built and in January, 1946, voted to borrow $400,000 on debentures. Construction started in September, 1946.

While the work went ahead, costs rose and labor shortages developed and by the end of 1947 most of the $400,000 had been spent. The following February, ratepayers voted another $200,000 but by the end of July it became apparent that still more cash would be needed.

A 2½-week-long inquiry into the building's costs established that original estimates had been too low and that costs had risen sufficiently to justify the extra expenditures. Then an additional $165,000 was raised through debentures sales to complete the structure.

Now the citizens of Sault Ste. Marie have a community war memorial arena which they claim is second to none in Canada or the United States.

Bruins, Leafs Over Strength In Stretch Drive

At least two National Hockey League teams have more players than they know what to do with. And these two, Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, need all they can get.

If that's confusing look at today's standings, which show Detroit Red Wings way in the lead—and all the other five stoutly contesting the three remaining positions.

At the moment Detroit lead by 10 points over Boston, and Toronto five behind. From there it's a scramble, Toronto sitting third with 46 points, Montreal fourth with 45, Chicago fifth with 43 and New York last with 40.

Tonight's games could tangle it even closer. Boston plays at Toronto while the Canadiens entertain New York Rangers at the Forum. Sunday all six are in action, Toronto at Chicago, Montreal at New York and Boston at Detroit.

The manpower surplus naturally isn't worrying Boston and Toronto too much.

Dit Clapper brought the Bruins into Toronto Friday with 18 players. "That's more than I've had for quite a few years," said Clapper. "I don't know what I'll drop until I check with (General Manager) Art Ross Saturday.

The team limit is 17. The Bruins reached Toronto from Chicago, while Ross was due in Toronto today from Boston. Bruins hit the limit and more because veteran Milt Schmidt was back after a 10-day layoff with an abscessed leg. The Boston 18 includes three rookies called up before the deadline Feb. 10—forwards Dave Creighton and Zellio Toppazzini, and defenceman Ed Krysanowski.

The Leafs are up to 18 because Howie Meeker is ready for action after an injury which kept him out for some six weeks. He played briefly against Montreal Canadiens Thursday and may be able to take a regular turn tonight. A bruised side kept Vic Lynn out of a practice yesterday but he is expected to play.

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP)—Canada may be the birthplace of hockey but you can't tell by the way world championship tournaments are run in Europe.

At least that's what Rex (Guelph Mercury) Macleod and Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Coleman say.

The Sudbury Wolves, Canada's representatives in the International Hockey Tournament in Stockholm, Sweden, are in the centre of an international hockey battle because of their style of play.

Both writers say hockey is Canada's game and should be played according to Canadian rules.

"Canadians," says Rex, "are forced to play their national game in international competition, under a set of rules that would be laughed off as ridiculous over here. England would never consent to some other nation telling her how to play soccer. Neither would the United States pay any attention to a foreign interpretation of the baseball code."

Rex tongue in cheek, says: "If we don't keep our hockey teams home in the future, the United Nations organization may insist upon it."

Cards Are Stacked

Coleman says that so long as Canada continues sending teams overseas the players should be selected more carefully, not only for playing ability but also as diplomatic represenatives.

"The Cards are stacked against Canadians in those foreign competitions," he writes. "The Canadians are the perennial champions and, when they skate onto the ice, the yare opposed by the other teams, the referees (discreetly, of course) and the spectators."

Since Canada is the home of hockey, international games should be played here and not in "Sweden or Lower Slobbovia."

"If the other countries want to challenge Canada's hockey supremacy let them send their teams over here to play Canadian teams under Canadian rules."

Coleman is probably speaking for the majority of hockey fans here when he concludes: "Chums, they'll never know what hit 'em."

Alena Vrzanova Wins Title For Women Skaters

Paris, Feb. 19 (AP)— Alena Vrzanova, pretty 17-year-old Czechoslovakian, won the women's world figure skating championship last night but half the drama of the event was played in a dressing room within earshot of the crowd's roar.

It was there that European champion Eva Pawlik sat crying because a skate runner had torn loose from her shoe. She could not get it repaired in time to compete.

It is unlikely that Miss Pawlik could have won the championship left open when Barbara Ann Scott of Canada turned professional. Miss Vrzanova had proved her superiority the first day in compulsory figures. And she had exceptionally high marks from the judges for her free skating.

National Hockey League Nothing but Commercialism On Big Scale Says Joliat

By JAC KSULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Feb. 19 — (CP)—Present-day hockey has "deteriorated sadly from former years . . . only one National Hockey League game in 10 produces good hockey . . . top-flight players are plentiful in Canada . . . individual play-making has disappeared in the N. H. L. . . . the league now is nothing but commercialism on a big scale . . ."

The speaker was a little man of 47 who answers questions about berths and train times from a little cubby-hole in Ottawa's Union Station.

The little guy's name is inscribed in the select Hockey Hall of Fame; on the list of Hart Trophy winners; on the roster of three Stanley Cup championship clubs; and he's runner-up, with Howie Morenz at 270 goals each, as all-time top scorers in the N.H.L., paced only by Nels Stewart, great Montreal Maroons player, with 323.

His name: Aurel Joliat.

Yes, it's the same five-foot-six chunk of dynamite whose fighting weight during his 16 years with Montreal Canadiens was 135 pounds.

Aurel hasn't an ax to grind with the game which made his name a by-word in Canada during his term with Canadiens — 1922 to 1938. He started as a $1,500-a-year man and his salary was hiked to a high of $10,000 — a $7,500 contract and $2,500 in bonuses — in 1931. His savings bought him a comfortable little home here.

No Future in Hockey

"I'll tell you just what I think of hockey today — and I'll tell you the truth," he said. "Don't let hockey promoters sell you the idea there's a future in hockey. There isn't. They now control too many teams, and players are pushed around from club to club for five, 10, 15 years and then what have they got? Nothing, absolutely nothing.

"Spectators fill their arenas in the hope they'll see a good game and they go away disappointed nine times out of ten. Still the N. H. L. Board of Governors won't admit the play is poor — it would be bad business for them."

And, added Aurel, "The game is bad because there is no individual play-making — it's shoot for the corner and then scramble. Rules allow substitution while the game continues and about the only thing the spectators see is a bunch of guys jumping over the boards on the fly every two minutes or so. Teams have so many players that none are given a chance to warm up.

"I've found that a man played his best game when he felt he couldn't play any more — when he was dog-tired.

About commercialism?

"Well, figure it out. When I first started there were four teams in the league and we had a 20-game schedule. Now it's 60 games in a six-team league and there's talk of boosting it to 70. Why, it's ridiculous. The promoters get rich and the brand of hockey gets worse.

Can Play Any Type

Aurel "can't figure how promoters can moan about a scarcity of top-flight players in Canada.

"There are six teams in the N. H. L., there are thousands upon thousands of players to draw from and they say there's a scarcity of good talent. It's nonsense and it's nothing but a cover-up for the type of game they hoist on the customers."

He listed the greatest players he ever performed "with, or against" as Sprague Cleghorn, Eddie Gerard, George (Buck) Boucher, Ching Johnson and Eddie Shore, all on defence; Georges Vezina and George Hainsworth in goal and Morenz and Bill Cook on the forward line. He "couldn't recall immediately another forward."

Would these men be able to keep pace with present-day hockey?

"Certainly," said Aurel, "and they would be standouts. A good hockey player can go in any type of game."

Guelph Biltmores Lose Good Chance To Make Playoffs

By The Canadian Press

A third-period penalty to Eddie Bolan probably squashed any hope Guelph Biltmores had of making the playoffs.

While Bolan was sitting out a two-minute sentence last night, Barrie Flyers garnered four goals in 55 seconds to take an 8-2 decision over the Biltmores in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game.

In a Senior "A" game, Toronto Marlboros went up 2-0 in their best-of-seven semi-final playoff series by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 9-2 in Toronto.

At Barrie the loss left Guelph in the sixth and last playoff spot with a two-point lead over their nearest rivals, Toronto Marlboros. The Dukes have a good chance of overcoming the margin when they play a four-point game against Toronto St. Michael's College Majors today. The Dukes are highly favored to take game against the lowly Irish, who have won only 13 games in 34 starts.

Bolan's penalty set off a chain of disturbances that resulted in seven penalties, including two match misconducts. The misconducts went to Barrie's Johnny Shedde and Guelph's Ron Ferguson, who continued a fight in the penalty box after receiving minors.

Marlies Had Easy Time

The Flyers went up 2-0 in the first period and held a 4-2 edge at the end of the second. Sid McNabney, Don Ashbee and Stan Long each scored twice for Barrie. Rick Hogg and Stan Long followed up with one apiece. Ron Plumb and Ferguson counted for Guelph.

Marlboro Seniors had an easy time in Toronto as they drove into a 4-0 lead in the first period and added five more goals in the last two. The Mercury's didn't get on the score sheet until late in the second period on a goal by Pat McReavy. Danny Gillespie got the other Owen Sound goal in the third session.

Scotty Mair, starry Marlies right-winger, scored three goals while Ray Hannigan and Johnny McLellan got two each. Red Johnson and Johnny McCormack tallied one each.

Besides the Marlboro-St. Michael's Junior A game today, Stratford Kroehlers clash with Galt Rockets and the Flyers meet Oshawa enerals.

League Officials To Take Action About Ice Arena

(By The Canadian Press)

Coach Punch Scherer of Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen of the senior O. H. A. said last night at Kitchener that league officials would take action regarding playing conditions at Hamilton arena.

After the Dutchmen's 3-2 overtime defeat at Hamilton Wednesday, they complained about watery conditions of the ice.

Schere said an O. H. A. official told him that Toronto Marlboros made a similar complaint during the playoffs last season.

Canada's high school curling championships will be decided at a bonspiel opening at Edmonton Tuesday. Seven teams have entered the bonspiel, first ever given official authorization by the Dominion Curling Association. The teams will play a round-robin series, a competition similar to the Dominion final for the men's national title. Ontario is represented by Dryden High School.

Western Mustangs clinched their fifth straight senior intercollegiate basketball championship last night as they defeated University of Toronto 62-52 at London. It was the fourth consecutive year that the Mustangs have won the H. A. Wilson Trophy under coach Johnny Metras, and they shared the honors in the 1940 season with the Toronto team.

Jean Paul Denis of New Haven Ramblers yesterday was fined $50 and suspended for one game as a result of a fight in an American Hockey League game between New Haven and Springfield Indians, league president Maurice Podoloff announced at New York. Denis' game suspension will be in March 5 game between New Haven and Springfield.

Arrest of every bookmaker in Florida was ordered yesterday by Governor Fuller Warren, who said at Tallahassee, Fla., the state is being robbed of millions in tax money on illegal racing bets.

"Tax stealing by bookies must stop in this state," he said in the strongest crackdown order any recent governor has issued. The state loses $8 in racing taxes on every $100 bet with bookies, he declared.

A heavy rain cancelled yesterday's second round of the $10,000 Houston Open Golf Tournament and washed out a nine-under-par 63 scored by Bob Hamilton and 44 others who managed to complete their rounds saw their scores erased as 97 other players were caught in the downpour.

Paisley Arena To be Opened By Big Program

Paisley, Feb. 19 (CP)—A new $62,000 ice area will be opened in this Bruce county village today when champion figure skaters from Owen Sound give their first performance. It seats 1,200 persons and has standing room for 800.

Paisley's first arena was destroyed by fire during its construction.

The 750-odd villagers were determined to have a rink and a house to house collection after the blaze netted $11,000. Added to 915,000 insurance and an expected $5,000 government grant about $7000 is outstanding on the centre.

Curling is free several nights a week to district farmers. Currently boasting a membership of 56, the club will present its first bonspiel next week, with 40 rinks attending.

The Other Fellow's Opinion

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author And Creator of Solunar Tables)

It's an old saying that some people can't see the forest because they stand two close to the trees. Believe me, there is a lot of truth in that one.

Being what might be called the focal point of activity, Solunar-wise, I find myself all too often standing too close to the trees. It is both interesting and refreshing now and then to find out what the other fellow—the guy who can see the forest—has to say about the Solunar Tables.

A great many people still refer to the Solunar Tables as "fish calendars" or "fish almanacs." Well, in a sense I suppose they are.

Without doubt they will tell you, well in advance, what time of day you can expect maximum activity on the part of the fish. But their usefulness does not stop with fish by any means.

Tables Are Big Help

A man who includes the weekly Solunar schedules in his hunting outfit is far better equipped to enjoy good shooting than the fellow who merely goes hunting and trusts to luck that he will find game.

For a good many years I have been urging the hunters of the nation to plan their days afield with the help of the Solunar Tables.

I have told them that the birds will be in the feeding cover during the Solunar Periods. Between times they will move into the sheltering tangles of their protective resting cover.

Thus, if a man plans his day so that he can take advantage of the Solunar Periods, his chances for finding game are infinitely better than if he merely trusts to luck.

The other day I received a news release from the State News Bureau in Raleigh, North Carolina. I'll reproduce it just as it come to me. Here it is:—

Winston-Salem, N.C.—Alec Gordon, wildlifer and printer, spends two hours per day running Winston Printing Co. here, fourteen hours running around his private game preserve, eight hours sleeping—when he doesn't run after possums.

Believes on The Tables

Alec says:

"Say what you want, these solunar tables are right—right on the dot, too. I sit by the goose pond right smart, and every time the tables say it's time to stir around the ducks and geese get restless. Right when the tables say, they all fly up on the hill above the pond, sit around looking mightly uncomfortable, then, one by one, fly back to the pond.

"Works with rabbits, too. I let the dogs jump them sometimes — when the tables' right, they'll run all over the county; when it's not, they double back to their beds every three minutes.

"Several times lately, I've gone out without the dogs, sneaked up on an old rabbit I know personally, and he knows me. When it's resting time and I kick him out, he just hops off a little piece, turns around with a disgusted look on his face—and lies right back down again."

That's what the man said.

Obviously, Mr. Gordon is a man who not only knows his wildlife but also who has the priceless faculty of observation. Most folks merely look at things—very few actually see them.

It so happens that I number among my friends two gentlemen and sportsmen who have at one time or another acted as judges at the National Field Trials — Mr. Nash Buckingham of Memphis, Tennessee, and Mr. Henry P. Davis of the Public Relations Division of Remington Arms Co., Inc.

Uses Tables at Field Trials

Some years ago, just by way of authority, Nash carried The Solunar Tables with him at the field trials. Later he wrote and told me that not only were the dogs much keener during the Solunar Periods but that the very great majority of the birds were found at those times.

Henry Davis has just recently returned from the 1948 field trials. He, too, has been checking his hunting results against the Solunar Tables and took the Solunar Tables with him to the field trials. His letter to me says, in part:

"The Solunar Tables came in mighty handy and worked, also. Birds were pretty hard to find but after a week of constant prediction on my part to this effect (due to the fact that we were not hunting during the major period) the entire crowd was convinced."

And here's another thing to remember. A great many people figure that the use of the Solunar Tables is confined to fresh-water fishing.

Good For Ocean Fishing

For years I have tried to tell them that the schedule applies straight across the board. Gradually some of the salt-water boys are beginning to believe me and are profiting thereby. This is what a gentleman in California has to report:

"I was out on the ocean on Tuesday, July 20th, and at 12:00 o'clock noon (Pacific Day Light Time) was listening to the ship-to-ship chatter on the radio all of which was to the same general effect 'Nothing doing for hours.'

"Finally a man I knew came on the air talking to someone else with the same tale of woe and said he was starting in. So I called this man and told him that in case he was interested the fish would start biting in thirty minutes, and he said 'Yeah?', and I said 'Yeah!' and he asked what I knew about it and I told him to take my word for it I had inside information.

"So to further shorten the story he stayed around. At almost exactly 12:30 we had two strikes and 2 hook-ups on Albadore and immediately thereafter the radio began to buzz with reports of strikes and catches.

"When it let up an hour or so later—in fact once during that hour—this man called me back but I was at the moment too busy to answer him having a couple of 'amateurs' to coach.

"But when I did answer him finally he was really interested. So, after a little kidding, I gave him the story. Also during this time several other people asked one another 'Who was that guy that said the fish would bite at 12:30—I want to know how he found out.'"

Not Perfect

Of course, the Solunar Tables do not give you 100% results. For that matter, what does?

There are too many offsetting factors that can and do account for your blank days in shooting and fishing.

However, if you take the trouble to plan your days afield so that you can take advantage of the Solunar Periods, it will pay you dividends in sport. Believe me, it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Maritime Senior Hockey Playoffs In Full Swing

Halifax, Feb. 19 (CP)— Maritime senior hockey circuits have settled down to serious business. Playoffs are in full swing.

In the Maritime Senior League, Halifax St. Mary's are engaged in a semi final with Saint John Beavers, the schedule winners, and Dartmouth Arrows are tussling with Moncton Hawks, who finished second and third respectively.

Saint John holds a 3-1 edge in games in the best-of-seven series.

Moncton and Arrows are tied 2-2 in the other bracket.

In the Cape Breton Senior League Sydney Millionaires are merely sharpening their skates waiting for Glace Bay Miners and North Sydney Victorias to finish their semi-final.

The two semi-finalists in the three team circuit are playing a seven-game series. Glace Bay holds a 5-3 edge in points.

The third senior A loop in the Maritimes isn't rated as much of a threat for the Cape Breton League. The Antigonish-Pictou-Colchester League champion will take on the Cape Breton winner in the Maritime semi-final. Winner of this series will face the big four champion —last year Moncton Hawks.

14 Colts Named For Handicap

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 19 — (AP) — The Santa Anita Derby, one of the extravaganzas for three-year-olds still carrying an added purse of $100,000, comes off today with 14 colts named to race for the $94,700 top money.

The added gross purse of $141,800 and the winner's net prize—provided all 14 colts went postward — was the highest in the 12-year-old history of the Santa Anita Derby.

Named for the mile-and-one-eighth special, in post-position order, are:

1. Old Rockport; 2. Ocean Drive; 3. Bolero; 4. Hayseed; 5. So La Ci; 6. Stone Age; 7. Black Fox 11; 8. Admiral Lea; 9. Count Victor; 10. Pedigree; 11. Audacious Man; 12. Duplicator; 13. Olympia; 14. Swap Out.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Charlie Fusari, 147 1-2, Irvington, N.J., outpointed Rocky Castellani, 151 1-4, Luzerne Pa. (10).

Indianapolis—Joe Segro 150 3-4 Indianapolis, outpointed Jackie Keough, 154 1-2, Cleveland (10).

San Francisco—Bout between Sonny Leavitt, 148, Brooklyn, and Mungo Luciano, 147, San Francisco, ruled four-round draw.

Outside Rinks Win 3 Trophies At Ontario Spiel

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP)— Play in the five-day, 22nd annual Ontario Bonspiel officially wound up here last night as winners were declared in the last five consolation events.

Rinks from Orillia, Chatham and Oshawa racked up three wins of the five events.

Stan Sargeant of Orillia won the Sieberling Trophy when he skipped his rink to a thrilling 13-12 victory over Dr. A. W. Irwin of Chatham. Sargeant, winner of the Birks Trophy in 1940, came from behind to register his triumph as Dr. Irwin pulled into an early lead and held an 9-3 edge after five ends.

W. B. White of Oshawa won his first trophy victory in Ontario Bonspiel play, capturing the North American Life Trophy with an extra end 10-9 win over the highly-rated Bert Kennedy entry from Royal Canadians.

The other non-Toronto winner was Peter Gilbert of Chatham. He skipped his quartet to a 9-8 victory over D. Korman of Englehart for the Parker Pen Trophy.

The Toronto rinks to score wins in Friday's play were skipped by Ken Miles of High Park and J. H. Bolton of the Granite Club.

Miles created an upset when he came through with a 12-7 win over H. H. Chisholm of the Toronto Curling Club in the final of the O'Keefe Trophy. In the Seagram event Bolton, a newcomer to Ontario honors, defeated T. F. Beattie of the Toronto Curling Club 11-10. Beattie was the second event winner last year.

Owen May Be Playing-Manager Of Galt Terriers

Galt, Ont., Feb. 19 — (CP) — Mickey Owen, suspended from organized baseball for jumping to the Mexican League, said yesterday he wouldn't know for at least 10 days whether he would be playing-manager of the Galt Terriers of the Intercounty Baseball Association this summer.

In a long-distance telephone conversation Owen said he could not make a decision until the spring training starts. But, he admitted that he felt he had a chance of getting back into baseball in the United States.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP)—Casey Stengel of the Yankees says he will give third baseman Bobby Brown a trial at first base, where he already had Babe Young, Jack Phillips, Joe Collins and Dick Kryhoski as willing candidates. Anybody want to bet that the Yankees' first baseman won't be Tommy Henrich?..Capt. Cecil Boyd-Rochfort, noted British horse trainer is taking home one of the "overcheck" bits used on Citation so it can be copied. Presumably he knows there are other reasons why Citation wins.

Already Started

At a track meet at West Point last week starter Jack Lavelle had to disqualify one sprinter in a three-man heat (two to qualify) because of false starts...A kid from Harvard immediately put up an argument that since he couldn't fail to qualify, he didn't need to run. Lavelle insisted it was necessary, even if he only jogged, and that's what the boy did. As the athlete returned to the starting line, Lavelle sagely advised him: "Son, you'd better get into that Harvard law school without wasting any time. You're prepared."

Two Hands

Steve Andres, 18-month-old son of the Indiana freshman basketball coach, Ernie Andres, attended a practice session the other day and grabbed a ball with both hands...Ernie, a noted one-hand shot turned sadly to head coach Branch McCracken and exclaimed: "Look a two-hand shooter. If that keeps up, I'm not going to sign a parents' release blank when he wants to play high school basketball."

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 19 — (AP) — Hollywood is by no means the godless place some of its critics claim it to be.

There are 50 churches in the Hollywood area alone, and many more in the residential areas of Beverly Hills, Westwood and San Fernando Valley. Many a star who shines glamorously on other days is just another worshipper on Sunday.

Many film personalities attend the large First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood and take active parts in its activities. Among them: Virginia Mayo, Michael O'Shea, and Dennis Morgan, a mainstay of the choir.

Roman Catholics form a large segment of the film colony. Active church people include Bing Crosby, Rosalind Russell, Don Ameche, George Murphy, Loretta Young, Jeanne Crain and Jane Wyatt.

Honors to Irene

Roman Catholic Irene Dunne was recently cited for honors by the National Conference of Christians and Jews for her work in promoting understanding among faiths.

Christian Scientists among the film personalities include Mary Pickford, Alan Ladd, Ginger Rogers, and Frank Veloz (and Yolanda).

Edward G. Robinson, Eddie Cantor, Al Jolson, Jack Benny, Louis B. Mayer, Hal Wallis, the Warner Brothers and John Garfield are among those in the Jewish faith. Walter Wanger and Joan Bennett are prominent members of the All Saint's Episcopal Church, which Van Johnson has attended. The Hollywood Beverly Christian Church congregation lists Ronald Regan and Gale Storm.

And Others

In addition to their churches, Hollywood people have been active in other religious pursuits. Charles Laughton is noted for his Bible readings in churches and on records. Dore Schary, Joe E. Brown and Lew Ayres are among those who have been interested in University Religious Conference, interfaith group at the University of California.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Every so often a bridge player seems to perform miracles with tough contracts. He must be a master of the game, of course. Surely he must excel in squeezes and other coups.

His ability for reading the location of unseen cards is often amazing. Coupled with an excellent memory is a photographic mind that retains the remaining combinations. Like television.

If he has a bridge fault it is in a tendency to bid beyond the trick count. Or encourage partner to hove him there. A trick better in the play than most, he frequently justifies this policy.

Such a player was south in the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠K J 9 4
♥K 7
♦A 10 9 3
♣A 3 2

WEST	EAST
♠8	♠7 6 3
♥Q J 4 2	♥9 8 5
♦K Q 5	♦J 8 7 4 2
♣K Q J 9 6	♣10 8

SOUTH
♠A Q 10 5 2
♥A 10 6 3
♦6
♣7 5 4

Most players would be content to play it in a game contract of four spades. It can make five spades with ease, of course. But Your spades is a game and is high enough unless slam is tried.

South has a total of five tricks. They are his three high cards (aces, kings, queens) and two short diamonds. North has a total of five tricks; four high cards and a short card in hearts.

The total count in the pair is ten tricks. An extra trick comes in easy from unusual trump wealth, as it often will. But to hope for two extra tricks is crowding the ego a little.

It happens that west was the dealer in this case and he opens with a bid of one club. North and south come in with defensive bids. Whereas they discover a game, nothing tells them there is a slam.

However, south found himself as the declarer at a small slam of six spades. Opening lead from west was a club. This was refused by the dummy ace and west led a second club.

This south refused to take the first trick for a purpose. It enabled him to make the contract. You do it. But maybe you should first be told how the bidding went. Or am I boring you?

SLUGS DWINDLING

Edmonton (CP)—Motorists in Edmonton are becoming more honest, or they are running out of slugs to put in parking meters. When the meters first were installed six months ago, an average of forty slugs a day were found in the coin box. Now there are 12 a day.

AT THE CAPITOL — Van Heflin, Barbara Stanwyck and Richard Hart are the protagonists of the romantic triangle in "B. F. Daughter," eagerly awaited film version of the best-seller novel by John P. Marquand, which will open at the Capitol Theatre Monday for its first Belleville showing. On the same program "The Checkered Coat," a thrilling adventure story starring Tom Conway, Noreen Nash and Hurt Hatfield. Matinee daily at 2.00 p.m.

CRITICIZES FRATERNITIES

Vancouver (CP)—Rabbi David C. Kogen of Vancouver charged recently that college fraternities are the "epitome" of a flourishing anti-semitic intolerance in Canada. Rabbi Kogen is leader of the Hillel Foundation, a university of British Columbia Jewish study group.

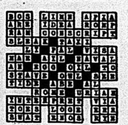
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



Little Benny's Note Book

Miss Kitty was telling the class about explorers and discoveries and their influents on geogriffy, saying, And yet there are other discoveries besides the discovery of grate bodies of water and grate masses of land. For instants there are many important little discoveries that we can each make for ourselves, discoveries that will make our own lives richer and add to the happiness of others. For instants, when Benjamin Franklin wrote the werds, "Honesty is the best policy", it was a discovery that made the whole werld better and consequently happier, so in a way it was more important than the discovery of some new planet millions of miles away in the grate outer spaces only visible to an expensive telescope. Now who can think of some little discovery we can each make for ourselves to all to the happiness of others she said.

Which Artie Bromfield waved his hand, saying, The discovery that everybody likes to have their jokes laffed at because it makes them feel grate, so go ahead and laff at everybody's jokes no matter how old or dum they are.

Well, of course as the Frentch say, "Toojoors la polly tess," in other words always be polite Miss Kitty said. So perhaps a certain amount of well intentioned deception is sometimes permissible. Now has anyone elts an example of a helpful discovery she said, and Puds Simkins said, The discovery to always laff politely when people tell funny jokes and always politely leave the room when they tell bum ones, so then they'll make their own discovery that the best thing is to only tell good jokes, and that'll make everybody happier.

Oh, my, —sutch a class, we'll go on to arifmetic, Miss Kitty said.

Which we did feeling against it.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

"The Neolithic man came to Europe from the Southwest as reindeer and open steppes gave way to forest and modern European conditions. The culture of this time was characterized by the presence of implements. The Neolithic man used an axe..."

"He did?" Rosalie's voice indicated that she couldn't have been more thrilled to hear he used an electric razor.

"Oh yes. Pottery making and the domestication of animals were also marks of this age, but when we come to . . ."

Rosalie's thoughts were very far away. She was thinking of Janet and Janet's remark, "So Charlie Minturn was the dashing hero? Handsome but dull as dishwater, Rosalie. Don't give him any time."

And her own answer. "Do you really know him, Janet? Who is he?"

"One of the Minturns. There are oodles of them in Bermuda. The Minturns are to Bermuda what the Smiths are to New York. He has a lovely house but not a shilling. He'll be around for free meals if you're not careful. Not that I mind."

Janet couldn't be expected to understand any one like Charles. And if he was one of the Minturns, he at least had a background. Of course he always accepted invitations and never returned them, but if a man wanted to be alone with a girl, he usually preferred it to be at her own home.

As if he had been reading her thoughts, he dropped the Neolithic culture. "Rosalie, you are very lovely here in the firelight. You . . . you are a perfect hostess."

Rosalie said, "That's sweet of you, Charles. I love to entertain."

"You do more than that. You make a perfect listener. Woman's greatest charm! Would you mind very much if I said I think you'd also make a perfect wife . . . and mother."

Rosalie said, "Let me give you a little more tea."

"Don't give him all of it. We're starved!"

Janet, in corduroy trousers, and old shirt and a fishing basket slung over her shoulder stood in the doorway. Back of her three eager faces appeared, all chattering at once.

"What's all the dark for?" Janet switched on the lights. "Hello, Charles," she said. "Know the gang?"

Janet's entrance destroyed the scene. Charles said he really ought to leave.

"We're going to collect some steaks and corn and roast them on the beach. Why don't you two come with us?" Janet invited.

Rosalie had lost her taste for cooking on the beach. She said, "My head has been aching today, Jan. I think I'll not go."

"Cook's out but there's lots of food in the ice-box. Maybe Charles will keep you company. We're going to have a quick cup of tea."

Charles said he would be delighted to stay.

When they had gone with their laughter, Rosalie said her head really didn't ache too much and insisted that Charles find a book and entertain himself while she got a bite for the two of them.

Rosalie was in her element. Wait until Charles found out what a really fine hostess she was. She found chops, potatoes to cream, fresh greens for a salad, peas. There were strawberries, too, and it was only a matter of a moment to mix biscuits for shortcake while the other things were cooking.

Charles, she said, could get out the bridge table and set it up before the hearth. Then she found a lace cloth, silver candlesticks, a low silver bowl for flowers.

Charles' face over the flickering candles was sufficient reward for her hurried labors. He didn't exactly smack his lips over the canned soup, but there was something about his keen enjoyment that rather touched her. Poor darling, he had never had a woman to do things for him.

"I think the chops are ready now. You'll have to excuse me for a minute . . . I'll be right back."

When she came back, it was to find Luther Kane surveying the scene with a hungry eye.

"Chops," he said without preamble. "Good! There's always an extra chop. Or shall I go and get my own?"

Rosalie sighed; she seemed doomed to having her climaxes ruined. She said, 'We've plenty, Luther, if you must stay for dinner."

"Must?" he said, after Rosalie had introduced him to Charles "With such a pressing invitation, I could do nothing else."

Rosalie's hostess' smile continued during the dinner. Charles separated from his favorite subject, lapsed into a deep silence. Luther, mellowed by his dinner was inclined to the brilliant side.

After an hour of it, Charles got up, "I'm running along, Rosalie. I'll look in on you in the morning. Take care of that head. I'm worried about you. Get to bed early." And when Rosalie was alone with him at the door, he said, "My dear, I am enchanted with you. After all these years, I have found an old-fashioned girl. He who delve into the past are supposed to be . . . well, fellows who don't appreciate that sort of thing, but we are not so detached as you might think. You make a man think of many things. When I know you better —"

"Good night, Charles," she said gently.

Some of that gentleness rested like a crown on her brow when she returned to the living-room.

Luther looked up from his magazine. "So that's the latest romance?"

Rosalie sat down and looked into the flames. "He isn't the kind of man you can laugh at, Luther."

"He isn't the kind of a man you can laugh with either, is he, Rosalie?"

"He's different," she said slowly. "I think probably he's the kind of man I've been waiting for all my life. I don't know, though: I don't suppose I'd ever be madly in love with him. But . . . Luther, he's sweet and thoughtful and . . . oh, I don't know."

Luther lighted a cigarette. "If that's the way you feel, baby, go to it, and good luck. I think I told you once before that romance and marriage have nothing to do with each other."

"Did you?" she asked dreamily.

"Sure," he said. "If I were a girl, I'd look for a guy who'd last. The kind of man who wouldn't look so bad sitting on the other side of the hearth on long winter evenings for the next hundred years. I'd also review his conversation and make up my mind whether or not he bored me. Conversation goes on and on through the years, you know."

Rosalie nodded. She'd loved these hours before the fire with Charles. And Charles' conversation was fascinating. She could not even understand it.

Her silence was prolonged and obvious.

"I guess I'd beter be getting back. Anyway, I came to deliver a message from Angela. She wants you to go to a shindig on one of the English cruisers tomorrow. Says she'll pick you up at five."

Rosalie said good night to him and went back to dreaming by the fireplice. The right man at last!

The effect, Rosalie thought with approval, was well achieved. Her dark blue tailored suit, the immaculate white of her blouse and gloves and the small blue turban with a jaunty scarlet feather completed the costume she had selected for the tea abaord the English cruiser at the navy base. But Rosalie hadn't selected it to impress the English Navy. The costume was part of the new Rosalie.

Rosalie's latest pose was only five days old, but she was fast becoming an expert poseur. She bowed graciously to her mirrored reflection as a slamming door on the floor below announced the arrival of Angela.

Angela was glancing through a magazine when Rosalie entered the living-room. She looked up, "Hello, dar . . ." She stopped. "Leaping cats! What's happened to your hair?"

"Don't you like it?" Rosalie took off her hat to show how she had tucked her curls under a net. "It's neater, I think."

Angela gulped. Janet came in from the porch at that moment. "See?" she said, "Didn't I tell you?"

Angela's brows drew together in warning.

"What did she tell you?" Rosalie asked.

"Janet thinks that bump on your head must have had a strange effect. You're . . . er . . . more subdued."

Janet said hastily, "I've got to run down to the cable office. I'll see you at the ship."

After she left, Angela looked long and hard at Rosalie, started to speak a time or two and abandoned the attempt.

"How's Cecil?" Rosalie asked.

"My beau is beautiful. How's yours?" Angela asked brightly.

"How did you know I had one?"

"Rosalie, when a girl takes to looking like a different girl from the one she was before, I always look for the Ethiopian in the woodpile."

"Nonsense!" Rosalie retorted not very convincingly.

"So you won't talk? Well, you know how gossip gets around Bermuda. I hear you've got a new tall, dark and handsome camping on your doorstep and I thought you might want to break down and tell Angela about it."

"Oh, if you mean Charles Minturn . . ." Rosalie was elaborately casual about it.

"I do," Angela replied concisely.

"I have been seeing him."

"Yes, so I've heard." Angela didn't say what else she had heard.

"You know when you are sisters in the great sorority of Fellow Conspirators, you're expected to spill the low-down."

Rosalie laughed a little. "You're very serious about this, Angela."

"All I wanted to know was whether you are or not."

"About being interested in Mr. Minturn? Of course not!" Rosalie said it too emphatically.

C.N.R. Deficit Expected to Be About $31 Million

Ottawa, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Mildly brightened prospects over a 1948 splashed with red ink are held out by the Canadian National Railways for this year.

The government-owned line's over-all deficit for last year will be some $31,000,000, it was indicated before the Board of Transport Commissioners in its freight-rate inquiry yesterday.

For 1949, the company said its position on rail earnings would be about $2,000,000 better.

The indicated 1948 deficit would be the company's biggest since the pre-war years. It would be about $15,600,000 larger than that of 1947.

Russians Speed Arctic Colonization

Montreal, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Russia is far ahead of Canada and the United States in development of colonization of the Arctic, Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, explorer and authority on the north from New York, said here.

"Settlement of the Soviet north is going on at a speed somewhat greater than that with which Canada and the United States colonized the west during the last century," said the explorer.

Because of Soviet interest in their northland there are today a half a dozen cities of more than 10,000 population north of the Arctic Circle in Russia, while in the same latitude in Canada and Alaska there are but two centres with some 300 people each—Point Barrow, Alaska and Aklavik, N. W. T.

CNR Diesels Defeat Nylons 8-6 to Win Eighth Straight Victory in Senior "B" Group

The C.N.R. Diesels roaring along in full flight did as was expected in Kingston last night and turned back the much-strengthened Nylons team by an 8-6 score to rack up their eighth consecutive victory in the district Senior "B" group.

The Diesels undaunted by pre-game reports of the alleged powerful scoring line of Partis-Catlin and Gerow rammed home three in the first period, added a couple in the second and scored three more in the third. Period scores were 3-1, 5-3 and 8-6.

The speedy line of Barrett, McDonald and Semark was the best on the ice and held the vaunted Gerow-Calin-Partis line to three measly points to a goal and assist, a goal by Catlin and the other an assist by Gerow.

Within striking distance of victory with but seconds to go in the third period the Nylons management yanked Udy Udall from the Kingston goal and Huck Reeves promptly slid the rubber rink length to score the clincher.

Barrett Scores Twice

Keith McDonald broke the scoring ice a minute after play opened with a neat solo effort and line mate Barrett teaming with the speedy winger ripped home two more in the next five minutes to give the Diesels a three-nothing lead. Greenham one of Nylons outstanding players scored the lone Kingston marker at the fifteen minute mark.

The Nylon player scored seconds after the second period opened but Jerry Moher got that back a minute later with assists by Leo Goyer and Clare Williamson. McKeown hit the rigging for Kingston at the six-minute mark but Williamson scored with seconds to go to give Diesels a 5-3 period lead.

The Belleville team scored two quickies at the start of the third frame from Moher and Timmy Williams and a desperate Nylon team roared back into the picture with three markers from Catlin, Harrison and Blake to narrow the margin to 7-6. The Kingston goalie was yanked and Reeves for Belleville slithered the biscuit into the net.

Big Vern Goyer broke a skate in the second period and did not play in the final heat. Barrett, McDonald and Williamson were the best for the Diesels, with Greenham, Harrison and Udall outstanding for the losers.

Four penalties were handed out by the officials all going to Diesels with Jerry Moher drawing a pair of misconducts.

The teams:

Diesels: Goal, LeFort; defence, V. Goyer, Williamson; centre Barrett; wings, McDonald Wardhaugh; subs, Storms, Reeves, L. Goyer, Williams, Moher, B. Meagher, Semark, Bastedo.

Kingston Nylons: Goal, Udall; defence Sweetman, Blake; centre, Partis; wings, Catlin, Gerow; subs, Harrison, Greenham, McKeown, Kerluk, Stephenson, White, Keyes.

Officials: Radley and Patterson, Kingston.

Summary:

1st Period.
1 Diesels, McDonald (V. Goyer, Barrett) 1.40
2 Diesels, Barrett (McDonald) 1.47
3 Diesels, Barrett 6.37
4 Nylons, Greenham 15.12
Penalties—V. Goyer, Williamson, Moher, (misconduct).
2nd Period.
5 Nylons, Greenham (Stephenson) .44
6 Diesels, Moher (L. Goyer Williamson) 1.00
7 Nylons, McKeown (Harrison, Greenham) 6.20
8 Diesels, Williamson 19.59
Penalty—Moher (misconduct).
3rd Period.
9 Diesels, Moher (L. Goyer, Williams) 1.00
10 Diesels, Williams, (Williamson) 2.16
11 Nylons Catlin (Blake) 4.15
12 Nylons, Harrison (White) 13.10
13 Nylons, Blake (Gerow, Catlin) 17.00
14 Diesels, Reeves 19.50
Penalties—None.

WILL PLAY IN STATES

Stockholm, Feb. 19 — (AP) — The 1950 amateur world ice hockey championships will probably be held in the United States.

The International Ice Hockey Federation decided to accept an American invitation if the United States will put up part of the money required to send European teams to North America. The Americans will study the proposition and announce their verdict after May 30.

In case the United States agrees to help with the finances, the championships will be held at St. Paul, Minn., on Lake Placid, N. Y. Should the United States refuse, the games will be held in England.

Toronto Blues Defeat McGill

Montreal, Feb. 19 — (CP) — University of Toronto Blues kept in the running for the senior intercollegiate hockey title by scoring a 5-3 victory over McGill Redmen here last night.

Varsity may still force a tie for the league leadership, with the front-running University of Montreal Carabins if they win all their remaining games while the Carabins drop all their tilts. Carabins and Varsity meet here tonight in a game which could decide the championship. University of Montreal, with a six-point lead, has two games left while Toronto has three.

Ernie Frey was the big gun in the Blues' attack tonight as he scored twice while Bill Spence, Richie Howson and Bob Hayes notched one each.

Rocky Robillard, Charlie Sanderson and Reggie Sinclair scored for the Redmen.

McCOMB PACES FLYERS

Washington, Feb. 19 — (CP) — A four-goal effort by centre Billy McComb paced St. Louis Flyers to an 11-1 American Hockey League victory over Washington Lions Friday night. Paul Gladu added three tallies for the victors, Steve Black got two and Barry Sullivan and Lloyd Doran one apiece. Pat Wilson got the Washington marker.

It was the only A. H. L. game of the night.

Mysterious Fires At Wilcox Lake Farm Investigated

Fire Chief Says Three Fires 'Have Appearance of Arson'

Toronto, Feb. 21 — (CP)—Fire officials today investigated three mysterious fires at the farm of Robert Gamble at suburban Wilcox Lake, believed to be the work of an arsonist.

Firemen made two trips to the farm Sunday night and another early today. Total damage was estimated at $17.000.

First alarm came when a motorist noticed Gamble's six -room house in flames. Firefighters fought in vain to save the building and loss was estimated at $10,000.

Officials said the house was unoccupied at the time, and there were no fires or electrical appliances on.

Fire later broke out in a barn last night and was brought under control by a voluntary bucket brigade, but the flames broke out anew this morning. The main part of the barn was saved, but a $5,000 driving shed was destroyed.

Fire Chief Jones said they 'have every appearance of arson and warrant a complete investigation.'

FIRE DELAYS HUGE ONTARIO HYDRO PROJECT

Conveyer Bridge and Timber Forms at Des Joachims Destroyed

Des Joachims, Que., Feb 21 — (CP)—Fire which raged for six and a half hours Sunday night and early today may delay completion of the $60,000,000 Ontario Hydro-Electric project at this site 140 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Of unknown origin, the blaze broke out a 7:00 p.m. EST last night at the McConnell Lake control dam, three miles upstream from the main Ottawa River project. Hydro officers said 200 men helped fight the blaze bringing it under control at 1:30 a.m. EST.

Destroyed were portions of the housing of a conveyer bridge and timber forms in a 700-foot long channel connecting McConnell Lake with the river project. It was expected damage would be heavy.

Workers fought the blaze from a water pipeline with tap openings every 75 feet. A pumper from nearby Petawawa military camp assisted. Other workers helped by shovelling snow into the flames. The blaze could be seen burning six miles away.

Started in 1947

The McConnell Lake control dam, described by a Hydro official as "an integral part of the main project," was started in November, 1947. Its job was to control water levels upstream of the project, by draining off excess water into the low-lying lake.

Some concrete had already been set in the channel. This portion was not damaged by the flames, a Hydro official said.

Blocking the channel had been considered an engineering feat. Engineers had to work against a river flow of approximately 23,000 cubic feet per second.

Burglars Bind Two Men Reading Crime Stories

Montreal, Feb. 21 (CP) — Three criminal characters, who seemed to have popped out of crime stories a watchman and furnaceman were reading, bound and gagged the pair, and then dynamited a safe in the offices of the Dressmakers' Union during the weekend.

The bandits, masked and gloved, stole $500 in cash.

The safe cracking was executed around 7 a.m., Sunday after the bandits entered the offices by way of a rear fire escape window. In a nearby room were Emmanuel Dame 68-year-old watchman and George Etienne Kane, 25-year-old furnaceman, who sat around leisurely reading crime stories.

Before the pair realized what was happening, the three burglars overpowered them and tied them to chairs and gagged them.

THREE GIRLS HURT

St. Catharines, Feb. 21 (CP) — Three Hamilton girls, employees of St. Joseph's Hospital there, were injured last night when a car in which they were riding overturned on the highway near here. Shirley McPhee suffered back injuries, Bernice Butler, shoulder injuries, and Virginia McCauley, shock. Four others in the car were unhurt.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Feb. 21 — (CP)—Synopsis: The large area of high pressure which brought clear cold weather to most of the province Sunday is moving rapidly eastward into Quebec. A disturbance over the Mississippi Valley is expected to bring some rain to southern sections late tonight.

Secret Agents Closing in On Counterfeit Ring

New York, Feb. 21. (CP)—The United States Attorney's office said Saturday that Secret Service agents, teamed with New York police, are closing in on leaders on a country-wide counterfeiting ring. The disclosure came during the arraignment of three men arrested in the Bronx and charged with possession of $10,000 in bogus bills.

'We have reason to believe that the arrest of these three men will lead to higher-ups in a nation-wide counterfeiting ring and developments are expected," Roy M. Cohn, assistant United States attorney said.

The three defendants were held in high bail for preliminary hearing. Geasom Lauriano, 52-year-old Bronx singer, was ordered held in $15,000 bail. The others, Peter Modica, 38, shipyard worker, and Anthony Marino, 44, pipefitter, were in custody on $10,000 bail each.

The men were arrested after Lauriano parked his automobile to pick up Modica and Marino outside a Bronx theatre. Police said they found two packages of counterfeit $20 and $10 bills in the car.

Warned Bills Being Passed

For several months the Treasury Department has issued intermittent warning that counterfeit money was being passed in large quantities in New York, Chicago and other big cities.

A flood of bogus bills hit New York early last December. The bills in $10 and $20 denominations were described by authorities as highly dangerous", because they were so well produced.

On Feb. 7 a raid at Oshawa, Ont., resulted in the discovery of $17,840 in counterfeit United States currency and the arrest of Edwin McDonald and his wife.

McDonald, younger brother of Donald (Mickey) McDonald, was said by police to be a receiver for an international counterfeit ring which was believed to have connections with illicit narcotics traffic in Canada and the United States.

Fabulous Civilization In Mongolia Found After Lapse of 2,000 Years

Moscow, eb. 21 — (AP) — The faraway reaches of Mongolia have yielded up evidence of a fabulous civilization which flourished there 2,000 years ago, a Leningrad professor said today.

S. I. Rudenko, writing in the newspaper Evening Moscow, describes a natural "super-refrigerator" containing the mummified bodies of a tattoed man and a girl musician.

The find was made deep in the isolated Altai Mountains of Outer Mongolia where other excellently preserved mummies were found in 1947.

Rudenko said the tattoed man must have been a noble or a chief. The tattoing covers the entire body and is "astonishingly fine artistic work" consisting mostly of pictures of animals.

The woman, said Rundeko, "must have been a good musician for she had fine, long, thin fingers and many musical instruments."

"Thousands of other articles found there," said Rudenko, "give a clear picture of the life and customs of an ancient tribe that lived in the Altai region more than 2,000 years ago.

"Judging from many articles discovered, such as the skins of leopards and cheetahs, it can be guessed that the tribe traded with distant countries."

Excavation of these ancient underground refrigerator tombs will be continued this year.

ISRAELI CABINET ACCEPTS DRAFT ARMISTICE TERMS

One Controversial Point in Agreement

Tel Aviv, Israel, Feb. 21 (CP) —The Israeli cabinet has accepted a draft of a compromise armistice agreement with Egypt, an authoritative source reported last night.

There was no immediate indication whether Cairo officials who are to pass final approval would also endorse the draft for the Egyptians.

Delegates of the two countries, meeting at Rhodes since Jan. 13 under United Nations auspices, were said there to have accepted the armistice agreement in principle except for one controversial point.

Egypt and other Arab countries went to war against Israel shortly after the new Jewish state was proclaimed nine months ago. Actual fighting ceased around Jan. 1 after a strong Jewish offensive.

A Rhdes dispatch said the one point in controversy was the question of Beersheba, only important Negev city, considered the mother city of the Arab race. Israeli forces occupied the city—a strategic road juncture—last October. The Jews have insisted on retaining it.

It was generally agreed in Rhodes that yesterday's session ended negotiations and that all that remains is rejection by Cairo, or acceptance and formal signing of the agreement. Israeli sources in Rhodes said there would be no further discussions.

Talks to Continue

Further armistice talks are expected to continue in Rhodes, a Trans-Jordan delegation is expected there soon to begin talks with the Israelis.

Tel Aviv sources said the Israeli government has asked that any talks with Lebanon also include Syria. The Jews were reported not ready to release Lebanese villages held by Israeli forces unless Syria withdraws from the Mishmar Hayarden settlement in northern Galilee.

Meanwhile, reliable informants in Tel Aviv said that Israel plans to defend her future frontiers by placing a highly-mechanized army within a "Weizmann line" of fortification.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann was recently elected first president of the new state.

The exact location of the frontier forts was not disclosed for security reasons.

Despite expected demilitarizations at the conclusions of peace treaties, the Israeli army will lose none of its striking power, an

Greases Self, Oozes Thru Bars Of Dartmoor

Prince Town, Devon, England, Feb. 21 — (AP)—Victor James, a burglar, escaped from Dartmoor prison last week by slipping through bars just 6¾ inches apart.

Guards said James, a 168 - pounder who measures 40 inches around the hips, stripped off his clothes, smeared himself with grease and oozed right out of jail.

But it was all for naught. He was captured 17 hours later and returned.

1,000,000 Unknown Diabetics Create Real Public Health Problem Dr. Best Tells Club

Toronto, Feb. 21 — (CP)—Dr. Charles H. Best, co-discoverer of insulin said today that recent surveys have shown there are about 1,000,000 unknown diabetics in the United States and Canada.

In an address on "Medical research and health in the world," to the Canadian Club, Dr. Best said "this situation precipitates a real public health problem."

In the University of Toronto's Banting and Best Dept. of Medical Research, which he directs, Dr. Best cited the extent of current research in the field of diabetis where scientists now are working on more effective methods of administering insulin.

Other research underway, he said, included the use of herapin in the treatment of coronary thrombosis and the use of choline, a new food factor, as a protective agent for the liver and kidneys.

Dr. Best's appearance at the Canadian Club marked the eighth anniversary of the death of Sir Frederick Banting, his fellow worker and co-discoverer of insulin, killed in an air crash while on work for the National Defence Department.

Persons who enter medical research "must be of a special type — like ministers of the Gospel," Dr. Best said. "I do not mean the same type, but they must be so interested in their work they will devote themselves to it day and night without the prospect of more than a bare living wage."

He said he thought the work they were doing ought to be known generally by the public and in many cases, as in insulin detection, the public may assist the scientist.

In the field of diabetic treatment the layman could assist in two definite ways, he said. They could operate special boarding schools for diabetic children where the principles of diet and insulin therapy could be inculcated in underprivileged children. They could also aid the diabetics themselves to form a lay association to work in close co-operation with the medical profession.

He said a world association is being planned by the National Association of Diabetics in various countries.

Marshall Plan Aid Begins To Make Europe Feel its Oats

By PRESTON GROVER

Paris, Feb. 21 — (AP) — Marshall Plan aid has begun to make Western Europe feel its oats.

This was made clear at a meeting last week of the executive committee of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation where there were good things to think about.

Communist strike threats had lost most of their punch, rationing was loosened up, prices were lowering a little and spring was in the air.

By contrast, evidence came from behind the iron curtain that eastern European countries would like to see an easing of the restraints on trade with them. Western Europe has imposed no actual barriers against trade with the Soviet bloc countries, but the United States has.

Countries getting goods under the recovery plan are asked not to ship to Eastern Europe anything made from such goods as that might be used militarily.

Russian-bloc countries indicated a desire to rebuild trade between east and west when they met last week in Geneva with other member countries of the trade conference set up under the United Nations.

Need Machinery Desperately

Generally talk from the eastern delegates in Geneva was conciliatory. There was reason for it. They need machinery desperately. Western Europe's capacity to provide it is increasing under Marshal Plan stimulus.

Poland, in addition, is having trouble moving its principal money product, coal. Transportation is one problem. Competition from American coal coming under Marshal Plan allotments is another.

The big development of last week in Paris, however, was the formation of an eight-man committee which looked like something more than a management board for administration of the recovery program. The members chose the vigorous premier of Belgium, Paul-Henri Spaak, as chairman and made it clear that the organization they had set up would go beyond the time when the present European recovery program was scheduled to end in 1952.

Several of the delegates brought with them reports that indicated why they thought better times were coming. France has just overscribed a 100,000,000,000-franc government reconstruction loan. Several countries are benefitting from increased production and lowered prices. In France almost everything except sugar and coffee is off the ration list. Britain recently eased clothing rations.

'The Old Man' of the Family Should Not be Forgotten by Storekeepers

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The forgotten person in the clothing stores of the country is the so-called head of the house—"the old man," or whatever you wish to call him.

Storekeepers ponder how they may cater to "the little woman." She spends about 85 per cent of the family money.

But hardly any one thinks it necessary to cater to "dad." They just wan him to come in, pay his money, and walk out with a suit, shirt, necktie, whether or not he likes today's selection.

Perhaps storekeepers may be overlooking a big bet here, because the person they are treating this way is the one who, in some capacity or other, is the greatest shopper of all; who, to date, keeps the world's business turning over, and drives many a keen bargain in doing it.

The popular idea is that "Pa" doesn't like to shop, that in the first place he doesn't want a new hat, but that if coaxed into buying one he'll walk in, put one on his head, pay his money, and walk out.

There's the catch. Often he does want a hat, or a suit, or he's thinking of buying one. But unless he needs it desperately he won't walk in because he knows that if he does he'll come out with a hat or suit, whether he likes it or not.

Such is the inferiority complex to which he has been educated in this matter.

Result: Most men have as few suits and as little haberdashery as they can possibly get along with.

SHIPS BEING READIED

Owen Sound, Feb. 21 (CP) — Shipkeepers and crews are preparing for what may be the earliest opening of navigation in history. The bay is entirely free of ice and the 29 ships of the winter fleet here are being put in readiness. Earliest opening of navigation here was in 1947 when first ship cleared port March 21.

JAIL GOVERNOR DIES

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)— Toronto jail governor Walter Rayfield, 59 a Victoria Cross winner in the First World War, died Sunday. His citation for the Victoria Cross said that he captured 30 men and bayonetted two others in two separate rushes on German trenches and also rescued a wounded comrade under heavy machine gun fire.

Sault Ste. Marie, Feb. 21 (CP) —The shipping season through the Soo Canal may begin in April, marine experts said here yesterday. Ice conditions have been the best in the last eight years and the lake is open in the Whitefish area, generally the most difficult in the spring.

NORTH ATLANTIC PACT WILL BE READY IN MONTH

Multi-Billion Dollar Military Aid Proposed

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP) — The proposed North Atlantic pact will give its members strong assurances that the United States will not stand idly by in case of attack, it was learned today.

An official source, whose name may not be used, said the military clause of the pact will not commit the United States automatically to war. But, he said, it will carry assurance so strong that none will mistake the United States' intention to resist aggression.

It is understood State Secretary Acheson will negotiate with representatives of the pact-making countries on the basis of this new understanding reached with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Acheson and the Senate committee are reported in agreement on the military commitments that can be made.

The precise phrasing of the military clause in the pact now being drawn is still secret.

The State Department hopes to present the treaty to Congress in about a month.

State Secretary Dean Acheson, Canadian and European negotiators will enter the final stage of treaty negotiations this week. They plan a conference at the state department Tuesday or Wednesday.

Acheson then is expected to have another talk with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Its members convinced him in a session Friday that the senate can be expected to approve a strongly-worded commitment to Europe even though any automatic war commitment is out.

Co-ordinating Plans

Parallel with this work, the state department is co-ordinating plans for the arms, mutual-aid program. This is expected to require more than $1,000,000,000 in appropriations the first year, to net the Europeans upwards of $3,000,000,000 worth of arms with the help of surplus army stocks now available.

Meanwhile, the weekend brought these other developments—

1. Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem. Ark.) said the Atlantic pact must carry a moral commitment that the United States will act in event of an aggression against any of the treaty countries. Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep. N.J.) indicated that he is urging that the treaty should leave no doubt that the United States would move quickly if Russia decided to march.

Taft Favors Treaty

2. Senator Robert Taft (Rep. Ohio, said in a speech at Kenton, O., that he was "inclined to favor" some such treaty as the Atlantic

Canadian Navy and Men Taking Part In Biggest Peacetime Manoeuvres

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—The United States Navy shoves off today for a mock battle with the two things that give it gooseflesh —atom bombs and "snorkel" submarines.

Billed as the navy's biggest peacetime exercises, the game will combine some 35,000 men, 120 ships and several hundred aircraft to practice the latest tricks of sea warfare in mid-Atlantic and the Caribbean.

The Atlantic fleet will be bedevilled by two imitation atom bombs, "simulated guided missile attacks" and an assortment of new high-speed submarines that are practically invisible on a radar screen.

The British home fleet last December fought off an imitation A-bomb attack—with Vice-Admiral Arthur W. Radford, United States Vice Chief of Naval Operations, an interested spectator.

Watching the United States fleet meet its mock A-bomb will be Radford's former host, Admiral Sir Rhoderick R. McGrigor, Commander in Chief of the British home fleet.

The exchange of such high-ranking observers, plus a contingent of the Canadian army taking part with the American soldiers, sailors and marines underlines the close United States co-operation with British forces in preparing defensive measures.

Just how closely the training of the two fleets is tied together can not be learned.

The Canadian army formation of two platoons has been training for 2½ months at Camp Lejeune, N.C., in preparation for exercises with American marines. One major operation will be amphibious attack on the island of Vieque, Puerto Rico.

The Canadian detachment is commanded by Capt. Roger Desrivieres.

The navy is on the alert not only for its first deep-sea trial of fighting ships against the A-bomb, but also because of disparagement of naval power by air power enthusiasts.

In particular, the United States air force has criticized the navy's yet-unbuilt 65,000-ton carrier as a pushover for bombers.

The navy has argued heatedly that even the A-bomb could sink no more than one ship out of a task force because of the wide dispersal between ships.

Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, who was in charge of the Bikini experiment, will direct the exercises. He now is Commander in Chief of the Atlantic fleet.

The Canadian troops, under Capt. Roger G. J. Des Rivieres of Quebec City, have had intensive training in amphibious warfare with U. S. troops in the south.

The Canadian group consists of four officers and four officers and 108 men of all ranks made up of personnel selected from the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Royal 22nd Regiment. The Royal 22nd is Capt. Des Rivieres' own regiment.

Both regiments fought in Sicily, Italy, France, Belgium and Germany in the Second World War.

Export And Import Controls Removed From Fats, Oils

Wide List of Oil Products Affected by Announcement

Ottawa, Feb. 21 (CP)—Removal of export and import controls on animal, vegetable and marine oils and fats was announced today by Trade Minister Howe.

The announcement said the action follows a decision by the international emergency food committee to remove international allocations on these items.

During the period the allocations had been in effect, Canada was committed to maintain a system of import controls in order to ensure that its purchases were kept within the allocations set by the committee.

With the suspension of international allocations, however, the Canadian government has removed domestic import controls.

The announcement said it has also been found that retention of export control on domestically-produced oils and fats is no longer necessary.

List of Items

Mr. Howe listed commodities being released from export and import controls:

Vegetable oil seeds and materials, and all oils and fats made from them;

Castor, dehydrated castor; Chinawood (tung); cocoanut; copra; corn (oily only); cottonseed; oiticica; olive, olive kernel and foots; palm; palm kernel;

Peanuts; groundnuts; rapeseed; salad dressing containing oil; sesame seed; shortening; other compound cooking fats or oils; soybean; soybean flour (full fat only); sunflower seed; teaseed; vegetable foots or soapstock; fatty acids; vegetable stearin; vegetable tallow.

Weed seed, including wild mustard seed animal products as follows:

Oils, fats and greases, edible or inedible, as follows: Animal fats and greases, N.O.P.; degras; wool grease; fat waste, scrap and offal; fish body and viscera oils of common cod, halibut (head), herring and pilchard; foots or soapstock; lard; lard oil; neatsfoot; aleic acid or red oil; oleine; oleo oil; oleo stock; sterin; stearic acid; tallow.

Chemical and allied products: Fatty acids and oils, sulphated or sulphonated, or produced from vegetable oils listed in this schedule; staps of all kinds, in a lot exceeding $25 in value; specialty cleaning or washing compounds with soap content, in a lot exceeding $25 in value.

Two Major Fires In B.C. Cause $650,000 Loss

Vancouver, Feb. 21 — (CP) — Three main airlines feeding the Pacific coast were on normal schedules today despite one of two major Saturday night fires which levelled the administration building at Vancouver's International airport.

Replacement crews surveyed the $150,000 damage caused to the airport and the $500,000 damage caused by the second fire, a three-alarm blaze that ripped through the huge downtown Pacific Coast Warehouse Company's five-storey structure.

Five men barely escaped death in the conflagrations, which mushroomed within an hour of each other and which earlier were believed to have caused $1,000,000 damage. The control tower was razed in the airport blaze.

Trans - Canada, Canadian Pacific and United Airlines established emergency administration quarters in hangars at the airport, which escaped fire-damage through the efforts of 75 firefighters, including an R. C. A. F. brigade on duty at the sea island air base. Normal traffic was back yesterday.

Airport manager William Templeton said the blaze at the field might have been considerably more devastating had not the alarm been so uniquely registered. The fire severed the field's telephone communications but the Dominion Public Weather Office there raised Calgary by short-wave radio and the alarm reached Vancouver from there by long-distance telephone.

Three firemen battling the coast warehouse blaze darted to safety when an elevator crashed down its shaft as the men played water on the shaft's walls. At the airport fire, control tower operators Kenneth Walmsley and Kenneth St. John scrambled down the flaming structure's wall minutes before it turned into an inferno.

Causes of both blazes have not been determined.

Yeomans Street School Plans Approved by Dept.

Approval of the Department of Education of the plans for the proposed six-room school to be constructed on Yeomans Street, has been received by the Belleville Board of Education.

The letter of approval from the department was read at the board meeting Friday night and directions were given by the board to advise Drever and Smith Kingston architects, to proceed with final plans and specifications for the one-storey public school to be erected on the now vacant Yeoman Street lot.

The building estimated to cost approximately $180,000 will contain six class rooms and a playroom which will also be used as an auditorium. It is the intention of the school board to proceed with construction of the school as soon as possible.

Proposed New School In East End

Plans are also being considered by the board of education for the construction of a new school in the east end of the city and options on the necessary property have already been secured by the board.

Construction of this school will be determined, however, on the development of the Parkwood Heights area and on housing construction on the former county home property. In consideration of the school, a survey will be made of families living in the area to determine if they are new residents in the city, and whether they are Separate School supporters.

Public school enrolments in the four public schools for the month of January was 1,881, or 127 over the same month one year ago, according to the report of the public school inspector submitted at the last board meeting.

Attendance efficiency for the month was 92.39 slightly down from the same period last year, but well above the average for the past five years and stated to be very satisfactory for January.

Local Badminton Club Winners From Napanee

The Belleville Garrison Badminton Club made a cléan sweep of the matches in a tournament held with the Napanee Badminton Club on Saturday night.

Belleville took the men's doubles by a 5-1 score; the ladies' doubles by a similar count and the mixed doubles by a 7-5 count.

Much interest is centred on the Central Ontario Badminton Association scheduled for the Armouries here next Friday and Saturday under the sponsorship of the Garrison Club. Clubs from Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterborough, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Belleville and Kingston will take part in what is said to be the largest event of its kind held in this part of Ontario.

The winners of the tournament will be invited to take part in the provincial championships to be held in Toronto in the near future.

Efforts are being made to bring Ted Pollock, Toronto, Canadian men's single champion here to act in a referee capacity.

The participating players some ninety all told will be the guests of the officers of the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment at a reception to be held following the tournament.

Play will start on Friday evening and carry through to the finals on Saturday night.

Motorist Hits Side of Train

Failing to see the wig wag signal at the Cannifton Road railway crossing over the Canadian National Railways' tracks, Dennis Gannon, 125 Yeomans Street, early Sunday morning drove his car into the side of a passing freight train, completely demolishing the entire front of his auto.

Gannon suffered slight bruises as result of the accident while a companion sustained facial cuts and was treated at Belleville General Hospital. Gannon was charged with careless driving.

Trains in and out of the C.N.R station were delayed for a short time until the wreckage of the car was removed from the track. The engineer of the freight did not realize a car had crashed into the middle of his train and failed to stop but a following freight was forced to stop to allow the wreckage to be taken from the track.

Juveniles Caught Stealing Pigeons

Intermittent raids on the pigeon loft of Mr. S. Cherrie, 20 Pine Street, which had been carried on since Hallowe'en night by several juveniles, came to an abrupt end Sunday night when the boys were caught in the act and found themselves in the clutches of the police.

Mrs. Cherrie stated that her husband had first missed some of his homing pigeons on Hallowe'en night and last week the raids on the loft again started. Sunday night Mrs. Cherrie watched the loft from her upstairs window and when she saw activity around the loft notified the police.

Several lads, all juveniles were apprehended by police.

During the several raids on the pigeon loft approximately 10 of Mr. Cherrie's 25 or 30 homing pigeons disappeared, it was stated.

Four Great Grandparents Of Baby Living

To have great grandparents on both sides of his mother's branch of the family is the rather unique record of Three-day-old Donald Gordon Kleinsteuber, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kleinsteuber, 42 South John Street.

And at the same time the young son and heir of the Kleinsteuber family has possibly one of the youngest grandmothers in the city. She is Mrs. Walter Keller, age 35, mother of Mrs. Donald Keinsteuber, who is 18-years-old. Mrs. Keller's mother is Mrs. R. Thompson, aged 52, who lives on Front Street.

Great grandfather on the Keller side of the family is Mr. Arthur Keller, 72, of 20 St. Paul Street.

CELEBRATES 102ND BIRTHDAY

Kingston, Feb. 21 — (CP) — Lizzie Richardson, Kingston's oldest woman resident, has just celebrated her 102nd birthday. There was no celebration to mark the event, since Miss Richardson is confined to her bed most of the time with arthritis. She lost her sight six years ago.

She came from England when she was 23 years old and carried on a dressmaking business with her sister, Mrs. E. J. Taylor, for about 25 years.

Toronto Skating Club Artists Will Take Part

With the color and pageantry of former exhibitions enhanced by new additions; with local stars augmented by brilliant artists of the Toronto Skating Club including a newly-crowned champion, the Ninth Winter Show of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club, scheduled for Memorial Arena Friday night and Saturday is said to be one of the most entertaining extravaganzas presented by this organization.

Guest stars coming from the Queen City club include Mr. W. E. Lewis, Ronald Vincent, Joy Forsyth and Maureen Senior, who will be seen in graceful flight of singles and duos. Such Quinte Club stars as Gordon Davies, Jack Dickens, Olivia Weese, Mary Jane McNally, Wilma Graham, the Kerr sisters, Doris and Marilyn, Nancy David, Mike Ridley, Clare Ridley and others will also been seen in colorful action.

Fairy Story Featured

The pageantry is of the highest order. Featured is the fairy story of the "Nutcracker and the Mouse King" with appropriate music from the famous Nutcracker Suite. Well over 30 members of the club take part in this pretty presentation.

Then there is the "Sugar Plum Shop" with practically the entire junior membership taking part, headed by Sugar Plum Fairy Nancy David. Comedy skits will be given by that famous Quinte Club pair of laugh creators, Mike Ridley and Jack Dickens.

"The Waltz of the Flowers" is another attractive presentation with pretty costume and musical effects. Olivia Weese is convening this skit.

The famous "Aladdin and His Lamp" opens the second half of the show with Gordon Davies in the title role. Eastern glamor and mystery with sultry-eyed jewel girls and the famous Genii round out a highly attractive number.

The "Dance of the Flutes" and a pretty nautical number "Anchors Aweigh," complete an attractive offering.

The first show will be presented on Friday evening with a Saturday matinee concluding with the Saturday evening performance.

The show is produced by a committee consisting of Mrs. B. Weese, Miss L. Sprackett, Miss Doris Kerr, Miss Marilyn Kerr, Miss Betty McNally, Miss Mary Jane McNally, Miss Wilma Graham, Mr. C. A. Ridley, Mr. G. Davies, Mr. J. Dickens.

Police Blotter

Tombstones, Property Damaged by Youths

Mischievous youths who apparently have a yen for destruction of property were responsible over the weekend for damaging property at the former city gas plant and at the Bridge Street address of A. C. Campbell, memorial craftsmen.

Police stated that windows and sashes at the city gas plant had been destroyed, while Mr. Campbell reported tombstones had been marred at his place of business.

Charge Laid

Police over the weekend arrested one Allan Misiner, 84 Station Street, on charges of breaking and entering and theft. Last week it was reported by the landlord at 84 Station Street that a radio and electric iron had disappeared and Misiner has been charged with the offence.

OBITUARY

ELEANOR RUTH CANNING

Eleanor Ruth Canning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Canning, 24 Ponton Street, died in the Kingston General Hospital on Saturday evening after an illness of one year's duration.

Born in Belleville the late Miss Canning was in her 17th. year and all her life was passed here. She attended Queen Mary School and prior to her illness she was a second-year commercial student at the Collegiate and Vocational School. She was a member of Holloway Street United Church and took part in the activities of the Young People's Association.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, until late Monday afternoon, then at her late residence; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

MRS. RACHEL CASEY
(Belleville - Tweed)

Mrs. Rachel Casey, 284 Dufferin Avenue, widow of Patrick Casey, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday after a brief illness.

Born in Hungerford township, the late Mrs. Casey was in her 80th. year and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rashotte. For many years she lived in Tweed and for the past two years she made her home in this city. She was a faithful member of St. Michael's Church and in connection with the parish she was a member of the League of the Sacred Heart and the Catholic Women's League.

Surviving her are three sons, Carl Casey, Belleville; Donald Casey, Belleville, and Leonard Casey of Toronto; one daughter, Mrs. F. G. (Olive) Mackness, Port Stanley; one brother, Charles Rashotte, Tweed.

Resting at the Corrigan and O'Brien Funeral Home, Moira Street West, until late this Monday afternoon, then at the Quinn Funeral Home, Tweed; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

FREDERICK WILLIAM DAVIS
(Melrose)

Frederick William Davis died in the Belleville General Hospital early Monday morning.

Born in Madoc township, the son of the late Richard Davis and Eliza Watson, he was in his 85th year. After residing on the homestead at Madoc for fifty-five years the late Mr. Davis moved to Peterboro. Seven years later he located at Melrose where he resided at the time of his death.

Until ill health prevented, Mr. Davis was an active member of the Methodist and later the United Church. One of his chief interests in church work was among the young people and for a period of thirty-five years he acted as superintendent and teacher in Sunday School.

In politics Mr. Davis was a Liberal with independent views. Fraternally he was a member of the I. O. F. Lodge, Shannonville.

Surviving are his widow, the former Amanda Huffman; two daughters, Mrs. Earle Sayers and Mrs. John Burnside and one son Harry at home; two sisters, Mrs. A. Pringle of Belleville and Mrs. I. J. McConnell of Port Hope.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

WILLIAM E. VANDERWATER

The late Mr. Vanderwater had reached an advanced age, being in his 91st. year. He was born in Prince Edward County and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Vanderwater. For many years he was a successful farmer in the 2nd. concession of Sidney township and for the past thirty-three years he lived retired in this city. He was well known and was highly esteemed by many friends and acquaintances. In religion he was a member of Bridge Street United Church.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. W. Harold (Edna) Cameron, at home, and Mrs. E. W. (Kathleen) VanBlaricom, in the Province of Saskatchewan; one sister, Mrs. Clarence Stevenson, Wellington; two brothers, Arnold Vanderwater of Wellington, and Elmer Vanderwater of British Columbia; six grandchildren, Mrs. Trevor Pickering, Toronto; Dr. L. VanBlaricom, Halifax; Campbell Cameron, Kingston; Colin Cameron, Keith Cameron and Donna Cameron, all at home. His wife, the former Emma McFaul, died some years ago.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

ERIC W. WRIGHTMEYER
(Belleville - Vancouver)

Eric W. Wrightmeyer, son of Mr. Herbert Wrightmeyer, Trent Road, and brother of Mr. Thomas G. Wrightmeyer of this city, died suddenly at West Vancouver, B.C. on Friday night as the result of a heart seizure.

Born in this city the late Eric Wrightmeyer spent his boyhood and his early manhood days here. He was educated at the public and high schools. At one time he was a reporter on the Intelligencer. In 1931 he joined the circulation staff of the Toronto Daily and Weekly Star and he represented this paper with marked success in various parts of Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia. Fifteen years ago he left Winnipeg to continue his work in Vancouver and the entire Province of British Columbia.

During the First Great War, and while still in his teens, he enlisted here for service overseas. During the years he lived in this city he was well known and held a high place in the regard of many friends to whom the announcement of his death will bring much regret.

In Vancouver Mr. Wrightmeyer was active in church work and taught a Sunday School class up to the time of his death. He was also a leader in the activities of the Boy Scouts. During the Second Great War he was a member of the Pacific Coast Rangers, a veterans' organization.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Mary Hewson of Peterborough; one daughter, Mrs. Claude (Betty) Waterton, Vancouver, B.C.; his father, Mr. Herbert Wrightmeyer, Trent Road; one brother, Mr. Thomas G. Wrightmeyer of this city, and a sister, Mary, in Vancouver, B.C.

He was of the sixth generation of the Wrightmeyer family in Hastings County.

The funeral will take place at Vancouver.

LATE JOHN BRADDEN
(Plainfield)

The funeral of John Bradden was held Monday morning from his late residence in the 6th. concession of Thurlow township, near Plainfield, to St. Michael's Church where Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. J. Shannon of Carleton Place.

Interment took place at St. James' Cemetery and the committal prayers were said by Rev. B. Walsh, Tweed, assisted by the Rev. E. Briceland and the Rev. J. Shannon.

The bearers were William Clevely, Everett Yorke, Walter Treverton, Vincent McDermott, Arthur Shannon and Leonard McDermott.

STIRLING

I.O.O.F. Members Entertain Wives, Friends at Party

Stirling—The officers and members of Stirling Lodge No. 239 I.O.O.F. entertained their wives and friends at their annual "At Home" in the Community Hall on Wednesday evening. The event commemorated the 130th Anniversary of the Order founded in Baltimore by Thos. Wildley and was attended by some 200.

Guests Welcomed

R. E. Fox as chairman, welcomed the guests, and gave a brief outline of the founding of the Order, after which he introduced the various members on a program of instrumental and vocal selections.

Program Selections

The opening number was a vocal solo by William Reynolds, accompanied by Miss Grace Pitman, followed by a piano solo by Miss Ruth Mumby and a vocal duet by Mrs. Walter Warren, and Mrs. Harry Morrow accompanied by Mrs. Wm. Heath. A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a 25-year Veteran Jewel to Bro. E. Sadler by Past Grand Officer Ernest Carlisle, who was Noble Grand of Stirling Lodge when Bro. Sadler was initiated 29 years ago.

Rev. R. W. Barker of St. Paul's, Stirling, rendered a piano solo, followed by a vocal solo by Rev. H. C. Vaclavik of Rawdon circuit, accompanied by Mrs. W. Heath.

Misses Barbara Green and Ruth Mumby rendered a vocal duet and encore with the latter playing the guitar accompaniment after which Gerald Taylor rendered two piano selections.

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker of the evening was Rev. H. C. Vaclavik, who gave an interesting talk on his experiences in European countries, and Canada and the principles on which Oddfellowship is founded. After expressing his pleasure at being invited to address such a gathering, Rev. Mr. Vaclavik stated "it was only by sharing our experiences that we were drawn closer together. If the people of the world knew each other, they would abandon their extreme nationalism and ideologies. We were running into another armament race, because we were suspicious, and afraid of each other. Millions were being spent to make ready for another world catastrophe".

"Friendship and love are what make life worthwhile", continued the speaker. "We were missing these things in our community, national and international lives."

"The greatness of a nation was not in her mineral resources, but in the character of her people. When the character of the people goes down the country falls. Oddfellowship stands for certain principles and you must preserve those principles", concluded the speaker.

A solo by Mr. William Reynolds, accompanied by Miss Pitman, brought the program to a close.

Refreshments were served after which cards and dancing were enjoyed with music being supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner and Messrs. D. M. Sine, L. Hagerman, K. Belcour and X. P. Mayhew.

WHAT MAKES A CITY?
No city grows by merely growing, and none has progressed by prejudice. What makes a good city is good citizens. A good community is made by public spirit, energy and neighborliness. It grows by co-operation and in response to sensible leadership. Physical assets do not make a town or city nor does a huddled and dense population. They could be a cause but not a result. Too many seem to imagine a good town depends on paved streets, fine stores, handsome public buildings, nice homes and "improvements." Those are sidelines of less moment to a good city when it has godd neighbors, civic loyalty and strong leadership. This leadership is given by your local Chamber of Commerce.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 21 — (CP) — Prices moved irregularly in dull trading on Toronto Exchange today. A few mining stocks featured early dealings but quietened down as the session progressed. Industrials moved narrowly on mixed gains and losses and key golds slipped lower. Base metals and Western oils were also weaker.

Volume for the first three hours was 510,000 shares, about 28,000 shares less than Friday's similar period.

Waite Amulet rolled ahead strongly in brisk morning dealings to a new high at 15¼ but then sagged to 14⅝, a gain of ⅜ from the previous close. Wiltsey-Coghlan, a neighboring property was active for early advances but then settled back on realizing sales.

Steel of Canada added $1 at $82 in industrials while papers and utilities slipped lower. Consolidated Smelters continued its easier trend, declining 1¾ at 105 and International Nickel dipped a fraction in base metals.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP) —Prices on the livestock market here up to noon were steady to a shade stronger. Receipts reported by the Domi[illegible] Marketing service were: Cat[illegible],000; calves 300; hogs 500; sh[illegible] and lambs 230.

Weighty steers sold at $17.50-$19.50 with a few tops of $20.

Good light steers and heifers were $18-$19 with plain kinds at $15-$16 with canners and cutters at $9-$12. Good bulls sold at $18-$19 with plain kinds downward to $16. Choice fed yearlings were $22-$30 with plain to medium lightweights at $16-$26. Grassers sold for slaughter at $13-$16.

Hogs were steady at $30.50 for grade A and $30.10 for grade B1. Sows were $22 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $25-$25.50 for good westerners. There were no sales of sheep.

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—Hog prices at Stratford were not established this morning. Hogs at Hull were unsettled but were quoted at $30 for grade A delivered.

Fail as Parents By Not Letting Children Grow Up

London, Ont., Feb. 21 (CP)—Many parents fail in training their children because they will not let them grow up, Rev. G.W. Goth told his congregation at Metropolitan United Church last night in continuing a series of sermons on marriage.

"Children," he said, "want to be loved but they don't want to be coddled and curbed. They want to show they have a mind of their own, can think, and in that way become mature."

Youth of Eighteen Is Arrested Following Brawl

Toronto, Feb. 21 — (CP) — William Baioni, 18-year-old Toronto youth, today was remanded one week on $1,000 bail on a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm following a Saturday night teen-ager's brawl in suburban East York.

Police said some 25 youths were involved in the street-side fights following a dance in Runnymede Collegiate.

A school official said an immediate probe would investigate the cause of the disturbance, the first there since the Saturday night dances had been re-organized after several similar episodes last year.

Police Investigate Attack on Woman

Toronto, Feb. 21 — (CP)—Police today investigated a report that Mrs. Harry Walters, 50-year-old wife of the C. C. F. member of the Ontario Legislature for Bracondale, routed a man who attacked her last night.

Mrs. Walters, a grandmother of six, said she beat off her assailant with a heavy purse and fled toward her home, pursued by the attacker who later gave up the chase.

The scene of the attempted assault was only a few blocks from the spot where Arlene Anderson. 11-year-old cripple girl, was strangled to death more than a year ago.

Hamilton Hospitals Granted $200,000

Ottawa, Feb. 21 (CP)— The Hamilton General Hospital and St. Peter's Infirmary of Hamilton, have been granted approximately $220,000 out of the federal hospital construction grants to assist in increasing their bed capacity, it was anounced today by the Federal Health Department.

The Hamilton General, owned by the city, is increasing its bed capacity by 181, bringing its total accommodation to more than 1,000.

St. Peter's Infirmary, is extending its accommodation for treatment of chronically-ill patients by addition of 51 beds,

WRECKED VESSEL—Five Newfoundlanders perished with their ship in the storm-tossed Atlantic off Cape Breton coast 35 miles south of Sydney, N.S., Feb. 16. Twenty-one others reached shore in five dories when the storm hurled the 144-ton Marshal Frank onto a shoal near the tiny fishing village of Framboise. The vessel, which was carrying 40,000 pounds of fresh cod, is shown here being pounded to bits on the rugged shoreline. Capt. Abe Miles (upper right) who led his men into dories when the $35,000 ship grounded during a blinding snowstorm said the total loss would reach $50,000 including the personal possessions of the crew. The 21 survivors rowed 12 miles before they were tossed up on the beach to safety. (CP Photo)

Quarter Century Club at Deloro Increased by 11

Marmora.— Eleven new names were added to the list of members of the Quarter Century Club of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited, and of this number, those able to be present, were royally welcomed into membership at the fourth annual dinner held in Deloro Hall on Thursday evening. The new members are: Hendrick Alphonse Clemens, Percy Arol Gordon, James Russel Hegadoren, John Hemphill, Francis William James, Norman Adam Kilpatrick, Clarence Leonard Nayler, George Arthur Pressick, Clifford Roy Quinn, Leslie Robert Prindle, Orville Chester Trumble.

Receive Club Pin

Each received his club pin and certificate and a cheque for $25. The list of active members now stands at 36 resident in Canada, and two resident in England. In addition there are six on the retired list, and twelve deceased.

Following a pleasing repast served by Mrs. H. J. Neath and staff, J. A. Paquet, manager of Stellite operation, introduced the chairman of the evening, Barry O'Brien, vice president of the company. After "The King" had been duly honored, Mr. O'Brien expressed his pleasure at presiding over the happy gathering and then called upon a member, W. J. Cottrell to read some verses, written by the latter as appropriate for the occasion.

Letters Read

The chairman next read letters from S. B. Wright, of Vancouver, former general manager and vice president and F. A. Bapty, of London, Ont, former secretary-treasurer of the company, regretting their inability to be present, and extending felicitations.

The chairman's address followed. In the mentioned that he was of the third generation of the family connected with the plant. His father's and grandfather's names were on the roll of the club and he had some satisfaction that he was a year nearer his own possible membership. In impressive speech, he referred to the club members as those whose loyalty and interest had been so largely responsible for the welfare of the company.

Refers to Deaths

He could not let the occasion pass without reference to the two members who had passed away since the last annual gathering, namely Colonel A. V. Yates and Joseph Judge. The full roll of membership now has 56 names. He had been interested in discovering on a check-up that these 56 members had completed 1,670 years of service about an average of 30 years for each member—truly a good record. In closing he reiterated the statement he had made earlier that the management was deeply interested in the maintenance of the club, and extended best wishes to its members. Here followed the presentation and short appreciative speeches by the recipients.

Floor Show

The program of the evening closed with a floor show with the entertainment being furnished by the following Toronto entertainers—Rod Roderick, magician; Dennis and Maxine, dancing team; Bob Logan and Mickie, ventriloquist; Ernie Barnes, pianist.

Before the gathering dispersed, the wives of the members were asked to take home a rose each

Flying Boat Turns Back from Lonely Sable Island

Halifax, Feb. 21 (CP)—Residents of surf-battered Sable Island, 100 miles off Nova Scotia's coast, came within an ace Sunday of seeing their first strangers in months.

An R.C.A.F. Canso flying boat, carrying supplies, a lighthouse keeper returning from sick leave and a weather man making his first trip out, turned back from the lonely sand bar without landing. There was ice on the island's narrow lake, the only safe landing spot.

For the 30 residents of Sable Island—weather men, a life boat crew, lighthouse keepers and their wives—it meant, at best, several more weeks of isolation.

Veteran search and rescue pilot Flt. Lt. Grant Nelson of St. Thomas, skipper of the Canso, told reporters aboard it would take at least five days of warm weather to melt the ice. And that is unlikely at this time of year.

Before turning his aircraft back to Dartmouth air base he flew low over the superintendent's solid, two-storey white frame house to drop his precious cargo of mail. For good measure, he tucked a few of the unbreakable supplies in a mail bag and left them go, too.

Then he brought the lumbering white flying boat over the target once more and dropped a quarter of beef for the isolated islanders' Sunday dinner.

The last time outsiders set foot on the 21-mile-long sand bar, known to sailors as the "graveyard of the Atlantic," was in November. Apart from Christmas mail dropped by an air force plane, there has been no contact "ashore" except by radio.

Fourth-Round Wage Increases To be Opposed

New York, Feb 21 (AP) — The General Electric Company has announced it will resist granting fourth-round wage increases to 200,000 employees.

A spokesman for the company, the country's largest electrical manufacturer, also voiced opposition yesterday to reported C.I.O. Union demands for shorter hours without reduction in pay, and liberalized pension and welfare programs.

The statement came a day after the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, of America, (C.I.O.) were reported planning to seek wage increases and other benefits in forthcoming negotiations with G-E.

G-E attempted last year to establish a no-increase pattern in the industry, on the ground that general increases would be inflationary and bad for the United States as a whole as well as the company and its employees. Later, however, G-E granted an 11-cent-an-hour boost after other major industries gave increases.

FIREMAN RISKS LIFE

Toronto, Feb. 21 — (AP)—Joseph Bowman, veteran Toronto fireman, today risked his life to prevent a major explosion when fire broke out in the basement of the downtown Toronto General Trust building.

Donning a gas mask, Bowman went into the basement and turned off a severed valve from which gas was escaping.

The flames destroyed a storage and stock room, causing more

de Bernonville Wins Fight To Remain in Canada

Montreal, Feb. 21 (CP)—Count Jacques Duge de Bernonville today won his right to remain in Canada as a political refugee.

In Superior Court the writ of Habeas Corpus, by which de Bernonville fought a federal order for his deportation, was ruled upon in favor of the Count who is under sentence of death in his native France for alleged collaboration with the Germans during the Second World War.

The federal government had ordered de Bernonville deported on the grounds he entered Canada illegally under the name of Benoit and also on the grounds that he suffered tuberculosis.

However, today's ruling was that his arrest and the order for his deportation were, "irregular, illegal, and null and void."

The court's ruling also applied to the deportation order against the Count's wife and two of his daughters, Catherine, 17, and Josianne, 23.

The court ordered the Count liberated immediately and said it was directing authorities at Ottawa to grant him asylum in Canada along with his family.

Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau, in his judgment said:

"The court strongly recommends that the federal government accord the Count and his family a permit to dwell in Canada. No valid case has been established to justify the arrest and detention of the Count and his family."

Mr. Justice Cousineau held the Count's writ of Habeas Corpus was "well-founded and valid."

The Judge said the Immigration Commission which ordered de Bernonville's deportation was not qualified inasmuch as such a Commission should be constituted by three men and in this case was not.

De Bernonville was in court to hear today's judgment.

Ottawa, Feb. 21 — (CP) — A considerable possibility was seen here today that the government will make further efforts to deport Count Jacques Duge de Bernonville, alleged wartime collaborationist in France who was freed by Quebec's superior court on a deportation order.

Although immigration officials would say only that the case will have to be considered, persons close to the incident noted that the decision was based largely upon a technicality, involving the set-up of the immigration commission which ordered his exit.

The possibility was seen that the crown will launch the whole thing all over again or appeal the decision in a higher court.

"The judgment means he is free now," the official said. "It does not necessarily mean that some other action can't be taken but it is impossible to say until the matter has been considered."

De Bernonville was freed from an order for deportation in Montreal today.

Labor Federation Will Support CCF In Next Election

Toronto, Feb. 21. (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Labor (C.C.L.) plans to support the C.C.F. in the next federal election.

By reaching this decision Saturday at closing sessions of a two-day convention, the federation endorsed the political action campaign on the parent C.C.L.

The federation also decided against establishing a wage coordinating committee for Ontario members unions. The move, backed by left-wing delegates, was criticized by rightwingers as Communist strategy to start Labor troubles.

The gathering also refused to interfere in alleged raids by the United Steel workers of America in plants where the mine, mill and smelter workers union claims jurisdiction.

The steel union, the smelters union and the C.C.L. have been involved in a struggle for bargaining rights in the Timmins goldfields and in the refinery plant of the International Nickel Company at Port Colborne, Ont. The smelters union refused to obey a C.C.L. order to withdraw from those areas.

Pleads For Protection

R. H. Carlin, an official of the smelters union, pleaded for protection for his union against raids by the steelworkers. He said the principal charges against his union were that it had failed to organize the gold miners. He insisted his union had organized the miners but was faced with secession and organizing efforts had been affected.

"C. H. Millard of the steelworkers has given advance notice that we are to be kicked out of the C.C.L.," he said. "We existed 50 years before the Congress and if necessary, if we are kicked out of the Congress, our union will live on."

To shouted charges of Communism in his union, he replied:

"Mine, mill has not been, is not now and will not be dominated by any political party."

A delegate shouted from the floor:

"You're hanging on a Communist hook."

The federation re-elected Joseph McKenzie of the United Rubber Workers, president.

British Film Enrages Polish Jews in Berlin

Berlin, Feb. 21 (CP)—Enraged Polish Jews rioted before a British-sector movie theatre today and for the second time blocked a showing of the film "Oliver Twist," which they charge is anti-semitic.

Police used clubs and fire hoses to hold back a charging crowd of demonstrators, but without much success, when the theatre tried to open for the afternoon showing of the film, based on the Dickens novel.

A melee of lying fists and clubs surged up and down the Kurfurestendamm, the street which is the centre of Berlin's artistic life. German police of the British sector had to call out all available reserves and British public safety officers on duty decided to suspend the showing once again.

Donald Perreault Taken to Montreal

Montreal, Feb. 21 (CP)—Donald Perreault, charged with murder in the double saying of two montreal policemen, was brought here from Q uebec today.

He will appear at the trial of Robert Tremblay who is charged with being an accomplice in the slaying of the policemen and the holdup of an east end bank where the slaying took place last September.

Perreault was transferred to Quebec two weeks ago for undisclosed security reasons.

FOUR REPORTERS HELD

Rome Feb. 21 (AP)— Police announced today the arrest of 4 reporters of the pro-Fascist Rome weekly, Asso di Bastoni, because "the last issue of the newspaper published stories praising Fascist institutions."

The four also were charged with "praise of collaboration with the Germans."

Pope Pius Declares Imprisonment Of Cardinal Mindszenty Religious Persecution by Totalitarian Govt.

Vatican City, Feb. 21 — (AP)— Pope Pius told 250,000 cheering Italians yesterday the imprisonment of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty in communist-ruled Hungary was religious "persecution" by a "totalitarian and anti-religious" government.

The pontiff made his fifth public condemnation of the cardinal's sentence to a huge crowd gathered in the square in front of St. Peter's Church.

He hinted strongly that the Hungarian government, by some secret means, had wrung from Cardinal Mindszenty a confession of crimes of which the Roman Catholic primate was innocent.

His Holiness clearly warned in his 15-minute address that the peoples of communist-dominated countries should shun any agreement between church and state which might limit the activity of the Roman Catholic church.

The crowd cheered the pope as he stepped to the microphone, refusing to quiet until the pontiff himself stilled them with his opening word "Romani" (Romans).

Standing in the brilliant sunshine were priests and nuns, soldiers and sailors, society figures and shabby women carrying babies.

The pope spoke following an open-air mass.

The throng roared their approval when he asserted that the pope would not remain silent when the church's affiliates were torn from her with "violence and cunning;" when parents could not educate their children as they liked; when states interfered in ecclesiastical organizations and priests were punished for not violating the secrecy of the confessional.

Such protests, he asserted, are not "illegitimate interference" in the political powers of the state.

"Modern persecutors," he said, surpass the tortures of the Christian martyrs in the day of Nero, by "using the most recent advances of science" to shame their victims after physically crushing them.

Terms Flown to Cairo

Rhodes—Terms of a proposed Israel-Egypt armistice agreement, reported to have been approved last night by the Israel cabinet, were flown to Cairo today for review by the Egyptian government.

The agreement, said to have been accepted in principle by delegates of the two countries at United Nations-sponsored negotiations here, call, it was learned, for virtual acceptance of Jewish victories in year-end offensives. It would recognize substantially the present lines.

It was reported there was disagreement on only one point between the Egyptian and Jewish delegates. They have been meeting here for more than a month.

The remaining issue was: What to do about Beersheba, strategic city in the Negev Desert area in southern Palestine.

Under the proposed terms, it was learned, the Jews would not be permitted to use Beersheba as a base but would be permitted to station troops there.

The Jewish delegation, it was said, has accepted the entire agreement, including the Beersheba provision. The Egyptians have asked that they be given until tomorrow to take up their position on the question.

Other details of the agreement, not yet made public, were said unofficially to include an exchange of war prisoners.

pact. Taft, senate minority leader, added that of course, any agreement will have to meet the constitutional provision that only Congress can commit the country to war.

3. The Washington Post said in a copyrighted article that a poll it took showed the senate would vote overwhelmingly to fight should Russia attack any one of the North Atlantic treaty countries.

4. Senator Homer Capehart (Rep. Ind.) called for a slash in European recovery funds, now up for appropriation. He proposed thereby to make money available to finance the projected new military aid program without increasing the total United States dollar output to Europe.

5. The Foreign Policy Association declared that the greatest weakness of the Atlantic treaty, from the European viewpoint, is its lack of an automatic war pledge. Countries which antagonize Russia by joining the alliance, this private association said, want assurance of instant American help, not a congressional debate in the event they are attacked.

6. Norway's dominant Labor Party gave the government at Oslo a 330-to-35 vote of approval on steps to put Norway in the Atlantic security system. This was despite clear warning from the Soviet Union that the Russians would take a serious view of such action. Their moves to participate were regarded here as of great importance to the success of the whole venture.

This Motoring Age

This is a motoring world. One has but to read the statistics of the number of motorcars and the total of the number of drivers to realize that driving is the key to safety on the roads and highways. Never were the roads bearing such a weight of travel for the great part of humanity travels in cars.

Some attention is being given to the fact that nearly everyone will drive in the future, so thoroughly has the motor vehicle dominated the highways and roads and driven horse-drawn vehicles from the roads.

The great number of motorists and the great number of traffic fatalities and injuries are two facts which have been a matter of concern to everyone, the motoring public and the powers that be which govern the use of the highways and roads.

The problem is that type of driver on the road whose presence does not make for safety.

It is the driving that counts in this age. Mechanically the vehicles are what they ought to be and very few cases arise where mechanical difficulties are to blame.

With so many persons on the road, many thousands of whom have never had an accident, the duty of everyone is to obey implicity the rules of the road.

Spring and Syrup

With spring only four weeks away, thoughts of country folk and dwellers in cities return as the days draw near when nature begins her work of preparing the maples for the season's work, ushered in by the flow of sap. After this unusually mild season, many city people will wonder what are the prospects for the maple harvest in syrup and sugar.

Spring would not be spring as Canadians know and love it were it not for dainty flavor of the sugar and the syrup the maples produce.

With these two precious commodities which have a lasting appeal, attention is drawn to the superior quality of the early syrup according to producers and consumers. Spring's approach, heralded by the rising of the sun earlier and earlier brings very near that time which has a reputation all to itself of producing the most delicious products of the maple bush. Then with these products comes the thoughts of the rich pancakes which are a feature of the first spring day meal.

Science has produced many new products, but it has not yet produced the like of the syrup and the sugar from the maple tree.

It is not only Canadians who take to maple syrup as a cat takes to milk for down in Vermont, where the maple is also known and where suyrup is distilled on a thousand hills, there is a new method reported to have been evolved by the St. Johnsbury firm and local research laboratory to produce a new flavor said to be superior to that so far reached by the present method. It is said by the New York Herald Tribune that the new process plans to capture "all that sweet ethereal essence of the maple which now escapes in steam from a bubbling sap pan when barrels of sap are being boiled into gallons of syrup. The lighthearted maple clouds having been scientifically seized, they will be absorbed, extracted and distilled, with the final concentrate added to plain, ordinary delicious Vermont maple syrup," But the Herald Tribune has its doubts as to improvement of the syrup as it would to the possibility of science "making a bluebird bluer or the beauty of the lily enhanced by painting it with lily extract and white lead."

Mobile Banks in Britain

British banks are taking to the trail — that is some of them — and will be known as mobile banks. Not long ago it was reported that the strolling players of olden times will be rivalled by the moving theatres which will get close to the people's heart. Now something of the same spirit is in the banking business.

There are five big British banks making use of that modern invention, the motor truck or caravan, Westminster, Lloyds, Midland, National Provincial and Martins. These caravan banks are being used at the present time for agricultural shows, exhibitions and other events at which temporary banking facilities are required. It is said that there is another use which is growing — the replacement by the caravan banks of small branches in rural areas. One mobile bank, it is indicated, can replace several branches, and thus free the buildings which in some cases have been opened only once a week. The buildings will be released for other use.

Duke of Edinburgh's Fan Mail Growing Fast, Has Extra Secretary

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 21 (CP)— Fan mail for the Duke of Edinburgh is growing so fast that an extra secretary has been engaged to help handle it.

The Duke, whose responsibilities have increased since the King's allness, devotes two or 3 hours each day to reading his mail. Many contain friendly messages for himself, Princess Elizabeth and the infant Prince Charles.

Some suggest new avenue of public service for the Royal couple, with numerous requests for them to appear at functions not formally honored by Royalty.

Typical of these was an invitation to the Duke to be present at the final of a darts'tournament in the public bar of an Essex tavern. The Duke, though an ardent dart player in his naval days was —perhaps reluctantly —impelled to decline.

He also declined an invitation to act as judge at a Hertfordshire baby show, remarking in his official reply from Buckingham Palace that he did not feel "qualified" for the job.

Like most members of the Royal family the Duke receives begging letters, which in most cases are politely refused.

Where only brief replies are necessary, he scribbles them in pencil on each letter before handing it back to his secretaries. Longer replies are dictated.

The Duke is said to have a flair for dictating smooth, succinct letters and while speaking wanders about the room, looking out windows and absent-mindedly picking up books and documents. If interrupted by a telephone call, he will resume dictating at precisely the point where he left off.

"He has many qualities of a successful business executive," a friend said.

Strength for the Day

WAR NOT INEVITABLE

One of the great scientists is said to have remarked recently, "I don't know what the weapons of the Third World War will be but I know what the weapons of the Fourth World War will be—clubs."

By this he means that one more world war will wash us up. Civilization will disappear, and society will become savage again. We may wear breechcloths or we may wear business suits, but we shall be savages. If the forces of destruction were really to be unleashed, there would scarcely be enough left in the world to set up any organized life, other than tribalism.

and our emotions pretty well balanced as we confront the future. Extermination is a possibility, and we should never cease to regard this possibility with unqualified alarm. Nevertheless, war is by no means inevitable. If we allow it to come, it will be because we are stupid, selfish, and willful. If the world's intelligence can produce modern science and industry, there is no reason why this same intelligence cannot prevent war.

But intelligence and common sense will not be enough. The spiritual powers latent in the universe are more powerful for healing and progress than atomic power is for destruction. Mind, matter, and spirit must pool

Mackenzie's Column: Some Easement In Anxiety Of Pact Members

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

There was some easement during the weekend in the anxiety of prospective, European members of the projected North Atlantic alliance over the United States' position towards the pact.

Things brightened enough so that Norway's dominant Labor party Saturday gave the government the go-ahead signal to join in the security pact conference. All that remains now to ensure Norway's participation in the talks is for parliament to give its approval.

This somewhat more cheerful outlook followed United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson's cards-on-the-table conference in Washington Saturday with the ambassadors concerned. He is understood to have assured the envoys he believed the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had made excellent progress towards general acceptance of a treaty draft which should give the Europeans far more confidence of American backing.

How Far to Go

The Europeans have been pressing for positive assurance that the United States will give immediate military assistance in event of aggression. The point at issue in Washington has been how far the United States should go in meeting this demand.

The concern of the European countries about the American position isn't, I take it, due to any doubt that the United States would participate militarily in another major war in the Old World. It's due to doubt as to "when" she would participate.

The consensus of military experts is that self-interest, if nothing else, would compel the United States to participate in another European upheaval. The experiences of two global wars have demonstrated that the forward defences of the United States lie in the Old World.

In From Start

However, the fact remains that the United States didn't enter the last war formally until the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, more than two years after Hitler had struck. A lot of hell can be—and was — brewed in two years. The prospective European members of the Atlantic alliance have made it clear that they want to be sure the United States is in right from the start if trouble comes.

More to the point, they feel that positive assurance would be the best possible deterrent to aggression.

I discussed this matter with an official of one of the European governments concerned in the proposed alliance.

"All my country wants to know," he said, "is that the proposed pact won't be without teeth. We don't want to see any aggression develop. We want the potential aggressor warned."

Beaten up by Gang

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—Trouble comes in bunches for Harold Breuls, a Toronto Transportation Commission bus driver.

A few weeks ago while driving his bus he was beaten up by a youthful gang. Yesterday a milk truck went out of control and crashed into his house, damaging part of his front veranda.

SHOT BY BANDITS

Warsaw, Feb. 21 — (Reuters)— Arthur Carteret Maule, third secretary to the British embassy who was shot by bandits near Warsaw last Wednesday, died in hospital last night.

Maule, who was about 45, was gravely wounded by two Polish bandits who raided his country house, 15 miles south of Warsaw, demanding money.

When he tried to grapple with them they shot him three times through the stomach and shoulder.

More Steel Scrap In American Mills Than in Years

By LAWRENCE N. ELDRED

Chicago, Feb. 21 — (AP)—For the first time since 1938 or 1939, United States steel mills have more scrap than they need, and they're taking full advantage of it.

Curiously, it is the weather which has made the big difference in supplies.

This is the analysis made by Marcus E. Borinstein, vice-president in charge of metals for the James Fleet Organization of Chicago, principal commission sales agent in the complex, billion-dollar scrap industry.

"The open winter, which lasted well into the new year from Chicago eastward, has been the biggest factor in the scrap situation," Borinstein said.

"Normally, there is a market cutback in scrap supplies starting in November, and by January the market is starved. Mills need the scrap but you just can't move the stuff when it's snowed in and frozen together in dealers' yards.

"Because of good transportation conditions this winter, the scrap grey market has been knocked in the head. There is a buyer's market instead of a seller's. Prices have nose-dived.

Contributing factors, he added, are imports of European scrap and in fact that foundries which were taking better grade steel scrap now are more able to get pig and cast iron. Overseas scrap has helped supply eastern mills and diminished demand for interior supplies which then could flow to midwestern mills.

Scrap steel is important. Pig iron is high in carbon, phosphorous and sulphur. Its melting time is four times as long as scrap and pig mixed, because the melting scrap released iron oxide which helps to melt the pig.

Also, he added, scrap is cheaper than pig, normally, and since it is refined and already has had impurities removed it is easier to work with.

Rediscover Birds Believed Extinct

Invercargill, N.Z., (CP) — A scientific expedition led by Dr. R. A. Falla, director of the Dominion Museum, recently spent three days in the haunts of the notornis, the large flightless bird which was recently rediscovered in a remote area in the far southwest of New Zealand. The notornis was thought to be extinct for half a century.

The party found a thriving colony of at least 100 of the birds, including about 20 breeding pairs. They live among the snowgrass in the area and feed on it almost entirely. The scientists discovered traces of vermin which could be a danger to the birds and action will probably be taken to remove the menace.

Until the recent discovery only four specimens of the notornis had ever been taken by Europeans. Two of these are in the British Museum, one in Europe and the fourth in Dunedin Museum, New Zealand.

It is most unlikely that more specimens will be available as strict precautions are being taken to preserve the present colony. A huge area surrounding the location of the colony has been declared a sanctuary and it may be entered only with special permits from the government.

FIREMEN INJURED

Vienna, Feb. 21 — (Reuters) — Some 1,000 Russian soldiers who turned fire-fighters today brought under control the big blaze in the Austrian oil district of Zisterdorf in the Russian zone. The fires began yesterday at the earth- gas boring at Muehlberg and several firemen were reported injured.

TODAY'S TALK

OBJECTIVE

When we know exactly where we are going, we enjoy contentment. And with it all there is speculation, and a deal of dreaming as well. That is as it should be. Every objective, or goal, should stir the imagination and give delight.

Baltasar Gracian once said: "The world is merely zero: by itself it is of no value, but with Heaven in front of it, it means much." We may have only a personal idea as to what Heaven is, but so long as we think of it as a perfect place, then we are inspired with the thought of making ourselves worthy to attain it.

Early in life every human being should have a definite objective toward which to work and strive. We can't arrive at a place without knowing where to find it, or having someone direct us to it. But if our eyes and our mind are set steadily upon that objective, we are not apt to want anyone else to direct us to it. We'll want all the glory to ourself!

Into every one of our days should be calendared a few "musts," and these adhered to with an iron determination. These in themselves will form an objective, but their importance depends upon an over-all life objective.

We feel better. We have a clearer vision. We have incentive —when we know where we are headed. And the objective itself grows more luminous and attractive. I like that line — "one increasing purpose." It suggests the will to win, and a nearing of the objective toward which we earnestly and sincerely strive.

It is an inspiring thing to live boldly each day, with confidence and a feeling of security. And always without fear, for nothing wears out the machinery of the mind like fear. It dries all the lubrication that Nature has so generously provided. It robs one's faith.

We often hear the expression that a certain one knows where he is going. Of course he does, for he has an objective, and he makes people conscious of it. A man without an objective in life isn't noticed at all!

STUDYING, LEARNING AND CRAMMING

Believe it or not, a reader actually asks me to print a list of brain foods. The reader is not facetious about it. He or she notices that I say milk is the best nerve food, and that I explain why. Therefore, the reader thinks, I might similarly name the best brain food or at any rate give some advice on the proper diet for a student preparing for a competitive examination.

Well, now, I'm glad this reader and a few thousand others are constrained to ask me or tell me by mail. Some mornings when the mail truck arrives and the men stagger in with the day's mail I think how dreadful it might be if only fifty of a hundred of the people who write demanded just a "few minutes" of my time to explain their cases to me today in person.

A student, whether preparing for a tough final examination or for a tougher test of business or professional life must consume a quart of milk daily, fresh milk preferably, or its equivalent in cheese, cream, butter, skim milk, buttermilk, sour milk, acidophilus milk, yoghurt, evaporated milk; condensed milk, whole dried milk, skim milk dried, pasteurized milk, Grade A raw milk from tuberculin tested herd, certified milk, or any available milk made safe by scalding—boiling for one minute.

In place of white flour products the staff of a student's life should be plain wheat—for the vital reasons set forth in pamphlet Wheat to Eat, mailed on written request if you inclose stamped self addressed envelope. It contains numerous recipes for appetizing things made of plain wheat.

If or when the student can afford an orange he or she should wash the orange with soap and water, rinse and eat the entire orange, except seeds. Orange peel contains five times as much vitamin C as pulp or juice and when chewed by itself or with other food. If neither oranges, nor fresh fruits or greens are available commercially canned tomato or tomato juice is a good cheap source of vitamin C, which is essential not merely to prevent manifestations of scurvy but to maintain spirits or morale. As Stefanson so well observed (The Friendly Arctic), low spirits is one of the first signs of vitamin C deficiency.

Wheat is the best natural food source of vitamin B complex—plain wheat, that is, not any refined or manufactured wheat product. Actual tests on school children by Dr. Harrell have shown that vitamin B giving daily as a supplement to the regular diet makes children more attentive and quicker to learn. Pupils of the same age and environment were divided into two groups for the experiment. Those of the group that received the daily ration of vitamin B got better marks in examinations than th[illegible] control group who had the sa[illegible] diet but no vitamin B.

The cloistered scholar at his books may be surprised to learn (says the physiologist Benedict) that the extra calories needed for one hour of intense effort solving mathematical problems would be completely met by the eating of one oyster cracker or one-half of a salted peanut. Just why Prof. Benedict specifies salted peanut or why any one should eat salted peanuts in any circumstance unless good freshly roasted peanuts are not available. Peanuts, by the way, are highly nutritious food, an excellent source of vitamins and calcium, and may well be used as a staple in the everyday diet.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Effect of Splint

Purchased brassiere that boned and extends down to hip. Sister disapproves, says it will twist everything out of shape. Girls tell me doctors say it is good to wear one, since it prevents the muscles from growing flabby. (J. F.)

Answer—Wearing any splint, corset, brace or support tends to make the muscles grow flabby. The girls sold you a bill of goods. Next time you shop better take sister along to look after you.

Dry Rough Skin

I am 52, 70 inches tall, weigh 130. Always thin, can't gain any weight. Now have extremely dry skin, rough and scaly or scurfy and itchy in many places. Salves prescribed by doctor relieved itching but not the dry rough condition. (F. B.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask f[illegible] pamphlet How to Gain Weigh[illegible] For the skin condition supplement your diet with a daily ration of 25,000 units of vitamin A, not just carotene, but the real vitamin, for two or three months.

Giddap

Married daughter writes she is bothered with bleeding piles and the doctor says she should go to the hospital and have them cut out. We can't get into town till next week, but please send her your pamphlet. (Mrs. M. C.)

Answer — Some circumstance your daughter did not mention may make operation necessary, but if the trouble is only piles it is amenable to ambulant treatment—injection treatment in the doctor's office. Any reader who asks for it in writing and provides stamped self addressed envelope may have the pamphlet It is Stupid to Suffer from Pil[illegible] Do not use a clipping.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Honor Milne, in her eightieth year, died in Toronto the other day. And since her life was itself a tribute to the teaching profession this time of controversy in that realm is opportune to refer to it.

Honor Milne herself was handicapped by very poor vision, and she wore enormously thick spectacles. She taught first grade. And it was a matter of concern in the schools she taught in that there was always a terrible racket in her classes. "But, as the principals used to say, "what can we do about it? She passes the children with higher grades than the rest of you . . ."

Soon there was to be added a new racket to her class rooms. Sixty years ago, she began seeking out the crippled children of her diocese, so to speak, and teaching them after hours and in her evenings. When her hands became too full, she persuaded the school authorities to allow the older boys to bring the crippled children to her classes. So the racket of little express wagons, the thump of crutches, the rattle and crash of leg braces joined the joyful tumult of Honor Milne's class rooms. And still the grades grew higher, finer. She lived to see, and to teach in, schools specially dedicated to the crippled.

Not by argument, not by organization, but by single-handed demonstration, this shy gentle woman pioneered the schools for crippled children that today are recognized everywhere as part of the normal educational program of cities.

To see Honor Milne on the street, peering through her thick lenses, moving shyly, cautiously, and wearing that eternal smile those of poor vision adopt lest they fail to smile at a friend, you would never have suspected her of being a great liberator. That she was. When she lay in state before her funeral, the most tremendous moment was when her alumnae, grown men and women, ca[illegible] with their crutches, stick[illegible] braces, to say farewell. They were representative of the multitude Honor Milne had liberated from the prison in which the crippled had once lived.

Norway Decides To Cast Her Lot With the West

Oslo, Feb. 21 (AP)—Norway has decided to risk Russia's displeasure and cast her lot with the west by joining the North Atlantic defence talks.

Despite Russian warnings, the dominant Labor party has approved the pro-western foreign policy of Foreign Minister Halvard M. Lange. The vote, at a party meeting was 229 to 33, but the opposition yesterday decided to make the vote unanimous.

Parliamentary approval, which still is necessary, is expected this week. All parties except the small Communist representation are backing Lange's policies.

Lange stressed the belief it is necessary for Norway to turn to the west for protection because he believes the United Nations alone is not capable of ensuring peace.

Norway's leaders feel a regional defence system offers more protection for small countries. But they rejected a Scandinavian pact with Sweden and Denmark because they believed that too could not afford them the security they need unless it were tied in with the North Atlantic pact.

The projected North Atlantic alliance would link the defences of the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

The Norwegian Labor party action killed Swedish and Danish hopes for a last-minute change in the Norwegian attitude.

Sweden Will be Neutral

Swedish Premier Tage Erlander said yesterday after the Labor party vote that Sweden's traditional policy of neutrality would not be altered by the Norwegian decision.

Erlander said Sweden's position would have been even more difficult if Lange had not obtained definite assurances on his recent would not have to allow her territory to be used as bases for the trip to Washington that Norway big powers in peacetime.

The possibility of Norwegian soil being used for western bases cropped up in both Russian hoted to Norway asking about her intentions.

Sweden fears the Russians might counter the Norwegian move to join the Atlantic pact by moving up troops along her frontier with Norway and along the Norwegian-Finnish frontier.

Even if no armed conflict resulted, the burden of extraordinary military preparedness would cause great economic difficulties in all three Scandinavian countries.

In London, meanwhile, Greek Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris scheduled a conference today with Foreign Secretary Bevin. Informed sources said Tsaldaris will ask Bevin's views on a Mediterranean defence treaty similar to the North Atlantic alliance.

Police Reinforcements Quell Disturbance

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—Four men were arrested yesterday on charges of causing a disturbance after a fight in a restaurant with a police officer. It took four police re-inforcements 10 minutes to end the battle. Arrested were Kenneth Field, 22; William Mason, 23; Donald Smith, 23; Armand Robinson, 22. Field and Robinson were treated in hosptial for bruises.

Russian Composer, Rebuked by Reds, Will Visit U.S.

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Dmitri Shostakovich, noted Russian composer who has been rebuked in Moscow because his music was not always considered to follow the Communist party line, will visit the United States for the first time next month.

He will be a guest at the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace scheduled by the National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions for March 25, 26 and 27 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, chairman of the council, announced last night he had received word that Shostakovich and four other Russians have accepted invitations to attend.

The group of five is the first important Soviet cultural and scientific delegation authorized by the Russian government to visit the United States in a considerable time.

Shapley, who announced the names of some of the delegates who will come from 30 countries, explained that the Soviet government—and not the council—selected those who will represent Russia.

Other members of the Soviet delegation are to be S. A. Gerasimov, motion picture producer; A. A. Fadeev, secretary-general of the Secretariat of the Union of Soviet Writers; A. I. Oparin, one of the Soviet Union's leading biochemists, and P. A. Pavlenko, novelist.

Falls at Funeral Rides Home in Hearse

Sudbury, Feb. 21 (CP)—A Markstay woman, Mrs. James Legage, had an unusual ride Saturday after attending the funeral of a friend in Waynapitae. Mrs. Legage fell as she was leaving the Waynapitae cemetery, following the funeral of Felix Foisey. Her right leg buckled under her, and friends, fearing it might be broken, loaded her in the Ducharme Funeral Home hearse which had carried Mr. Foisey's body to the cemetery.

X-rays taken of Mrs. Legage's leg at the hospital revealed no fracture. She returned to her home in Markstay late Saturday afternoon, one of the few persons ever to attend a friend's funeral and wind up riding in the hearse.

DOES NOT WANT WAR

Dallas, Feb. 21 (AP)— Dr. Arne Bjornberg of Sweden, head of the United Nations' 14 information centres throughout the world said yesterday that Russia does not want war. Dr. Bjornberg blamed much of the world tension on United States press. He is here on a lecture tour.

Youth Rescues Three Boys From Grand R.

Preston, Feb. 21 (CP)— George Bradford, 17, helped complete a rescue operation which started Saturday when Roger Fischer, nine, fell through thin ice into the Grand River.

The Fischer boy's brother, Jack, 13, and a companion, Richard Miller, 12, tried to help the younger boy out of the water but were themselves in difficulty when Bradford came along.

By Sunday night, all but Roger Fischer, still suffering from exposure, had recovered from their adventure.

They said that when Roger Fischer dropped through the spongy ice, his brother immediately leaped into the hole in the ice and tried to pull him out. But the rubber boots the boys wore soon filled with water and Jack was unable to lift his brother clear.

Roger clung to the edge of the hole and the older boy kept a grip on the younger boy's collar to keep his head above water. Meanwhile, Richard (Dickie) Miller crawled toward them on his stomach.

When the Miller boy got close enough, he held out to the others the air rifle they had taken on their hunting jaunt. Jack Fischer caught hold of the rifle but on the slipery surface Dickie Miller was unable to pull either of these companions clear.

The Miller boy was unwilling to let go of the air rifle lest the others slip under the ice. Jack Fischer had to use most of his strength to keep his brother's head above water.

That was the position of the trio when Bradford noticed their plight and ran across the ice to their aid.

Prime Minister Visits Cardinal In Toronto

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—As part of his many engagements in a crowded weekend visit to Toronto, Prime Minister St. Laurent Sunday had luncheon with James Cardinal McGuigan, following attendance at High Mass at St. Michael's Cathedral.

In the absence of any statement, there was speculation that the Prime Minister and the Cardinal may have discussed the case of Cardinal Joseph Mindszenty, and possibly also the question of Canadian diplomatic representation at the Vatican.

However, Prime Minister St. Laurent himself, told The Canadian Press that there was nothing to be said. "Whenever there is anything more than speculation, it will be announced officially, and announced rapidly," he said.

Mr. St. Laurent arrived in Toronto Saturday morning and in a busy round turned over to the city the keys of a hospital, inspected a housing project, delivered an address and talked with a group of Young Liberals.

Sunday besides the Mass and the luncheon, he toured a convalescents' lodge and visited the school where his 10-year-old grandson is a student.

The Prime Minister, visiting paraplegic patients at Lyndhurst Lodge, stopped to ask Kenneth Sniels, 22, of Galt, how Sniels suffered the injury which paralyzed him from the waist down.

Premature Babies Get New Nurseries

Gillingham, Kent, Eng. (CP) — Canada House, otherwise known as the Royal Naval and Marine Maternity Nursing Home, is being extended to provide special accommodation for premature babies.

The home was named Canada House and enlarged after First World War when women of Canada donated a sum of money for the benefit of wives of ratings of the Royal Navy and the Royal Marines.

Moderate fees are charged.

"This generous gift enabled us to enlarged the home," said Matron I. G. Stevens, "but we had a setback during the Second World War when one wing was bombed.

"There were 19 mothers and 18 babies here at the time and miraculously all escaped injury."

With the rebuilding of the damaged wing, extra accommodation has been added and various improvements effected. The nurseries will be specially heated on the thermostatic system. Premature babies will wear oxygen masks and will receive expert attention.

Canadian Boy Held at Buffalo After Gun-Battle

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 21 (CP)— A 15-year-old Canadian boy was captured Saturday night after a waterfront gun-battle in which a United States immigration officer was wounded.

Police identified the boy as Richard Dumas of Brantford, who escaped last month from St. John's Training School in Toronto where he was sentenced last summer on an automobile-theft charge.

The wounded immigration officer is Charles T. Laur, 58, who was hit in the right thumb.

Today Dumas was charged with first-degree assault, illegal entry into the United States and juvenile delinquency.

Laur and Charles Billick, also of the United States immigration service, exchanged shots with Dumas while trying to capture him after he was seen dropping from a coal car of a freight train on the American side of the International Bridge.

Dumas was finally apprehended on a breakwater near Buffalo's sewage-disposal plant and was taken to Buffalo City police jail.

Detective Chief William T. Fitzgibbons said he might be turned over to Canadian authorities because of his age after a conference with Canadian officials today.

Charles Schultz, Acting Deputy Police Commission, told this story:

Dumas was seen by customs inspectors dropping from a freight train on the American side of the International Bridge. The immigration service was notified and Laur and patrolman Charles Billick scoured the area in a patrol car. They picked Dumas up near the bridge to Bird Island, where Buffalo's sewage disposal plant is located.

They searched the youth for weapons, but he apparently concealed a gun in his hand while they went through his clothing. They put him in the back seat, but he pulled the gun, threatened to shoot the officers and escaped to the island, exchanging shots with Laur and Billick.

Laur was hit in the flurry.

Buffalo police hurried to the scene to aid in the battle and the one entrance to the half-mile-long island was blocked off. During a systematic search of the island, Buffalo patrolmen Martin J. Goodman and John C. Dogal found an overcoat near the entrance to the breakwater.

They started out on the long cement wall and had walked only a short distance when they came upon the youth clinging to the side. He surrendered without further resistance.

MARAUDING MONK — Three-year-old Peter, a South American ring tail monkey, caused considerable excitement in Hamilton this week when he toppled his cage from a shelf, escaped and roamed through a pet shop among the birds, fish, hamsters, rabbits, turtles and a puppy. A visit to Toronto with his owner had left him in a nervous state. He caused no damage during the escapade but provided amusement for a large crowd of spectators who watched through the shop window. Betty Ritchie Met Dennis In Dance Hall

Beverly Hills, Calif., Feb. 21—(CP)—Betty Ritchie, one-time Toronto school teacher, told police Sunday she met Gerard Graham Dennis at a dance-hall in Hollywood.

The 24-year-old Miss Ritchie was arrested here Thursday in the apartment of the Canadian who is charged in New Rochele, N.Y., with robbing wealthy homes of jewels and furs worth $600,000.

She said she and Dennis travelled around the United States together, visiting night clubs and beach resorts, but denied that she knew her companion had stolen jewels.

The pretty Ontario girl, whose home is at Fenelon Falls, Ont., told police that when she met Dennis in the Palladium dance-hall he told her his name was Jerome McKay and that he was a graduate of McGill University.

"I went to Toronto college and we had a lot to talk about," she said.

She told police she came to California to regain her health.

"I grew very run down and nervous while teaching in the sixth grade in Toronto."

Police have charged her with suspicion of burglary.

Denying she knew anything of Dennis' alleged burglaries, she said: "I never went to the society parties where they told me Jerry went to get a view of the jewelry he later stole. That was a world I know nothing about."

No More Dosing For Constipation

Famous cereal frees women from harsh laxatives

Searching desperately for constipation relief? Then read this unsolicited letter:

"For 10 years even strong medicines couldn't help me. At last my doctor in England advised KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. I began to eat this breakfast cereal and soon realized I was better. I eat ALL-BRAN regularly now and can definitely say I am free from constipation!" (Name given on request).

You, too, may never have to take another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. Just eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily—and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative, but a wholesome regulating cereal. Eat as a cereal, or in muffins for constipation relief. If after using one package you are not entirely satisfied, get double your money back as guaranteed on the package. Buy delicious ALL-BRAN from your grocer. Made by Kellogg's of London, Ontario.

Scout and Guide Week Starts At Christ Church

Scout and Guide week commenced at Christ Church on Sunday with a church parade of the Wolf Cubs, Boy Scouts and Girl Guides sponsored by that congregation. The Guides were in charge of Captain Audrey Stewart, the Scouts were under the leadership of Scout Master Eric Smith, and the Wolf Cubs were led by their Akela, Mrs. Kemp. The first lesson was read by Troop Leader Kenneth Moore and the second lesson by Patrol Leader, Joanne Atkinson. The Scout Group of this congregation is chaired by Mr. Cecil Moore and is unique in as much as at the present time they are six King Scouts in the Troop.

The service was in charge of the rector, Reverend Rural Dean J. Grant Sparling, who was assisted by Lay Reader George Meades. In the sermon which was preached from the text, "An enemy hath done this", Mr. Sparling spoke of the impact Marxian Communism would make on the city of Belleville, and the freedom of its citizens, if it ever were permitted to get a foothold. The atheistic city and civilization were vividly portrayed and the congregation was cautioned regarding the menace. The preacher declared that when people did their duty to God, a social order was produced where the seeds of Communism would never take root, because the Christian civilization was absorbing all the life of the social soil.

How Marriage Problems Arise

Toronto, Feb. 21. (CP)—The romantic idea of the "One and Only" in marriage was given a jolt by Dr. Rudolph Dreikurs of Chicago, marriage counsellor and psychiatrist, during the weekend.

In a lecture series sponsored by Toronto's Marriage Education Institute, Dr. Dreikurs said a man or woman who can get along with other persons can make a success of marriage with any one of a number of people.

Many problems of marriage are caused when neither husband nor wife will yield in a quarrel. Just as bad, says Dr. Dreikurs, are the persons who yield only to show how noble they are.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

West Huntingdon.—The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Church at West Huntingdon, met at the home of Mrs. Donald Haggerty and Mrs. Richard Haggerty on Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance of the members also several visitors.

With the president presiding, the call to worship was given by reading a poem entitled "Your Place".

The Scriptures were read by Mrs. Wm. Shaw and were found in St. Mark 5.

Two readings, were read, and centred around the theme "Take time to be Holy", the titles of which were "Take Time to be Alone" and "Ministry of Intercession".

Mrs. Bill Donnan sang the hymn "Love Lifted Me", which was enjoyed and appreciated.

Mrs. Morley Haggerty presented an interesting program on the third chapter of the study book on "Formosa".

The work of the Home Mission Field among the Chinese in Vancouver, B.C., was told by Mrs. Harry Thompson. Mrs. Walker offered prayer on behalf of the workers and Chinese there.

A short business session took place during which plans were made to quilt two quilts for the Presbyterial bale.

Speaking in appreciation to the hostess on behalf of all those present, Mrs. Harry Thompson extended thanks for her kind hospitality.

Mrs. Haggerty and her assistant the meeting adjourned.

2ND THURLOW

Teacher, Pupils Entertain Parents At Social Party

2nd Thurlow—A very enjoyable social evening was held at S.S. No. 4 Thurlow on Friday night, Feb. 11, when Miss Thompson and pupils entertained parents and friends to a euchre party.

While the euchre was in progress, Messrs. Maurice Dent and Ralph Woods took the pupils for a sleigh drive.

After their return, they played crokinole, bingo, and other games. Later a suitable program was enjoyed. Mr. Glenn McCue acted as chairman.

The pupils note books were on display which along with the program, showed the marked progress the pupils have made during the year.

Prizes for euchre were given as follows: ladies' 1st, Mrs. Bankey, Consolation, Mrs. J. Milne. Ladies playing as men, 1st Mrs. W. Moncrief, who donated her prize to Messrs. Dent and Woods, who drove the pupils for the sleighdrive. Consolation, Mrs. Davis.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. A vote of thanks was tendered Miss Thompson and pupils and the men who drove the sleighs by Mrs. E. Leeming, seconded by A Mitchell.

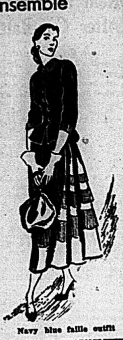
WILL SUPPLY BOND

Fort Erie, Feb. 21 (CP)— A $1,000 surety bond for Police Chief Percy Mark will likely be supplied by the Crystal Beach Property Owners' Association, an official of the group said yesterday. The village council of nearby Crystal Beach recently suspended Chief Mark for five days when the bonding company cancelled his bond.

Three Piece Ensemble



Navy blue faille outfit

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

NAVY BLUE TISSUE faille gets together with belting ribbon for a delightful three-piece Spring costume. The jacket is snug, belling out over the hips. It has a tiny collar and five-eighth length sleeves with a belt ribbon edge. Under the jacket is a separate cap sleeved low necked blouse of the tissue faille. The skirt is full from the belting ribbon waistband, and graduated folds of the ribbon trim the skirt.

Sleep Produced By Electricity

Bristol, Eng. (CP) — Anaesthetics now used for operations may be superseded by a new electrical method of inducing artificial sleep evolved by United Kingdom scientists. Experts at the Burden Neurological Institute have carried out operations on animals, after inducing unconsciousness by subjecting them to electrical impulses.

These impulses resemble those generated by the human brain for the purpose of producing slumber. Dr. Walter, who is in charge of the experiments, has successfully applied this new technique on himself. He said that he experienced a pleasant drowsiness. "I did not go into a deep sleep, but when I was pinched or pricked with needles the pain was not so sharp as if I had been normally awake. The brain generates an electrical impulse when one desires sleep. It is that impulse we are striving accurately to imitate."

Complete anaesthesia was not induced during Dr. Walter's tests on himself. They indicated that research was being conducted on the right lines but showed that the exact power generated by his brain to produce sleep had not been accurately matched.

One of the great advantages of this new discovery is that the patient can be awakened immediately the operation is over. All that is required is for the surgeon to switch off the current producing the necessary electrical impulses. There is also a complete absence of the nauseating effects which usual anaesthetics cause in some patients.

Experiments are now sufficiently advanced to suggest that this electrical sleep may be safely used in the near future for minor operations and for dentistry.

O.S.D. Students Will Bring Fairy Tale to Life

How we all remember with pleasure the happy days when we were little tots and we begged to be told a 'real' fairy story — Cinderella, Jack and the Beanstalk, Goldilocks, and many others. One of those 'many others,' Hansel and Gretel, will come to life at the Ontario School for the Deaf this week for those who can still give a reminiscent sigh when someone says, "Once upon a time there was . . ."

On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, February 22 and 23, the students will present the story of Hansel and Gretel in three short acts. The parts are very convincingly played by students in the intermediate and senior departments. Mr. Alec Gordon who has been associated with musical and dramatic productions in the city for many years is directing the play. An added attraction will be a ladies' chorus under the direction of Miss Leona Riggs, who will sing several numbers from Humperdinck's opera 'Hansel and Gretel.'

In addition to the play, there will be two numbers by the Rhythm Band, a folk dance by intermediate students, and a quartet of 'deaf' singers.

An opportunity to contribute to the Pupils' Benefit Fund will be provided the audience at the door. This fund is used to provide additional clothing for less fortunate students.

Interesting Tales Of City Related To Club Women

The University Women's Club held its February meeting at the home of Mrs. D. C. Amos, Bridge Street, with Miss Grout, the president, presiding.

The speaker of the evening, Miss Stewart Masson who was introduced by Mrs. H. V. Graham, gave an interesting talk on "Tales of Belleville Told to Me."

Miss Masson began her series of anecdotes with that of the only Belleville lady presented at the Court of Queen Victoria, and showed the shoes that had been worn on that occasion. These were of fine, black kid, with extreme Louis heels. The front panel had been cut into twelve tiny straps which had to be laced together with a ribbon and size 3 1-2 there were later modelled by Mrs. Thornbury.

Her next story was that of the little tombstone, and its mystery, in St. Thomas' graveyard, which had been dedicated to the memory of the infant daughter of the Baron de Rottenburg. Who was the Baron? Nobody knew. Bit by bit over a number of years it came to light that he had been an officer attached to the English army in the early part of the nineteenth century. While stationed here, he married Louisa Ridley of Belleville.

Walked to Montreal

There were tales of Captain Myers, U.E. Loyalist, and founder of the first Masonic Lodge here. To get the necessary papers for this he had to walk to Montreal.

Captain Myers owned a remarkable cane—he had only to pull on the crook and a sword emerged. His daughter married a Mr. Bleecker.

Then there were stories of citizens who had been knighted for their work —Sir Gilbert Parker, the noted novelist and Sir Francis Lynn, the engineer, who was given his title because of his work, when the base at Singapore was first built.

There was also some talk regarding some priceless antiques which had been offered to Belleville in 1937, by a former resident, and which had not yet been accepted.

Mrs. H. R. Park extended a very warm vote of thanks to Miss Masson for an unusually interesting evening, after which the members adjourned to the dining room for coffee and cake, and to talk over the tales of Belleville and to tell Miss Masson again how much she had charmed her listeners with them.

MARMORA

Marmora — Mr. Joseph Scott celebrated his 77th. birthday on Tuesday, February 8th. The Sunday following, members of his family were present at his home, including Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McFarlin, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meiklejohn, of Campbellford, and Mr. Gordon Scott.

Mrs. Henry Melville, of Havelock, was a recent visitor with Mrs. Ida Nichol.

Misses Filda Hannah, student nurse at Belleville General Hospital, and Irish Hannah, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hannah.

Marmora Chapter, I.O.D.E., held their annual dinner at the Royal Hotel on Wednesday evening. 34 members were presents. Mrs. J. Grant Sparling, of Belleville, was the guest speaker.

Mrs. Thomson will be the hostess for March with Mrs. Pack taking the study period.

Plans were discussed for the C.G.I.T. affiliation service which will take place next Tuesday in the church, also mention was made of the World's Day of Prayer in March.

Born — In Belleville General Hospital on Friday, February 11th., to Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McAuley (nee Grace Prentice), a daughter, Barbara Gail.

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

Marmora — St. Andrew's W. M. S. held the February meeting at the home of Mrs. H. W. Sabine on Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. H. C. Barlow, presiding. The icy roads and illness of several members cut the attendance down. Mrs. Barlow conducted the worship and business periods.

Mrs. Pack read the minutes of the previous meeting and the roll call. Mrs. G. Jarvis gave the financial report which was very satisfactory. The number of calls made and number of books read were taken.

It was decided to pack a bale for European relief as a number of articles were already on hand.

Mrs. Young and Mrs. Pack dealt with the chapter in the Study Book in a most interesting way.

COLORING HARMLESS

Watford, Feb. 21 (CP)— Tap water in this Lambton County village turned murky last week and caused a lot of housewives to postpone their washing. Officials said the coloring was harmless and resulted from sediment in storage tanks which was stirred up by the draining of high pressure tanks.

Women Clever Agents in Schemes Used by Maquis to Deceive Nazis

St. Boniface, Man. (CP)—Women made good undercover agents in the French resistance during the Second World War, says Capt. Guy D'Artois.

He told the St. Boniface Kiwanis Club that the Germans in occupied France were always suspicious of men. The spectacle of two men talking together was considered a plot; three men together a riot.

"But where a man and woman were seen together, no questions were asked."

The favorite way of transporting ammunition to the resistance movement "was hiding it in a baby carriage." A woman agent could push the carriage down the street "right under the nose of the Germans."

Capt. D'Artois himself parachuted into France before the invasion of Normandy to help organize the Maquis resistance. He posed as a French wine merchant.

Capt. D'Artnois' wife went to France five days after her husband and she also worked with the resistance movement. She was formerly Sonia Butt, French-speaking daughter of Group Capt. I. A. Butt of the R.A.F.

The secret of being a good spy was to be nonchalant, he said. He now commands the Special Air Service company at the Rivers, Man., joint air school.

Spy Should Be Sloppy

"Never have your papers in perfect shape,' he said. "That always makes them suspicious. Be a little bit sloppy."

Members of the resistance movement played many pranks on the Nazis. Railway shipments would be tampered with. Submarine parts destined for Marseilles would turn up at Paris. The port city would get nylons for Paris.

"If the Gestapo caught you, there wasn't much hope. Very few ever got away. Agents who were caught always tried to hold out for 24 hours to allow their comrades to go into hiding."

Capt. D'Artois said he preferred the life of an agent to serving in a tank or submarine. One become philosophical about the possibility of capture or death.

The Canadian army officer achieved post-war fame for his part in the rescue of Canon John Turner, Anglican missionary, from his lonely Arctic outpost at Moffet Inlet. Canon Turner died later of a wound suffered in a hunting accident.

For his part in the rescue, Capt. D'Artois was awarded the George Medal.

Prince Georg of Denmark Puts Business Ahead of Romance

By RICHARD TOMPKINS

London, (AP)—It is strictly business before pleasure or even romance, with young Prince Georg of Denmark.

The girls may be after this highly eligible, 28-year-old bachelor, but he's not after the girls. London's top royal society is like water on a duck's back to him.

And when it comes to romance —his name has been linked with a famous princess—he's not talking at all.

He puts his work—as acting military attache at the Danish embassy—even ahead of royal functions.

There was speculation at the time of Princess Elizabeth's wedding concerning a possible romance between this prince of Denmark and Princess Margaret. He was her partner at the bridesmaid's wedding night dance.

The prince won't even be questioned on the rumors. At the time of the wedding he denied them. When he is asked about them now he is mum. His friends answer for him with an emphatic "no". They go on to say:

"He is not thinking of marrying. He is quite happy as a bachelor."

Prince Georg himself says: "I would like to follow my military career. I shall stay in London as long as the Danish office keeps me here. I made no request to be posted here."

Combines Duties

Georg explains that his father, Prince Axel—first cousin of late King Christian, second cousin of present King Frederik—once was a merchant ship's captain and a submarine officer. He is now managing director of the East Asiatic Company.

The young prince is a chip off the paternal block. His career is the army, and he intends to follow it. He represents his family, when called upon, at court doings, but he will not exercise any royal prerogative nor give his life to crown circles.

His job here has been mainly making arrangements for the return of Danish volunteers in the British army to their homes. Originally there were about 5,000. There are only a few hundred left. He also is studying military equipment and army training methods.

When war ended the prince found himself unexpectedly in Oslo with an unofficial party, taking an official bow. The story, not generally known, is told by an official Danish spokesman:

Prince Georg, who had taken an active part in Danish resistance work, joined a party of underground workers who took off for Oslo on May 8, 1945, the day the Germans capitulated in Norway. The party was the first Allied representatives to arrive in the Norwegian capital.

German officers at Oslo airfield, mistaking the group for the official Allied mission, surrendered to the underground group. Prince Georg stood on the balcony of the Grand Hotel with the underground group, receiving the enthusiastic welcome given the Allied party by the people of Oslo.

LIFT IN FULL OPERATION

Mrs. Dean Acheson A Talented Artist

By MARIENNE IZSAK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York (CP) — Mrs. Dean Acheson, wife of the United States secretary of State, is a dual personality.

Few know that besides being Mrs. Dean Gooderham Acheson, sedate and dignified hostess at her husband's formal parties, she is Alice Acheson, artist.

And she's independent too. She has leaned over backward to avoid any comment on her art which is made merely because her husband is famous.

"Any true art must stand on its own merits," she says.

"If I let anything that my husband does add anything to an art form which I am attempting to create, I wouldn't be creating anything truly artistic. Besides, I would be creating unfair competition for other artists whose struggle to get along is hard enough as it is."

The love of art runs in Mrs. Acheson's family. Her mother and her father's father were painters.

But art was never allowed by Mrs. Acheson to interfere with the upbringing of two daughters and a son, all of whom now are married. Only now does she feel she can devote most of her free time to painting.

She is known among her friends as a quiet, conservative woman but her sense of levity, exhibited on rare occasions, is patent on her canvas. Critics agree that her work shows humor.

Some of her paintings have sold for as much as $200 and Washington critics, at least have evinced interest in her output.

The Social Duties of a Chaperon at a Prom

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be a chaperon at my daughter's high school Prom. Will you please tell me what I am required to do? —M.M.M.

Your duties as chaperon at the Prom .. and really chaperons at a dance of this type are more patronesses than chaperons —are more or less those of a hostess as well as a guest. You make every effort to be dressed appropriately and becomingly. You receive all introductions with a gracious and friendly "How do you do." You say warm greetings to the boys and girls you know, and make pleasant comments about the occasion. Since it is not at all unusual, as you know, for young people of that age to be shy and self-conscious, you should have a supply of small talk to keep the conversations moving smoothly and happily. There may or may not be a receiving line .. if there is, you greet each guest with a friendly "How do you do" or "Good evening" or "How nice to see you, Frances". You may or may not be asked to dance .. probably will if the boys know you like to dance. When the guests take their leave they are expected to come to say good-bye and thank you to each chaperon — and here is another chance for you to show your friendliness and graciousness.

Problems That Arise in Wedding Plans

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several questions, please, concerning the plans for my daughter's wedding. (1) When we decide whether the wedding is to be at four or seven o'clock, should I telephone to the groom's mother and tell her what to wear? (2) After the reception would it be correct for the groom to change at the bride's house from his formal wedding attire to his travelling suit? (3) I would like to have a minister from another church make a toast to the bride. (He is a close friend of the family.) Would this be correct? (4) If I decide to have a catering service, do they supply the silverware, china, linen, and so forth? And do they also do the serving? —M.F.

(1) Yes, you should get in touch with the groom's mother, tell her the plans so far, tell her what you are to wear, and graciously suggest the type of costume for her. If you tell her you are planning to wear a "long dress" she will, or should, take it for granted that she would wear a long dress. And then it is important to plan with each other what colors will harmonize for your dresses. (2) Yes. (3) Yes. After the best man has made the first toast, the important one to the "bride and groom", it is proper for anyone who wishes to make a toast to the bride or to the couple. (4) Yes .. a catering service is equipped to take over all plans, for food, beverages, if you wish, all or any items of equipment, and all the service. They will give you a definite estimate.

Very Young Sister as Maid of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be entirely correct for a bride to have her only sister, who is thirteen years of age but tall for her age, to act as her maid of honr? —R.F.A.

Yes; this is correct.

Sentimental Ornaments

By PRUNELLA WOOD

EVERY DAY is Valentine's day for some lucky girl, and if she wants to carry a token of the day about with her here is an inexpensive set of costume jewelry which will serve sentiment with chic.

Necklace, earrings and bracelet are of heart shaped links, gold plated, and simulated rhinestones sparkle among the hearts. The set was designed by a famous maker of costume jewelry who usually goes in for trifles which look like the real heirloom thing, hence this good design.

Abolish Stork and Plan to Tell Facts of Sex Adroitly, Frankly

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

London, Feb. 21. (AP) — Heads of schools administered by the London County Council have decided to abolish the stork.

The Education Committee has resolved, after 35 years of thought, to resume sex instruction. Teachers are encouraged to tell the facts, adroitly but frankly.

The committee suggested a start should be made when the children are as young as five years. By 12 or 13, numerous authorities say, an adequate and factual knowledge should have been acquired so gradually and in such a routine manner that sex may be regarded as a natural thing without mystery.

Sex hygiene has not been taught since 1914 as a class subject in London's public elementary schools. Now that there has been a turn of policy, the charge of attitude has aroused osme opposition. Other British communities have followed London's lead and at Maltby, near Sheffield, there has been vigorous protest against sex education.

A mother, Mrs. Jessie Tallantire, objected to instruction given to her teen-aged daughter and obtained some hundreds of signatures to a petition of protest. An active committee is organizing opposition under the slogan, 'end the facts-of-life lectures."

Educationists expected some opposition, and agreed to excuse children for sex education if parents object in specific cases.

Long thought has convinced many heads of London schools that a mistake in previous efforts at sex education was to make sex a "special" subject, singled out for segregated and even secret instruction. The new London idea is that sex must march along with arithmetic, botany and Latin grammar as another fact about which a child must be informed.

Fashion Flashes

TAKE IT NEAT is the slogan for hats designed for general wea.r. Putty-colored felt is used for a small, side-tilted sailor, the brim obliterated by a swirled, stiffened band of Capuchin brown grosgrain ribbon. At the side back is a "palm tree" stick-up of iridescent coq feathers.

THE RUSTLE of Spring is taffeta, judging from the acceptance that this fabric is receiving. Soft violet silk taffeta is used for a pretty afternoon dress, a one-piece model with winged collar, deep V-neckline, medium length sleeves and a handkerchief-pointed slanting overskirt.

FIRST DANCE DRESS should be a dream dress. Very dreamy is a youthful dance dress of white net. The bodice has a draped neckline that continues into little off-shoulder sleeves. The full skirt is embroidered in flower clusters and festoons in tiny shimmering sequins. There is a powdering of sequins on the bodice.

NO END of a style in the new cottons. Crisp pique, in deep lemon yellow, is used for a neat little dress and bolero. Matching ball fringe edges the curved line of the short bolero and sleeves and also appears on the slanting hip-pockets.

A NEW PARTNERSHIP in glove materials is that of suede and nylon. A pretty afternoon glove, a slip-on, has fourchettes of transparent black nylon net and there is a double ruffle cuff of fthe nylon net in pale nude and black.

A BIG REVIVAL will be that of the fine town coat in ribbed silk fabrics such as silk faille, silk repp and ottoman. Ribbed silk faille is used for a handsome coat, a full length model, slim of skirt, tiny of waist, full of skirt. The gathered, draped collar has two bows that are slipped through buttonholes at the front. Self belt with square buckle. Slanting pockets in hip folds of skirt fabric.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

CULTIVATING VOCAL CHARM

Loveliness should be heard as well as seen. Don't forget that people have ears as well as eyes, and that the voice reflects personality. A sweet voice radiates joy and health, has warm, attractive qualities; it is as much an element of beauty as the dazzling complexion, the chic hair-do, the svelte figure.

Shakespeare said that a soft, gentle voice is an excellent thing in woman. A charming voice can create an illusion of beauty. If a girl is nice to listen to, we get the impression that she is nice to look at. Even the dumbest man is sensitive to the sound of a woman's speaking voice, as are children — yes, and dogs.

The mother who lifts her voice in anger to her youngsters is doing them a grave injustice. She is disturbing their delicate nervous system. Maybe she thinks she is the only one in the family who has nerves. If mama shouts, baby will shout. Baby hear, baby do. Mama should ever be an example of good manners and polite behaviour.

A high, shrill voice is a personality liability. There is no sense in it, no reason for it. It isn't like an inherited good looks defect; it is self-inflicted —merely a matter of pitching the voice too high, using too much volume.

A common error is to give strong emphasis to a word, then trail off into a mumble. Some of our stage favorites have that bad habit. It is to be deplored, as their audiences cannot always catch the fainter expressions.

For voice control, take a deep breath, inhale, then say "ah" with a long sigh. Then start ot talk, using that same "ah" tone, making it a little louder, then softening it back to the first tone. You are running the conversational scales, getting exercise and good practice. Progress from loud to soft, from soft to loud again.

The secret is, of course, to keep the voice pitched low, yet to enunciate clearly. Some women's voices become high and shrill when they are nervous or excited or when they talk rapidly. All of which is ruinous to poise and charm. It just isn't pretty.

The voice that has a personal interest tone is pleasant, friendly, cordial, cheerful and — if occasion offers — gay. You may have observed that there are many ways of saying hello. The tone can express pleasure, suspicion or it can say plainly, "And what do you want?"

Whiners are pests and it is surprising how many women are given to that disgusting habit. Their voices are a dead giveaway; they are lacking in spirit, they are selfish, epecting others always to be doing for them.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

Angela scratched her ear meditatively and wondered how she could say what she had come to say. Janet had been pretty serious about Angela's doing something. "She's too sweet for that sort of thing, Angel and since you're a good friend, why don't you open her eyes."

Angela was not one to trespass where trespassing was not invited. She tried again. "I've never met him but, of course, every one knows him.."

"Oh, yes, the Minturns are an old Bermuda family."

"Have you met any of the others?" Angela asked casually.

"Not yet. Charles hasn't any immediate relatives."

"Oh, hasn't he!" Angela said smartly. "Well . there are always Minturns around and you'll probably meet some this afternoon."

"Tell me about this party we are going to."

"You'll see for yourself. This is the farewell party given by the officers of H.M.S. Ulysses. Very formal but gay. Lots of attractive young officers and all that sort of thing. I wish you'd take that dreadful net off your hair. You look like a child playing Mrs. Grown-up."

Rosalie said, "But, darling I think it fits my mood."

"Okay, so long as it's only a mood. We'd better be getting along."

When Rosalie saw the girls who were at the wharf to go over in the tender, she wished that she had worn something gay. Or that Charles were with her. Charles liked old-fashioned girls. He would have seen how different she was from the others.

But when they came to the ship and she saw the gala flags and the colored lights, and heard the dance music, and saw the gleaming gold on the dark blue of the officers' uniforms, she did not think of Charles. It was all too much like a scene out of Pinafore and she was enchanted.

Angela seemed to know every one. She wanted Rosalie to know every one. Rosalie soon found herself surrounded with young men. Would she like to dance? Would she have another cocktail? Had she met the captain?

What Rosalie would like to do would be to slip away and find a dressing room where she could take off the hair net and comb out her curls. She confided that to one of the navy wives.

"Commander Knowles' cabin, my dear. Third on the left. We girls are using that for a dressing room."

Rosalie opened the door and found there was another girl there. She wasn't a girl .. she was forty-ish —Rosalie saw when she looked at her a second time. She looked because the other woman sat disconsolately on the side of the commander's bed, eyes filled with tears and the ruffle of a wholly improper sort of dress for such a party caught in her hard. She looked like an elderly child.

"What's the matter?" Rosalie asked sympathetically.

"My dress," the woman wailed. "Why did I wear it? I haven't been out anywhere in such a long time. I knew something would happen if I came today."

Rosalie wondered if she should ask her what dreadful thing had happened. "Did you have an accident?" she asked.

"Of course! But it's all my fault. I just have no heart for parties. I don't think you should go to parties when you don't really throw yourself into them, do you?"

Rosalie thought several things but all she said was, "I suppose not. Why did you come?"

"One can't live by oneself all the time. One gets very lonesome."

Rosalie sat down beside her.

The woman said, "But go back my dear, and enjoy yourself. I do try most of the time to be bright and cheery, and not break down this way. Please forgive me. I'm rather a nervous wreck."

Rosalie looked into the fading pretty face. She said, "Let's see what we can do with that ruffle and then you come back with me. They're dancing on deck."

"I've forgotten how to dance. I was married very young but my husband didn't like dancing, so I've forgotten how."

"Never mind, you'll soon pick it up again and maybe your husband will find he likes it better now."

Fresh tears spilled out of the cornflower blue eyes. "It's too late," she said.

Rosalie examined the torn ruffle. "If we had a couple of baby safety pins we could fix it up so that you wouldn't trip over it."

The other woman laughed suddenly and Rosalie saw how quickly the traces of tears disappeared. She had a thrilling girlish laugh that was pleasant to hear. It was very pleasant to Rosalie who was beginning to think she had a problem on her hands.

She laughed, too—with relief. "What's so funny about that?"

"I was thinking how funny it would be to expect to find baby safety pins on an English battleship."

Rosalie said, "Well, lacking that, I can only suggest tearing off his part."

"Oh, no, this dress is one of my husband's favorites. But I have some safety pins," the surprising woman said surprisingly. She fumbled in a large, handsome purse, tumbling banknotes —many of them — and many feminine contents onto the bed. "Here they are," she said triumphantly.

Rosalie took three little pins, noting that they were gold, and pinned the ruffle firmly into place. "There, how's that?"

"Thank you so much. It's perfect. I'm glad I carried those pins. I've carried them in my purse ever since my children were babies.

Rosalie turned to attend to her own repairs, whipping the net off and curling her hair around her fingers until she made a soft roll at the back of her neck. Charles wasn't here to see.

She said conversationally. "You have children?"

"Two. Angels!"

The woman's face was really beautiful at that moment. All her love for her children shone in her eyes.

Rosalie said sincerely, "How nice! I adore children. My brother has two fat little lambs, real babies. I miss them as though they were my own. When I get home the baby will be walking and she already says a few words. She's only eleven months old."

"I must show you pictures of my children." Again the banknotes and handkerchiefs and the compacts tumbled onto the bed. "Here .. this is Cecily and this is John."

Rosalie was anxious to get back to the party. She looked at the pictures. "Lovely," she said. "I'd like to see them."

"Would you really?" There was gratitude in the mother's voice. "Will you come to lunch with me tomorrow? You'll find me in the telephone book. Mrs. Halsey Minturn."

Rosalie swallowed hard. Mrs. Halsey Minturn? Why, I'd love to." So she was meeting another Minturn!

Janet said, "Do we have the pleasure of your company at the dance at the Coral Island Club tonight, Miss Bates, or are you retiring into the wonders of the Glacial Age this evening?"

"I'm going with you, Janet. In fact, I've asked Luther Kane to go along."

"Why don't you get Charles to take his feet out of the past and stir them up with a little truckin'? I think he needs something like that."

"I think he's just dandy the way he is," Rosalie answered.

The two girls were in their twin beds in Janet's room. Rosalie had moved over there because it was so much easier for them to talk over their day's programs.

"Incidentally, Rosalie, you'll have this whole place to yourself for a couple of days, if you want to ask any one in to stay with you. I've got to go out to Tucker's town and pay my respects to my madien aunt until Saturday."

"I'll see if Angela's going to be in Hamilton for any reason. She might want to stay. What time is it, Jan?"

"About nine. How about a swim this morning?"

"I don't think I'll have time. I have an early luncheon date. Twelve o'clock."

"You're not having lunch here?" Janet didn't mean to be impolite, but she'd got accustomed to having Charles Minturn turn up for lunch daily.

"No, this time I'm going out to Paget, to lunch with a lady I met at the ship party yesterday.

"Aren't you the one!" Janet chided. "Is she such a lady that she didn't tell you her name?"

Rosalie was conscious that it was rude of her not to have told Janet the woman's name at once, but she didn't want Janet to know that the only reason she was going was that she wanted to find out all she could about the Minturns. About Charles.

She said, "She is Mrs. Halsey Minturn."

Janet said, "My sainted aunt!"

Rosalie said quickly, "I know she's a peculiar person, but she's rather pathetic, and she's so proud of her children. She simply melted into a Madonna when she talked about them."

"What else did she say?" Janet asked with a voice that sounded slightly strangled.

"I said I'd like to see them. She was so eager that I should that the first thing I knew I found myself saying I would come to lunch today .. of course, I know all about her, but what could I do?"

Janet sat up in bed — Janet was rather shot up, so to speak—and said, with round eyes, "You .. did I understand you to say that you knew all about her?"

"Certainly," Rosalie said blandly.

"And .. and .." Janet seemed to be having trouble saying the right thing. "..you know about her husband?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, a very complete picture!" Rosalie said softly.

As Rosalie was dressing, Janet contributed, "If I were you, I'd wear shin guards, from all I hear about the Minturn brats. Or can you bite back?"

"I can do almost anything that's required of me," Rosalie assured her impressively.

"You're telling me?"

"And besides I get along very well with children," Rosalie said lightly.

Gambling Leafs Hit Victory Column Twice, Close to Within Point of Second-Place Bruins

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Rough play in the National Hockey League blazed again Sunday night and sent Toronto's Vic Lynn to hospital with a badly-gashed head and a possible skull fracture.

Lynn, 24-year-old forward, was hit over the head with the blade of Red Hamill's stick in a penalty studded game that saw Toronto take advantage of Chicago Black Hawks sentences to win, 4-3. The victory lifted Toronto to within one point of second place, now held by Boston Bruins. Leafs whipped Boston 5-2 Saturday night.

Lynn and Hamill mixed along the boards in the second period Sunday night and after big Red's blow, Lynn dropped on his face and was taken to hospital.

Hamill drew a match penalty from Referee Bill Chadwick and League President Clarence Campbell, who was in the Chicago audience, indicated the Hawk forward may be fined and suspended for one game.

In the third period, Ben Guidolin of the Black Hawks drew three penalties—a minor for slashing and two misconducts for arguing with Chadwick.

Scored Three in Second

Toronto in the second period scored three vital goals while Chicago was short-handed. Chicago had taken a 2-0 lead earlier on goals by Gus Bodnar in the first and Roy Conacher in the second. Then, in less than four minutes of the second, Max Bentley, Jim Thomson and Howie Meeker blasted in counters. In the finale, Ted Kennedy scored for Toronto and Ralph Nattrass for Chicago.

In addition to Lynn's injury, Toronto had the bad fortune to lose Meeker, who suffered a possible foot bone fracture on the play in which he scored. Meeker returned to action only last week after missing 20 games with a fractured shoulder.

These mishaps came after Toronto's wild Bill Ezinicki received a knee injury in Saturday's victory over Boston that will keep him on the sidelines for two weeks.

Elsewhere in the N.H.L. during the weekend, the last-place New York Rangers rose from a 3-1 drubbing Saturday by the fourth-place Montreal Canadiens to whip the Habs 3-2 Sunday and moved within a point of fifth place Chicago.

Score Three Sunday

Alex Kaleta, Edgar Laprade and Dunc Fisher counted Sunday night for the Rangers while Elmer Lach and Joe Carveth scored for Montreal.

In Saturday night's game, the red-hot Kenny Mosdell scored twice in the third period for Montreal while Roger Leger got the third Canuck goal. Clint Albright fired in the lone New York marker.

Joe Klukay, Ted Kennedy and Max Bentley scored in that order for Toronto before Boston could reply Saturday night. After Milt Schmidt made it 2-1 for the Bruins, Bentley racked up his second. Paul Ronty came back for Boston but Toronto had too much on the ball and Harry Watson banged in the Leafs' fifth marker with less than two minutes to go.

The scheduled Detroit-Boston game Sunday night was postponed because of an ice show in the Detroit arena and will be played tonight.

O.R.F.U. Will Continue In Senior Series

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—The Ontario Rugby Football Union, Canada's oldest football league and one of the three groups challenging annually for the Dominion championship, Saturday officially recorded its determination to continue with its senior series no matter whether Hamilton Tigers go ahead with their proposed withdrawal.

At the union's 67th annual meeting here Saturday, representatives of the senior teams, taking cognizance of reports of negotiations between the Tigers and Hamilton Wildcats of the Big Four union on a possible amalgamation, emphasized they would operate with three clubs if the two Hamilton teams get together to operate in the Big Four.

Jack Langs, president of the Tigers, told the meeting that the negotiations still are proceeding but it was possible nothing would come of them and the Tigers would remain in the O.R.F.U. to comprise a four-team group with Sarnia Imperials, Toronto Balmy Beach and Windsor Rockets.

The delegates turned down a request by Warren Bolton of Windsor that the Tigers' officials name a definite date on which to say whether Hamilton would remain or withdraw from the union. Instead Langs will report within two weeks to Secretary Harold Bailey and the other senior teams on the status of the negotiations.

Dispels Rumors

Bolton, disclosing that Windsor had new financial backing, dispelled rumors that the Rockets might withdraw because of another poor season last year.

A proposal by William A. Fry that the C.R.U. be urged to recognize intermediate football and sanction an eastern and Dominion final was adopted.

Ted Reeve of Toronto and Norm Perry of Sarnia were chosen to represent the O.R.F.U. annual meeting. Perry was also named to act for the union on the C.R.U. executive.

Three Toronto men were elected to the O.R.F.U executive. Harry Addison was chosen as president, Don Downey, vice-president, and Harold Bailey was re-elected as secretary-treasurer.

At a dinner following the meeting Frank Filchock, playing-coach of the Tigers, was presented with the Imperial Oil Trophy and a sterling silver tray by W. R. MacAllister of Toronto for being voted the outstanding player in the O.R.F.U. last season. Filchock last week signed to play with Montreal Alouettes in the Big Four next season.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The first Badminton tournament of this section of Ontario is scheduled for next Friday and Saturday when clubs from Oshawa to Kingston will be represented in the annual tournament of the Eastern Ontario Badminton Association. Clubs from Oshawa, Peterborough, Lindsay, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Belleville and Kingston will be here comprising some ninety players.

• • •

Elimination games will get under way on Friday night and will continue on Saturday afternoon. Finals will be played Saturday night. The tournament is being sponsored by the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club. Visiting players will be guests of the officers of the 9th Anti Tank RCA Regiment at a party to be held following the championships. Winners of the tourney will be invited to take part in the provincial badminton championships being held in Toronto in the near future.

• • •

Merrily the Belleville Rockets and Diesels roll along the various group trails and right now it is a safe guess that both teams will finish their respective schedules undefeated. Diesels disposed of their most serious threat on Friday night when they defeated the Kingston Nylons 8-6 in the Jock Harty Arena to record their eighth straight victory. The vaunted scoring power of the Catlin-Partis-Gerow line lauded to high heaven as the best scoring trio in these parts was nullified by the Diesel line of Barrett-MacDonald and Wardaugh and the hard-checking Diesels defence.

• • •

According to reports from the game (we were yawning at the Rockets-Kingston Aces junior tilt here) the MacDonald, Barrett, Wardaugh trio can match stride for stride with the highly advertised Kingston "brigade" of Partis-Catlin-Gerow and even spot 'em a few yards. And they can do it going both ways. Keith MacDonald is by far one of the fastest skaters in these parts and we have seen the most of 'em in action. However, Nylons have plenty of strength even if their scoring aces were hogtied and rendered nearly impotent by the flashing Diesels trio.

• • •

Diesels were without the services of starry Al Meagher who is still battling Old Man Flu. Vern Geyer did not play in the third frame as he broke a skate in the previous period and no substitutes were available. The Trainmen have one more game to play in the regular schedule and that against Queen's. They should according to past performances take this game in their stride and complete the group schedule undefeated.

• • •

And then for the playoffs. Likely the finals will be played between the Diesels and Nylons and that should be a honey of a series. Kingston teams were always dangerous when the chips were down and with the group title at stake and the playdowns looming ahead, the Nylons might prove tough babies to dispose of.

• • •

Bob Strahan's Midget "B's" should tuck away the Eastern Ontario title in Port Hope tonight, weather and ice permitting when they take on the plucky Cobourg youngsters in the second of their goals to count series. The kids carry back a thirteen-goal lead and should experience little trouble in copping the series.

• • •

It's a trifle different with Ed Schieder's Rocket Juveniles. They too, trek to Port Hope to clash with the juveniles of that town in their second game. Port Hope defeated the local kids 6-3 here the other night to grab a three-goal series lead. The Rockets, however, are cocky and confident they can not only reduce that margin but come home with the series bacon. Eddie Schrieder figures his proteges can do just that thing. "Look at the Brockville series," he grinned in the Arena the other night. "You wise guys thought we could not take them. We did, didn't we?"

• • •

Tweed's starry little bantam team won the Eastern Ontario championship last week when they defeated the Napanee team 10-5 in their goals-to-count playdown round. The smart Tweed youngsters have defeated Madoc, Campbellford and Napanee in three rounds of playdown play and this week take on the Ajax squad in the fourth round.

• • •

Senior "B" teams in the Peterborough district are in the throes of group playoffs with the Petes Hockey Club meeting the Toronto Meteors in one bracket and the Legionnaires taking on Toronto Bells in the other. Should the Peterborough teams survive the semi-finals there should be some torrid tilts take place up in Perdueville. Seems as though there's keen rivalry existing between the two squads. In fact some of the boys, they tell us, are not speaking to one another. That should make for some neat pastiming.

• • •

Down in Rio de Janeiro they are constructing a $15,000,000 municipal stadium which they hope to have finished in time to stage the 1950 world's soccer championship.

The huge structure will have separate stadia for all major sports with the accent on soccer, one of the Brazilians' favorite events. The soccer stadium will seat 150,000 spectators and there also will be a covered court for basketball, volleyball, boxing and wrestling; a track and field arena; a covered tennis court and an open-air court.

WEEKEND STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Max Bentley, Toronto Centre, whose two goals helped Leafs chalk up a 5-2 victory over Boston Saturday.

Kenny Mosdell, Montreal pivotman, who also fired a pair of counters Saturday as Canadiens shaded New York 3-1.

Ted Kennedy and Cal Gardner, Toronto forwards, who each figured in two goals as Leafs edged Chicago 4-3 Sunday night.

Edgar Laprade, New York centre, who scored what proved to be the winning goal and assisted on another counter Sunday night as Rangers beat Canadiens 3-2.

Toronto Marlies In Playoff Spot Of Junior Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Marlboros took the spotlight during the weekend as they grabbed the last playoff spot in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series.

The league's regular schedule also wound up Saturday.

The Dukes moved into the sixth place by defeating Toronto St. Michael's College Majors 5-3 in a four-point tilt. The win sent them two points ahead of Guelph Biltmores.

In other junior 'A' games, standings weren't changed as the ninth place Galt Rockets downed the fifth - place Stratford Kroehlers 4-1 and the third-place Oshawa Generals bested the second-place Barrie Flyers 6-1.

In the only senior 'A' tilt, Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen defeated Hamilton Tigers 7-2 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final series. The Toronto - Owen Sound series, with Marlboros ahead 2-0, was not scheduled.

At Toronto, the Marlies had little trouble as they drove into a 3-1 lead in the first period, outscored the Irish 2-1 in the second and then kept them to one goal in the third.

Studded with Injuries

At Oshawa, the game was studded with injuries. Most serious was to Stan Long, ace defenceman for the Flyers, who suffered a shoulder separation early in the first period when he was dumped heavily while rounding the defence.

The Generals went ahead 1-0 in the first period, added two unanswered goals in the second and then outscored the Flyers 3-1 in the last period.

Dick Burton, Ted O'Connor, Louie Jankowski, Frank Sullivan, Hal Hooper, and Dusty Blair got singletons for Oshawa. Don Ashbee tallied for the Flyers.

At Galt, the Rockets turned in a good performance of back checking. The Kroehlers took an early lead in the first period when Bob Armstrong tallied when the Rockets were two men short. Then Galt went ahead on goals by Jack Lumley and George Ford.

The Rockets drove from a scoreless second period to notch two early in the third, Ken Broughton and Joe Kilbey taking the honors. In all, 15 penalties were meted out, eight going to Stratford.

At Waterloo, the Dutchmen forged into a 3-0 lead in the first period, added three more in the second and then were outscored 2-1 in the third. Displaying a neat passing style and exceptionally strong defensive work, the Dutchmen were back to their old form.

Mickey Roth and Bobby Bauer tallied two apiece for the Dutchmen. Art Hurst, Doug Verity, and Dick Behling followed up with one apiece. Murray Comfort and Johnny Conick scored for the Tigers.

CANADA PRODUCES SOME OF THE WORLD'S FINEST LUMBER

Canada has almost unlimited timber. From British Columbia fir to Maritime spruce her lumber is in demand throughout the world.

Why Seagram's sells Canada first

This is an adaptation of one of a series of advertisements designed by The House of Seagram to promote the prestige of Canada and help sell Canadian products to the markets of the world.

The campaign is appearing in magazines and newspapers published in various languages and circulated throughout the world. The peoples of many lands are told about the quality of Canadian products and see Canadian scenes illustrating these products.

The advertisements are in keeping with the belief of The House of Seagram that the future of each business enterprise in Canada is inextricably bound up in the future of Canada itself; and that it is in the interest of every Canadian manufacturer to help the sale of all Canadian products in foreign markets.

◆ ◆ ◆

A campaign such as this not only helps Canadian industries but also puts money in the pocket of every Canadian citizen. One dollar of every three we earn comes to us as a result of foreign trade. The more we can sell abroad the more prosperous we will be at home. It is with this objective that these advertisements are being produced and published throughout the world.

The House of Seagram

Suzanne Morrow Takes Over Title Held by Barbara

Ottawa, Feb. 21 (CP)— Viscount Alexander's date book probably is barren of sports events this week, and it's a pity because the Governor-General out-distances all-comers as Ottawa's No. 1 sports enthusiast. Take last week, for instance.

He put on a toque and high leather boots to cavort around his Rideau Hall Cricket Grounds with scores of snow shoers as the capital's first winter carnival in 18 years got going. He was one of the few civilians around to cheer the mushers.

It was the first time he had seen the colorful "shoers" slog through the snow. He was so impressed —and the snow-shoers so grateful of his patronage that they gave him a pair —he tried it out and stayed on his feet.

Saturday night, the Governor-General had a rinkside seat at the Canadian figure skating championships and after three hours as an interested spectator, presented trophies to the winning entries.

Miss Morrow Wins

The figure-skating, highlight of the week, saw Suzanne Morrow of Toronto take over the senior women's singles title in succession to Olympic champion Barbara Ann Scott who has joined professional ranks. The 18-year-old blonde skater who will represent Canada in the North American championships at Philadelphia March 11-12, gained the title after one of the closest contests in years.

Susie, who teamed with Wally Diestelmeyer of Kitchener, now a pro, to take third place in the Olympic and world pairs championships in Switzerland last February, won by the narrowest of margins over Patsy Earl, 20-year-old Toronto Granite Club skater. Jeanne Matthews of Vancouver was third and Marlene Smith of Niagara Falls, Ont., fourth.

Majority to Toronto

Maureen Senior of Toronto was proclaimed junior ladies' singles figure skating champion Friday. Donald Tobin of Ottawa, copped the junior men's singles title.

Teaming together, Marlene Smith and Donald Gilchrist of Toronto triumphed in the senior pairs contest, while a Toronto quartet, Mary Kenner, Vivi Smith, Peter Firstbrook and Peter Dunfield, took the senior fours championship.

In the Silver Dance competition Joyce Perkins and Bruce Hyland of Toronto were declared champions. The dancers also took top honors in the waltz contest.

Ted Reeve Wins Best Story Prize

Toronto, Feb. 20 —Ted Reeve, Toronto Telegram sports columnist, won the grand prize for the best Canadian sport story of 1948 in a competition sponsored by a brush company (Rubberset)

Reeve got a $100 prize for his "Open Letter" to president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League of the N.H.L.'s non-fraternization rule.

Regional prizes of $50 each went to :Maritimes, Ace Foley, Halifax Chronicle; Quebec, Basil O'Meara, Montreal Star; Ontario, Joe Perlové, Toronto Star; Western Canada, Eric Whitehead, Vancouver Province.

Paul Parizeau, Montreal Le Canada, won a $25 prize for the best story in French.

There were 154 entries.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 20. (AP)—One of those annual signs of Spring—just like the first robin —has just come in. It's Cliff Roberts' little green-covered booklet called "records of the Masters Tournament" and with it a note from Cliff saying that Bobby Jones can't play this year but will be on hand to help direct the tournament. . . to most North Americans Bobby and his brain child, the Augusta National course, go along together. . . It's a course designed to give a "fair" test of golf to expert and dub alike—no tricky traps and only about 30 bunkers— and they all like it. The course record is 64, by Lloyd Mangrum, but in a dozen Masters Tournaments since 1934, the world's best golfers haven't been able to beat 279 for 72 holes. That wouldn't win $22.50 in an ordinary winter tournament—best of all, it's one of the few courses which retain the custom of naming each hole —Magnolia, Carolina, Cherry, Dogwood, Red Bud and the like. If that doesn't sound like Spring, we don't know what does.

Bastien Scores Two Shutouts Over Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets' Baz Bastien stood between the pipes in two American Hockey League games over the weekend, and came out with two consecutive shut-outs.

He barred the door to St. Louis Flyers 7-0 Sunday, while on Saturday he blanked Indianapolis Capitals 5-0. These were his 4th and fifth shutouts of the season.

In other Sunday games, Providence Reds turned back Hershey Bears 7-1, Buffalo Bisons defeated Springfield Indians 3-1, Cleveland Barons blanked New Haven Ramblers 3-0, and Indianapolis won a 6-3 victory over Philadelphia Rockets.

Les Costello provided Pittsburgh's scoring punch against St. Louis with three goals. Sid Smith, Bob Dawes, Eddie Kobussen and Rudy Migay potted the other goals. It was St. Louis' worse defeat of the season.

Later, both Podolsky and Glover counted again, while Walt Stefaniew, Sammy Mullholland and Steve Wochy scored for Philadelphia.

Roger Bedard joined the American League's 100-goal club Saturday night, then came back Sunday to notch two more tallies for Providence who have already won the eastern section championship. Carl Liscombe scored two and Billy Arcand, Jackie Hamilton and Jack McGill scored one each. Hershey's lone point came from Herb Cain's stick in the 3rd period.

The defencemen earned their pay in New Haven when they tallied all Cleveland goals as the Indians won 3-0. Doug Baldwin, Stan Sprout and Ed Bush registered the goals.

The western loop's Buffalo Bisons made three goals on long, spectacular plays to trim Springfield, with Tommy Cooper, George Pargeter and Floyd Curry pulling the string. Hub Macey made the solitary Springfield effort.

Saturday night, Springfield defeated Washington 8-3; St. Louis defeated Hershey 6-3; Providence won over Philadelphia 5-2 and Cleveland repulsed Buffalo 3-2.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Roy Conacher bounded out in front of Chicago teammate Doug Bentley in the National League scoring race Sunday night earning a goal and an assist while Bentley went pointless for the first time in many games. Roy Conacher now heads the list with 59 points to Bentley's 58.

The Leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.

Millers Whip Kansas City

(By The Canadian Press)

Minneapolis Millers moved into a third place tie with Omaha in the United States Hockey League's northern division by splitting a weekend series with Kansas City.

The Millers whipped Kansas City Saturday 4-1 but bowed to the second-place Pla-Mors last night 3-2.

Kansas City's Hank Blade got the jump on a face off and scored a solo goal to give the Pla-Mors their edge last night after Roger Gagne had counted both Minneapolis points.

Fort Worth punished the last-place Houston Huskies 4-2 in the southern division last night. Sammy Casanato broke a 2-2 tie in the final period. Then when Houson's goalie was pulled from the ice to strengthen the Huskies' attack, Billy Warwick plopped another Fort Worth Tally in the open cage in the last ten seconds.

Other Saturday games saw St. Paul stop Omaha 7-3, Dallas trim Tulsa 3-2 and Fort Worth down Houston 5-2.

Playoff Dates In Junior Loop Are Announced

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Sunday night announced playoff dates for six playoff teams in the nine team Junior "A" loop.

In series "A", between the first-place Windsor Spitfires and the second-place Barrie Flyers, the first two games of a best-of-seven series will be played at Windsor, Feb. 24, and Feb. 26. The third and fourth games then switch to Barrie Feb. 28, and March 2. If more games are necessary they will be played at Windsor, March 5, Barrie, March 7 and Windsor March 10.

In series "B", the third-place Oshawa Generals clash with the fourth-place St. Catharines Teepees at Oshawa, Feb. 23 in the first game of their best-of-three series. The second game will be played at St. Catharines Feb. 25 and the third at Oshawa Feb. 28.

In series "C", a best-of-three series, the fifth-place Stratford Kroehlers meet the sixth-place Toronto Marlboros at Stratford Feb. 23 in their first game. The second tilt to be played in Toronto Feb. 26 and the third in Stratford Feb. 28.

The winner of series "B" will play the winner of series "C" in a best-of-five series, the first game to be played Wednesday March 2. The best-of-seven series for the O.H.A. championship is expected to start March 12.

RAT POPULATION DOWN

Burlington, Ont. (CP)— The town has fewer rats now, because young people for some years have been making a sport of shooting them on the town dump in Nelson Township. A few are still seen around old barns.

McRae May Be Brought Up For the Leafs

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)— Don McRae, high-scoring member of the Sydney Millionaires in the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League, may be brought to Toronto for a try out with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Conn Smythe, Leafs general manager, said his team needed reinforcements after yesterday's injuries to Vic Lynn and Howie Meeker in a game at Chicago. The Toronto team has a week-long rest, playing their next game Saturday, and Smythe said he would try to have McRae in Toronto for that game.

McRae was a member of the Winnipeg Monarchs, winners of the Memorial Cup in 1945-46, but passed up a chance in pro-

Czechoslovakia Wins World Hockey Title

Stockholm, Feb. 21 — (CP) — Czechoslovakia recaptured the world amateur hockey championship Sunday as Canada, the defending titlists, finished second.

The Czechs took home the world crown they won in 1947 and relinquished to Canada a year ago in the Olympics by defeating Sweden 3-0 before 11,000 fans including Swedish Crown Prince Gustav Adolf.

The communist - dominated Czechoslovak government immediately lauded the triumph as a "victory for the workers." Czech information minister V. Kopetcky, in a telegram to the new champions, said that they had "given their people an inspiration on the road to socialism."

The triumph was the Czechs' fourth against one defeat in the final six - team round - robin tournament. Canada, which fought Switzerland to a 1-1 tie, finished ahead of the United States. Uncle Sam's squad blitzed Austria 9-1 in their final game.

Both Canada and the United States finished with six points but the Canadians were awarded the runner-up spot on the basis of their goals-scored and goals - against record.

The Canadians, with two victories and two ties and one loss, scored 20 goals and allowed 10, a spread of 10 points. The Americans with three victories in five outings, tallied 23 times but yielded 16 goals for a seven-goal spread.

Sweden and Switzerland gained five points by winning two games and tying one in five starts. The Swedes, however, gained fourth place because they had a 12-goal spread while the Swiss had one. Austria failed to win a single game.

One Player Jumps Club

The Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter said that one member of the Czech team did not join his teammates when they left by train for Prague last night. The newspaper said that Zdenek Martk, 23-year-old civil engineer, "jumped" the club and planned to emigrate to the United States.

Strict officiating seemed to handicap the Canadians and Americans, who are accustomed to a rougher game than the Europeans.

The Swedish press used phrases like "murder" and "gangsters" in describing the earlier games of the aggressive lads from across the Atlantic.

But when the Canadians, represented by Sudbury Wolves, and Americans cut out the rough stuff most Swedish sports writers complimented their ability and said one of them would have bagged the title if their first games had been cleaner.

Had Been Warned

However, Swedish organizers pointed out that both North American countries had been told before the tournament that the violent tackle methods permitted in Canada and the United States would not be allowed.

Manager Max Silverman of the Wolves and his players seemed happy that the tournament was finished. They departed early today for Czechoslovakia where they will play a six - game exhibition series. So far they have played 25 games of a scheduled 60-game European tour.

Sunday against the Swiss the Canadians were behind 1-0 early in the third period when Herb Kewley, Toronto - born defenceman, found the Swiss net after a sparkling solo run. But from then on, despite repeated attacks by the Canadians to break the deadlock, the Swiss defence held firm.

Reardon May Be Back Sooner Than Expected

Trainer Bill Head of Montreal Canadiens said Saturday night that defenceman Ken Reardon may be back in the game "sooner than expected."

Reardon suffered a broken bone in the shoulder in a game against Toronto Maple Leafs here Feb. 3. There has been talk that the rugged defenceman would be out for the season, even if Canadiens make the playoffs.

Reardon will start skating this week, his shoulder is mending nicely and he can lift his arm freely.

Calumet Farm's Coaltown won the $25,000 added McLennan handicap at the Hialeah track in Miami Saturday by four lengths Faultless, one of three horses running from Warren Wright's stable, was second and Dixiana stable's Shy Guy was third. Coaltown was timed at 1:48 2-5 for the 1 1-8 miles distance.

Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C., used a series of steady iron shots to offset spotty putting and win the $10,000 Houston Open golf tournament yesterday with a 71-67—272. He edged Carry Middlecoff, the golfing dentist from Memphis, by one stroke. Jim Turnesa, Briar Cliff, N.Y., was third with 274.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

A double for a takeout is a convention signal. It is a tip-off to partner of a hand that could have started with an opening one bid. Such is its function by a defensive bidder.

In response to such a takeout double, partner conducts himself accordingly. He takes this information into consideration. But he is given a routine set of answers thereto.

If no bid intervenes, he is forced to bid something. If he has nothing it is not an excuse for a pass. Only an intervening bid gives him an excuse to pass with a weak hand.

West was the dealer in this turnout:

NORTH
♠K J 9 4
♥K 7
♦A 10 9 3
♣A 3 2

WEST
♠8
♥Q J 4 2
♦K Q 5
♣K Q J 9 6

EAST
♠7 6 3
♥9 8 5
♦J 8 7 4 2
♣10 8

SOUTH
♠A Q 10 5 2
♥A 10 6 3
♦6
♣7 5 4

West opened bidding with one club. North doubled for a takeout. East passed. The response from south was two spades, a jump takeout that is forcing to at least a game.

If east had intervened with a bid, a weak south hand could have passed. When east passed, south was forced to bid. Even if he did not have a trick, he was forced to bid something.

Therefore, a bid without a jump by south would have told north nothing of value. That is, it could have meant a bust hand or some hand that was not strong enough to encourage north.

But south has five tricks with two sure and a rebiddable spade suit. If north has as good as an opening bid (which the double did promise), a game is in the pair if north has spade support.

To show this, south jumps; a game-force. North then bids only two no-trump: Why? He has no more than his double promised. If he assists in spades the raise will promise another trick.

It is not a game and south will bid again. He may be able to show something new that north may like to hear. If not, north can always go to four spades. Make no false moves.

Hollywood, Feb. 21 (AP)—The ghost of Frankenstein's Monster still hovers over Boris Karloff.

The noted actor is back to playing a boogyman, this time with Abbott and Costello in "A. and C. Meet the Killers." "But I think they'll probably score me more than I will them," he remarked.

No matter where Karloff's acting career takes him, he always seems to return to the spine-tinglers. He has tried Broadway plays. One lasted five performances. Another folded last month after six tries.

It's ironic that his only Broadway success was in "Arsenic and Old Lace," in which he played a madman with a haunting resemblance to the movie actor, Boris Karloff.

Last year he had a run as Indian Chief in the movies "Tap Roots" and "Unconquered". (Actually, his tanned face resembles an Indian more than the English gentleman he is.) He had other offers to play red-skins but turned them down to avoid being typed.

Karloff used to turn down horror roles, too, but he told me he has new philosophy.

Taking Every Role

"I have refused many roles in the past two years. From now on, I shall take everything that comes along. Out of all that, something ought to turn out to be outstanding."

Karloff, who began his acting career with a troupe at Kamloops, B.C., hasn't played Frankenstein's Monster in 15 years, but the shade of the satchel-footed dimwit still follows him around. He still gets fan mail about it.

Fantasy Footnotes

Things I never expect to see.. Gary Cooper and Jimmy Stewart in a hot argument...Peter Lawford cast as a gangster...Ralph Edwards and Art Linkletter in a friendly crap game...Alice Faye doing another picture (I Wish She'd Surprise Me) Bette Davis and Joan Crowford co-starred in the same picture...Gene Kelly and Marie McDonald speaking to each other again (their feud on "This Time for Keeps" was a lulu)...Ronald Colman in a western...Clark Gable married (There I go out on a limb again).

Stancek Classed As 'Mental Case'

Windsor, Feb. 19 (CP)—Michael Stancek, 63-year-old Slovak, improving in hospital today despite a bullet wound in his head, was classed a "mental case" by one Windsor organization.

Stancek was taken to hospital a short time after his wife Pauline, 56-year-old mother of three grown children, was battered to death in their east-end home yesterday.

Police say the bullet wound in Stancek's head was self-inflicted.

Officials of the Salvation Army said they were asked to go to the Stancek home and see if there was anything they could do to help the family.

"There was little our officers could do. We classed it as a mental case one Salvation officer said.

At the Hotel Dieu officials said Stancek "now has a chance to pull through. He's talking but it is very intelligable."

Police have a guard at the hospital and another at the Stancek home which was fired in three places after Mrs. Stancek was slain.

Providence, R.I. —A knowledge of Chinese might have made two young bandits a little more successful last night.

The two entered a Chinese restaurant, held James Chin 21, at gunpoint and took $3 from the till. They ordered Chin's sister, Mary, into the kitchen and asked if anyone else was in the place.

Mary said they were alone, then —apparently talking to James —announced in loud Chinese that a holdup was going on.

Out of various points in the establishment rushed Carlton Chin, 24, a brother, Chong Chin, 59, the father, and several in-laws.

The gunmen fled leaving their gun behind.

Winooski, Vt., —Arthur Roscoe's taxi money literally went down the drain yesterday.

Roscoe left 10 $20 bills in his overalls. That was the money he intended to use in paying his Federal income tax.

His wife did the washing, and the overalls went into the washing machine along with the $200.

All that could be salvaged were three $20 bills. The rest was shredded and colorless.

Hamburg —Street cars crowded in your town? Feel sometimes you're losing your hat or coat in the jam?

A conductor in a Hamburg street car ceased his fare-collecting job for a minute yesterday to holler to the passengers: "Anyone lost a skirt?"

He held the garment daintily between thumb and forefinger.

A young lady quickly checked underneath her coat. She blushed, buttoned up her coat, shrieked, grabbed the skirt and jumped off the car.

New York (CP)—Louis Grossman did a fair imitation of Rip Van Winkle and frightened the neighborhood as well when he took a nap with his bedroom door locked yesterday.

His mother went to wake him for school but got no answer to door. Fifteen neighbors joined Mrs. Grossman in shouting and pounding.

Finally she called police. Ten patrolmen added to the noise.

They were ready to batter down the door when a tousled head poked out, eyes heavy with sleep, and said:

"Somebody calling me, mother?"

Bakersfield, Calif., (AP)—Alfred W. Lewis applied for a night's lodging at the BaKersfield Veterans Service Centre and got it—but only after some commotion.

A girl clerk said she asked him for verification of his veteran's status and he started to take off his clothes. She screamed and fled.

Executive director William Laramore rushed out. Lewis explained he only was removing his shirt. His army serial number and service record are tatooed on his chest.

Free-Swinging Debate on Speech Will Continue

Ottawa, Feb. 21 (CP) — Members of the Commons, with the bulk of a lengthy legislative program still before them, return Monday to the free-swinging debate on the Speech from the Throne.

In the 18 working days since the fifth session of the 20th parliament opened Jan. 26, this, in brief, is what happened:

1. Historic legislation providing for Newfoundland's entry into confederation as a 10th province has been given royal assent.

2. A bill applying Canadian laws to Newfoundland has been studied and adopted.

3. Members have given some consideration to legislation providing for the extension of controls on domestic rents and on certain food products.

4. There has been a brief agricultural debate on legislation extending the government's authority to purchase products necessary to fill food contracts with the United Kingdom.

The Throne-Speech debate will be resumed by George Drew, leader of the opposition.

The debate will end with the voting on motions of non-confidence in the government, moved by the opposition parties. So far, Mr. Drew and M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, have moved such motions. House rules prevented Solon Low, Social Credit leader, from moving a third, but he may do so at a later date.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Puds Simkins were talking to Mary Watkins in frunt of her house and saying funny things to try to make her laff and Puds said, Here comes Shorty Judge, if I was that little I'd hire myself out for a midgit.

I'd hire myself out for 2 midgits and keep myself company, I said.

Sounding even funnier, and just then Shorty started to tern cartwheels and came all the rest of the ways still terning them. Being a cintch for him to do on account of his arms and legs being the same length, and Mary Watkins said, My, how strate, I think that's wonderful.

Which just then Shorty stopped on his feet in frunt of us, trying to look modest, and Puds said, What's a matter, Shorty, cant you walk on you feet any more and I said, What's a matter, Shorty, do you forget which end of you belongs up?

Let me see you tern some, either one of you Shorty said, and Mary Watkins said, Yes, why dont you, if you're both so smart and everything?

Aw, if people were suppose to move in cartwheels, they'd be bilt round instead of strate, I said, and Puds said, Sure, you dont see wheels trying to walk strate, do you, so why should people try to tern like wheels? Do you want to see me bump all a ways down your frunt steps sitting down without using my hand or feet once? she said.

Do you want to see me move my scalp without wiggeling my ears? I said, and she said, No I want to see you both tern strate cartwheels, because you cant.

Aw, if you aint sattisfied with us the way we are, we'll go somewheres elts, Puds said, and I said, Sure, let's go.

And he started to walk away trying to feel as independent as we looked, and proving the easiest way to live is to admire other guys as mutch as possible under the circumstances.

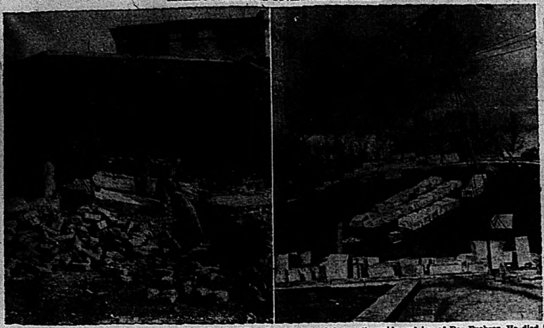
REDS DENY SLAVE LABOR CHARGES

A.F.L. representative to the United Nations Toni Sender confers with James M. Thorn, chairman of the U.N. Economic and Social Council, shortly before the former accused Russia at Lake Success, N.Y., of operating slave labor camps. Soviet delegate S. K. Tsarapkin (bottom, second front left) vehemently denounces the slave labor charges at the council meeting. He termed the accusation "filthy libel" and said that no investigation of Russian camps would be tolerated.—International News Photo from Central Press Canadian.

HITLER'S PRIDE TO BE SOVIET WAR MEMORIAL—



The Reichchancellery in Berlin, begun by Adolf Hitler in 1937 and finished in 1942, was the pride and joy of Der Fuehrer. He died in the great raid shelter beneath it and his body, with that of Eva Braun, was burned in the chancellery garden. Today it is a pile of rubble, its famed gardens a wilderness of shattered stone. At left is part of the dance pavilion with women clearing up the debris. The Russians have now ordered complete demolition of the reichchancellery ruins. All the marble and mosaic work is to be saved and used in the Russian war memorial, shown under construction at right, in Berlin's Treptow park. Russian dead will be interned in three galleries of the memorial. On top, in a beehive-like mausoleum, will rest the Red army's "unknown soldier." The entire memorial will be surmounted by a gigantic statue—either of Stalin or a Red army soldier. The entire memorial will be air-conditioned, for some reason clear only to the Russian mind.

HUNGER HITS INDONESIAN VICTIMS

Innocent victims of the warfare that followed the Dutch invasion of Indonesia, this hunger-ravished mother and her two children crouch in the corner of a refugee camp at Jokjakarta, the capital city. After facing acute starvation for months, they are finally receiving food again from relief agencies.—Central Press Canadian.

WESTERN POLITICS—Premier E. C. Manning, left, of Alberta and J. Harper Prowse, Alberta Liberal leader, discuss matters as the Alberta Legislature opened this week. At 39, Mr. Manning has been premier for six years and a cabinet minister for 13 years. He leads the 51 Social Creditors in the 57 seat legislature. Mr. Prowse, 35, is Canada's youngest political party leader. During the last session he represented the army in the provincial house. (CP Photo)

FINGERING MR. RAFFLES...1949 VERSION

BETTY RITCHIE

GLORIA HOROWITZ

Gerard Graham Dennis, described by police as "one of the greatest burglars who ever operated," is fingerprinted by Detective Victor Peterfreund at the Westchester county jail, in White Plains, N.Y., where he was brought after his arrest in Cleveland, Ohio. The dapper 29-year-old jewel thief, formerly of Toronto and Montreal, told the police a story involving upwards of $1,000,000 in loot gathered in burglaries from coast to coast; it included a lavish love nest in Beverly Hills, Calif., along with chapters about beautiful young women picked up along the way. He was arraigned on first degree assault and robbery charges and held for grand jury action.

Obviously not too happy about the whole thing, Betty Ritchie, former Toronto school teacher, is shown at left after her arrest in the Beverly Hills home of Gerard Graham Dennis. Miss Ritchie, who was booked on suspicion of burglary, is said to have posed as the wife of the society Raffles for the past year. It was beautiful Gloria Horowitz, right, svelte brunette model, who put the law on the trail of the society gem thief and caused his arrest.—Central Press Canadian.

LOVE WORTH $50,000

Mrs. Naomi Bishop Gordon, whose lost love is valued by her ex-husband, former Lieut. Col. Charles Gordon, of Scottsdale, Pa., is suing Stanley W. Parker, Winthrop, Mass., telephone executive, for $50,000, charging alienation of affections. The suit is being heard in federal court, Boston, because both principals are in different states. Several letters allegedly written by Parker to Mrs. Gordon, in which he called her "Sugarpuss" were read in evidence. Mrs. Gordon testified that she had dance dates with Parker and made her husband "a little jealous at times." — Central Press Canadian.

JAILED ON "REQUEST"

Sent to prison at her own "request," Charlotte Kierstein, 22, is shown in the county jail in Chicago. On probation for three years for conspiring to cash an $11,500 bogus cheque, the girl declared she had lost about 12 jobs when her employers found she had a record. At last, with no money and no place to sleep, she asked that she be allowed to stay in jail.—Central Press Canadian.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR—Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal and vice-chancellor of Queen's University, chats with Raymond Massey, right, star of stage and screen at a reception held in Mr. Massey's honor at Kingston Friday night. An honorary degree of doctor of law was conferred on the actor at a special convocation held Saturday afternoon in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the Queen's Drama Guild. (CP Photo)

Weekend Fatality Toll in Eastern Canada Thirteen

By The Canadian Press

Three members of a Quebec farm family died in their burning home and two Nova Scotia women were killed in an overturned motorcar to help swell the weekend fatality toll in Eastern Canada to 13.

A survey by The Canadian Press showed four other traffic deaths, two shooting deaths and two fatal railroad accidents.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ross, both 86, and their son, Allan, 54, perished in the fire early Saturday which levelled their stone farm home near Ormstown, in Quebe'c Eastern townships. The two men were caught in bed and the body of Mrs. Ross was found crumpled a few feet from the back door.

Violet Martin, 18, of Milton, N.S. and Elsie White, 33, of Liverpool, N.S., were killed Sunday when a motorcar left the highway near Allendale, N.S., and turned over several times. Six others were injured, three of them critically.

A Hearst, Ont., woman, Mrs. Marie Brassard, 35, was shot to death in her home Saturday night and police arrested her husband, Romeo Brassard, in connection with the shooting. Police said the man, eating supper when they arrived, handed them a revolver.

Elderly Pedestrians Killed

Two elderly pedestrians, Enoch Bown, 78, of St. Thomas and Joseph Braithwaite, 74, a blind resident of Fesserton, Ont., died after being hit by automobiles near their homes. Gerry Curtis, 17, of Kitchener was killed when the car he was driving left a highway and crashed into a tree.

Five-year-old Jacques Raymond of Notre Dame de Bon Conseil, Que., was fatally injured when a truck driven by his father went out of control and hit a bridge.

An investigation was ordered into the death of Bert Taylor, 55, who died of gunshot wounds in his home at Bedell Settlement, near Woodstock, N.B., a coroner said the case may be suicide.

Frank Gosse, a 40-year-old transient from Montreal, died under the wheels of a train in a Toronto railway yard shortly after he had climbed onto a moving freight train.

A 28-year-old Ottawa railwayman, Robert D'Amour, was fatally injured Sunday night when he fell under a shunting boxcar. His left leg was severed and he died before reaching hospital.

Giant Seaway Project Means Ore Carriers Steaming on Lakes

By WILLIAM G. SMOCK

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21. (AP)—Backers of the St. Lawrence River seaway project are eyeing a new, potent weapon these days—one made of steel.

The steel industry of the United States once was opposed to rejiggering the St. Lawrence River to make seaports of Great-Lakes ports but now steelmen seem to be changing their minds. The millions of tons of iron ore covered by the cold earth of Labrador are responsible.

Steel companies don't discuss it publicly but they look with growing favor on proposals to make the 2,340 miles of river and lakes accessible to large ocean-going ships.

Rails and Coal Mines Opposed

Privately, many steelmen admit that with the end of the rich Minnesota and Michigan iron ore in sight, they would be tickled to see ore carriers still steaming on the Great Lakes. That's what the giant seaway project means to them.

The coal-mining industry and the railroads haven't wavered an inch in their opposition. They can foresee nothing but a disastrous loss of markets, plus a big public debt.

Since ships drawing more than 14 feet of water cannot pass from the Atlantic Ocean down the St. Lawrence River to the Great Lakes, the seaway would deepen all channels to at least 27 feet—maybe to 35 feet—and by-pass the International rapids with canals. Channels between the Great Lakes also would be deepened.

The project also includes plans for a gigantic water power plant straddling the Canadian-United States border near Cornwall.

All this would take about six years to finish and cost anywhere from around $675,000,000 to nearly $1,500,000,000. You can choose your own figures from the cost submitted.

Supporters point to the "cheap transportation" they said would unfetter millions whose industries suffer from lack of an ocean outlet. Foes cite the cost and assert only a favored few would benefit while the economy of the United States would be hurt and the public saddled with a great debt.

Many think the project has a better chance for congressional approval this year than ever before. But much depends on support from the steel industry.

Even Gravel Roads Losing Snow Fast

Toronto, Feb. 19 — (CP)—Ontario motorists are having a taste of summer driving conditions. Mild weather has left roads and highways bare and dry, and even gravel roads are fast losing all trace of snow.

Officials of the Highways Department reported today that some highways and roads in low-lying districts are flooded, with the worst conditions prevailing near Orangeville in the Grand valley district.

However, they said flooding will not be serious this year since river ice has not reached the thickness of past years, eliminating blocking of back waters.

NATURE BEATS MACHINES

Winnipeg — (CP) — Most of the Manitoba government's reforestation now is carried out by machine, Provincial Forester James Sommers said in an address. However, by co-operation with nature, the forestry service hopes to have 1,000 trees planted naturally for every one planted by man.

Power Interrupted

Napanee, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Power service on the Newburgh road was interrupted during the night when a panel truck driven by John Reynolds of Newburgh went out of control while crossing an icy spot on the roadway three miles north of here. The truck crashed into a hydro pole snapping it completely from its reinforced base. Several occupants in the truck were shaken up but none seriously hurt.

CHARGED WITH WOUNDING

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP)— Gordon Logan, 21, today was charged with wounding following the paring-knife stabbing of Norman Chapman last night. The incident took place in a York Township home during a drinking party, police said.

Chapman suffered wounds in the chest, stomach and shoulder and is in hospital. Police said they were holding Stanley Hollingsworth, 32, as a material witness. Logan was remanded to Thursday for trial.

No Attempt To Change Name

Hamilton, Feb. 21 (CP)—A 150-year-old curse on anyone who should change the name of the honest Lawyer Hotel—Hamilton's oldest inn—may have dissuaded a rumored attempt to change the name.

Downtown drinkers were indignant last week over rumors that city lawyers were offended at the name. It was said that the lawyers didn't like the possible inferences—that they frequent beverage rooms or that an honest lawyer is uncommon.

The Hamilton Law Society and the Liquor Licence Board denied however, that pressure was being brought for a name change.

The name was given 150 years ago by hotelkeeper Henry Upton to honor a lawyer who kept a fortune for him for 12 years during the American Revolutionary War. The sign over the hotel door called down the curse of paralysis on the hand that should "change in any way this old memorial sign."

Woman Injured By Gun Blast Husband is Held

Brantford, Feb. 19 — (CP) — "Harry shot me" Mrs. Harry Connop told police officers Friday after they learned a shotgun blast had ripped through her left arm shattering one bone.

Her 38-year-old husband is being held in connection with the shooting at his four-room cottage which police found littered with broken beer bottles. There was a smashed window in the kitchen and two holes in the ceiling and wall of the living-room caused by discharges from a 20-gauge shotgun.

Being held as a material witness in the case is Ernest H. Staats, 26, of Brantford airport, who was present at the time of the shooting.

Connop, a cement contractor, was at home alone Friday afternoon, according to information given police by his wife. He had been drinking alone and she and Staats arrived home from downtown Brantford about 4 o'clock.

At hospital, following emergency treatment by doctors J. A. Lind and Victor Kleider, Mrs. Connop told Provincial Constable Vern Welsh: "He took the gun all of a sudden, fired a shot into the ceiling and then shot me."

CONVENIENT FIRST-AID

Prince Albert, Sask. — (CP) — When a fire truck was speeding to answer an alarm collided with an automobile, the car struck a telephone pole, jumped the curb and came to a stop with its bonnet in the doorway of a drug store. The occupant of the car was treated for a cut chin and forehead.

RAWDON

Rawdon — At Mount Pleasant United Church a special "Youth Movement Service" was held on Sunday last. Rev. H. C. Vaclavik gave a special message.

In the worship service Miss Betty McConnell read the Bible lesson on Charity. Mr. Robert Hoard led in the reading of the responsive lesson and Miss Ruth Linn offered prayer. The choir sang "My Jesus, I Love Thee."

Rawdon friends were sorry to hear that Mrs. Frank Young took ill at her home on Tuesday afternoon and will be confined to her bed for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holmes, Joan and Beverly, Miss Annie Holmes, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bowie, Belleville, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes, on Sunday.

Mrs. Cyrus Summers spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. F. Stapley, Madoc Junction.

Mr. Ray Sharp spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown, Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sharpe, Messrs. Bert and Ray Sharpe, Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Miss Ruth Linn, Mount Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parr, of Hoards, spent the evening of St. Valentine's at Ivanhoe and attended their box social in aid of their community centre.

Mrs. M. Sharp, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Miss Ruth Linn and Mr. Ray Sharpe all assisted with the program which had been arranged by two former residents of Mount Pleasant, Mrs. Milton Shaw and Mrs. Earl McMaster. Two tables were filled with a gay assortment of fancy boxes Mr. Percy Ray was the auctioneer, and the proceeds of the sale were over $60. The group enjoyed a delightful evening at the hall, and arrived home safely despite the ice.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sharpe and Carol visited Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stapley on Sunday.

Miss Mina Dracup, of Peterborough, spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Walter Dracup, at Wellman's.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Remington, Warkworth; Mrs. James Remington, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Remington and Ted, Mr. Pete Remington of Newburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Remington, Dorland; Mr. and Mrs. William Cairns, Napanee; Mr. Ernest MacDonald, Mrs. Herb Parkin; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Freeburn, Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. R. MacDonald, Apsley; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Johnson, Madoc; Mrs. H. Valyear, Trenton; Mrs. J. T. Weaver and Miss Marion Johnson, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dunham, Mrs. Ernest McCook, Mrs. Carl Sine; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Donald, Campbellford, were among those who attended the funeral of Mrs. Harold Johnson at Mount Pleasant United Church on Monday last.

ALLAN'S MILLS

Allan's Mills — Mr. and Mrs. H. Mumby and Muriel were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Bateman, of Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tucker, of Stirling, visited Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Barton on Sunday.

Miss Iris Hannah of Peterborough, was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lough.

Mrs. Don Bateman visited Mrs. B. Anderson and Mrs. H. Stiles this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McMurray, of Gilmour, spent a few day with Mr. and Mrs. W. Flavelle.

Mr. Thos. Dutton returned home from Toronto much improved, having spent the past six weeks under treatment in Toronto.

Mr. Floyd Simpson, Toronto, spent the weekend at his home here.

Mrs. Rob Lisle fell on the cellar steps on Sunday and fractured her leg. She is a patient in Peterborough hospital at the present time.

The W. A. met at the home of Mrs. Fred Barnum on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas Turner and David have returned home after spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Bateman.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Mason and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mumbly spent the weekend in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reid, of Minto, have moved to their new home at Rylestone.

Belleville Y Girls Lose to Peterborough

In Peterboro Saturday evening Coach Hy Smith's Peterboro "TowneTogs" girls' intermediate basketball team pinned a decisive 39-13 defeat on Belleville "Y" squad. Taking command of the play right from the opening whistle the Peterboro team ran through to a commanding half time lead of 23-3 as the Belleville team appeared completely lost on the exceptionally large gym floor of the Peterboro Collegiate where the game was played. Improvement in the play of the Belleville squad was noted in the second half as they held their well-drilled oponents to a 16-10 margin.

In suffering defeat it can be said of the Belleville team that they were obliged to take the floor with scarcely any warmup period being allowed owing to their late arrival in Peterboro resulting in their taking the floor 'cold' against their opponents. From the opening whistle it was obvious that the team was not in the same good form which they had displayed one week earlier against the Cobourg team as Peterboro notched seven consecutive baskets good for 14 points before Eileen Palmer finally notched the first basket for Belleville. This, save for Shirley Marinoff's foul shot score, was the only score the Belleville lassies could get as Peterboro went on to post their 23-3 half time margin. Following the half time rest period the Belleville girls stormed to the attack in a desperate effort to reduce the overwhelming margin against them thus leaving themselves wide open for breakaway plays by the homesters. Peterboro took full advantage of this type of play to register their second half margin of 16-10 and thus win by a 39-13 count.

Jean Vass with 9, Shirley Curtis with 8 and Anita Davis and Jean Castle with 6 points each were tops for Peterboro while Doreen Bell registered 6 of the Belleville Teams' points as the rest of the team appeared considerably off color for the evening.

The return game with the Peterboro team will be played next Wednesday evening at 8:30 at the Belleville "Y".

Old Rockport, Rank Outsider, Wins Handicap

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 21. (AP)—Old Rockport, a rank outsider which had won only four minor races in 14 starts, and youthful Gordon Glisson, a mere apprentice rider, teamed Saturday to score a resounding upset victory in the $100,000 Santa Anita derby.

The race was the richest in the derby's 12-year history, carrying a gross purse of $141,800 with 14 horses starting. Old Rockport, a 33 to 1 shot, won $94,700 net for his jubilant owner, Clifford Mooers of Lexington, Ky., who witnessed the race.

The season's largest crowd, 53,000, bet $574,087 on the race, a drop from the $739,606 wagered last year.

Third behind old Rockport and Olympia came Admiral Lea, and fourth in the field of 14 three-year-olds was Alfred G. Vanderbilt's stone age.

Old Rockport paid $68.10, $17.70 and $9.30, the second highest return in the race's history.

C.N.R. Stores Defeat Freight Sheds By 5-0 Score

The Stores Dept. clinched second place and the right to enter the Canadian National Railways Hockey League finals by defeating the Freight Shed team 5 to 0 at the Memorial Arena, Saturday night.

The Stores scored twice in the first period and added three more in the second and but for the fine netminding of Lucas in the Shed goal, would have increased their margin in the last stanza.

Ray Nolan led the Stores' attack with two goals while Cook, Tanner and Waite also scored once.

Line ups: Stores Dept.—goal, H. Young; defence: Waite and White; forwards: Lockyer, I. Bellis, Nolan; Subs., Cook, Tanner, Galvin and K. Bellis. Freight Shed: goal, Lucas; defence: Arthurs and Ainsworth; forwards, Ashman, Townsend, Lusk., Subs: Kilpatrick, Flindall, Wood and Burley.

Marmora-Campbellford Playoff Postponed

Marmora — The last hour postponement of the opening playoff Trent Valley League game between Campbellford and Marmora on the latter's ice on Friday evening was occasioned through a surface of water covering the ice. Marmora Juveniles are scheduled to play Stirling in the O. M. H. A. playoffs here on Saturday evening and the possibility of that fixture being played looks remote.

CHIEF CONSTABLE IS SUSPENDED

Fort Erie, Feb. 19 (CP)—Percy Mark, Chief Constable of nearby Crystal Beach, has been suspended for five days, Reeve Norman L. Smith said yesterday. Mr. Smith said the suspension followed cancellation by a bonding company of a $1,000 fidelity bond held by the village of surety for the chief. He said that Chief Mark failed to obtain a new bond.

Albert Hoop Teams Swamp Kingston Squads

Albert College cage teams entertained both Junior and Senior teams from the Kingston Collegiate on Saturday night, and took both ends of the double-header from them. In the preliminary game Albert Juniors racked up a 41 to 21 victory, while in the nightcap Albert Seniors ran rough-shod over the Kingstonians 61 to 33. The Kingston teams both had difficulty with the Albert zone defence and lost the ball on numerous, occasions trying to penetrate through to the basket.

In the Junior game, quick baskets by Phil Utting and Tom Yates started the Albert squad off to a 13 to 4 lead at the 1st quarter, Kingston game back with two baskets by McCrae and one each by Haxton and Davidson in the second quarter to make the half time score 16 to 8 for Albert. In the last half the Albert team really got going and outscored the visitors 25 to 13 to take the game going away.

Blake Harris with 10 points, and Tom Yates with 9 points led the Albert scorers, while McCrae with 10 points was the leading Kingston tallier.

In the Senior contest the Kingston boys had trouble finding the basket right from the start, and Johnny Merkley of the Albert team was right on with all his shots. Half time score was 39 to 13 for Albert with Merkley having hooped in 15 points on seven baskets and a foul shot. In the second half, Kingston came to life and sank basket for basket with the home boys, being outscored only by 22 to 20 in this half.

Leading scorers for Albert were Merkley with 23 points and Bruce Gillespie with 14 points, 7 other members of the squad contributed from 2 to 5 points each to bring up the score.

Austin and Spafford of Belleville were the officials and handled very competent games.

The evening's activities were concluded with a swim in the pool, followed by a dance and refreshments.

Montreal, Feb. 21 (CP) — A professional hockey player has his income tax problems too and Kenny Reardon, fiery Montreal Canadien defenceman, wants to know how he can be taxed on the $200 fine clamped on him and paid into the coffers of the National Hockey League.

Reardon and pivotman Cal Gardner, of Toronto Maple Leafs, were both fined for their stick-swinging duel in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, New Year's Day. Gardner paid $250. The Canadiens made the payment to the league and Kenny says he never even felt the money first.

Has Good Point

Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara thinks Reardon has a good point.

Says Baz:

"Kenny claims if an impost has to be paid, and in this case it would be about $75, it should be paid by the National Hockey League."

"He may have something there." Baz muses, "he argues that as he has been deprived of money earned by him, by another agency, that the tax should be imposed on those getting the money, not on him."

Kenny stands to fall into a lower income bracket this year anyway. Last year he was selected for the alternate all-star team., worth $300 extra to him. This year, having missed the last few weeks, with a shoulder injury which may sideline him for the remainder of the schedule, Reardon has little chance of making a spot on the mythical wonder squad.

However, Reardon may collect some extra money if the Canadiens make the playoffs.

Wonder if that income tax angle would work on parking tickets?

PAY ADJUSTMENTS

Flin Flon, Man. — (CP) — An adjustment in the cost-of-living bonus retroactive to Jan. 1, 1949, was granted recently to Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company employees. The increase is five cents an hour in addition to 15 cents cost-of-living bonus already paid.

MORE SANDING NEEDED

Montreal — (CP) — Winter road contractors employed by the provincial government, recently got instructions to pay more attention to sanding icy roads. The insructions were sent out by the Quebec Roads Department following complaints that freezing rain increased winter-driving hazards.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP is a lot of little things

IT PAYS TO PRAISE

For too many of us it's easier to find fault and to criticise than to look for the good points in others. But isn't it better to overlook small irritations and petty annoyances . . . and give a word of praise whenever it is deserved? A kindly word from you often encourages and inspires the other fellow to better efforts. It's a small thing in itself, but it creates a warmer understanding. Friendly encouragement and unselfish interest in others prove your "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

NORWAY SUFFERS FROM LOSS OF NAZI ARMS DESTROYED

Equipment for Entire Army Dumped into Sea

Oslo, Feb. 22 (AP)—Norwegian generals rue the day when the Allies dumped the captured equipment of an entire German army into the sea off Norway.

The guns and ammunition which sank beneath the waves in 1945 would have armed 350,000 Norwegians for home defence in 1949.

Since the war, she has had to spend an excessive share of her income on military purposes. It has crippled her economic recovery, while failing to guarantee her security.

Norway is now the most exposed country on the western threshold of Russia. She has an annual military budget of $68,000,000, equivalent to $22 for every man, woman and child of her 3,150,000 population.

If an Atlantic pact is ultimately realized, American taxpayers may foot some of the defence expenditures here. Meanwhile, Norway is paying to the hilt. Dumping arms into the sea put Norway into the red.

Norway's ideas of security may irritate Russia, but Norwegians exhibit neither bravado nor impudence about the Soviet Union.

Nine in Gas-Filled House Roused to Safety as Roomer On Third Floor Falls Out of Bed

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)— A young Toronto woman fell out of her third-floor rooming house bed early today and raised the alarm which roused nine other persons in the gas-filled house.

The woman, Carol Miller made such a bump on the floor tenants below were warned in time to escape the house.

Fire department inhalators revived the nine persons partly overcome by the escaping fumes.

The young woman roused Albert Hawthorne, a tenant living beneath her on the second floor, when she fell. Hawthorne dragged nine other tenants to safety through the gas-filled house where firemen were able to revive them all with inhalators.

"If she hadn't made such a noise when she hit the floor I wouldn't have wakened up until all of us probably would never know what happened," he said.

"I ran upstairs after shouting the alarm and tried to get the girls out. They fell down like ninepins.

"I finally got so I had to drag them down the two flights of stairs like so many sacks."

When firemen arrived he had tem mostly in the ground-floor hall and the doors and windows open for air.

Gladys Large, another tenant, said today tenants had complained of the fumes about midnight last night. She said they were believed escaping from the furnace.

This morning all the tenants but the landlady were ill.

Forecasts Peace Efforts In China Will be Failure If Reds Cross Yangste R.

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

Canton, Feb. 22 (AP)— Peace efforts in China will end if the Communists cross the Yangtze river, acting President Li Tsung-Jen warned today, addressing members of the National Assembly and Canton residents,

Just what prompted the statement was not clear. The Communists have been content for seven weeks to stay north of the river while peace efforts continued.

There was no indication that Li had any success in his efforts to swing Premier Sun Fo and the cabinet into his credit. However, some sources, particularly in Nanking, felt that Li was making headway.

Li told the Canton audience there would be no possibility of carrying on negotiations if the Communists attack Nanking and Shanghai south of the river.

(The Catholic newspaper Yi Shih Pao in Nanking published a dispatch from Chingkiang, in Communist country, saying that Communist Gen. Chen Yi had told guerilla leader Li Ming-Yang that the Communists would withhold any attack on the two cities as long as there was a possibility for peace.)

Harold Milks, Nanking correspondent of The Associated Press, said it has been learned from sources close to Li that the acting President was putting everything he has in his campaign. If successful it would give him sufficient backing to talk peace terms to the Reds and to force those national leaders still loyal to retired President Chiang Kai-Shek to accept the terms.

Li's chief lieutenant, Gem Pai Chung-Hsi, has been conferring daily in Nanking with the former Defence Minister, Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, in an effort to swing this top military man into line with Li.

Peiping, Feb. 22 — (AP)—The seat of the North China Peoples' (Communist) government has been transferred from Shihchiachuang to Peiping.

Tung Pi-Wu, communist representative in the Chinese delegation to the San Francisco United Nations Conference, is chairman of the government here.

At the same time three Chinese newspapers, Hsin Shen Pao, the China Times and the Peiping Times, failed to appear. Other newspapers said their plants were taken over Monday by the government's cultural section.

DREW LAUNCHES BITTER ATTACK ON CONTROL POLICIES

Claims Administration A "Snooper State"

Ottawa, Feb. 22 — (CP) — A bitter attack on the government's control policies, perhaps heralding a rough passage for control legislation now on the order paper, was launched in the Commons yesterday by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Stepping into the resumed throne-speech debate, Mr. Drew described the administration as a "snooper state," with investigators, controllers and others prying into private business, and called on it to surrender its arbitrary powers to parliament.

He referred directly to existing legislation to continue restrictions on rents, timber, steel and food prices, and urged the government to bring down separate bills for each type of control, rather than lump the legislation in one or two major measures.

At the same time, he struck out against Communism, suggesting adequate laws to imprison Communists in Canada, and called for support of his party's motion of non-confidence in the government to open the way for a general election.

Other speakers in the lengthening debate included John Dickey (L-Halifax), A. M. Nicholson (CCF-Mackenzie), T. L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview), F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) and H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West).

In the early stages, Prime Minister St. Laurent said he will make a statement today on the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary and the prosecution of Protestant ministers in Bulgaria.

Doucett Advises Reduced Budgets For Roads, Streets

Says Municipalities Must Not Exceed Costs in 1948

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett today warned Ontario municipalities not to exceed last year's budgets for street and road improvements.

"...the year 1949 should be a year of caution for all of us," he told the Ontario Good Roads Association.

He said governments should "build up reserves of credit that will enable them to offset the results of any marked recession of business in general...Our municipal governments, along with all our other governments, should keep their committments within bounds."

Will Not Delay Housing

In many cases, prudence dictated reduced expenditures on roads and streets.

Ontario highway projects were being delayed because "we do not feel that we should handicap either housing or the construction of great Hydro developments by dipping too deeply into the available supplies of cement."

Planned projects included: completion of the new four-lane Toronto-Barrie highway; extension of a four-lane highway east from Oshawa; improvement of the Blue Water highway and the Ottawa-Montreal road and the paving of the Queen Elizabeth Way from Niagara Falls to Fort Erie.

Engineers, Crews Try to Dig Out Snowbound Trains

Lena, Man., Feb. 22 (CP) — Crews and four locomotives from a Canadian National Railways snowplow special train were scheduled today to clear their way to a point one mile west of here in the third attempt to reach and dig out three locomotives and other equipment buried in towering snowdrifts since Feb. 10.

Drifts of rocklike hardness stalled the snowplow special for 12 hours within 1 1-2 miles of Holmfield, Man., Sunday night. Engine, plow and shovelling crews battled the drifts all night, finally freeing their train by hand-shovelling a 30-yard path in front of the plow. Holmfield is about 160 rail miles southeast of Winnipeg.

Stranded in drifts from four to 18 feet deep on the 80-mile Deloraine branch line are three engines, a rotary plow, three cabooses, three water cars, three cars of coal, one official car, 10 combination bunk and dining cars and one other plow unit.

Extent of Canada's Export Of Food to U.K. Depends On Her Purchases--Cripps

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 22 — (CP)—Britain will buy less food from Canada unless Canada buys more from Britain, Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said today.

In an exclusive interview with The Canadian Press, he said the crux of the post-war Anglo-Canadian trading problem is expansion of British exports to Canada.

But Sir Stafford said that while the United Kingdom's policy was to reduce food imports, it was anticipated that Canada would be able to provide greater supplies of the raw materials needed for Britain's industrial drive.

The United Kingdom would continue to depend on Canada "for the greater part" of her wheat supplies.

Asked if he favors continnation of the long - term Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement — the existing five-year agreement expires in 1951 — Sir Stafford said:

"I am all in favor of an international wheat agreement rather than a pure bilateral agreement. I think an international agreement would be better for Canada too."

(Representatives of 56 countries which export or import wheat now are meeting in Washington in an effort to work out an international wheat pact.)

The Chancellor said the present difficulties in Anglo-Canadian trade could be eased by greater Canadian purchases in other sterling areas in addition to the United Kingdom.

Present bilateral agreements with European countries, some of which had been criticized in Canada, were helping to increase the flow of trade. These agreements strengthened sterling, paving the way for a return to normal world trade.

The adjustments Britain was forced to make in Canadian food purchases "are not directed to the achievement of some new low level of trade."

They were aimed at obtaining "a lowering of heavily-expanded wartime levels for which we never could pay and which we cannot expect anyone to continue giving us."

The actual volume of Canadian supplies purchased in 1948 was still rather higher than in 1938.

Holstein Produces 18,306 lbs. Milk New World Record

Brantford, Feb. 22 — (CP)— New North American and world milk records have been set by Rag Apple Mercedes Lilly, purebred Holstein owned by Peter M. Patterson of Puslinch, Ont. The record was set in the senior two-year-old class of the 305-day division on twice-a-day milking.

She produced 18,306 pounds of milk containing 601 pounds of butterfat. It was her second freshening. The previous world record in this class was set by an American cow, Gray View Joan Pansy.

CNR Shows Deficit For Jan. Operation

Montreal, February 22—Operating revenues for the Canadian National System, all inclusive, for the month of January, 1949, amounted to $37,309,000. Operating expenses were $38,797,000. The net operating deficit was $1,488,000. In January 1948, revenues were $34,002,000; expenses $34,563,000, and the net operating deficit $561,000.

These figures are the operating revenues and expenses only, and they do not include taxes, equipment, rentals, fixed charges, etc.

MRS. PETER SCOTT DIES

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) —Mrs. Peter Scott, whose daughter, Iris, was one of two victims in the George Vigus - Iris Scott murder investigation of September 1947, died yesterday.

The unsolved murders still are being investigated by police.

OUTDOOR SKATING RINKS ELIGIBLE FOR GOVT. GRANT

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Outdoor skating rinks are included in the list of community projects eligible for provincial government assistance under the Community Centres Act given final reading in the Ontario Legislature yesterday.

Premier Kennedy introduced an amendment to the act putting the rinks in the same class as community halls, athletic fields and skating arenas for which the government will make a grant of up to $5,000 to any Ontario municipality. The Premier said swimming pools which may be considered part of an athletic field are also eligible for the grants.

Mr. Kennedy declined to include in the bill a specific reference to pools but added that there would be no "red tape" in the administration of the act.

The act would be retroactive to last May 1. Municipalities which will be affected by this clause include Kincardine, Walkerton, Hawkesbury, Blind River, Bowmanville, Chesley, Dryden, Strathroy, Parry Sound, Sioux Lookout, Forest, New Liskeard, Aylmer, Mount Forest, Wallaceburg and Dresden.

The bill provides a grant of up to $10,000 for community centres which include outdoor skating arenas.

Rates Increased

Attorney-General Blackwell said he opposed the "general philosophy" that citizens must be paid for doing their civic duty after J. B. Salsberg (LPP-St. Andrew) suggested witnesses should be paid a full day's pay for each day they spent in court.

The House gave third reading to a bill to double the rates paid Crown witnesses. New rates would be $3 a day and an additional $8 a day for witnesses who must leave their home towns to attend the court. Expert witnesses would get $7 a day.

Alert Merchants Will Benefit Richly By Attention Given to New Customers

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Ordinary observation indicates that there is a lot of business wandering around with no fixed place to go. And a lot of other business is not particularly keen about where it is going.

These are problems and opportunities for stores in the more competitive days believed to be at hand.

They are reasons for the considerable discussion that is going on about the value of institutional advertising, and of the importance of trained sales staffs

Take just the matter of newcomers to a town or city, of which there are thousands these days.

If it's a man, let us say he wants a shirt. Chances are he'll drop into the first good-looking haberdashery he sees.

If you have been that man, think about it. Did anything happen to make you think this was the place to which you would like to come next time you needed a necktie or a suit? If you are a retailer, or a sales clerk, was he just a fellow buying a shirt or was he part of the future?

It's a tough problem; but he is human and if you can make him feel at home you have probably done a good day's business.

To the smaller store, he is an especial problem. Choosing between two impersonalities, he may tend to take the department store which he at least knows from its institutional and national advertising.

Newcomer or chance caller, this is the chance for his trade and there is seldom an immediate sale that is as important as the prospective customer of the future, if he can be handled right.

Of course, just handling him right isn't enough; there still has to be the kind, range and sizes of goods he wants, conveniently and attractively displayed.

Snow Slides Crush Rail, Road, Wire Communications

Vancouver, Feb. 22 (CP) — Snow slides in the Fraser Canyon last night crushed railroad, highway and wire communications, leaving Vancouver virtually cut off from eastern Canada for the second time within a year.

Heavy rain in the Hell's Gate area, near Lytton, B.C., 114 miles east, sent at least six minor avalanches tumbling down the mountains.

The Canadian National Railways line was blocked at Stout, 112 miles east of Vancouver.

Canadian Pacific tracks were blocked at Spuzzum, 126 miles east of here. The C.N.R. tried to reroute an eastbound train over C.P.R. tracks, but had to go back to Hope. C.P.R.'s westbound No. 1 was stalled east of Spuzzum.

A C.N.R. rotary plow from Jasper was brought in to buck the snow, and extra crews were ordered to stand by.

Sole telephone and telegraph communication with the east was over a few emergency circuits.

Teachers' Salaries Given Increase

Port Colborne, Feb. 22 (CP) — Port Colborne Board of Education last night raised minimum salaries $300 for public and high school teachers, to $1,500 and $2,300 annually, respectively.

The maximum for public school teachers was raised by $100 to $2,100 and high school by $300 to $3,600.

In addition, teachers will continue to receive a monthly cost-of-living bonus of $30 for married and $20 for single teachers.

Changes become effective Sept. 1.

DIES FOLLOWING ACCIDENT

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP)—Murray Carriere, 35, of Toronto, died in hospital today following a traffic accident in Toronto's west-end. He suffered fatal injuries when the automobile he was driving crashed into the rear of a stationary street car.

Toronto Council Reverses Stand On Trial Protest

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP) — City council reversed a stand taken a few hours earlier and refused early today to pass a motion asking the Federal Government to protest the trial and sentence of Joseph Mindszenty of Hungary.

But it let stand a resolution it passed protesting against the impending prosecution of 15 Protestant clergymen in Bulgaria.

As council neared adjournment, two aldermen, E. L. Weaver and Charles Walton, introduced a motion to strike out the Mindszenty protest resolution. No attempt was made to disturb the motion dealing with the Bulgarian clergymen.

Controller Norman Lamport accused "certain people on council" of voting on religious grounds alone.

"People who would switch their vote on this issue are guilty of despicable conduct," he said.

The Mindszenty motion, introduced by Con. David Balfour, a Roman Catholic, was opposed by Con. Leslie Saunders, an Orangeman, and council's two Communist aldermen, Norman Freed and Charles Sims. The group led by Ald. Weaver said council had no business voting on such a motion.

Con. Saunders said it was "political rather than a religious issue."

"If the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Canada can protest, then surely this loyal city can add its voice to the protest," replied Ald. Nathan Phillips.

TRACES OF BLOOD IN CAR

Fort Erie, Ont., Feb. 22 — (CP) — An automobile containing traces of blood and a box of .22-calibre bullets was found Monday by a Fort Erie police constable. An empty cartridge lay on the floor near the driver's seat. The car, owned by Mrs. Frances Bull of Brampton, was reported stolen from Niagara Falls Saturday. Police officials were checking with Buffalo, N.Y., police to determine whether the car was used by a 15-year-old Toronto youth, now under arrest in Buffalo.

Rescue Worker Trapped 200 Feet Below Surface

Montreal, Feb. 22 (CP)—Rescue crews dug feverishly for an hour Monday before reaching a construction man trapped 200 feet underground by a cave-in while working on a sewer project. John Panik, 55, was able to walk out of the hole when released by rescuers, but was weakened by loss of air and removed to hospital for observation.

Canada's Birth-Rate Down 3.5 P.C. from '47

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (CP)— Canada's birth-rate dropped 3.5 per cent in 1948 from 1947 figures, but was higher than any one year, the Bureau of Statistics reported Monday. Total deaths rose to a new high level while marriages decreased for the second successive year.

EARLY OPENING EXPECTED

Cornwall, Feb. 22 (CP)—The Ontario-St. Lawrence Canal system may open a week earlier than usual this year canal officials here said today. Tentative opening date for navigation has been set for April 18. Normally, navigation begins April 22 or a few days later.

Rain and Sleet Ground Planes

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Sleet and rain swept over Ontario from Michigan today, grounding air traffic and making northern highways uncomfortably slippery. Three inches of slush covered Southern and Central Ontario.

The rain followed an early snow and was expected to clear most of the snow before night. North of Huntsville and in the Ottawa Valley, the sleet was leaving slippery roads in its wake.

Russ Chief of Staff Says U.S. Preventing Russians Returning

Berlin, Feb. 22 — (AP) — Lt.-Gen. G. S. Lukjantschenko, Russian chief of staff in Germany, charged Monday the United States is preventing more than 100,000 Soviet citizens in Western Germany from returning to Russia. In a statement, the general branded as an "illegal act" the recent request by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, that the Soviet repatriation mission get out of the United States occupation zone.

Painted Kippers Arouse Editorial Battle Over Britain's Favored Food

London, Feb. 22 — (CP) — A subject of dour debate in Britain today is: Is Britain's beloved kippered herring just a painted hussy?

It looks that way. Edward Evans, a member of the Parliamentary Fisheries Committee, clinched things.

In a letter to the Times of London today, he complained that dyed herrings — "a dietetic abomination" — are muscling kippers off the market.

Kipper - conscious Britons have been sizzling ever since dyed herring first reared their sleepy, glossy heads in Times correspondence last week. Arthur Vizard wrote from Howe, Sussex, that for "some inscrutable reason," the humble kipper was being coated with paint or varnish.

This "gives to the fish an attractive appearance in the shop," the crestfallen Vizard wrote, "but it betrays its presence by an unpleasant odor when cooking and by a still nastier taste."

Fishmongers were indignant. They said the kipper is just "as good as ever. Vizard, they said, must be frying his breakfast without first removing the shiny wrapper from the fish.

From Shoreham, Kent, Lord Dunsany entered the fray. In so many words he suggested a police force for kippers. His letter to the editor said:

"Fancy a labor government in power and it cannot get an honest kipper for the working man in all England! As we evidently cannot protect ourselves from shopkeepers who dye all our herrings, the police should be empowered to protect us."

(Kippers are produced by splitting, scaling and smoke-curing herring. Oak shavings are often used in the smoking process.)

The food ministry's position in the new kitchen crisis is that the kipper is unchanged from pre-war.

As the Evening Standard said in an editorial: "Since no one is likely to produce a pre-war kipper in an approachable condition, this controversy is fated to 'go down in history as unsolved.'"

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Synopsis: A disturbance over western Michigan is moving toward Southern Ontario and causing an extensive area of rain, freezing rain and snow over southern regions. The disturbance will cross Southern Ontario later today with improving weather behind it. In the far northern regions the weather is turning much colder again as a fresh outbreak of cold air moves southeastward. By late Wednesday the cold air will cover most of Ontario with skies clearing.

789 TELEPHONES ADDED IN PAST YEAR

Telephones in service increased 789 during 1948, according to Mr. G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager here. This compares with a net increase of 553 telephones reported here for 1947 and brings the total to 7,002 telephones operating locally, more than ever previously connected in this community.

During the year steady progress was made in clearing deferred applications for telephone service, but the demand for telephones was so great that there are still approximately 434 unfilled orders for service on file in the company's local office.

JAMES PIGGOTT'S IDENTITY HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED

Through a newspage story appearing in the Ontario Intelligencer Monday the identity of one James Piggott who died last week in Windsor has been established by Melville Donnan of Stirling.

Today Mr. Donnan called the Belleville city police and informed the desk officer that Mr. Piggott was an English boy who during his early life had lived at his home near Stirling. It was understood that Mr. Piggott died in a Windsor sanitarium.

LIBRARY DISPLAYS PAMPHLETS ON INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

The Belleville Public Library places on display today, a group of books and pamphlets on international affairs. The library, together with the Canadian Institute of International Affairs offers this feature as part of its work in stimulating interest in current problems, and in presenting to citizens some of the worthwhile reading that is available.

Included in the display are "Behind the Headlines" pamphlets published by the Canadian Institute of International Affairs. This pamphlet series deals in simple and concise form with such important topics as "Communism: Its Strength and Its Future", "The State and Human Rights", "Soviet Policy Abroad". It is hoped that such pamphlets will lead Canadian citizens to a greater interest in such problems and to a greater use of their library as a source of facts and ideas.

Fractures Hip In Heavy Fall

Tweed — Mr. Stanley Lee had the misfortune to slip and fall on the ice near his home early on Monday morning. He managed to drag himself to the sidewalk where he lay for quite a few minutes until found by some of the neighbors. Dr. M. G. Dales was summoned and had him removed by Bush's ambulance to the Belleville General Hospital where an X-ray revealed a fracture of the left hip.

Returns to Duty

After being off duty for five weeks with a broken bone in his foot Mr. Russell Terry returned to work at the Tweed Foundries Monday morning and during the day he had the misfortune to run a piece of wire through his left hand.

Cobourg Midgets Default Game To Belleville Gunners

The Belleville Gunners Midget "B" hockey team advanced to the fourth round of the provincial playdowns last night when the Cobourg team defaulted the second game of the goals-to-count series.

The Gunners defeated Cobourg here last Thursday night by a 14-1 score and Cobourg officials were of the opinion the handicap was too large to overcome. They notified the Gunners management in plenty of time for the city team to cancel its transportation arrangements.

The Gunners meet the Midland Midgets in the first game of a goals-to-count series in Memorial Arena on Thursday night.

"Inspection" Shuts Out "Water Street" 4-0

The Inspection team of the Northern Electric Hockey League handed the Water Street squad a 4-0 shutout in a regular loop game played last night.

The first period was closely fought with both teams failing to score. Inspection drew first blood in the second frame when Lupinette scored from Howie and Fisher. In the third period the winners took over matters and scored three times from Howie, Lupinette to salt the game away. Only one penalty was handed out that going to Fisher in the third period.

Walt, Locke and McCabe were the best for the losers with Howie, Lupinette with two goals and Vance standing out for Inspection. Prout and Ronnie Trussell handled the official whistles.

NEED OF AGED FOLK OF CANADA PROBLEM

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (CP)— The needs of Canada's aged is one of several problems Bessie Touzel of the Canadian Welfare Council, will discuss with social workers in the course of a three-week tour of the Maritimes.

Miss Touzel, who is assistant executive director of the council and secretary of its public welfare division, this week will meet at Halifax with members of the Nova Scotia Public Welfare services.

STRENGTH OF O.P.P.

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)— Ontario has increased its uniformed provincial police force to 849 men 437 more than 1943, Attorney-General Blackwell said Monday. Addressing the annual two-day convention of the Ontario Association of rural municipalities he said the provincial police budget of $1,363,000 five years ago was increased to $2,323,000 last year.

Board Takes No Action on Fence For City School

Members of the Board of Education at their regular meeting voted to defer action on the replacement of 400 feet of fence at the Queen Mary School grounds.

At the meeting a letter from the Steel Company of Canada was read indicating the cost of the fence would be $1,150. No action was taken on replacement of the fence at Queen Mary School, nor at Queen Victoria School.

Tenders for pulp paper supplies for the various schools were received with members voting that orders be placed locally wherever a favorable price could be obtained. The matter was left with the chairman of the property committee and the administrator. Pulp paper supplies for the schools cost in the neighborhood of $28,000 annually.

Resignation Received

The resignation of Miss Rita Lancaster, assistant secretary treasurer of the Board, was received, the Board expressing its appreciation of Miss Lancaster's five years' efficient service.

R. O. Dulmage, present attendance office, will become assistant secretary treasurer of the Board on Miss Lancaster's resignation with a young lady to be hired as stenographer.

Permanent teaching contracts will be offered to the following teachers: Miss Audrey Robertson, Miss Enid Malcolm, Miss Thora Allan, Miss June Coulter, Mr. Allan Boate and Mr. Gordon Locklin. The resignation of Miss Catherine Morton, Queen Alexandra School, was accepted. Miss Morton resigned to continue studies at Queen's University.

Members of the Board will hold a special meeting March 2 to consider the appointment of necessary principals for new schools planned for the city.

City Playgrounds Funds

Harold C. Seldon and Enos David were named a committee to confer with Mayor D. L. Storey with respect to funds for the operation of city playgrounds next summer. A letter from the Y.M.C.A. was read at the meeting offering co-operation in playground operation during the coming summer but it was pointed out that due to the fact a recreational director and a recreational commission was under consideration at the first of the year the board provided no funds in their budget for playground operation.

The board approved of the recommendation of the public school inspector to assist a limited number of teachers to attend the O.E.A. convention at Toronto during the Easter holidays.

A bill of $16 from the Belleville Metal and Waste Company was ordered paid unless a school record could be found showing the metal was returned.

To Increase Insurance

Insurance coverage on Board of Education properties was recommended increased in accordance with a schedule prepared by the business administrator in consultation as to valuation with W. A. Watson, architect, increased insurance to be allocated to various agents.

The Board of Education will proceed with renovation of the home economics accommodation at the Collegiate, at a cost not to exceed $8,000.

An option expiring March 15th was taken from Mr. Alfred MacDonnell on property east of MacDonald Ave., for use as a site for a new school under consideration by the board. The property consists of approximately five acres. City council was requested to take the proper steps through the Ontario Municipal Board to issue debentures for $10,000 for the purchase of the above property.

546 Students

A registration of 546 students was reported for the Collegiate for the month of January with registrations at the Vocational School being 367 for the same period. Attendance at the Collegiate was cut considerably during January because of influenza, it was stated.

Registration in the evening classes at the Collegiate was given as 339 with two woodworking classes being combined on Jnuary 1st owing to decreased enrolment in these classes.

ANAF Veterans Swamp Hasty Pees In Darts League

The Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans team handed the Hastings Prince Edward representatives, a decisive 10-1 defeat in the regular Monday night matches of the Service Darts League played last night.

In the remaining games the Follwell Supply Company took the measure of the C.N.R. Veterans by an 8-3 score, while the C.N.R. Stores defeated the 9th Anti Tank Regt. by the same count.

C.N.R. Stores are still leading the league standing with the slim margin of two points over the ANAF's. Follwell Supply Company is in third place.

plete the second half of the winpdete the second half of the winter schedule. The teams then go into the play-offs for the right to meet the ANAF's for the league championship.

P.U.C. Members Protest Rates For Flat Rate Heaters Out Of Line With Metered Heaters

The Belleville Public Utilities Commission will formally protest to the Provincial Hydro regarding flat rate water heater charges being out of line with the cost of metered heaters, it was decided at the commission meeting Monday afternoon.

Discussion on the matter was brought up by Commissioner Frank Follwell who felt that with hydro restrictions being eased the ban against the installation of metered heaters should be lifted. Since the beginning of hydro interruptions last winter only flat rate heaters have been installed in the city.

With additional power again now available, flat rate water heater owners are getting almost 24-hour service, according to Mr. Scott. At the present time, flat rate heaters are cut off only for a half hour daily, that being around noon Monday through Friday.

New Lights Ready

New lights in the downtown section of the city, the standards of which were installed some months ago, will be put into operation as soon as possible, it was decided. Transformers for the lights arrived this week and installation will be commenced immediately. No definite date was set for turning on the new lights.

The commission passed a recommendation asking city council to issue debentures for $145,000 for plant additions and purchase of new equipment for the filtration plant.

Work planned for this year includes extension of the pump house and filtration beds, tenders for which will be called in the near future.

Revise Insurance

Public Utilities Manager O. H. Scott was directed to revise insurance on the Front Street business property owned by the commission and also on commission-owned residences.

On recommendation from Commissioner Follwell, Mr. Scott was also directed to inquire from the provincial hydro to ascertain whether there was a section of the hydro act which permitted the commission to turn over surplus funds to the city in payment for services in lieu of taxes.

Mr. Follwell maintained this was being done in certain Ontario centres and suggested if this was correct then the local surplus might well be used instead of taking a chance that the provincial hydro may direct that it be used to assist in paying for costs of conversion of 25-cycle directs to 60 cycle.

The local hydro surplus was given as $60,000 with last year's surplus being $36,372. Capital expenditure planned for this year would cost $50,000, it was stated.

Money Not Turned Over

Mr. Scott pointed out that no surplus money from the local hydro had ever been turned over to the provincial hydro except for payment for power or for other services. He said that the O. E. M. E. A. had gone on record as agreeing that 60-cycle districts assist in paying the cost of converting 25-cycle plants and equipment to 60 cycle, costing an estimated $40 million but the Eastern Ontario division did not think conversion of users' 25-cycle appliances should be charged to 60-cycle users.

The commission authorized the purchase of rural distribution equipment in the annexed area of Thurlow township. Price of this equipment was set by the provincial hydro at $8,247.

A delegation from the Belleville District Allied Labor Council appeared before the commission seeking assurance that the local hydro store would not be closed. The request of the delegation was filed to be dealt with at a later meeting.

Slippery Road Causes Car-Skid Into Side of Bus

Slippery road conditions at the street intersection were stated to be responsible this morning for a motor accident occurring at the corner of Dundas Street and Bleecker Ave., when an auto bumped into the side of a Rawson bus.

Thomas Plane of Cannifton was driving south on Bleecker Ave. when his car slid past the "stop" sign as he applied his brakes at the Dundas Street intersection. The car slid into the side of a Rawson bus which was just starting away from a stop. The side panel of the bus was torn by the impact.

Two-Year Suspended Sentence is Imposed

Edmonton, Feb. 22 (CP)— L.P. Davis, former Alberta government director of publicity, was given a two-year suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty in Supreme Court Monday to a breach of trust charge. Davis was accused of demanding a commission of $1,300 from the Harold Stansfield, Ltd., a national advertising company, in conection with government accounts with the company.

$7,000 Damage In Flash Fire At Armouries

Renovation of the flame-charred ante-room and smoke-damaged reception room of the officers' mess in the Bridge Street Armouries is expected to begin within the next few days, Lieut.-Col. Jack Cousens, commanding officer of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment RCA, said today.

The rooms were victims of a flash fire last week that gutted the ante-room and caused heavy damage to furnishings and walls and ceiling in the mess proper. Damage to valuable furnishings was estimated at $3,500 while that to the decorative scheme and building was set at a similar amount.

It is expected the work of renovation, to be done by the Royal Canadian Engineers, will take a month to complete.

A military court of inquiry probing the circumstances surrounding the fire was held here last Saturday with Major McAlpine of the Royal Canadian Artillery School, Kingston presiding. Other members of the court were Capt. Blake, Royal Canadian Engineers and Captain Hyslop Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Mess activities in the meantime are being conducted in a lecture room adjacent to the mess.

George A. Lee Succumbs To Heart Attack

Suffering a heart attack at his home, 78 Cedar Street, early Monday morning, George Arthur Lee, tailor, and highly respected resident of this city for 42 years, died in Belleville General Hospital late on Monday evening. In the death of Mr. Lee, the city has lost a resident, who took an active interest in all things community minded, one who loved sport in all its branches and who also was a devoted member of his church and the council of the Knights of Columbus.

The late Mr. Lee suffered a heart attack some two years ago, which confined him to his home for many months and his confinement was borne with fortitude, yet his interest never waned for the city and district, which he called home. His interest in sport was manifold and he was a constant attendant at baseball, softball and hockey games.

After his illness he took up bowling as a recreation and was a valued member of the Lawn Bowling Club and thoroughly enjoyed the friendships that were made. His first love was angling and he spent many happy hours on his favorite fishing ground, Moira Lake, in company with his friends. In baseball he served many terms as a member of the executive of the baseball association.

In service work, he was particularly active. George Lee joined the Kiwanis Club as a charter member, served on its many committees and was elevated to the post of president, a position in which he served with distinction. His interest in the underprivileged child was unbounded and he would go out of his way to help some deserving boy or girl. The fulfillment of service work was seen when he was present at the 25th anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis in this city last year. Socially he was a member of the Belleville Bridge Club.

Prominent K. of C.

The late Mr. Lee was an enthusiastic and active member of the Knights of Columbus and he was elevated to many high offices in this organization. He was a member of the local council Knights of Columbus, and at the time of his death, the Lecturer, a member of the 4th Degree Assembly and a member of The Alhambra, Toronto. He was also a Past District Deputy, the highest gift of the Order in this district. He was also active in the Holy Name Society.

Mr. Lee was born in Perth 63 years ago, being the son of the late Edward Lee and Mc Nonnan. He was educated in the Lanark County town and as a young man entered the tailoring business, later going to Toronto where he completed his trade and came to Belleville, 42 years ago, to open a business, which he has operated continuously. He was an artist at his trade and enjoyed a large clientel in this city and district.

A member of St. Michael's Church, he is survived by his wife, the former Ethel Malyea, three sons, Harry of Vancouver, B.C., John and Donald of Belleville, three brothers, Raymond and William of Perth, James of St. Catharines, one sister, Mrs. Stanley Williams of Picton, and five grandchildren.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

POINT TRAVERSE

Whitefish Nets Set in Bay

Pt. Traverse — Open waters off Point Traverse have permitted commercial fishermen to set their nets, the earliest date in many years. Basil Collier and son, Verdun, placed whitefish nets in South Bay waters last week. Smelt fishing has been carried on by Morley Helmer during the past week.

Wolf at Large

Sheep raisers at Point Traverse are confident that a wolf is at large in that district. One farmer reports he saw the animal and tracked the large animal into a wooded area. Although no loss of sheep has been reported, farmers are keeping a close check on their flocks as a few years ago many sheep were killed by wolves in South Marysburg township.

LIME AGAINST ACID

The use of lime to counteract an acid condition of the soil which is unfavorable to plant growth has been known since the earliest days of agriculture.

Dies of Burns As Clothes Take Fire from Toaster

Owen Sound, Feb. 22 (CP) — Mrs. Ada Saunders, 71, died in hospital here Monday night three days after suffering severe burns from neck to knee when her clothing caught fire.

Her clothing is believed to have caught fire on her right side from a toaster as she prepared breakfast in the apartment where she lived alone.

A neighbor heard her screaming as she rushed into the hall. He beat out the flames and called an ambulance.

Lt was not announced whether there will be an inquest.

Denies U.S. Made Offer for Manus Is. To Australia

Canberra, Feb. 22 (Reuters) — Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian External Affairs Minister, today denied that the United States had made an offer for Manus Island Australian Pacific Naval base.

"Manus is now established as our foremost northern base," he declared.

"I deny the suggestion that America offered to spend $300,000,000 on development of Manus Island as a Pacific base."

An Australian naval party arrived this month to take over Manus, evacuated by the Americans in 1946, the Sydney Sun disclosed. The United States wartime base on the island was established at a cost of $500,000,000, the paper added.

IN MEMORIAM

WYNNE—In loving memory of our mother, Mary Ann Wynne, who passed away a year ago today.

What would we give her hand to clasp
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In Heaven, that happy life.

Lovingly remembered by sons and daughter and families: Joan, Donald, Kenneth, Reta, Arthur, Nellie and Leslie and family. F22

WYNNE—In loving memory of a dear friend, Mary Ann, who passed away a year ago today.

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near us,
Though you died one year ago.

Lovingly remembered by Edith and Bill Coclough. F22

WYNNE—In loving memory of my wife, Mary Ann, who passed away a year ago today.

A beautiful memory dearer than gold
A wife whose worth can never be told
A loving smile, a happy face,
A broken link I can never replace.
She suffered hard, told so few,
Never deserved what she went through.
Toiled so hard for those she loved,
Those she loved, remember.

Ever remembered by husband Arthur. F22

SHEFFIELD—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Floyd Sheffield, who passed away Feb. 20th., 1943.
Sadly missed and always remembered by his wife, daughters Jean and Margaret. F22

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Trading was practically at a standstill on Toronto Exchange today and prices moved narrowly. Closing of the New York market for George Washington Day in the United States. Industrials edged ahead fractions while golds and western oils were weaker. Base metals mixed gains and losses to hold steady.

Volume for the first three hours was 296,000 shares, about 214,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

Removal of Bell Telephone rights from trading today left a large gap in volume. The rights were very active while they were on the board and contributed a considerable share of the days' volume. Several utilities and scattered key industrial stocks showed fractional advances.

Senior issues in the golds slipped lower in a weak market.

PRODUCE MARKET

Churning cream unchanged. No. 1, 74 cents fob; 78 delivered. Butter prints unchanged. First grade 70 1-2; second grade 69 1-2.

The egg market continues firm at unchanged prices and eggs are arriving in good volume. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: Grade A large 42-43; grade A medium 41-42; grade A pullet 39-40; grade B 39-40; grade C 33-34. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 47; grade A medium 45; grade A pullet 43; grade B 43-44; grade C 37.

Butter solids, unchanged. First grade 68 second grade 67.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Feb. 22 —(CP)— The livestock market here held steady up to noon and prices were generally unchanged. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: cattle 600; calves 70; hogs 150; sheep and lambs 400. Left from yesterday's trading were 450 head.

Some choice weighty steers sold at $19-$20 and medium to good light steers were $18-$19 with plain kinds downward to $17. Good cows were $15-$16 with canners and cutters at $10-$12. Good bulls were $18-$19. Choice fed yearlings sold at $22-$23 with medium kinds downward to $18. A few plain stockers sold at $16-$16.50.

Calves were steady at $28-$30 for choice with plain to medium at $16-$26.

Hogs were steady at $30.50 for Grade A and $30.10 for Grade B1. Sows were $22, dressed.

Lambs were steady with good westerns selling at $25-$25.25 and a few sheep sold at $7-$11.

Togliatti Charges Attempt to Form 'Holy Alliance'

Rome, Feb. 22. (AP)—Italian Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti accuses Pope Pius of seeking to organize a "holy alliance" against Communist countries.

Togliatti, target of an assassin last year, in an article titled "God and the Atlantic Pact", writes critically of the Pope's call for special Masses April 3 "to expiate the crime of the enemies of God" in sentencing Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary, to life imprisonment.

Apparently Togliatti, who always has stood for avoiding direct conflict with the church in predominantly Roman Catholic Italy, was marking out a new Communist line here. Should the party abandon its live-and-let-live attitude toward the church, some observers say, this would be tantamount to admitting that the party failed to win the Catholic Masses with promises of improving their lot.

Togliatti devotes most of his space to the Pope's statement that he welcomed "the steps that have been taken to unite states together in ever closer alliances" to ward off "such disasters as strifes and civil discords, and wars which in the future with new weapons will cause immense destruction."

Togliatti said this constituted implicit endorsement of the projected Atlantic pact.

"With these words it is stated clearly, without reticence or pretence, that the Pope wants a holy alliance against the peoples that have committed the terrible sacrilege of freezing themselves from capitalism and imperialism," Togliatti writes.

Police of Two Countries Will Question Dennis

White Plains, N.Y., Feb. 22. (CP)—Police from two Montreal suburban municipalities today joined those of many United States cities who are waiting to question Gerard G. Dennis, sauve handsome 28-year-old Canadian who is wanted in many places in burglary charges.

Chief Robert Byford of Westmount, Que., and Chief Joseph Griffiths of Outremont, Que., were among those anxious to seek information from Dennis. Montreal police said last week they want to question him about a $150,000 jewelry and fur theft.

At his request, Dennis, a native of St. Catharines, held a private conference this morning with Sidney H. Reich, a White Plains lawyer. Shortly after that, two agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation questioned the prisoner.

Detective Lieutenant Lawrence Ruhl, commander of the New Rochelle, N.Y., detective division, expected to question Dennis concerning a $10,000 burglary of a Buffalo, N.Y., jewelry store.

Circulate Petition For Liquor Store

Owen Sound, Feb. 22 (CP)— A petition, urging the approval of a liquor store, is being circulated in this dry city. Owen Sound has been under local option since 1907 and the nearest liquor store now is at Wiarton, 28 miles from here.

The petition asks if the public is in favor of a beer warehouse, liquor store, beverage rooms, serving of liquor with meals.

Mayor E. C. Sargent said the council will have no alternative but to hold a vote if the petition with the proper number of signatures, comes before it.

DESPAIR AND RESCUE IN UTAH

Fred Tomayso, of the Navajo tribe, stands behind a frozen pile of dead lambs on his ranch in the Navajo reservation. Tomayso, shown holding two dead lambs, lost 70 of his herd of 110 head. Untold hardship was suffered by the Indians and their stock who were cut off from food and fodder for many weeks during the heavy snows which blocked off the area. — Central Press Canadian.

When Lizbeth Eubank (right) head of the Navajo Mountain school, heard of the story of an old medicine man, she dropped everything, procured a "weasel" and sped to the rescue of this little Indian baby who was near death with pneumonia. Said the medicine man, "I've chanted for her for two nights and there is no chance—you may go get her." Photo shows Mrs. Eubank handing the baby to mother while the father holds lamb in background as weasel starts for hospital.—Central Press Canadian.

First Reading Given Bill For Confederation

London, Feb. 22 (CP)— A bill to make effective the terms of union agreed between Canada and Newfoundland was introduced today in the House of Commons and given formal first reading.

There was no discussion on first reading. The bill, known as the British North America Bill, was introduced by Philip Noel-Baker, Dominions secretary.

It is described as a measure to confirm and give effect to the terms of union agreed between Canada and Newfoundland."

Debate on the second reading is expected as Sir Alan Herbert independent member for Oxford University, has led a campaign for restoration of a responsible government in Newfoundland which could conduct negotiations with Canada.

Noel-Baker will present the government's views that Newfoundland voted for Confederation with Canada and that the United Kingdom should approve the union immediately.

Debate Expected in Lords

Further debate is expected in the House of Lords where Lord Semphill has introduced a Newfoundland liberation bill. This bill, in its preamble says that the British government gave an undertaking in 1934 that self-government should be restored to Newfoundland when it became self-supporting. Newfoundland reverted to colonial status at that time because of financial straits.

Father and Son Apparently Beat Each Other to Death

Mt. Vernon, O., Feb. 22 — (AP) —A father and son were found dead in their apartment Monday and Coroner C. L. Harmer said they apparently had beaten each other to death in a drunken brawl. Then men were Herbert Stevens, 61, and his son, Harold, 32. Dr. Harmer said his verdict would be that they died fighting one another while in an intoxicated condition — "unless other evidence should be turned up."

Recount Ballots In St. George Riding Decided

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — A select committee of the Ontario legislature decided today to direct a recount of ballots cast last June 7 in the election of Education Minister Porter in St. George constituency.

A select committee on privileges and elections was appointed to investigate C.C.F. charges of irregularities in the St. George election in which Mr. Porter defeated C.C.F. candidate Frank Frier.

Mines Minister Frost, chairman of the committee, said the issue concerned the alleged discrepancy between figures recorded by election officials shortly after the election last June 7 and other figures arrived at as the result of an inspection of election papers made last Jan. 17 at the direction of the chief election officer, Major Alex Lewis.

Mr. Frost told the committee today if it could assume figures arrived at following the Jan. 17 inspection were correct, a new ballot count would not be necessary.

Tabulations

Porter 10,265, Frier, 7,421, John McVicar (Lib) 4,891.

Results tabulated by St. George election officials:

Porter 11,774; Frier 7,010; McVicar 4,490.

Opposition leader E. B. Jolliffe said no member of the committee could know which were the correct figures and described as "unfair" the suggestion that the committee assume one or other set of figures were correct.

Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver asked that decision on whether or not ballots be counted should be postponed.

Mr. Jolliffe said he would not be "sidetracked for the next six weeks," counting ballots.

Mr. Frost said a recount could be made in one week by Major Lewis and two assistants under the scrutiny of representatives of Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Liberal members of the committee.

The committee adjourned to consider the possibility that a County Judge could be appointed to relieve Major Lewis and his assistants of the heavy jof of counting some 25,000 ballots while attempting to carry on their normal duties of the session.

Navy Rating Designation Now Simplified

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (CP)—Standardization has gone a long way in the services. It now has found expression in the way Canada's sailors will be addressed and dressed.

For instance, in addressing Canada's navy, it's no longer "Leading Stoker," but "Leading Seaman," naval headquarters said today, in announcing a simplified and standard system of designating the ratings in the navy.

From now on, all chief petty officers, first and second class, will be simply addressed as "Chief Petty Officer."

A man previously addressed as "Leading Air Radio Mechanic," is now simply "Leading Seaman." A Chief Engine Room Artificier, first class, is now called "Chief Petty Officer."

Said the Navy in a statement: "Practice of referring to men by their trade or branch has been discontinued."

The new system of designations has been brought into effect at the same time as the R.C.N.'s new substantive structure.

The new substantive structure calls for an expansion of classes of ratings. Created were two new classes of chief petty officer and two of petty officer. It thus "broadened the opportunities for advance in the service," the Navy said.

Standardization of dress in the navy has been implemented only a month ago. It requires all men below petty officer, first class, to wear the seamen's "square rig"—bell-bottomed trousers, jumper and square collar.

Affected by the change, said the Navy, are petty officers, second class and below, in the following branches: Supply, secretariat, medical, artificer and artisan.

CHILD PICKED OUT OF STOVE

Regina, Feb. 22 — (CP)—Police said charges are expected to be laid against a 19-year-old unmarried mother whose newly-born baby boy was picked out of hot coals in a kitchen stove early Monday. Relatives of the girl said they were awakened by the baby's cries and found it in the kitchen range. The mother, a business college student, was lying on a chesterfield in a nearby room.

3000 PIECES OF TIES MADE INTO QUILT

Gowganda, Feb. 22 (CP)—Mrs. Arthur Fraser of this tiny Northern Ontario townsite is the proud possessor of a quilt made by her grandmother from men's discared silk ties. There are over 3,000 pieces in the quilt and Mrs. Fraser considers it one of her most prized possessions as it is at least 80 years old. She says that, despite its great age, it is still in serviceable condition.

Teachers Not Obligated to Carry Out Club Work After School Says Goldring

Toronto, Feb. 22. (CP)—Dr. C. C. Goldring, director of Education in Toronto, said today there is "no legal obligation on teachers to carry out choir work, club work or games," after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dr. Goldring's remarks were contained in a report to the management committee of the Board of Education on the recent dispute between the Board and the male public school teachers, who now are refusing to continue what they call extra-curricular after-school activities until the city grants them a pay differential.

Since negotiations broke down between the male teachers and the Board two weeks ago, the male teachers have discontinued the late work with their students.

"While no legal obligation appears to exist it has been the practice for many years for teachers to engage in activities of this kind," Golring said.

He suggested the school principals allocate the extra work among both the male and female teachers "in an equitable manner, having in mind the needs of his school and the capacities and resources of his staff members."

OBITUARY

ALFRED F. HEYWORTH
(Stirling)

Stirling, Feb. 22 (Special) — Alfred Field Heyworth died suddenly of a heart seizure in his apartment here sometime between Sunday night and Monday morning. He was a bachelor and lived alone.

Born in Madoc Village, late Mr. Heyworth was about 73 years of age, and was a son of the late James Heyworth and his wife the late Elizabeth Fox. For a considerable time he was engaged in the hardware business in Hearst, Northern Ontario, and for the past eighteen years he made his home in Stirling. He was a member of the Church of England.

Surviving him are two brothers, Arthur Heyworth, of Toronto, and Frank Heyworth of Belleville; one sister, Mrs. Michael Farrell, Toronto.

P.E.I. Legislature To Restrict Color Of Margarine

(By The Canadian Press)

Prince Edward Island's legislature opens today, the seventh provincial parliament to start its 1949 session.

The Liberal government headed by Premier J. Walter Jones is expected to introduce measures modifying the island's Labor Act and lifting the ban on sale and manufacture of margarine while restricting its color to prevent imitation of butter. Premier Jones has predicted that sessional business will be mostly amendments to present legislation.

A suggestion that the Alberta government help make Alberta coal available to Ontario and eastern Canadian markets was made yesterday in the legislature at Edmonton by H. B. Macdonald independent member for Calgary. He said the coal should be made available to the east "under favorable government regulations" and that the Federal government could help by "freight subsidies or other means."

Appointment of a Canadian as Canada's Governor-General was urged by another Alberta House member, A. E. Fee, a Social Crediter representing Sedgewick.

The Ontario legislature gave final reading to a government bill amending the Community Centres Act. The legislation provides grants for communities building halls and arenas or constructing athletic fields, outdoor rinks or swimming pools.

Saskachewan Liberals said they favored the Canadian Wheat Board as sole marketing agency for coarse grains if the board acted as a producers' agency. At present, coarse grains are marketed through the Winnipeg grain exchange.

E. M. Culliton, Liberal member for Gravelbourg, said in Thone-Speech debate the Liberals believed most of the farmers were anxious to have coarse grains marketing through the Wheat Board.

The C.C.F. government of Saskatchewan defeated 28 to 20 a non-confidence motion sponsored by the Liberal opposition.

Man is Accused Of Jabbing Pin In Woman's Neck

Toronto, Feb. 22. (CP)—A man who gave his name as Alvin Eagan, 59-year-old carpenter from Lloydtown, Ont., was arrested Monday night after a young woman complained to police that he jabbed her in the neck with a pin.

Marjory Dobson said that as she was walking on Jarvis Street with another girl a man approached from behind, threw his arm around her neck and stuck a pin in the back of her neck. Her screams brought a policeman who arrested Eagan. He was booked on a common assault charge after police found three straight pins in his lapel.

Eagan was remanded to March 1 for mental examination.

232 Killed When Wall Collapses

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 22 (AP) —A huge wall collapsed Sunday with a terrifying roar and killed 232 persons, many of them women and children, who had assembled for a daily food dole in the centre of Praia, capital of the Cape Verde Islands.

Governor Joao de Figueriredo announced the number of dead and said many were injured. Forty-seven of the more seriously injured were in hospital.

The disaster occurred at 11:15 a.m. Sunday, when 3,500 persons assembled in an enclosure for their doled ration. The government of the Portuguese colony off northwest Africa began the dole three years ago after famine hit the islands.

The assembly place, some 2,000 yards square, was enclosed by a wall 20 feet high. For protection from the burning sun, the wall was topped by a tile roof. The wall was built of stones and plaster many years ago, but had been kept in repair and no defects had been noted recently.

While the daily soup was being distributed, a 100-foot section of the wall suddenly ripped away and came down with a roar.

Church bells tolled the alarm. Screams of the injured brought hundreds to the scene for rescue efforts.

A high wind had whipped the islands early in the day and some believed it might have contributed to the disaster.

A mass funeral will be given the victims.

Remand Sam Carr Until March 1

Ottawa, Feb. 21 (CP)—Sam Carr today was remanded until March 1 by Deputy Magistrate Joachim Sauve in city police court at his second appearance in Canada on a charge of conspiring with Russian embassy officials to forge a passport.

Carl Herman, 26-year-old Toronto lawyer, told the court he would make every effort to be prepared to go forward with the hearing at the next appearance. He was informed by the magistrate that he would have to elect method of trial at that time.

Mr. Herman told reporters he expected to have another lawyer associated with him in the defence. He also anticipated that a request for bail might be made when Carr comes up again next week.

Flies to Toronto With Message From Ukraine

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)—Baria Rebet, a Ukrainian woman who flew from Germany to Toronto for a few hours Sunday, says an army of 200,00 partisans is working behind the "iron curtain" for a democratic Ukraine.

She left behind pictures and photostatic copies of appeals issued by the insurgent army's commander-in-chief, General Taras Chuprinka.

She left here to return to the secret headquarters of the Supreme Ukrainian Liberation Council in western Germany, where she will resume contact with the rebel force in the Ukraine.

The underground workers are laborers in factories by day and at night, armed with weapons stolen from Communists, distribute leaflets, attack arsenals and Communist police forces, she said.

Chimney Sweeps In Berlin Strike For Pay and Soap

Berlin, Feb. 21 — (AP) — Berlin's chimney sweeps went on strike today. They said they are getting a dirty deal.

The chimney sweep in Germany, with his black face, top hat and armful of brushes, is a good luck symbol. Strollers touch him for luck.

Four hundred sweeps met in a beer garden and voted to strike. They included the sweeps from the Soviet sector, this kind of unity in Berlin hasn't been seen for a long time.

They want a pay boost from 55 to 77 marks a week—a raise from the current $16.50 to $23.10. They also want one-quarter of their pay in West marks so they can buy soap. They say Soviet-backed East marks won't buy soap.

FALL ELECTION PREDICTED

Victorio, B.C., Feb. 22 — (CP) —A federal election early in the fall is forseen by Fisheries Minister Mayhew. He said Monday in an interview that if the government can complete its Commons legislative program by the end of June, "we possibly will go to the country early in the fall to give a new government time to prepare for a 1950 session."

Scout and Guide Week

This week is set apart as a week of observance and appreciation of the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movement, one of the finest organizations which has been realized from the standpoint of the influence it has exerted upon the lives of the boys and girls who are growing up. Its past is so well known as scarcely to need mention for it has left its mark on many thousands of young lives. To the young it adds a happiness in doing the things that are of value in the development of their careers. No more impressive work has been done by any organization for the young who will be the adults of the future with blessings marking their own way through life and those blessings which are shed on those among whom they move.

There are 168,000 Guides and Scouts of Canada spread across the Dominion on farm or in hamlet, town or city, some inland and some near the sea, some in the south and others in the far north, all responding to the one idea of good citizenship and homemaking.

Guides and Scouts in Canada are numbered among those who speak not only English, but other tongues. There are in Canada Indian companies and there are Eskimo Brownies. These boys and girls are helping to form a bond of right thinking and right doing which must be recognized as of great importance to our people.

They are the makers of good citizens. As Lord Rowallan, Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth, has said, "Scouting and Guiding are a way of life for our boys and girls. The more Scouts and Guides we have the better citizens we will have. Scouting and Guiding form one of the few real hopes for a better understanding among the peoples of the world, for it is a common basis on which peoples of all countries and creeds can meet."

Parents realize the influence of the Guide and Scout laws upon the young in the formative time of their lives. The influence in the past has been very great and that it will be no less but even greater in extent in the future is one of the grounds for hope for the world.

Always Alert

In modern traffic which moves rapidly the need for care is very great. Motors cannot be halted all at once for there is a momentum which will carry them sufficient distance to cause a nasty accident if there is a misjudgment or mistake on the part of the pedestrian or the driver.

Traffic seems even more swift with the expansion of business and changes of population which have followed the close of the war.

A person crossing the streets must for his own safety and in thought for the operators of cars and trucks always exercise his best judgment. For crossing traffic lanes is something which has its responsibility for those driving and those afoot alike. Motorists feel their responsibility and in driving face the ever-present danger of the actions of the pedestrian or of the operator of approaching car or truck. They meet the possibility of not only a misjudgment on their own part but also such an error on the part of the other person or car driver.

Accordingly, whether one is driving or walking, everything should be done with the fullest realization of the step being taken by one another.

How Men Lived in the Hidden Ages

The study of the archeologist takes him into ways out of the beaten highways of the world. In modern days a tremendous volume of information has been brought to light about the past ages. But it is not in modern centres of course that he labors, it is in places the approach to which has changed greatly with the passage of many generations. Ancient Persia in the Middle East and Near East as well have occupied the attention of students of earlier civilizations all fired by the hope of learning more and more of the rise of humanity in the scale of civilization. Amazing revelations have been brought to light in Crete, Egypt, and in the land where once the Medes and Persians built up their mighty civilization. Everything seems to have changed, the mighty rivers have changed their course, fertile lands have become desert wastes, and under the sand may lie structures which marked the summit of civilizations in their day.

Latest news of an archeological find comes from Mongolia by way of Moscow with the reported evidence of a fabulous civilization which existed two thousand years ago deep in the isolated mountains in Outer Mongolia.

WASHINGTON

How keep this day of days aflame?
'Tis not enough to hail his name
And tell his virtues, one by one,
Then fail him when the day has gone.

We are his future! Grown to be
The children he would never see,
To whom he looked for courage high
That liberty should never die.

He warned us always to beware
Of every doctrine of despair;
To heed no voice that would betray
And lead us out of freedom's way.

Firm as he stood, so we must stand
With all the strength at our command
Against whatever force may be,
To keep our glorious country free.

At a meeting of the Belleville Board of Education last night, the chairman of the board, Fred S. Deacon, presented a lengthy communication with regards to the erection of a Collegiate Institute in this city as soon as possible at an estimated cost of $125,000.00. It was moved by F. E. O'Flynn and carried unanimously that the matter of a site for the Collegiate Institute be referred to the Sites, Building and Repairs committee. H. J. Clarke, School Inspector, reported that 1416 pupils were enrolled in the public schools in the city during the month of January. W. C. Mikel, K.C., wrote the Board offering the sum of $25.00 in prizes for the best papers submitted by school children on the subject "How to Make a Bigger and Better Belleville." The paper not to exceed 1000 words. There will be three prize of $12.00, $8.00 and $5.00. The judges to be three ex-Mayors of the city. The matter was referred to the School Management Committee with power to act. The following were present at the meeting: Fred S. Deacon, John Elliott, N. D. MacFayden, F. E. O'Flynn, E. A. Ridley, C. M. Reid, P. J. Wims, T. Marshall, Arthur McGie, W. R. McCreary and Dr. Marshall.

Mr. Stuart Jenks, who attended business college here some years ago and who will be remembered by many old friends, has been appointed Deputy Attorney General for the Province of Nova Scotia. After graduation from business college he was in the employ of the Brown Manufacturing Company here for some time. He married Miss Nettie Yeomans of this city in 1898. She was a teacher in Octavia Street School for ten years.

Mr. Thomas Ritchie has returned home after a business trip to the Old Country.

It looks as though many people in Belleville desire to see the city council composed of twenty two members as was the case some years past. In that case ex-aldermen in Belleville will soon be as plentiful as colonels in Kentucky.

Mrs. Robinson, who is leaving here to reside in Chicago, was presented last evening with a teacher's bible by the Young People's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn's orchestra took part in a concert at Ameliasburg last evening. Mr. Robert J. Howe also contributed several recitations.

Mr. John F. Gardiner, Assistant Manager of the Bell Telephone Company's agency in Kingston, has been promoted to the position of Manager of the agency in Stratford. Mr. Gardiner is a son of our late and respected citizen, Thomas Gardiner. He commenced his business career as a messenger in the Belleville telephone office. By fidelity to the company's interests and by his pleasing and obliging manner in dealing with the public, he won his promotion. Many friends here will be pleased to learn of his continued success.

A word to the city authorities: Are you aware that the crossings on Front Street are in a disgraceful condition? Why are they not cleaned? What do we pay taxes for? Why thus slumber?

THE FATHER OF OUR COUNTRY

What is to be our judgment of George Washington?

Some people have doubted in recent years whether or not he was worthy of the honor accorded him.

Washington was a very human person. Mason Weems, who wrote a life of Washington more than 150 years ago, exalted the man far beyond human nature and gave us a picture which was repelling and priggish. Recent study of the life of Washington has shown that he shared with the rest of mankind the foibles with which we are all too familiar. But the few faults he had were in little, insignificant matters.

Washington's life can be summed up as follows: He lived a life of complete purity in an age when such exemplary conduct was not expected in a man of his station. He was probably the most consecrated public servant America has had in her history. His honesty was just what we have believed it to be — complete, and as nearly perfect as anything human can attain. His character was so magnificent that it held the Revolutionary forces together and insured final triumph for our country.

Don't be afraid to praise Washington. He was all you have ever believed him to be, and more.

Panhandlers Work District to Get Money for Friend

Chicago, Feb. 22 — (AP) — "Blinky the Mooch" died Monday among familiar surroundings. He collapsed and fell from his bar stool in the Skid Row tavern where he had beer for breakfast for years.

Benjamin Morgan was his real name. He got his nickname from a glass eye, even though glassy eyes, rotgut whisky, raw throats and unwashed faces are standard equipment among the habitues of West Madison Street.

When Blinky slid from the stool in the B and B tavern, one of the owners, Jay Wayne, hurried to his side. But Blinky, 64, was dead. It seemed he had been expecting his mooching days were over. In his pocket was this note:

"Please notify the B and B tavern. I want to be cremated and I don't want any flowers at my funeral. Thank you, everybody, Ben Morgan."

Wayne said he had known Blinky for at least 25 years and in recent years had served him a glass of beer every morning.

"He wasn't a heavy drinker but he always had beer for breakfast," Wayne said. In the summer time he sold newspapers and forms at the racetrack. In the winter he took it easy.

Monday night, instead of the "cuppacoffee" mooch, some panhandlers along the row were buttonholing the more prosperous with:

SOVIETS GETTING OVER SPREE

The spree in this case is not a common or garden jag, but the river on which Berlin is built. The Soviet military administration is building this brdge across the river as part of the new railroad project to circumnavigate the western sectors en route to the Russian zone. The project is the result of the intensification of the counter blockade by the western powers in retaliation for the Russian blockade of Berlin.—Central Press Canadian.

Africa's Progress Seen Threat To Brazilian Crops

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Canadian Press News Analyst

Intensive development of African possessions projected by Britain and other European countries has sent Brazilian industrial and agricultural leaders into an emergency huddle in the market centre of Sao Paulo.

This meeting is to devise means to counter what they regard as a tremendous threat to Brazil's foreign markets.

Mario Penteado, an economic expert, draws a grim picture for Brazil. He insisted that every crop vital to the country will be grown in Africa.

He says that the European colonial powers threaten Brazil's world markets in coffee, cotton, textiles, vegetable oils, fruits and cocoa. Brazil not only will lose those European countries as customers, he declares, but she will have to battle them for survival in the European markets as well.

Dire Things

Those are some of the dire things which are said to threaten Brazil. But just what machinery is going to produce these developments?

Penteado answers that, too, and dwells heavily on Britain's program. He says she plans to develop 17 of 35 colonial areas to grow food and cattle.

Penteado points out that United States capital is being wooed with offers of free flow of profits That is a true bill, as this column pointed out some time ago.

Britain took much encouragement from President Truman's announcement in his inaugural address of a "bold new program" to help the world's needy areas Guarantees—presumably government guarantees—to private investors who would do their part, where an important point in the great program he outlined.

Commonwealth Rehabilitation

Whether Britain will profit by private American investments in her colonial development remains to be seen. It's clear that she hopes to attract capital from the United States in carrying out a program which in effect is a rehabilitation of the British Commonwealth.

With the vast Indian peninsula and Burma now independent, Britain is bent on repairing her fortunes by wholesale development of her African possessions. Most of them are potential treasure-houses, and she is determined to capitalize this situation.

Smaller wonder that Brazil should be worried. And she isn't the only one, for many of her South American neighbors have noted the writing on the wall.

Robber Gets $1,000 And Piggy Bank Money

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)— An unidentified robber last night pushed his way into a children's party and stole $1,000 in cash and the contents of a child's piggy bank. Police said one of the children opened the door when the robber rang the bell. Then the man ransacked the apartment.

Eire News Letter:

Vital Partition Question No Nearer Solution

By MICHAEL O'MARA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Dublin, Feb. 22 (CP)— The fuss and fury of the recent general election in Northern Ireland has died down but many observers both here and in Belfast feel the vital partition question on which the campaign was fought is no nearer solution.

The Unionists, a majority in Northern Ireland, but a minority in the whole island, have once more voiced their "undying allegiance" to Britain.

The Nationalists, a strongly vocal minority in Northern Ireland, still allege that "gerrymandering" has robbed them of proper representation in the Northern Ireland legislature.

Eire Bases Valuable

Eire says she will never enter any Atlantic pact until Ireland is reunited and wartime experience showed just how valuable Eireann bases would be to the western allies.

Relations between the north and south have never been particularly good and the gap widened sharply when Prime Minister John Costello raised a "fighting fund" of more than £51,000 ($204,000) to aid Nationalist candidates in the Northern Ireland election.

Ulster Orangemen resented this "interference" and doubly resented that the fund largely came from collections taken at Roman Catholic church doors.

Religion plays a part of almost medieval importance in Irish politics. Speakers on both sides in the election made appeals to sectarianism.

How can the partition problem be settled? By violence?

Hot heads in the south have suggested to "send in the Irish Republican army and win Ulster back." But responsible leaders pay little attention to such an idea.

By Arbitration?

There seems little common meeting ground for Sir Basil Brooks, Northern Ireland Prime Minister, and Costello. Their views and policies are so sharply divergent it would be almost impossible to find a formula on which to base discussions.

Federal Union

It has been suggested that Northern Ireland might enter a federal state with provincial rights granted from Dublin instead of London. Another proposal has been that the border counties of Fermanagh and Tyrone, in each of which Nationalists polled more votes than Unionists in the election, "be allowed to secede" to Eire.

Neither of these ideas would be seriously entertained by any Unionist administration.

One possibility remains. Ulstermen say they fear that within "25 to 50 years" the Roman Catholics in the north with a higher birth rate will "out-breed" their present Protestant majority and will be able to win a general election, something they have not managed to do since the border was laid down.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to quries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

IF THE BOOT FITS LET THE DOCTORS WEAR IT.

Here's a letter typical of many.

Dear Dr. Brady:

In your column cited in Modern Hospital you state regarding the practice of excluding the husband from the hospital delivery room.

"Such practices will probably continue as long as the shady lying-in institutions or hospitals can enforce upon the dumb public the 'rule' excluding the husband from his place at his wife's side when their baby is being born."

The ditty You Call Everybody Darling might be adapted to go You Call Everybody Stupid. They are stupid if they have piles. Dumb if they let any one exclude them from the delivery room .. All this amazes me because, after all, it is the doctors who make the rules or it is stupid of me to think so?

(Signed—Mrs. H. B. H.)

Stupid if they suffer from piles. That applies to everybody.

But let's avoid traffic congestion in the delivery room. I do not favor admitting everybody to the delivery room, but only the patient's husband, and him only if he wants to be with her and she wants him to be with her at the supreme moment of their life.

Mrs. H. B. M. says she has had three children without benefit of hospital. This is a thing not much done nowadays on the eastern seaboard, although it is still common in the central part of the country. She wonders why I don't promote the attendance of maternity cases in their own homes. Finally she would have a higher regard for this column if I would convert the smart, cocksure tone to one of consideration for the readers' intelligence. Readers can't all know everything I know — if they did there would be no market for my writing.

Man, no!

The suggestion that I promote attendance of maternity patients in their own home is fine —that is what I have aimed at through the controversy. Home, I always say, is the best place to have a baby—provided you have a home fit to live in.

Reasons why home is safer and better for mother and infant than any lying-in institution:

1. Less risk of infection being carried or transferred from other puerperal women or from other infants.
2. Generally some one ready to wait on mother when she wants something — in the hospital she waits till the attendant gets around to her.
3. Unlikely that a squad of students or a class of nurses will examine the patient.
4. Doctor will probably attend in person instead of intern or nurse proxy.
5. When it is all over you are confident the baby you have is your own.
6. Mother can nurse, feed, cuddle and hum lullabies to her baby at her own discretion — in the hospital "rules" abolish such nonsense.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A successful business man whose hobby is old books, especially Canadian, asked me to drop in at his house Sunday afternoon to go through some English catalogues of antique books he had just received. He thought I might be able to advise him as to the value of some of the old angling and sporting books listed.

It was a pleasure. We had a very happy couple of hours going through his library and poring through these precious catalogues from London and Edinburgh. One of the most comfortable poses hard-boiled characters can adopt is pretending to be intellectuals.

When it came time for me to leave, I found my car was stuck in the snow drift in front of his house. He came out to help me, shoving. But in a minute, I knew the car was too deeply bogged for two of us to handle.

"Let's ask a couple of your neighbors to lend a hand . . ." I suggested, puffing.

"Well . . . uh . . . ," hesitated my intellectual friend, "I'd rather not, old boy."

"But, good heavens," I exclaimed, "we can get a couple of them, surely . . ."

"As a matter of fact, old boy," explained my successful friend, confidentially, "I'm not on very good terms with my neighbors . . ."

"Well, never mind the next door ones," I suggested, urgently. "We can ask somebody farther along here, eh?"

"As a matter of fact, old boy," resisted my friend, "there's nobody along here I could really ask . . ."

And it was true. This man had achieved prosperity, lived in a fine big home, was to all appearances a successful man. But he hadn't a neighbor he could speak to. We phoned for a tow-truck.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHERE MOST NEEDED

It is an inspiring thing for a human being to so locate himself as to be most useful, regardless of any monetary consideration.

I recall on old friend, who was a noted physician and surgeon in the Middle West, who gave up a very lucrative practice to go to China, where he was to be head man in a hospital that served thousands of patients a year. I asked him why he did this, and he replied that it was because of the larger opportunity to serve so many more. He felt that it was there he was most needed.

We don't give full credit to many of our public servants who sacrifice so much that they may better serve their fellow man — in some place where they are most needed.

It was to gain that rare thing known as "inward happiness" that Albert Schweitzer gave up a brilliant career as musician, teacher, and philosopher to go to an isolated spot in Africa, where he has so wonderfully served the natives "on the edge of the primeval jungle" — burying himself "among a strange and primitive people" — because he felt that he was most needed there.

In 1909 Laurence Clifton Jones, known as "The Little Professor," chose a neglected spot near Jackson, Mississippi, to found a school for Negroes. Missouri-born, and Northern educated, he had many a good job offered, but he chose to start among his own, "on a pine stump with three illiterate pupils and $1.65 cash" — because he felt that he was most needed there. Today that school — thanks to scores of contributors — has a $250,000 plant, 1,700 acres of good land, and nearly 500 pupils. It has sent out scores of useful, trained workers, who have brought a rich reward to that beloved Negro who said: "I want to do something for my people." The school is known as Piney Woods.

We are most needed where we can do the most good. That should be a guide to us all. And usually this is exactly where we are sure to be the happiest. Results for others is a far more profitable ideal than our own selfish desires.

People suffered untold hardships in the early days of the development of this western world as they migrated to places where they felt that they were most needed. We should bear this in mind, as well — that where we are most needed is where the opportunity for service is greatest in every way.

Govt. Acts Swiftly In Second Attempt To Deport Count

Ottawa, Feb. 22 — (CP)—The government acted swiftly Monday in a second attempt to deport French Count Jacques de Bernonville, accused of wartime collaboration with the Germans.

Resources Minister MacKinnon announced in the Commons that he has ordered the reconstitution of the immigration board which decreed the first deportation order, one which was set aside in Quebec's superior court Monday.

A government official, elaborating, said this meant that the government is going to repeat its original proceedings. The court found that the original board was improperly constituted because it had too few members.

The official, agreeing that this was true, said the new or revived board would have enough members — believed to be three—and that it would start sittings shortly.

Asked if the count and his family could be held now that they have been freed, the official said those and other factors would have to be decided when the official judgment is received here and studied.

WEDDINGS

TRAVERS—McKENNA

Christ Church, Belleville, was the scene of a very quiet wedding on Thursday, Feb. 17, when Eunice Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McKenna, Burnham Street, was united in marriage to Frederick Eugene Travers, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Travers, Burton Street. The Rev. J. Grant Sparling officiated.

The bride was lovely in a suit of mulberry gabardine, with brown hat, and grey coat.

The attendants were Mrs. J. Grant Sparling and Miss Elsie Rapino.

After the honeymoon trip to Toronto, the young couple will reside in Belleville.

CONNOR—SMITH

A quiet wedding was solemnized recently in Christ Church, Belleville, when Beatrice Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Smith, Belleville, was united in marriage to Douglas Frederick, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Connor, Kingston. The Rev. J. Grant Sparling officiated.

Miss Doris Smith attended the bride, and Mr. John Neal, of Belleville, was groomsman.

A reception was later held at the home of the bride's parents, from which the young couple left on a honeymoon trip to Watertown, N.Y. Upon their return they will reside in Kingston, Ont.

QUITS USING LAXATIVE PILLS

Keeps regular now with famous cereal

Is constipation a serious trouble with you? Then read this unsolicited letter:

"I was sick with constipation. I reached the point where no sort of pill helped. Then my mother said I should try KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. So I began eating ALL-BRAN every day. It's hard to believe, but I am regular now!" Mrs. Lucien Kelly, 8 Deslauriers Street, Quebec.

You, too, may forget you ever had constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. Simply eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative but a wholesome regulating cereal. Eat as a cereal or in muffins for constipation relief. Increased Use Of Liquor Blamed For Much Crime

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held in the Y.M.C.A. reception room on Friday afternoon with a fair attendance. Mrs. Shortt, the president conducted the opening services.

The treasurer gave her report and asked that all dues and donations be handed in before March 15th as the provincial convention is to be held in the spring instead of in the autumn.

A questionnaire on "One Day in Seven" was conducted by Miss Clazie. The answers emphasized the observances of the Lord's Day and how necessary it is for the individual and the nation as a whole that the Sabbath be observed and God's work promoted.

Mrs. Farnsworth presented some facts from the Bureau of Statistics.

The consumption of alcoholic beverages has increased 288 per cent from 1928 to 1947 while the population has increased only 35 per cent. The home life has been affected by this increased consumption. In a report from Ottawa in 1939 there were 2,068 divorces granted and in 1947 there were 7,942.

In a survey of a prison with 400 inmates 80 per cent attributed their downfall to drink. In eight murder cases in one Canadian court seven had liquor as a major factor. In Ontario 300 murders of women since 1936, liquor has been a factor in at least 80 per cent of them.

If the brewers and distillers can break down the laws prohibiting liquor advertising now in force in several provinces and get this advertising legalized in each province, then it will mean that not only in newspapers and magazines but on radio programs there will be this pro-liquor propaganda.

The question of liquor advertising is within provincial jurisdiction said the speaker in conclusion.

Friends Present Many Gifts To Departing Family

Empey Hill—A large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Morey on Tuesday evening to spend the evening with them prior to their departure for their new home at Centreville.

Mrs. Morey was presented with a pair of boudoir lamps from the Tyendinaga East Women's Institute and Mr. and Mrs. Morey and Ray were presented with two Kenwood blankets and an electric lamp from the community. Mrs. Harry Sweetman presided for the short but interesting program.

BRIDGE STREET Y.P.U.

Bridge Street Y.P.U. meeting opened with a sing-song led by Miss Loretta McDougall.

The worship service in charge of the Missions Convener, Miss Nellie Morley, assisted by Miss Florence Foster, Miss Betty Alcorn and Miss Myra Allen, then followed.

A discussion on "The Dilemma of Chinese Youth" was read by the Misses Nellie Morley, Betty Alcorn and Florence Foster.

The president then took over the business part of the meeting and the Recreational Convener, Miss Betty McGowan, led in a period of games.

The meeting closed with "Taps".

Women's Activities

COMBINED MEETING

The combined meeting of the Senior Woman's Auxiliary and the Evening Branch of the Auxiliary was held on Monday evening at Christ Church Parish Hall.

The meeting opened with Mrs. Horace Wright, president of the Senior W.A. presiding over the devotional period.

Some very interesting and lovely lantern slides were then shown on the study book "One Family", dealing with the missionary work in China, Japan, India and Palestine, which were made even more interesting by the delightful descriptive talk, given by Mrs. J. Grant Sparling.

Robert Owen was in charge of the lantern and capably performed this exacting duty.

Miss Frances Reid, president of the Evening Branch extended a vote of thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Sparling, and welcomed the Seniors and members of St. John's Mission.

Refreshments were later served by the members.

Selfish Husband Leading Subject of Party Policy

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP)—The father of seven who earns £6 ($14) weekly and gives his wife £1 7s 6d. ($7.50) to pay household expenses and rent won't get away with it any more, if Liberals have their way.

Liberal strategists, hopeful of substantial gains in the 1950 general election, are making a drive for a better deal for British women.

A resolution demanding equality of treatment for women, in pay and other respects, will be a leading subject of discussion at the party annual conference in March.

The discussion will be buttressed by the support of a report entitled "The Great Partnership," prepared by an inquiry committee of seven women and issued by the Liberal Party.

Mrs. Doreen Gorsky, honorary secretary, a doctor's wife and a mother, said that since publication of a report she has been told of the case of a selfish husband.

When the unfortunate wife found it impossible to make ends meet she looked for work. When she went to the National Assistance Board for help, the only advice this government organization could give her was that she should seek a legal separation and make her husband pay her maintenance.

"It is anti-social to suggest that a legal separation is the only way of solving the problem," said Mrs. Gorsky.

The committee proposals are:

1. A new Married Persons Property Bill which would give a wife an enforceable right to be maintained with her children in accordance with the means of her husband.
2. Special courts to deal with defaulting husbands.
3. Complete legal equality of wives and protection of children in broken marriages by legislation for "adequate maintenance allowances with greater safeguards against evasion."
4. Family allowances, now payable at the rate of 5s weekly for each child after the first, should be payable for all children.
5. More encouragement to private enterprise to build homes, with better planned kitchens and co-operative marketing to bring down food distribution costs.

The committee said there must be "real partnership" in marriage.

"Although the war is over, there has been little relief to the mothers of the country from the complete absorption of their energies in running of their homes.

"If this continues, women cannot be the sympathetic companions and colleagues which their husbands need."

Gifts Presented To Couple Before Leaving District

White's District—On Wednesday evening the neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clapp to spend a social evening with them before they move to their new home north of Trenton. The Rev. A. C. McCallum called the gathering to order and asked Mr. and Mrs. Clapp to take seats of honor. In a few brief words he spoke of Mrs. Clapp's work in the choir of White's Church, in the Woman's Association, and in the Women's Institute. He called upon Mr. A. Jones to read the address and Mr. G. Meyers and Mr. A. Jones presented them with an electric table lamp, an electric toaster, an electric iron and an electric wall clock. Although taken by surprise Mr. and Mrs. Clapp thanked them for the lovely gifts which they will use in their new home and also asked them to visit them there.

The ladies served refreshments and all joined in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Clapp happiness in their new home.

New Service Club Formed at B.C.I.

At the home of John Thompson, 39 East Moira Street, the first meeting of B.C.I.'s newest service club was held on Sunday evening. The club, a Junior Hi-Y Club in the collegiate, is to be known as Beta Chapter of the Hi-Y Club. The club is being formed by the Alpha Chapter of the club. The club has as advisors Mr. G. E. Anderson, staff advisor, and Mr. Drummond MacDonald, Boys' Work Secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

At their meeting the boys elected the following executive: President, Ralph Cornish; Vice-President, Richard Morden; Secretary, Bruce Smith; Treasurer, John Thompson. Present besides the ten members of the club were Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Donald G. Rose, Secretary of the Key Club of Belleville, and Mr. Richard serving of delicious refreshments by Mrs. Thompson.

Membership to the club is open to all Lower School students of B.C.I. who are willing to live up to the club's platform of clean speech, clean living, clean sportsmanship, and clean scholarship, and who will accept its purpose, "to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Winnipeg Will Be Well Draped For Celebration

Winnipeg (CP)—If J. W. Sanger, general manager of the city hydro-electric system, and the utilities committee have anything to do about it, Winnipeg will be well draped with flags for its 75th birthday celebration.

The flag problem comes under the purview of Mr. Sanger's department this year. He's out to see there is plenty of bunting for the seven-day celebration as well as for other patriotic holidays.

It takes 828 flags to fill all the flag holders on Main Street from Redwood to Assiniboine Avenues and along Portage Avenue from Main to Maryland streets.

The city has on hand about 252 Union Jacks, 122 Canadian ensigns and 41 United States flags. It's been recommended that another 650 flags be bought — 475 Union Jacks and Canadian ensigns and 175 P.S. flags. The estimated cost will be about $2,600, and tenders will be required.

SINGER SEWING CENTRE

Marg. Truman Starts Studying Stage Technique

New York, (CP) — Margaret Truman is learning to frown, to smile, to bow "loosely" and to sing distinctly under the gay, benign direction of a ruddy-cheeked Dutchman.

But Coenraad V. Boos wants it understood, he's not teaching her how to sing. He's the singing coach of the nation's best known music student —not her singing teacher.

Coaching the daughter of the president of the United States is not a novel experience for the 73-year-old musician. An earlier pupil with professional ambitions was another Margaret, daughter of Woodrow Wilson.

He's enthusiastic about his new pupil from Missouri.

"Of course she is only beginning," he said of Margaret Truman, "but she has a lovely voice. Her French is beautiful and she's very industrious and ambitious. But she needs help with her German. I'm going to start her on Schubert's 'Ave Maria'."

Bos isn't prepared to say how long Miss Truman will work with him except that she intends to study "a long time".

"It's uncertain how soon she will sing in public," he said, "but what experiences she already has had will stand her in good stead. Every young artist has to go through the business of stage fright, and acquire stage presence. Now she wants to become a really fine artist and come out again."

Bos said his job includes correcting the languages of the singers, working on their facial expressions.

"Many singers work hard on foreign languages—they'll sing perfectly in French or German or Italian—and then neglect their own language," he continued.

"Also many singers—especially American girls—sing with no expression on their faces at all. They don't know how to use their brow to frown, if they're singing about death. Or to smile, if they are singing a gay song."

Bos trains his students thoroughly in the fine art of taking bows.

"So many singers have no ideas about this at all," he explained. "They bow so stiffly they look funny. I show them how to control themselves, be loose and relaxed and make their bows look elegant."

Miss Truman and her coach first became acquainted at the University of Kansas where Bos is a summer instructor. Shortly after the November election the Trumans hired him for the coaching job, but they told him actual work would have to wait until after the inauguration. Margaret's instruction began Feb. 7 at the Bos studio-apartment in New York's Wellington Hotel.

In 1908 Bos came to the United States with his wife, Elsa, a well known German songstress, and in succeeding years played for Presidents Wilson, Harding and both Roosevelts.

A pianist, one of his deep sorrows is that he cannot seem to play jazz. He has mastered the technique but not the rhythm.

"I think Hazel Scott's first rate," he commented.

PRISON BREAK SHORT-LIVED

Guelph, Feb. 22 (CP)— Freedom was brief Saturday for Gerald Veley, alias Vealey, 19-year-old Ontario Reformatory prisoner.

Less than two hours after he had made a break from the institution, the youth was captured by guards a short distance away. He was sentenced in Toronto for shopbreaking and is serving a term of 14 months.

RAWDON

River Valley W.I. Holds Social Evening

Rawdon.— On Wednesday evening 50 people of the River Valley community enjoyed a pot luck supper, bingo and social evening at the River Valley school house.

The tables were laden with a sumptuous array of delectable food and all enjoyed the supper.

Fifteen games of bingo followed with Mr. and Mrs. John Donohoe, Sr., in charge.

They were assisted by Messrs. John Kane and Ralph Utman.

Several families donated prizes for bingo and these were spread out on the school desk and each winner chose his own prize from the display:

Jennie Donohoe, glass pink plate; Ernest Carr, glass cigarette basket; Patsy Donohoe, pound of marshmallows; Glenn Bush, measuring cup and reamer; Douglas Kane, box Hasti-Notes; Jean Sanford, chocolate bars; Mrs. Fred McDonnell, plastic butter dish; Ernest Rosebush, screwdriver; Ralph Utman, box toilet soap; Thos. Hanna, plastic butter dish; Ottis Richardson, glass cream, sugar and reamer; Minnie Richardson, chocolate bars; Grace Donohoe, plastic egg holder; Bernice Richardson, glassware; Overall bingo, Mrs. Gerald Richardson, cash prize.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen staged two games with prizes for each and the judges were Messrs. Jack and Glenn Bush.

A Valentine cupid game was won by Mr. L. Lillicroft and his group of nine.

The apple contest was won by Mrs. John Donohoe, Sr., and her group of three with John Kane winning the laurels.

Mr. L. Lillicroft demonstrated an interesting stunt which several tried to carry out.

Mrs. Don Donohoe, vice president of the River Valley W.I., spoke briefly, voicing thanks to members and non-members for their co-operation in making the evening a success.

Blue Favored for Spring Clothes, Montreal, Regina Like Shorter Skirts

Toronto, —When Spring strikes the first chord of the Easter parade, Canadian women will form a symphony in blue.

The clothes tempo will be gay, subtle and detailed this year, as women across the Dominion concentrate on quality and line rather than startling innovations. A Canadian Press survey shows that the scale of blues will range from navy to pastel tones.

Navy blue crepe dresses, with touches of white or pink around the neck and cuff, will vie for popularity with the printed jersey. Indications are that the printed materials will be less vividly colored, depending more on intricate patterns in two or three muted shades to catch attention.

In all clothes, detail in design will break out in rows of fancy buttons, scatter pins, big patch pockets and bits of embroidery on collars. Clothes prices are about the same as last year.

Although Paris predicts shorter skirts, Canadians are slow to adopt them again after a thorough conversion to the 12-14 inch from the floor mode. Montreal clothes might be a little shorter, and they seem to be catching on in Regina, but aside from this there is little change in skirt lengths.

In Montreal, coats are either extremely loose or are fitted along princess lines. Generally, hats are small with a strong accent on veils which can be worn over the face or wound around the neck and over the shoulders. Coat lengths may be going up slightly in Montreal, but soft shoulders, slim waist and wide skirts remains.

Worsted and wool gabardine materials are popular suit materials with Toronto women while taffetas, jerseys, crepes and tulles are accepted for evening wear.

Navy blue, as well as grey and brown are getting the fashion tumble in Ottawa. The Napoleonic high-waisted empire silhouette is a popular number in both coats and frocks.

Western Canada is a bit too chilly yet to give much thought to Spring styles, but Winnipeg stores have started to show three-piece suits and a few flowery hats. It's still cold in Regina, but skirts are due to be shortened about three inches.

Edmonton store owners are pleased that chilly breezes haven't deterred women from shopping for Spring clothes. Cabbage-red suits are selling quickly.

But cool breezes aren't encouraging Vancouver women in shopping sprees. Salesmen say Spring buying is far from normal despite a slight decrease in the cost of clothes.

Bread Consumption Up in South Africa

Cape Town (CP)—The nutrition council is giving serious attention to the increasing consumption of bread in place of mealie or corn meal by urban and even by some rural natives.

In a country such as South Africa which has to import wheat, usually for dollars, and which in any case has to subsidize the production of wheat, this change in the dietetic habits of the largest section of the population is becoming an important factor in the national economy.

Dr. G. W. Gale, health secretary said that from a nutritive point of view bread, and even white bread, is considered better than corn meal.

The nutrition council does not oppose the change from corn meal to bread, but it recognizes it as a significant development which the government will have to watch carefully, because it will increase the Union's wheat problem.

It has considered fortifying corn meal with food yeast and calcium but this involves great difficulties.

Reasons for the change in food habits are:

A tendency among natives to imitate the food habits of the Europeans: The fact that so many native wives go out to work and have no time to cook maize meal; fuel is expensive and scarce.

The Union's wheat requirements have increased from about 5,000,000 bags a year before the war to 8,000,000 bags for white bread and no restrictions on the use of flour. About half the increase is attributed to the lifting of restrictions and the other half to increasing consumption, particularly by the natives.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Is the invitation for your 'presence' or for your 'present'?

The following question points up the truth that in invitations which involve in any way the possible suggestion of present-giving—notably shower invitations—there is often a wondering about the motive behind the sending of the invitation.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I recently received an invitation to a housewarming party from an old friend of mine. This friend knew, when sending the invitation, that I would not be able to attend. Therefore was it correct for her, knowing this, to send the invitation?

Also is it correct for a hostess to send invitations for bridal showers and stork showers to the honored guest's friends when they know that these friends will not be able to attend the shower?

Also, does an invitation to a housewarming, or to a shower of any kind, require that a gift be sent, even if one is unable to attend? I shal be very interested in reading your comments about these always-perplexing questions.

V. C. H.

A hostess may send an invitation of this kind. . . to a friend (or acquaintance) who may not be able to come to a party that means or may suggest bringing-a-present. . . for either one of two reasons. As an example of the first reason let's take your long-time friend, Mrs. A., who, I believe, wanted you to be sure to know that naturally you would be on the list of friends whom she wanted to have come to such an important occasion as the housewarming; and sending you the invitation was cordially to emphasize the hope that by some fortunate chance you might be able to come. In other words, if she has not sent you an invitation, even knowing you might not be able to come, wouldn't you have felt a bit 'left out' of her hospitality-thoughts? The invitation was a sign of her warm-hearted friendliness, her welcome to her new home.

Mrs. B. a 'gimme-gal', will have quite a different motive for sending shower invitations, for example, to (a) those she knows will not be able to attend the shower or to (b) those she really has no right to invite, such as mere acquaintances or people who don't even know the guest of honor. Mrs. B (or Miss B, her unmarried counterpart) has no interest in the hospitable spirit of the invitation or in its appropriateness . . . a gift is a gift is their only interest.

How we react to invitations to present-bringing parties depends entirely on our own inclinations and preferences. If for any reason we cannot or do not wish to go to the party we should politely write a note of regret. . . and we need never send a present unless we particularly wish to. As a matter of fact, when we receive so many shower invitations that have no friendship-significance, or when we receive shower invitations from people who have no right to send them (for example, the bride's mother or sister or the groom's mother or sister), our only recourse, if we have no interest in attending, is to send our regret and not to send a shower present.

But it may be another story, of course, when we would like to go but cannot go to a shower given for a relative or intimate friend. . . in this case we may wish to send a gift to represent our devotion and interest, but, even in this case, it is not necessary.

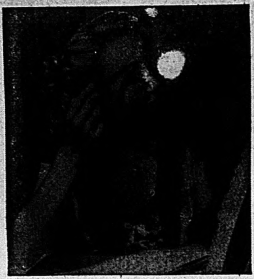
Beauty Care for Eyebrows



Brows must be well-shaped, says Singer Lucille Manners, to provide a pretty frame for the eyes—after plucking, she outlines them with eyebrow pencil

By HELEN FOLLETT

EYEBROWS that need weeding are no beauty bargain, but neither are those that have become distorted by over treatment.

The width, length and form of the eyebrow must be determined to a certain extent by the shape af the eyes. Facial contours also must be considered. The girl with the full face can wear her eyebrows fairly high—plucking only on the under border—but there should not be too much of an arch. An uplift at the far end is a help, giving a bit more length to the countenance.

Oval Face

The oval face should not carry the straight-across effect, but have a graceful curve with the far terminal drooping. The weeding should be done on both the top and lower border, placing the eyebrow along the eye socket where it rightly belongs.

You can improve or change the shape of your brows with an eyebrow pencil. Use it, also, to accentuate pretty brows.

A little attention given each night to the eyelashes will bring improvement if the growth is short and scanty, also it will insure against normal lashes losing strength and lustre.

Mineral Oil

After the face washing, during the bedtime beautifying hour, dip your finger in warm mineral oil. Pass it along the eyelids at the roots of the silky fringes. You can keep your eyes open when you do this; if the oil gets into them it will do no harm.

Keep your eyelash brush clean. A soiled brush can cause eye infections. Brush upward. You may like to play with a lash curler that gives the shafts a pleasing upward curve.

Mrs. Billie Holmes Now Member Of Quebec Bar

Montreal, Feb. 22 (CP)—Is a woman of 40-plus too old to start a new career? To this comes an emphatic "No" from Mrs. E. I. (Billie) Holmes, now a member of the Quebec Bar of one month's standing.

The "Billie" incidentally is for Wilhelmina, and the way things worked out she couldn't get around to law much earlier in life. First there was the business of being a wife and mother and it wasn't until daughter Diane reached high school age that diminutive Mrs. Billie could get around to being a co-ed again.

"Age, rather than being a handicap, should prove a help," she said. "Now I have more experience in dealing with people, and more mature judgment."

The urge to study law dates back to 1925 when, as Wilhelmina Nobes of Kingston, she graduated in Arts from Queen's University. At that time a law course was out of the question financially.

As an active women's club worker in Ottawa following her marriage, Mrs. Holmes participated in a number of projects aimed at improving legislation affecting women and children. Out of this work her determination to study law was reborn.

The plan had to be shelved for several years while daughter Diane, now 18 and a first-year arts student at McGill, was growing up.

Now, after a few months in a law office, she plans to open her own office.

"I am not in any sense a career woman, and wouldn't do anything to damage my home," she says. "Still I don't see any reason why a woman's contribution should be limited to care of home and children if she has any other contribution to make."

More Creameries Are Increasing Premium

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Water as a Beautifier

Every seeker after good looks should be a water baby. Believe it or not, but that cute figure of yours is about 70 per cent water. Those sisters who yowl and bawl about dry skin should make it a practice to down five or six glasses of water a day; their hides are thirsty, that's one thing that is the matter with them.

Water oils the human machine. It moistens tissues, regulates the body temperature aids in the formation of digestive juices, helps the blood carry nutrition to the tissues and wastes to the excretory organs. Whether you want to be beautiful or not, take plenty. A prominent physician who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp says that many ills of the complexion the hair and the spirits may be due to lack of water in the system.

It is easy to understand that statement when you realize that every day of our lives waste materials are formed that are more or less poisonous. Water dilutes these poisons. Young persons who are afflicted with acne need plenty of fluids. That doesn't mean ice cream soda; it means water, milk and fruit juices.

Water is refreshing. It gives ease and comfort to jittery nerves and tired muscles. It helps to build energy through its refreshing qualities. Hard exercise makes a demand for it.

It is possible that wrinkles may sometimes be due to a low intake of water. The soft tissues of the skin are partly water; they need it to keep firm and youthful. It is when they become soft and debilitated that tiny lines form. Real water drinkers usually have red lips and colorful finger nails because water hustles up the circulatory system, sending it about its business.

"Women whose tissue lack water look dried up"

"Women whose tissues lack water look dried up," writes Dr. Charlotte C. West in her interesting book ,"and they are dried up, for the functions of the system are feebly performed. The face is usually thin, shrivelled or wrinkled. These people lack the sparkle and transparency of clear water." Stamp those words upon your memory tablet.

Take a glass of warm water first thing in the morning to wash out your tummy. Have another glass in mid-morning, another one in mid-afternoon, one at bedtime. If you are a tea or coffee drinker, you can get along with four; if not, you should have six. That's what the doctor orders.

The beauty and delicacy of the complexion is dependent upon the blood supply, and blood needs water in its important function of distributing nutrition to every cell of the body.

Gloria Swanson In Hollywood To Make Films

Hollywood, Feb. 22. (AP)—Gloria Swanson, nearing her 51st birthday, has come back to Hollywood to play a role for which she is especially fitted—that of an ex-movie queen.

The star of many a silent and early sound epic has been appearing before the television cameras in New York, keeping her talents sharpened.

As she signed her film contract for a role in Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard" yesterday she said:

"Although it has been a long time since I've been on a studio stage, I feel suite at home—as if I had never been away."

Actually it was in 1941. When she attempted a comeback with Adolph Menjou in "Fathers Takes a Wife."

That was her first picture since 1938—and her last until now.

She started her illustrious film career as an extra in Keystone comedies in 1917. Her first starring role as a dramatic actress came two years later under Cecil B. Demille in "Don't Change Your Husband".

She did—four times—in actual life, the first of her five spouses being Wallace Beery.

She made six pictures in sophisticated roles with DeMille, each fabulously successful.

Among her 56 films were "For Better for Worse" ,The Great Moment", "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife", "Wages of Virtue", 'Untamed Lady" and "Perfect Understanding".

Her early voice training stood her in good stead when the talkies came in. She continued making pictures, while many other silent-day star dimmed.

In 1938 she quit the films to enter business—the exploitation of patents and inventions. After her one-picture comeback in films in 1941, she had a brief fling at the stage.

Now she is back in Hollywood ready for the cameras again.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, and son, Ronald, spent Sunday with relatives in Madoc Township.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Letters and Answers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My fiance and I are of different religious faiths, and the problem that is holding our marriage up is, should we get married in my church, his own would not recognize it. Is that true? If we got married and each held to his own faith, what would we do about the children.

"Jenny"

Dear "Jenny":

Questions of this sort should properly be taken up only with those in your own respective churches who are competent to advise you.

I suggest that the two of you go together, first to your own pastor, and then to his, so that each of you has a fair opportunity to hear the problem discussed from the other's standpoint. After you have heard the pros and cons on each side, you will then have to make up your own minds on the subject. But be sure you both understand fully the problems you will have to face, whichever way you decide.

Running Away a Poor Solution to a Problem

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am an 18-year old girl, but I have very little freedom and my mother doesn't want me to have company. A girl of my age likes to have a little pleasure.

Will you please tell me how old a girl has to be to go her own way in the state of Pennsylvania? I have thought of leaving home and getting a room in the nearby town. I would also like to know if a girl ran away and get married if her parents could bring her back.

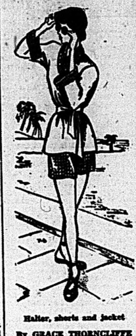
"E. J."

Dear "E. J.":

If you have graduated from high school and are equipped to take some sort of job, and if you can gain your parents 'consent to let you go to this nearby town and live by yourself, I think there would be no harm in your trying it for awhile, if you are a well brought up girl who knows how to behave. I would not recommend your doing it, however, by running away. That sort of thing can only lead to trouble at your age. If that is the only way you can gain some independence, you had better wait until you are the legal age of 21 before striking out on your own.

As for this business of running away to get married, that, too, is a very foolish thing for a teen-ager to do. Your parents still have jurisdiction over you in your state until you are 21, and might be able to have any such marriage annulled.

Resort Costume



Halter, shorts and jacket

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

RESORT FASHIONS have now crystallized themselves and offer a pretty good idea of what is in store for summer wear. The outfit made up of halter and shorts with a neat jacket as cover-up, seems to have won good acceptance. This one is in blue and yellow checked cotton, with the jacket of white cotton. It has a rolled collar and cuffs of the checked fabric. The jacket can be worn loose or neatly belted. The shorts have one flap pocket at the hips.

Fashion Flashes

HERE AND THERE at smart Southern resorts, the black and white shoe is commencing to show. For Summer resort or town wear, one house shows a shoe of white kidskin with a black patent ankle strap and black patent cut-out design on the vamp.

ALL DAY LONG dresses must be simple, yet they must be smart and very wearable. Navy, black or beige sheer crepe makes a handsome coat dress tucked and side-buttoned from the asymmetric shawl collar to the hem.

DAINTY gloves have a big place in the late Spring picture. An 8-button glove of pale blue glace kid has three hand-embroidered flower wreaths worked in deeper shades of blue with touches of pale pink.

IN ECLIPSE for a season or so, the suit with the pleated skirt is back in high favor, appearing in many collections. Looking very new and different in deep brown wool crepe is a suit detailed with easy jacket and accordion-pleated skirt. The jacket is lined in pink surah to tone with the blouse, which is of pink chiffon all-over shirred.

SECURE atop the prettiest heads are little hats of pastel felt or straw cloth laden with flowers tinted for an exact match. Big clusters of roses or delicate flower sprays marking a side-tilt are favored rather than wreath or garland effects. This style is expected to register in the mid-April Easter parade.

Seventeen Jews Applying Lessons Learned at O.A.C.

By ALEX VALENTINE

Tel Aviv, Feb. 22 (Reuters) — Seventeen young Canadian Jews are applying the lessons learned in an Ontario agricultural school to a collective settlement on the slopes of western Galilee.

The Canadians, with a number of American Jews, have taken over 3,000 acres of land on which today only a few olive trees struggle grimly for existence.

Their Kibbutz (collective settlement) faces the sea near Acre and extends back into the valley from which rise the hills of Lebanon. The Jewish state has given them a 99-year lease of the land and a loan of $72,000.

With the money and experience acquired at the agricultural school at Smithville, Ont., maintained by the outh of Palestine Movement, the group is confident that within three years it will turn the 3,000 virgin acres into a paying farm.

For as long as they remain on the kibbutz they will pool wages and draw from the pool according to their needs.

Their motives for giving up the comforts of Canada for the primitive life of the kibbutz are various. One of them put it like this:

"Here we will get a chance to give everything we have to- the country. Above all we can get time to study in conditions which won't district us...perhaps some of us will produce great thoughts".

These settlers were originally to have founded a kibbutz in the Safad area. But plans were changed at the last minute.

At the founding ceremony, held in the midst of half-erected prefabricated houses, the young settlers received telegrams of greeting from their parent organizations in North America, dropped by parachute from a low-flying airplane.

Apart from their Smithville training many of the new settlers have never done farmwork before. The majority of them are war veterans—some with the Israeli forces.

They include a geologist, a mining engineer, a lawyer, a doctor and a journalist.

All, however, have declared their intention of making their kibbutz one of the best of the hundreds which are scattered over Israel.

Senatorial Group Against Watering Down Pact Terms

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—A group of senators prepared today to fight any move which might water down the terms of the proposed Atlantic defence treaty in debate in the United Sates senate.

Five members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said privately they are ready to demand individually the strongest sort of pledge possible—short of an automatic war declaration — that the United States will back its friends in Europe if they are threatened by Communist aggression.

It is their view that the tentative treaty language on this point is satisfactory—if it is not weakened in senate debate.

The exact language has remained secret but an influential Democratic senator said it will give signatory powers assurances the United States will not stand idly by in case of attack.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep. Mich.) already has told the senate what the thinks about the psychological value of the proposed agreement among the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

He said, in effect, that any country probably will hesitate to move in a military way as long as there is treaty notice that the United States will take a vital interest in any aggression.

But Senator Forest Donnell (Rep. Mo.) already has made it plain he will insist that there be no advance commitment—even an implied one—that the United States will fight.

Outright critics of the treaty are likely to go much further than Donnell did in trying to tie down action under the measure.

Because the senate's debate will have much to do with world acceptance of the agreement, supporters of strong commitments will try to counter any such move.

In fact, some of the group may say in outside speeches before the treaty arrives formally in the senate that the United States will have to fight Russia if the Russians move to take over western Europe.

The Missouri senator's reaction is regarded as important by senate leaders because they believe he represents the thinking of a "fringe" group which might swing either way on the treaty question.

If all senators vote, leaders would have to muster support of 64 of the 96 to get treaty approval.

Bill Designed To Ensure Milk Is Pasteurized

London, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Trigger-tongued Edith Summerskill, who forsook medicine for the Labor party in the troubled 1930s, today looked back on what she termed "my finest hour" in parliament.

Behind her was the successful second reading of her milk (Save the Children) bill. This is designed ultimately to ensure that all Britain's milk is tested or pasteurized.

The grey-haired, 47-year-old parliamentary assistant to the health ministry — "Dr. Edith" to colleagues — steered the bill through the House of Commons last night. It marked the approach to the climax of a 25-year battle. Her first political speeches had been on pasteurization.

"This is a triumph over prejudice and selfishness," she said. "It is very seldom a member of this House has the opportunity of moving a second reading on a measure of this nature after having the experience of frustration and disappointment associated with the pleading of an unpopular cause.

"I may go as far as to say that this is my finest hour."

Dr. Summerskill practised medicine full time before the war. She gave up practice because she was shocked by conditions she found when attending the wife of an unemployed man.

She first entered parliament in 1938 and has been parliamentary assistant to the food ministry for the last three years. As such, she frequently deputized for Food Minister Strachey's purgatory — question time in the House. "Dr. Edith" usually gives as good as she gets in these exchanges.

The only woman front-bencher in the government, she is a housewife and mother of two children. One of her boasts is that she is the only married woman who is also a privy councillor.

Jan. Time Loss Sharply Lower

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (CP)— Time loss through industrial disputes in January was lower than for any month since June, 1945, the Labor Department announced today.

During the month, 10 strikes and lockouts were in existence, involving 1,811 workers with a total time loss of 9,700 man-working days. This compared with 11 strikes in December, with 2,481 workers and a time loss of 18,939 days. In January, 1948, there were 19 strikes involving 12,595 workers and a time loss of 135,780 days.

Five strikes were in existence at the beginning of January, of which four were terminated by the end of the month. Of five which began in January three were concluded before the end of the month. Three strikes still were in progress at the beginning of February.

Govt. Will See Each Locality Has Proper Share

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Reconstruction Minister Winters told the Toronto Board of Trade Monday night the government wants to see that each Canadian locality has a proper share in the country's business growth as well as in the expansion of housing and public facilities.

In a speech prepared for delivery, he outlined three principles of economic development, contending that the government wants to see Canada develop on a continuing and gradually-expanding basis with each region participating "in accordance with the resources it has."

His new department had a three-fold objective. It hopes to co-operate with the other levels of government in timing governmental capital expenditures to avoid too severe fluctuations of investment.

It would "provide the best possible facilities to encourage private individuals to build as many houses as are needed . . . " Even with the best efforts by private enterprise there would still be families unable to afford homes at economic rentals.

The government stood ready to discuss the best means of providing low-rental housing with any province "in an effort to work out satisfactory long-term arrangements among municipalities, provinces and the Dominion."

Special efforts would be made "to develop particular industries, such as the tourist and the film industries."

The government felt that development could best be achieved "by encouraging private enterprise and creating through positive government measures a framework within which individual initiative thrives."

Canada had been channelling one third of construction labor and materials into housing. He considered this a judicious proportion when the demands of construction to provide new jobs were taken into consideration, too.

Mr. Winters said the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Agency would make all its facilities under thhe National Housing Act available to aid in the financing of the land development and the construction of as many housing units as are needed in Greater Toronto.

You and Your Bank

How much you borrow, how much you save ::: how much you put in, how much you take out... that's your business. Your right to keep your private affairs private is a cherished principle of Canadian banking.

NEXT time you are in your bank, notice how many people keep their cheques face down... just like you... while they make out their deposit slips. Notice how they close their passbooks before handing them in—and get them back closed too.

Canadian bank service is recognized by everyone as confidential. Every employee, when he came into the service of your bank, took a solemn declaration of secrecy. Your relationship with your bank is the most vitally confidential business relationship you have.

Contrast this Canadian way with conditions in lands where freedom is denied—where every bank is a political tool, every banker a public official working for the State! State monopoly of banking, proposed by socialists here, would open your banking transactions to political intrusion.

Police Line Up Waiting Turn To Question Man

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 22 — (AP) — More police of United States cities from coast to coast, seeking to solve scores of thefts, lined up today waiting their turns to question Gerard G. Dennis, suave and handsome 28-year-old Canadian.

Dennis, who was brought here last Friday from Cleveland where he was arrested, is accused by authorities of cross - country thefts of $600,000 worth of jewels and furs. Police say he has admitted thefts totalling $140,000 from wealthy homes in this vicinity. Originally he comes from St. Catharines, Toronto and Montreal.

New York City police indicated they got no evidence that the prisoner was implicated in any of a recent series of burglaries of east-side Manhattan homes.

In Cleveland, where a two-year hunt for Dennis ended, Detective Lieutenant Lawrence G. Denk of Cleveland Heights revealed last night that Zolton Greenhunt, 32, a jeweler, provided the tip that led to Dennis' arrest.

Previously, Denk had said an unnamed Canadian fisherman provided the tip. This was done, Denk explained, to protect Greenhunt from possible vengeance. Denk said last night that Greenhunt saw Dennis in some home movies of a society wedding last November, and later recognized Dennis' picture on a police circular.

Police in Beverly Hills said $7,500 worth of loot stolen from actress Loretta Young was identified yesterday among articles found in Dennis' apartment. The actress' personal maid identified a $5,500 mink coat, a $1,000 fur wrap and $1,000 worth of jewelry as articles stolen from Miss Young's home last Aug. 28, police said.

Miss Betty Ritchie, 24, of Fenelon Falls who was arrested in Dennis' apartment, remained in custody in Beverly Hills. The former Toronto school teacher was arraigned yesterday on a charge of receiving stolen property and was unable to raise bail set at $2,500. Her preliminary hearing was set for Friday.

R. C. KILGOUR DIES

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — R. Cecil Kilgour, 61, vice-president of the St. Lawrence Starch Co. Ltd., and former president of the Ontario Automobile Co., Ltd., and of the Packard Ontario Motor Company, died yesterday. He had been active in the automobile industry 40 years.

Smithy Burned, Fire Fighter Dies Later of Collapse

Owen Sound, Feb. 22 (CP) — Loss is estimated at $12,000 in a fire Sunday morning which destroyed a 70-year-old frame blacksmith shop in Heathecote, 23 miles east of here. The owner, George Davidson, had no insurance on the structure.

Valuable equipment installed in recent years, several wagons and lumber supplies were lost in the blaze, which was fought by both Heathecote and Thornbury volunteer brigades.

George Swannel, 60, whose home is next-door to the burned mill, died of a heart attack a few hours after helping to fight the flames.

Council Reinstates Chief Constable

Fort Erie, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Percy Mark, chief constable of the nearby resort village of Crystal Beach, was reinstated by the village council last night after some 150 ratepayers jammed the council hall to protest his five-day suspension last week. Chief Mark was suspended by council when a bonding company refused to renew a $1,000 surety bond taken out by the chief.

Anna L. Strong, Paper Woman, Deported by Soviet

By EDDIE GILMORE

Moscow, Feb. 22 — (AP) — Anna Louise Strong, American newspaper woman charged by the Russians with being a spy, has been deported from the Soviet Union.

The Soviet press carried a brief announcement this morning, saying "the arrested American woman journalist A. Strong was deported from the U.S.S.R."

The brief announcement did not state where she was deported.

Miss Strong's arrest was announced in the Moscow press Feb. 15.

Miss Strong, 64-year-old writer, has consistently expressed a pro-Soviet point of view in her prolific literary efforts. She has been in Moscow most of the time for the last 28 years, during which time she wrote many books and articles.

A native of Friend, Nebr., Miss Strong married a Russian, Joel Shubin, in 1932. Two years earlier she had organized the Moscow Daily News, first English-language newspaper in the Soviet capital. The newspaper suspended operations recently.

At the time of her arrest she was listed as representing the Allied Labor News.

Miss Strong was the second American correspondent in a year to be charged with spy activities. Robert Magidoff, correspondent for McGraw-Hill and NBC, was ordered to leave Russia in April, 1948, when the government newspaper Izvestia published a letter from his secretary accusing him of spying.

Magidoff denied the charge and said he believed the expulsion was for internal propaganda purposes.

There has been no word from any other world capital of Miss Strong's arrival from the Soviet Union.

Claims Churches Condemn Fifteen Accused Pastors

By DIMITER MISHEV

Sofia, Feb. 22 (AP)— The Bulgarian Communist Party newspaper today published resolutions from various Protestant Churches in Bulgaria condemning the "treacherous activity" of 15 Protestant churchmen scheduled to go on trial Friday on charges of treason and black market activities.

The newspaper Rabotnichesko Delo uses the headline "Religious Organizations and Groups Condemn Pastors—Spies and Traitors" over a story about telegrams letters and resolutions condemning the churchmen.

The religious council and board of the congregational Church of Vassil Ziapkov, one of the accused churchmen, is quoted as follows:

"We are surprised and profoundly shocked by the treacherous activity towards the Motherland by a group of Evangelical churchmen, among whom is our pastor."

A declaration signed by Bishop Krikor of the Armenian Church said:

"Being witnesses of the conspirative activity of some Protestant church leaders, we express our indignation of their treacherous activity towards the Bulgarian people and state."

The 15 churchmen of the Baptist, Congregational, Pentecost and Methodist Churches have been accused of conspiring with British and American churchmen and embassy officials against the Bulgarian government.

Boy Sleigh-Riding Killed Under Truck

Mattawa, Feb. 22 (CP) — A small boy, sleigh-riding on his stomach down a hillside street in Mattawa, was killed instantly Monday afternoon when he slid in front of a three-ton truck at an intersection.

The boy, Robert Colbourne, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Colbourne, was sliding down a high-banked side road in a residential area of the town north of the river. A heavy truck coming down Bridge Street passed over the child at the intersection of the two roads.

Court in Sumatra Sentences Former R.N. Officer

Batavia, Java, Feb. 22 — (Reuters) — Carlton Hire, 39-year-old former Royal Navy officer, today was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment for arms smuggling. The sentence was passed by a Dutch court at Tanjong Pinang, Sumatra.

Three Americans tried as confederates earlier received sentences ranging from 18 months to four years. They have appealed to the Batavia high court.

Hire, a Singapore broker, was found by police in a launch near the Island of Airabu, off the east coast of Malaya, last September. He was alleged to have signalled down a Catalina flying boat flown by the Americans from Manila and containing arms and ammunition.

Hire claimed the arms were intended for Malaya planters but the prosecution produced a letter alleged to have been signed by Hire quoting arms prices to an organization, held to be Communist, in Jogjakarta.

Liberals Select Delegates For Their Convention

Representatives from every ward in the city were present at Club Vanity Fair on Monday evening when the Belleville Liberal Association selected their delegates for the forthcoming convention for the riding of South Hastings, which is to be held at Kiwanis Centre one week from Wednesday. Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor will be the principal speaker. At the convention a candidate will be chosen to contest the riding in the next Federal election.

Herb McCabe, president of the association, was in the chair and briefly addressed the meeting on the number of delegates, that were allowed from the city. The meeting then broke up into wards and the election of the delegates was undertaken. Poll chairmen, chairladies and ward chairmen were also selected.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, those present were addressed by William A. Frarer and Lorne McDonald, organizers for this district.

Relations Worsen Over Border Of Albania

Yugoslavia accused her tiny Balkan neighbor yesterday of provoking border troubles.

The official communist newspaper Borba said Albania had begun a policy of "border provocations" last summer — the time of the split with the Communist International Information Bureau.

Borba cited a long list of alleged border violations, including 16 occasions when shots were said to have been fired across the border from Albania.

The newspaper also lashed out at Albania's refusal to co-operate with Yugosalvia economically.

The new changes came amid a growing campaign in the Yugoslav press, emphasizing Albania's alleged lack of gratitude for Yugoslav help before Tito split with the other communist countries.

The newspaper Politika said recently that Albanians are virtually starving on a diet of beans as a result of severing trade relations with Yugoslavia. The story said food had almost disappeared, prices had soared and the Albanian people were suffering.

The Yugoslav attack followed a blast against Yugoslavia from the Albanians Sunday. The Albanian radio said a "bed of espionage" led by members of the Yugoslav legation is Albania had been liquidated.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

New Names in the NORTH

THERE'S new activity in Ontario's bushland north of Lake Superior. Marathon and Red Rock, Terrace and Heron Bay: they all tell the same story. New towns have arisen, old ones expanded. Only five years ago on the site of Marathon, for example, there was nothing but bush; today a new community beside a new pulp mill is contributing millions to Canada's export trade.

Such spectacular developments in the north are matched by continuing industrial expansion in the older established communities. Throughout Canada today ever-widening avenues of opportunity await the enterprise of young Canadians.

With newsprint production 50% above pre-war levels, Canada today has an output five times that of any other country, and accounts for three out of every five newspaper pages in the world.

"Canada is a land of opportunity... There is a field for almost anything one can think of, and anyone with a willingness for hard work has a good chance to achieve success", says Donald J. Smith, President of Hornet Industries Limited, Guelph, Ontario.

Hornet Industries Limited, which was founded in 1945, has in this short time achieved remarkable success in the manufacture of chain saws and combustion engines. More than half the production of the plant reaches markets outside Canada. From a staff of only a half dozen men in 1945, Hornet Industries Limited has expanded to three plants in Guelph, employing 296 workers.

Hamill Surprised At His Sentence

Detroit, Feb. 22 (CP)— It was a surprised Robert (Red) Hamill Monday who received a $250 fine and a one game suspension for his attack Sunday night at Chicago on Toronto Maple Leaf's Vic Lynn— according to the man who penalized the Black Hawk player.

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said in an interview Monday night that Hamill said he was "in a complete daze" and had no "particular recollection of the attack" when questioned on the incident.

"The attack was wholly without explanation," said Hamill, in Detroit for Monday night's Red Wing-Boston Bruin game. Up to that game, Hamill had a wonderful penalty record, Campbell said.

Lynn and Hamill mixed along the boards in the second period. Lynn slumped to the ice with a six-inch scalp laceration after his aggressor brought the blade end of his stick down on the Toronto player's head.

Hamilton Tigers Defeat Dutchmen In Overtime

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tigers still play best when the chips are down — even if it takes 82 minutes and 10 seconds of play to prove it.

Monday night veteran Bobby Laurent scored in the second overtime period and gave the Tigers a 1-0 win over the potent Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen. The win tied the best-of-seven semi-final series in the Ontario Hockey Association League at 2-2.

In another senior 'A' playoff tilt, Toronto Marlboros made it 3-0 in their best-of-seven series by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 4-2.

In Hamilton, it was Laurent's backhand shot from the blue line that got past Marcel Pellettier. The little K-W netminder played a sensational game until the puck slipped through his legs.

At the other end, Art Childs turned in one of his best performances of the season. He earned his first shutout of the series and 3rd of the season.

The Dutchmen suffered a loss in rookie Harvey Jacklin, who came out of a scramble in the second period with torn back muscles.

At Owen Sound the Dukes drove into a 2-0 lead within 10 minutes of the first period, held a 3-2 margin at the end of the second and added one goal in the third.

The Mercurys pressed the play in the third period but failed to beat Harvey. With less than a minute left in regulation time, Johnny McLellan broke away and fired the puck into the upper left hand corner of the twine. Seven penalties were meted out, including a major to Toronto's Al Buchanan. Scotty Mair, Chuck Blair and Ray Hannigan tallied the other Marlboro goals. Doug Gillespie scored twice for Owen Sound.

No games are slated in O. H. A. warfare tonight.

Tomorrow night four senior 'A' and four junior 'A' teams swing into action. Toronto and Owen Sound meet in their fourth game while the Tigers and the Dutchmen clash in their fifth game.

In the junior games, both a best-of-three series, St. Catharines Teepees play Oshawa Generals in the first game and Stratford Kroehlers meet Toronto Marlboros.

Knockout Play Will Decide Ontario Entry

(By The Canadian Press)

The rink to represent Ontario in the Dominion curling championships at Hamilton next month will be decided in a day of knockout play at Toronto Thursday between eight sectional champions.

Seven of the competing rinks are known: A. R. Tarlton of Hamilton Thistles, Normie Himes of Galt, G. R. Meech of Toronto High Park, J. (Stubby) Graham of Fergus, S. Meredith of Barrie, Peter Gilbert of Chatham and Jack Bradley of Ottawa. The other will be determined in an Oshawa-Peterborough playoff.

Disater caught the French No. 2 team Monday as Switzerland took first and second places in the two man bobsled competition down the treacherous Mt. Van Hoevenberg mile long ice chute at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Henri Adan, brakeman on the French sled, is in hospital in critical condition. The sled plowed into a retaining wall at dangerous "Shady Corner" where the Belgian Olympic veteran, Max Houben, was killed Feb. 10. Adan has a fractured skull.

Adan's driver, Louis Saint Calibre, received multiple head contusions but was reported in good condition.

Sid Smith of Pittsburgh Hornets maintained his slim lead over Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds in the American Hockey League's scoring race last week, it was announced at New York Monday night. Smith held a two-point edge with 90 points to the 88 compiled by the Providence left-winger. Providence kept their hold on the next three berths. Roger Bedard had 81 and Johnny Chad and Harvey Fraser both had 77. Liscombe maintained his lead in goals with 50. Bedard continued in assists with 55.

Cromwell, which is owned and will be ridden by Lord Mildmay was established as 100-7 favorite Monday night for the Grand National Steeplechase March 26 at Aintree. Roimond and Rowland Roy were made joint second choices at 20 to 1 in the callover at the Victoria Club, headquarters of Britain's organized bookmakers.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

The Battle of the Birds with upwards of ninety court gladiators taking part with clever footwork and whip-lash strokes takes place in the Armouries here next Friday and Saturday when Eastern Ontario badminton stars will vie for honors in the Central Ontario Badminton Association two-day tournament.

• • •

The battle-ground will be the spacious drill floor of the Bridge Street building. Players from the main centres located between Oshawa and Kingston will be here, with likely some other outstanding badminton luminaries from other parts. Efforts are being made to have youthful Ted Pollock, Toronto, who recently won the Dominion singles championship come here to act in a referee's capacity. This however is not definite as yet.

• • •

The tournament is being sponsored by the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club under the aegis of the officers mess of the 9th Anti Tank RCA Regiment. Lady members of the association will in conjunction with their male counterparts act as hosts to the visiting players in a reception to be held on Saturday night.

• • •

Eliminations will start on Friday night when the tourney gets under way. They will continue on Saturday afternoon and the important titular events will be played on Saturday evening. The Garrison Club extends a cordial invitation to the general public to attend the tournament.

• • •

A pair of "Jacks" or Johnnies, one a sideline coach and the other in a playing coach capacity sparked the Albert College basketball teams to outstanding victories against the Kingston Collegiate Institute teams in exhibition tilts on the college courts on Saturday night.

• • •

Johnny Merkley, 130-pound athletic star and coach of the college seniors ran wild in a scoring spree against the Limestone city youngsters racking up no less than 23 points, not a bad effort in any man's league. Johnny who excels in football and is rated one of the best COSSA quarterbacks in the district is in his last year at Albert and his efforts will be missed in many phases of school athletics.

• • •

Johnny Hayman who coached the juniors in a 41-21 victory over the visitors also has a fine athletic record. A basketball star in his own right. Johnny has the canny ability to impart his knowledge in an easy manner to his proteges.

• • •

Fairly easy on the hockey front here this week with both Rockets juniors and CNR Diesels Senior "B's" idle. That is until Friday night when the Rocks trek to Kingston in search of their ninth straight victory in the group at the expense of the Kingston Navy squad. They play their last game next Monday night, also in Kingston, against the Queen's University youngsters. Diesels are also slated to play the final game of the group schedule against the students.

There wasn't much "fraternization" between Red Hamill of the Chicago Black Hawks and Vic Lynn of the Leafs on Sunday night. The boys got together all right but it was in the heat of the ice fray and M'sieu Hamill neatly but effectively clipped young Mr. Lynn. But alack and also for M'sieu Hamill, Prexy Clarence Campbell occupied one of the customers' pews and witnessed the fracas. After talking with some of the players, the NHL president decided to clamp down the official foot and promptly plastered a $250 fine on the offending Hawk, stripping him of some of his financial feathers. For good measure he handed out, in addition, a one-game suspension. So M'sieu Hamill will watch his fighting Hawks battle the Leafs in Toronto next Saturday from a rinkside seat.

The longest glove fight on record ever fought in the U.S. was between Andy Bowen and Jack Burke in New Orleans on April 1, 1893. The fight lasted 7 hours and 19 minutes. After 110 rounds the referee called the bout off as neither fighter could continue.

• • •

The Belleville Gunners Midgets "B" squad will be hosts to the Midland youngsters here on Thursday night following their elimination of the Cobourg youngsters last night. It is likely the second game of this third round will be played in clearly evident that a long trip awaits the red-clad gunners. And it takes a lot of that folding money to transport the boys and meet other necessary expenses. The kids are well on their way along the championship trail—and are deserving of all the support the hockey public can give them. So far they haven't drawn the proverbial peanuts through the box office turnstiles. These youngsters are playing heads-up hockey and are improving with every game. It wouldn't surprise this corner, that, barring accidents of a major nature the Barriage-Strahan youngsters march through to the finals series. They have what it takes but a lackadaisical public is not paying much attention to them. Since there are no other hockey attractions this week, fandom could and should get out and keep their sports appetite satiated by giving the youngsters their moral support and more important that of a financial nature.

In the tavern of a small Danish town, two men were discussing a gentleman who had died several years before. They all agreed that the deceased gentleman had been selfish, disagreeable, miserly, mean and even cruel.

A stranger interrupted. "I believe you're wrong," he observed quietly. "The gentleman was kindly, courteous, lovable, thoughtful and generous."

"He was a friend of yours?" asked one, rather embarrassed.

"Oh, no, I never met him."

"But if you never met him," protested the man, "how do you know he was such a splendid fellow?"

"I should know," replied the stranger. "I married his widow!"

Montreal, Feb. 21 (CP)—Those Sudbury Wolves who went to Sweden as Canada's international hockey representatives and promptly became the storm-centre of all kinds of ructions needn't look for much sympathy from the home folks.

A cross-section of sports writers' opinions and comment in the Dominion boils down to something like this:

The Wolves shoulda stood at home.

The C.A.H.A. was nuts to okay the team.

The European interpretation of rules—at Canada's expense— was to be expected and the yapping at referees gets you nowhere.

Listen to Stan (Edmonton Bulletin) Moher: "Strange rules or no, there must be upwards of two dozen teams in Canada capable of making a runaway of the Stockholm entry one of them should be doing that very thing, instead of leaving it up to an aggregation that obviously has just gone along for the ride—and who can blame the boys?"

Ralph (Toronto Telegram) Allen: Experience of other Canadian teams should have taught that "to foreign referees or the foreign teams the rules of hockey no longer mean what they seem to mean."

Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara: "We don't know why the Wolves were let loose in this tourney anyway. Some of the partisans of the countries involved would go all out to beat the Canucks by any means at all besides, the Wolves seem to have wanted to play it a bit rough, so they couldn't expect anything else except to be surrounded by a lot of able dealers who specialize in digging up the nine of hearts from any part of the pack.'

Bob (Calgary Herald) Mamini: "Fortunately, George Dudley, business manager of the C.A.H.A., told 'em (Wolves) to keep going (in the tourney). But unfortunately he sympathized with the Sudbury team. The Canadians had a period and a half to get back a goal that was batted in and couldn't make it. Why blame the officiating?

"When coaches lose a game in Canada they can howl just as loud and probably a bit longer about the officiating. The Wolves would have done everyone a favor by remaining at home and complaining about referees."

Tom (Calgary Albertan) Moore: "European interpretation of rules "is still no excuse for Wolves being poor sports and even poorer ambassadors of good will."

Few 20-Game Winners Coming Up from Minors

New York, Feb. 22. (AP)—Major-League baseball teams will have plenty of pitchers up from the minors in their training camps this year, but few 20-game winners.

A check of the rosters appearing in the house organs of the National and American League, respectively, reveal only three such creatures.

Cincinnati Reds have the lone pitcher in the National League who wrapped up 20 or more games in minor circuits in 1948. He is Harry Perkowski, a towering left-hander who won 22 and lost 10 for Tulsa of the Texas League.

Detroit and St. Louis are the only American-League teams that have minor-league 20-game victors. The Tigers got Lou Kretlow, who rang up a 21-12 record for Williamsport of the Eastern League. The Brownies have Bob Malloy, a draftee from Indianapolis of the American Association. Malloy, who previously had trials with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, won 21 and lost 7 for Indianapolis.

Three pitchers just missed hitting the magic 20-game figure. Jack Banta, up from Brooklyn, won 19 and lost 9 for Montreal Royals of the International. Bill Reeder, recalled by St. Louis Cardinals from Rochester of the International, compiled a 19-12 record. Ed Garcia, who faces the tough job of sticking with the world champion Cleveland Indians, won 19 and lost 16 for Oklahoma City of the Texas League.

In 1939 there were 14 20-game winners in the major camps, seven in each league.

The Brooklyn Dodgers had the most, three. Detroit had two of the more highly publicized rookies at their base in 1939. They were Dizzy Trout (22-6) from Beaumont of the Texas League, and Freddie Hutchinson a $75,000 beauty who won 25 and lost 7 for Seattle of the Coast League.

Of that group only Trout, Hutchinson and Jack Kramer are still in the big time today. Kramer now is with the Boston Red Sox while Trout and Hutchinson are still with Detroit.

Dauthuille Wins Ten Rounder Against Lamotta

Montreal, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Laurent Dauthuille celebrated his 25th birthday here Monday night by counter - punching his way past his toughest North American opponent to date — rugged Jake Lamotta of New York's east side.

Dauthuille, a handsome blonde middleweight from France, scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Jake in a brawling, bloody battle before a crowd promoter Raoul Godbout announced at 11,500 with a gate of $35,096. Veteran fighter observers said, however, it was the biggest crowd in Forum boxing history, estimating it at more than 14,000.

Although Dauthuille punched Lamotta's left eye closed and several times had him on the ropes, ringside observers said the New Yorker was not at his best. His punches seemed to lack the steam they had when he fought top-liners such as Ray Robinson, the welterweight champion, and the leading middleweights.

No Knockdowns

There were no knockdowns and neither fighter showed signs of a knockout punch. However, it was generally agreed that Dauthuille had improved greatly since he fought Pete Zaduk of Guelph here in his first North American try last November.

Robert Villemain, a compatriot of Dauthuille's and also a middleweight, was an intent spectator last night. He is slated to meet Lamotta in New York March 25.

Both Dauthuille and Villemain are following the pattern laid down by Marcel Cerdan, the Frenchman who last September lifted Tony Zale's world middleweight crown.

Whitey Bimstein, veteran trainer who handled Lamotta in the fight, said Jake had 11 stitches taken in a cut over his left eye, two under the lid and nine on the outside.

A Tough Boy

"Dauthuille is a tough boy," said Bimstein after the bout. "He could give Marcel Cerdan a very good fight right now."

Jake's fight with Robert Villemain in Madison Square Garden March 25 will still go on. This defeat doesn't matter, Bimstein said.

He said Lamotta might have a tough time with Villemain. A countryman of Dauthuille's. "This Villemain beat Dauthuille in France a year ago, and Jake might have a lot of trouble with him."

Hawk Marksmen Outdistance Field In Scoring Race

Montreal, Feb. 22 — (CP) — If someone suggested to Roy Conacher and Doug Bentley that it would be a good idea to split the $1,000 booty that goes to the winner of the National Hockey League scoring crown, these sharpshooters probably would be agreeable.

These Chicago marksmen have outdistanced the field by a wide margin in the last two months, and official statistics released today show Conacher leading Bentley in points 59 to 53, with Detroit's Sid Abel running a poor third with 42.

The "share-the-wealth" plan is only natural, since Conacher and Bentley play on the same line together, and each helps the other rack up their impressive point total. Roy Conacher tops the goal-getters with 22 and Doug Bentley heads the assists column with 38.

Next in line after Abel is Chicago's Jim Conacher with 41 points, while another Chicago pair, Gus Bodnar and Bill Mosienko, are tied with Billy Reay with 39.

Montreal's Bill Durnan still paces the loop's goalkeepers with a goals - against average of 2.41, while Harry Lumley of Detroit is next best with a 2.45 percentage. Chuck Rayner of New York is the shutout leader with seven while Durnan and Lumley rate second slot with five each.

Wild Bill Ezinicki of Toronto Maple Leafs, who suffered a knee injury Saturday in a Boston-Toronto clash, is still the league's bad man with 134 minutes in the cooler while Montreal is the most penalized team with 627 minutes.

Weekend Games Cost the Leafs Four Players

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)— The injury riddled Toronto Maple Leafs will call up a player from Toronto Marlboro Seniors of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League for their game this Saturday with Chicago Black Hawks.

This was announced Monday by Conny Smythe, president and managing director of the Leafs who said he had been unable to get Don McRae of Sydney Millionaires. McRae's team is in the thick of playoffs in Nova Scotia. Smythe said it would be decided later in the week which Marlboro player would get the call.

Their weekend National Hockey League games with Boston Bruins and the Hawks cost the Leafs four players.

Rugged Bill Ezinicki, who had played 248 consecutive professional games, suffered a strained knee Saturday night against the Bruins. He will be idle for some 10 days.

Harry Taylor, hard-playing right winger, will also be out for 10 days with strained knee ligaments suffered during the weekend play.

At Chicago, Vic Lynn went to hospital when he received a six-inch gash in his head from Red Hamill's stick. Lynn is expected to return to Toronto Friday. X-rays show there was no skull fracture, although this had been feared at first.

Out for Season

Howie Meeker, Lynn's wing mate on the line centred by Ted Kennedy, received a fractured foot Sunday and will be out for the rest of the season. He was playing his third game after recovering from a shoulder fracture he received just after Christmas.

The injuries came just as the Leafs threatened to overtake the second-place Boston Bruins in the league race. Their pair of weekend triumphs pulled them to within one point of the Boston team.

Even their most rabid Toronto supporters were ready to count the Leafs out when they began their climb. Two weeks ago they were a dismal fifth in the league standings with 13 wins, 18 defeats and 10 ties for 36 points. Since then they have played nine games, winning six, losing one (to Montreal Canadiens) and tying two.

Little Max Bentley has been the key man in the hot streak. Plagued by the goalposts earlier in the year, he finally got the range and has scored nine goals in nine games, with sound help from his wingmates Ray Timgren and Joe Klukay. Klukay got three goals in the nine-game stretch. Timgren hasn't scored but the rookie's vigorous play has been a big factor in the Bentley treak. Bentley had scored only eight goals in 41 games up to Jan. 30.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Feb. 22 — (AP) — The fabulous "four minute" mile is within reach of Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin in another year or two, says Herbert Barten of Michigan, who holds a decision over that slim long distance star. "He'll have to learn to judge pace better and he'll need more training and stamina, but he's a great runner," says Barten.

No More Bores

They used a new-fangled starting gate in the semi-finals and finals of the 60-yard dash and hurdles in the National A.A.U. indoor championships here the other night, and here is one vote in favor of making the contraption a must in every track meet. It at least eliminates the endless false starts that bore a man stiff.

Too Much Perfume

Jim London, the old "Golden Greek" who packed Madison Square Garden many nights back in the '30s, sounds a trifle waspish in his comment on wrestler Gorgeous George's maiden appearance in the Garden tonight. "I don't see how a man can be a good wrestler," growls Jim, "when he's squirtin' that perfume on himself all the time."

Match Mile

Steady pressure is being applied to the Jones boys, Ben and Jim, to let Citation and Coaltown have a go at each other in a match mile, but it's doubtful if anything will come of it.

Old Rockport's victory in the Santa Anita Derby did nothing to clear up the Kentucky Derby picture, except to point up the fact that no winner of the coast classic has yet repeated at Louisville.

Baseball Stuff

There is a strong feeling in National League circles that the hustling Pittsburgh Pirates have added enough strength this winter to outscramble the Braves and Cards in a close flag race. Rival club owners still are pained at the Cards' cash sale of pitcher Murray Dickson to the Corsairs — without asking bids.

DEAD WEIGHT

In shipping, dead weight is the carrying capacity of a vessel, and includes the tons of cargo and coal.

McFater Wins Over Rizzo In Third by K.O.

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)—Angelo Rizzo, colorful Niagara Falls Ont, boxer, dropped his guard in the third round against Toronto's Alan McFater Monday night and was promptly knocked out by a fist which exploded on the point of his jaw.

Rizzo, usually a counter-puncher, carried the fight to McFater through the first two rounds of their main event in an amateur boxing card here.

McFater, with five knockouts to his credit earlier this year punished the game Niagara Falls fighter in the second round of the five-round bout and had him on the ropes with punches to the head and body.

Rizzo got to his feet at the nine count but referee Jackie Silvers saw he was in bad shape and refused to let him continue.

Earlier in the round Rizzo had the best of a rally and banged several punches into McFater's face.

Another Niagara Falls fighter had better luck in a five-round bout against Gil Geekie of Toronto when Bryan Kelly gained the judges' decision. They fought at 112 pounds.

Cantor Taking Rest After Win Over Pete Fallon

The Canadian Monday scored his third triumph in as many bouts in Britain — an eight-round unpopular decision over Peter Fallon of Birkenhead, England, in London's Albert Hall.

Cantor said after the bout: "It was a tough fight. But that was because I made it tough. I was sluggish, couldn't get going. It's time I took a rest. I might even take a holiday and go back to Canada for a while."

Despite the crowd reaction, Cantor had his moments against the aggressive Fallon who is considered one of Britain's brightest title hopes.

Fallon landed some hard body punches in the first two rounds but after that Cantor danced nimbly away and proceeded to give a polished display of his ring craft.

Cantor relied primarily on a left jab to keep Fallon at bay and his left enabled him to pile up enough points to win.

Cincinnati Rink Will be Opened By Canadiens

Cincinnati, Feb. 22 (AP)—High moguls of professional hockey rolled into Cincinnati today to welcome this city to the ice sport ranks.

Officials of the National, American, United States and Pacific Coast Leagues were due to be on hand for an exhibition game tonight in the new $3,000,000 Cincinnati Garden between Montreal Canadiens of the National League and a group of players who are expected to represent Cincinnati in the American League next season.

A full-house crowd of 11,000 is anticipated but the game will be only a part of the hockey activity here today.

Directors of the 11 team American League will meet during the afternoon to complete plans for the 1949 playoffs and there were plenty of reports they might run into some difficulty.

Western-division teams who are dominating competition this year are reported to be dissatisfied with the playoff arrangement in existence for several years.

Under that arrangement, the three top teams in each division compete in the playoffs.

Some western teams are reported to be ready to offer two suggestions for revising the playoff arrangement.

One would send the six teams with the highest point standing into the elimination series. That probably would mean this year that all western teams —Indianapolis, Cleveland, Buffalo, St. Louis and Pittsburgh —would qualify along with only Providence from the East.

Some observers doubted if that plan would find much favor with eastern directors.

The other plan would send the four top teams into divisional playoffs, west meeting west and east playing east. The survivors, one from each division, then would meet in the final championship series.

There also was some gossip around that the directors might also discuss a possible realignment of the league next year with the idea of cutting out weak teams and reducing the travel mileage.

AGREE ON ARMISTICE TERMS

Rhodes, Feb. 21 — (AP) — An authoritative source said Saturday the Israeli and Egyptian delegations had agreed on armistice terms. The agreement has been referred to Cairo for approval, the informant said.

Earlier, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, the acting United Nations mediator, had described the chances for an armistice agreement as only reasonably good. He said reports Friday night that "we have the agreement in a pocket" were not true and that the negotiations actually are balanced on a "very narrow margin."

DEER NOT STARVING

Winnipeg — (CP) — Despite heavy snow, a three-day aerial survey by the Manitoba government indicates the feed situation for the province's deer population now is not critical, Resources Minister J. S. McDiarmid said here.

WHY GAINES WINS HIS HEART
EVERY POUND CONTAINS — Proteins as in 1½ lbs. beef; carbohydrates as in 1½ qts. cooked oatmeal; fats as in 1 oz. butter; minerals as in 1¾ lbs. cheese; iron as in ¾ lb. beef liver.
Plus all the vitamins and minerals dogs are known to need.

"Could be!"
—unless you nourish every inch with GAINES

• Take no chances with your dog — nourish every inch! Feed GAINES — it's kennel-tested — biologically proved to be nutritionally complete — for all breeds!

Cheaper? Oh yes! — costs less to feed than any other type. A 5-lb. bag makes from 10 to 12 lbs. of ready-to-eat food.

So convenient! — just mix with water (soup, milk or gravy). For Variety — try GAINES KRUNCHON, which is GAINES Meal compressed into crunchy bite-size pellets.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Where angels fear to tread, an expert thrusts ahead. And gets chopped off at the pockets. Or makes the unusual profit by virtue of superior ability and the luck of the wise-ish.

There was this deal:

NORTH
♠K J 9 4
♥K 7
♦A 10 9 3
♣A 3 2

WEST
♠8
♥Q J 4 2
♦K Q 5
♣K Q J 9 6

EAST
♠7 6 3
♥9 8 5
♦J 8 7 4 2
♣10 5

SOUTH
♠A Q 10 5 2
♥A 10 6 3
♦6
♣7 5 4

The bidding went like this:

North	West	East	South
1 C	Dbl	Pass	2 S
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 S
Pass	4 NT	Pass	6 C
Pass	6 S	All Pass

At no time did either player see tricks enough for a slam. But south was a master player that north admired. The stretch to slam was a compliment to what south might be capable of doing.

It may be well to state here that such stretches do not pay over a period of time. The fact that they work on occasion is exciting. But it is not a winning policy, even among experts.

Answering the north takeout double, the south jump was a game-force. North then intended to end in spades. But the two notrump was a denial of any more tricks for the moment.

The rebid in spades by south encouraged north. Although it did not yet show enough for slam, north was anxious to investigate it. The expertness of partner was a strong influence here.

Six clubs in reply to four notrump was convention for showing two aces and no kings. By this time it was too late to stop short of six. So, north took it to the agreed suit.

Only an expert pair would deliberately make such a stab. And this pair was. West led a club that held and then another club. Take 12 tricks from there. First have an aspirin.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 22 (AP)—Movies without women are flourishing in Hollywood these days.

This may be another sign of the film industry's economy drive, but I doubt it. It looks like a trend to a more realistic treatment of the war and other themes. At any rate, M.G.M. starts "Operation Malaya" this week with Spencer Tracy, James Stewart and an all-male cast. And others are pending.

Wonder if actresses are worried?

Notebook Items

Olivia Dehavilland's announcement of a stork arrival in August came as no surprise in some quarters. Olivia and her feuding sister, Joan Fontaine, don't like to be topped by each other. Joan recently had a baby...

Barbara Stanwyck was chatting about her fourth Academy nomination (for "Sorry, Wrong Number") I'm the poor man's Bergman," she said. "I expect to get a door prize on my fifth nomination."...

Hollywood, which is late with a lot of things, finally is seeing the Italian film "Paisan." It's a masterpiece of humor and reality.

Short Takes

One of the biggest name casts is appearing every week at the State Unemployment Insurance office. You'd be surprised by the noted names collecting their out-of-work pay...

Ilona Massey heads out for some high-class saloon singing after finishing "Love Happy" with the Marx brothers. She opens in Las Vegas...

Scott Brady, Larry Tierney's well-behaved brother, is going to be a busy boy. He is signed for two pictures yearly at both U-I and Eagle-Lion. He's now in "The Western Story" with Yvonne De Carlo, Vancouver's darling.

AT THE CAPITOL — An electric screen team are at the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday, in the persons of Barbara Stanwyck and Van Heflin, playing the mismated couple of "B. F.'s daughter," filmization of John P. Marquand's best-seller novel. Also featured are Charles Coburn, Richard Hart and Keenan Wynn. On the same program a thrilling adventure story starring Tom Conway, Noreen Nash and Hurd Hatfield. Both hits are having their first Belleville showings with matinees daily at 2.00 p.m.

JOIN WHEN ELECTED

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Members of the Ontario Legislature will join the government payroll the day they are elected, rather than when they formally take their seats in the House, under the terms of a government bill given first reading Monday.

The amendment to the Legislative Assembly Act also provides that members may draw a percentage of their indemnities and expenses each month.

The new arrangement does not involve an increase in the sessional indemnity.

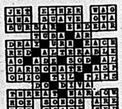
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at the headlines on his way to the sporting page, and ma was walking around the living room pushing crooked things strate and strate things crooked, and I said, Hay pop, do you want to know something, ma? Me and Puds Simkins made a agreement not to go around to the Corner Drug Store any more. We decided to take our bizzness to another drug store and teetch them a lessen, I said.

What in the werld happened? ma said, and I said, We were each drinking a small Gingerola and the man told us to hurry up and get through because he claimed people were waiting for our stools. Haven't we got as mutch rite to spend our money there as anybody elts? I said.

Of course you have, the idea of all the ideas, ma said, and pop said, But for Peet sake, a cupple of bizzy people were probably waiting to order their luntch while those kids were consuming their nickel pop.

Well I must say that's a very sordid reason to give innocent childern an inequality complex by sutch a display of injustice, ma said. Benny is rite, William, it was wrong she said and I said, Sure, ma, he talked ruff as anything to us. He wouldn't even give us time to finish our comic books, I said.

Yee gods, do you meen you were dawdling over comic books while people were waiting? pop said, and I said, No sir, we weren't dawdling over them. We were reeding them exter fast because they didn't belong to us, and the man made us put them rite back in the magazine stand where we got them and he claimed it was a drugstore, not a free lyberry, I said.

Oh dear, sutch a boy, ma said, and pop said, Have you done your homewerk?

No sir! I said, and he said, Then do it.

Which I did.

Belleville Terminal Connecting Link Between Two of Largest Canadian Cities Rotarians Told

Roaring steam locomotives; the new Diesels with their monotone sirens, rumbling through this city day and night handle the heaviest passenger traffic in Canada due to the fact that the Belleville Division of the Canadian National Railways is a connecting link between Canada's two largest cities, Mr. Harold Locke, divisional superintendent told the Rotary club yesterday.

Over the double track line rumble huge freights several times daily and these are seubjected to the same close supervision as is afforded passenger services. Other freight services are provided, known as way freights, "switchers or short hauls" to meet shippers' requirements, not afforded by main line service.

Handle Freight Exclusively

The Diesel units, Superintendent Locke pointed out, were delivered last Spring and operate between Toronto and Montreal in exclusive freight service. "Needless to say," he went on "this modern power has proved eminently satisfactory consistently building up tremendous mileages each month, far in excess of steam engines, as they require a minimum of servicing. Their availability for hauling trains is in excess of 97 per cent."

The Belleville division with 940 miles of main line track is the largest division of the C.N.R. in Eastern Canada. There are no less than 79 stations to serve the larger communities and an equal number of what is known as flag stations. It extends eastward from the city limits of Toronto to Brockville and northward to Georgian Bay, with numerous secondary or feeder lines.

Loyal Group of Men

Referring to railway personnel, Superintendent Locke defined them "that as a class they are as loyal a group of men as will be found anywhere."

"It would not be too far to suggest that trackmen, carmen and roundhouse employees rank high in the efficient and safe operation of a railway—so much depends on them," he said.

The railway industry insofar as personnel who man the trains is in one respect different from most other industries in that employees of the operating department are more removed from direct personal supervision. When the average train is in transit from one terminal to another, train and engine service employees for the most part, are on their own as it would not be possible for a supervisor to cover each unit operated.

Despatcher Essential

He paid tribute to that "essential railway man" the despatcher. Trackmen who wave at trains are not passing the time of day with an acquaintance. They have given the train close inspection as the cars roll by and if nothing is wrong they wave the "proceed" or "highball" signal. This is all part of the Safety Creed of the road.

During the past few decades freight and passenger train speeds have been increased to such an extent that maximum speeds of 60 miles per hour for freight trains and 80 miles per hour for passenger trains are now common. Such speeds are in effect on the Belleville Division. These high speed operations call for greater refinement in track and bridge maintenance.

Add to Safety

Modern electrically operated signals and rail defect detector cars add to safety of operation of trains. The rail defect detector cars, of which there is one on this division, are equipped with mechanism which through the medium of electric impulses determine hidden defects in the rail which cannot be detected by visible inspection by trackmen.

One of the main operating problems of a railway during the winter is snow removal. Unlike other methods of transportation the railways must of necessity plow their own highways in order to keep the arteries open and get the traffic through, but at a tremendous cost.

"In normal winter over 6 per cent of the total annual maintenance cost is chargeable to snow removal."

The roots of the railway are deep in Belleville history —geographically Belleville was such an important centre in days of water transport, that when the Grand Trunk Railway was built, it became one the division points.

Opened in Sections

The main line between Toronto and Montreal was opened in sections—that between Toronto and Belleville on August 11th, 1856, while the section Montreal to Belleville was opened for traffic October 27th of the same year.

It may be of interest to note that one of the first railways on this continent to inaugurate sleeping car service was the Grand Trunk, this being one year after the Montreal-Toronto line was opened.

The fastest train between these cities occupied fourteen hours, as compared with six and one-quarter hours today.

The first class one way fare back then between Montreal and Toronto was $10.00—today it is $11.50. In 1856 though, a chicken could be bought for a shilling.

An Unusual Event

Catching a train back in those days was a rather unusual event—Standard Time Zones had not been invented and the first Grand Trunk advertisement, read—

Trains will run on Montreal time, which is 8 1-2 minutes faster than Brockville time—12 minutes faster than Kingston time, 14 1-2 minutes faster than Belleville time and 23 minutes faster than Toronto Time.

"Even in those days Montreal was a fast town," quipped the speaker in conclusion.

Superintendent Locke was introduced by Rotarian Gilbert Scott with club appreciation expressed by Rotarian George Campbell. President "Mack" Macklem was in the chair.

NEW
EVERBEARING RUNNERLESS
DWARF BUSH
STRAWBERRY

Fruit from seed the first year: easily grown. Bush form, about one foot high. No runners. Hardy perennial. Bears abundantly from early summer till killing frost. Has an intense luscious flavor and aroma like that of wild strawberry; rich and juicy. Neat compact bushy growth makes it highly ornamental as well as valuable in vegetable, fruit or flower garden, borders, etc. A showy pot plant too. Though smaller than commercial strawberries Mont Rosa is the largest fruiting of any variety we know from seed, surpassing the popular [illegible] and similar types. Its unique bush form and exquisite flavor place it in a class by itself for every home garden. Seed supply is limited. Order early. (Pkt. 25c) (3 pkts. 50c) postpaid.

DREW LAUNCHES

Resources Minister MacKinnon said he has ordered reconstitution of an immigration board to consider the case of Jacques Duge de Bernonville, the French count who has been freed at Montreal from a deportation order.

No Emergency Exists Claim

Opening a 2 1-2 hour speech, his second of tre Throne Speech debate, Mr. Drew said the government had asked for extension of controls on foreign exchange, Agriculture and industry and yet had "hardly made a pretense that an emergency existed to justify the extension."

"It is time, and past time," he said, "for this free parliament to assert its right to pass laws under which the rights and duties of our people will be determined."

Turning to Communism, he proposed that the government sponsored legislation making it possible for the courts to find guilty and imprison persons seeking to overthrow Canada's free way of life but the courts, and not the government, should wield that power.

"I am not suggesting," he stressed, "that power should be given to place in the hands of this government, and particularly this government to hold inquiries in secret as a basis for subsequent prosecution."

Denounces Communism

Denouncing Communism as a "vile and treacherous doctrine" Mr. Drew said:

"Let us have a clearly-drawn section of the criminal code which will make it possible for the courts to find that any organization which has as its stated purpose the overthrow of our free system is guilty of a criminal offence and that those, who as members of that organization, take an active part in an attempt to overthrown our system shall also be guilty of a criminal offence and punishable by a long term of imprisonment."

He spoke in resumed debate on the Throne Speech and brought his total speaking time in the debate to nearly 5 1-2 hours.

Chides Opposition

Mr. Dickey chided Mr. Drew and his supporters for their failure thus far in the debate to indicate whether or not they support the projected North Atlantic security pact. The alliance involved a "calculated risk" which most Canadians agreed must be taken as a step against the outbreak of war.

Mr. Nicholson criticized the government's housing policy, called for slum - clearance and home-building programs and warned that the present "disgraceful" conditions would breed communism.

Mr. Shaw said the Social Credit group would support the C. C. F. want-of-confidence motion moved earlier in the debate, with particular emphasis on its request for a contributory health program.

Mr. Church said Canada should do its part in the Berlin air lift to particip taeto to participate to the fact the government did not realize the "real issues" in the German capital.

Mr. Herridge renewed demands for a National Marketing Act and expressed regret that the throne speech did not forecast legislation for a national health insurance program. He welcomed proposed family allowance increases and federal assistance in the completion of a trans-Canada highway.

world wars without a scratch, e would gamble on neutrality again, as they do," a government official said.

Ties With West

"But we fought through five years of German occupation, inside and outside our country. We proved to ourselves that freedom never costs too much, no matter what it costs in blood and treasure.

"All our ties are with the west. If the east starts a war, we're sure we couldn't stay out of it, even if we tried. But we hope that if the west is united, no war can come."

Russia has a colossal military machine just across the frontier from Norway. In comparison, Norway's preparedness measures are of micposcopic size.

The entire strength of the Norwegian armed services on a regular footing may approximate 30,000 men. In addition, home guardsmen undergo occasional training.

Called Swiss System

As many as 100,000 home guardsmen now are scattered about the country. Each keeps his rifle in his own house. Norwegians call it the "Swiss system."

The three armed services are gathered under a single defence ministry, now headed by a go-getter Labor-Party lawyer Jens Christian Hauge, 33, who was a high figure in the wartime underground army.

He appears to get along well with the chief of the staff of Norway's supreme command, 59-year-old Lt.-Gen. Ole Berg.

No important Norwegian statesman or soldier places any faith in non - aggression pacts, such as the one that the Soviet Union proposed recently in a sharp memorandum.

If Russia spares Norway, they say, it will be for other reasons than a signed piece of paper.

NOT ALL BIRDS GO SOUTH

Fort William — (CP) — Thunder Bay Field Naturalists' Club counted 2,770 birds and classified 23 different species in a recent specified observation period in which 162 miles were covered by car and afoot. Most common bird seen was the English sparrow.

POWELL LEADING SCORER

Frank Ashworth of Tulsa was in second position, 20 points behind Powell, and St. Paul players filled out the list of the top five.

Two Gang Members Convicted of Assault

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)—Two 18-year-old members of Toronto's well-known beanery gang were convicted on twin counts of assault causing bodily harm to Carl Fisher and of a breach of the Liquor Control Act.

James Lynham, President of the Bathurst Street United Church Club, the beanery boys' recreational group, was fined $100 or 30 days on the assault charge, and Frank Stothers, former leader of the gang, to one month in jail, to run consecutively with a three-month sentence he now is serving on a similar charge. Both were fined $10 or a month in jail on the liquor count.

Magistrate T. S. Elmore said "these two lads went up to a complete stranger and asked him how he would like to be beaten up by the beanery gang".

"One then struck him on the eye and the other began pummelling him on the head," the magistrate said. "These cowards only fight where there is a bunch of them and they have all the advantages."

Patrick Heisler, a hotel beverage room waiter, said he had served several glasses of beer to the pair. He said they had convinced the barkeeper they were 21 years old.

GREATER VALUE TO EVERY TELEPHONE USER

IN THREE short years we have added over 405,000 telephones, put in hundreds of switchboards and trained thousands of people to extend and improve your telephone service.

We are adding more telephones to meet the continuing demand for service just as fast as equipment becomes available.

All this is being done in the face of rising costs. Yet, up to now, there has been no increase in the basic telephone rates established 22 years ago.

For you, this means greater value than ever before; for us, the satisfaction of providing the best telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

She wheeled her bicycle down the hill from Pembroke into Hamilton Center. Oriole Cottage was her destination in Paget. It was not hard to find. It was the only pale blue one, Mrs. Minturn had told her.

Rosalie dropped her bicycle on the lawn and crossed the terrace. There was no one about. She looked into the depths of a beautifully paneled living - room. There was no one there. She opened the door and stood uncertainly in the hall. "Halloah!" she called.

Perhaps she was in the wrong house. This one was quite beautiful, quite comfortable and orderly. Quite the opposite of what she had expected, remembering Mrs. Minturn's peculiar clothes the day before.

Something struck her between the shoulder blades and she bent to pick up a tennis ball.

The door at her back opened with a burst and a small boy shouted, "That's mine."

"All right," she said coolly. "I don't want it. Are you John?"

He looked at her suspiciously. "Are you the nurse?"

"No, I'm not. I'm Rosalie Bates"

"If you're not the nurse, you'd better go. Sissy's got the smallpox."

He was rewarded by a start of surprise.

"I may have it too," he added.

"I don't think you have," she said promptly. "I don't think Sissy has either. Where's your mother, John?"

"Why don't you go look for her?" he demanded.

She said firmly, "Because you are going. You're going to be a little gentleman and mind your manners."

"That's what you think," he said, diving under a chair after his ball.

"Oh, Miss Bates! I'm so sorry! John, go wash your hands. Nannie has your lunch ready."

"Don't want any." He flew out the door, banging it after him.

Mrs. Minturn sighed. "I don't know what to do with them. They need their father. He always trained them so beautifully. But come along, my dear, lunch is waiting."

The lunch, like Mrs. Minturn's house, was a pleasant surprise. "I've always been interested in food. My husband trained me when I was very young." The absent Mr. Minturn must have been a great trainer, Rosalie thought appreciatively.

Mrs. Minturn looked quite different from the woman Rosalie had met the day before. She looked younger in her smart sports clothes. She chatted cheerily through the three courses of their luncheon and while they sipped coffee on the terrace, Rosalie wondered how she could get around to the subject of the Minturns. Her hostess gave her few openings.

She thought perhaps a discussion about the house might open the way. She said, "I love your house, Mrs. Minturn. Did you and Mr. Minturn build it, or has it been in the family?" There, she'd got the family into it anyway.

"I built it shortly after we were married. We lived with my husband's family in a wretched place and my husband always loved nice places so I gave this to him as a present on our first anniversary.

A light broke over Rosalie. No wonder the poor woman was sad. She had lost her husband.

Rosalie said softly, "You must have loved him very much to make such a beautiful home for him."

The quick tears came to her hostess' eye. "I did. But I made a dreadful mistake. I wasn't the only one who did either."

Rosalie said of course she was not. Rosalie had no idea of what it was all about.

The children's nurse came out of the house. "Could I speak to you a moment, Mrs. Minturn?"

Mrs. Minturn came back after a moment. She said, "Sissy is behaving badly. She was at a picnic yesterday and she's got some sort of poison - ivy rash and simply won't stay in bed."

"Oh, that explains John's reference to the smallpox. Is she very ill?"

"No . . . no, no temperature, but I want to keep her quiet. I don't want her to get hot and scratch. Her poor little body is covered with the rash . . . What were we talking about?"

Rosalie was about to remind her they were talking about the defunct Mr. Minturn. There was no need to; it was the other woman's favorite subject.

"I was talking about my husband, wasn't I- Oh, my dear, when you marry, remember you must have patience. That's where I made my mistake. I never wanted any man but him. My family were furious! They said he was marrying me for my money, and that he'd leave me. He'd been married before . . ."

Rosalie felt embarrassed. Also, it wasn't Mrs. Halsey Minturn's troubles she had come to hear about.

"But every man chases girls after he's been married as long as we were," the river ran on. "And women just naturally adore him. He's so handsome and kind."

"Then he's still living?" Rosalie put in.

"Of course! And it's all my fault that we got a divorce. I simply couldn't stand it, and now I'm too proud to go to him and tell him we need him."

"If I were you, I'd get on a boat and go to him tomorrow," Rosalie said. "Pride is silly. And if you think he would like to come back to you and the children, you owe it to him."

"I couldn't," Mrs. Minturn said. "I've prayed that we'd meet accidentally, or that something would happen to throw us together . . . but it never does. And yet we live scarcely three miles apart."

Rosalie said, "He's here!"

"Of course! Charles hasn't any money if I don't give it to him. And he can't do any work so..."

Rosalie squeaked. That was the way her voice sounded first. She caught it somewhere and said, "Did you say 'Charles'?"

• • •

Luther Kane swung Rosalie in jerky circles on the dance floor of the Coral Island Club.

"Let's give it up, Luther. I can't dance and think too."

"Why not give up the thinking?"

"Because I've got a problem," she growled. "And I've got to solve it."

"You're practically a problem child," he jibed. "But whatever it is, I like it. Last time I saw you, you had the sappiest, dreamiest expression I've ever seen on a nice face. I was afraid you were falling in love again."

Rosalie whirled on him. "That's the trouble with me! I'm never anything but a Big Sister. Do I ever get a chance at being leading lady? I do not! I have to spend my whole life on the side-lines, patching up other people's troubles. And I'm sick of it!"

"Why do it?" he asked reasonably.

"Because I can't help myself. The trouble with me is that I get sorry for myself and for other people. Only, Luther, this time I can't think of what to do. If only they weren't so stupid and proud"

"Listen, miss, I'm not interested in the other people. What's this I hear about your going home Saturday?"

"That's right, Luther. I've met a lot of grand people and I've had fun, but I haven't found what I came after so I'm going home and be Old Maid Auntie."

"I'll take all bets on the other side . . . Come out of it . . . there you go scowling again."

"That isn't a scowl, that's a thinker's brow."

"You've got a mosquito bite on it, Rosalie. A little red island in a sea of alabaster."

Rosalie clutched his arm. "Mosquito," she said, "mosquito . . . red . . . white . . . red . . . white . "

"You sound like a phonograph record running down."

"Wait! . . . Oh. I have it! Luther, I've got a solution and you've got to help me! Come out here on the porch."

WET AND SNOWY—British Columbia last week experienced heavy rains in some areas while others were troubled with snowslides. Top photo shows an auto marooned in Victoria following an all-time record rainfall of 3.35 inches in 24 hours. Streets were turned into lakes and property damage ran into thousands of dollars. Bottom photo reveals why the transcontinental Canadian National train was held up for 50 hours at Stout, B.C., 140 miles east of Vancouver. This mountain of snow and others caused the rerouting of many transcontinental trains. (CP Photo)

Port Hope Ousts Rockets Juveniles 13-10 On Round

Belleville Rockets juveniles passed out of the playdown picture in Port Hope last night when they tied the score at 7-7 but lost the round 13-10 by virtue of the Port Hope 6-3 victory here last Thursday night.

On the Midget "B" side of the picture, the Belleville Gunners won their round the easy way when the Cobourg team, facing a thirteen-goal deficit defaulted the game to the city kids. The Gunners meet the smart Midland team here on Thursday night in the first game of a goals-to-count 3rd round playdown series.

The juvenile game in Port Hope was a rugged affair, played on ice that was anything but conducive to good hockey, but before a large crowd of home town fans.

The Rockets, after opening the score on a goal from Gilmour, failed to hold the surging attack of the homesters in the first period and the Hopers went on to score four goals to give them a 4-1 period lead and 10-4 on the round.

It was a different story in the second period when the Rockets flashed to life to score five goals in a row to hold the home crew scoreless and cut the round margin considerably.

It was good hockey in the third frame with Port Hope firing home two to take a one - goal lead but with Rockets coming back to tie the score at seven-all.

Ben Brown with a pair paced the Rockets' attack. Harry Brown rammed home a couple but spoiled a good effort with four penalties, three of them coming in the second period. Duke Doran was one of the best players on the ice. Gilmour also got a pair for the losers with Hatfield getting one.

Hillsworth, Campbell, Evans, Goody, Mechurst and McKeen were the snipers for the losers.

Stirling Juveniles Defeat Marmora In Playdown Game

Marmora—Stirling Jets won their O.M.H.A. play-off game with Marmora Juveniles here on Saturday evening by the score of 4-3. The Jets have the distinction of being the first visiting team to win on the new Marmora rink. The homesters had a slight edge for two periods and led at the end of the second period by 2 goals to 1. They were another goal up after five minutes of play in the final period. Then Stirling became more aggressive to obtain three goals to secure victory. The ice was in good condition and about 600 fans witnessed the game which was of a clean nature.

Teams:

Stirling: Goal, Donnan; defence, Rose, Dobson; centre, Mason; wings, McCrory, Wannamaker; Alternates, Desjardins, J. Robeson, R. Robeson, Burgess, Hermiston, Faulkner.

Marmora: Goal, Sweet; defence, Smith, Gray; centre, Forestell; wings, Darrah, Johnston; Alternates, E. Trumble, Eggett, Mumby, Brooks, Brown, Mantle, Shannon.

Referee: P. Utman, Stirling; Linesman, T. Cousins, Deloro.

It is understood that the second game will be played on the Stirling arena Tuesday evening.

MADOC

Madoc—The Quinte Skating Club of Belleville visited Madoc on Friday evening and put on a very fine exhibition of fancy skating and entertainment at the Madoc arena. It was regretable that the ice in the arena was not up to the best owing to weather conditions. However, everyone who attended were especially well pleased with the evening's entertainment which was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Madoc.

Madoc W.I.

Mrs. M. W. Heslip of "The Manse" was hostess for the February meeting of Madoc Woman's Institute on Friday afternoon. The roll call "A Health Hunt" showed 24 members and 2 visitors present. Mrs. Beatty, president, was in charge of opening exercises and business. Arising from communications received, it was voted that the Institute give a donation of $25.00 to the Unitarian Service of Com. in Canada Fund and that $20.00 be given over to the Institute to enable one more young lady to attend the Quinte Folk School at Foxboro. Current Events were given by Mrs. Kenneth Caskey who gave a brief resume of outstanding events of the year 1948. The topic for the month "Social Welfare" with Mrs. Geo. White as convener and who in turn introduced the guest speaker Dr. Charlotte Dafoe who gave a very interesting and informative talk on Health dealing principally with one subject "Inflamation". A musical contest for the members by Mrs. Hulin followed and a humorous reading "Sanity no Sport" by Mrs. Beatty concluded the program. Mrs. Hulin expressed the appreciation of the members on the fine talk by Dr. Dafoe and all taking part in the program and the hostess. The members hope to have as their guest speaker the District President, Mrs. Clancy for the March meeting. A pleasant social hour followed the close of the meeting.

Trinity Ladies' Club

Madoc Trinity Ladies' Club were hospitably entertained at the home of Mrs. Ken Holmes for their February meeting. Miss Ashe president, conducted the business period and urged all members to try and bring a new member to the March meeting. Mrs. Farrow, convener of the Sick and Visiting Committee gave her report. Mrs. Holmes, treasurer, reported on the congregational tea and skating party, each proving very successful. The club members decided to assist the Pack family who were burned out recently by giving a quilt also to hold a miscellaneous shower of bedding, towels, etc., for them. The devotional period was given by Mrs. Frank Phillips assisted by Miss Anna Smith. Joan Holmes played a piano solo. Readings by Mrs. Farrow and Mrs. E. Moore and community singing concluded a very profitable evening. A social half hour followed.

MOVIE "OLIVER TWIST" STARTS BERLIN RIOT

Jewish demonstrators and Berlin police are shown in the wild melee that took place outside a movie theatre in the British sector of Berlin when Polish Jews staged a protest against the showing of the motion picture version of Dickens' "Oliver Twist" which, they charge, is anti-Semitic. First scheduled showing of the movie was halted by a similar demonstration. During the rioting a British officer was beaten and several German policemen were injured. Demonstrators object to the portrayal of "Fagin" as a Jew who teaches young boys to steal.—Central Press Canadian.

Western Church Officials Report Throttling of Church Influence Moves With Precision

Geneva, Feb. 23 (AP)—The throttling of church influence in the "iron curtain" countries is moving with the precision of a time-table, western church officials here said today.

Some churchmen who have maintained contacts in Eastern Europe say the whole pattern is rigid, planned and executed that it appears to have been dictated by a central authority, possibly the Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau.)

They say the whole structure of church and religious life in eastern Europe is being altered by Communist pressure.

The sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary to life imprisonment and the forthcoming trial of 15 Protestant leaders of Bulgaria are only the headline developments in this burrowing into the foundations of established religious life, according to these informants.

All this is being done under the guise of action against "espionage" and "recreationary" centres.

The process is most advanced in Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. But it is not far behind in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Churchmen here who have had direct contact and correspondence with eastern Europe's religious leaders say the campaign follows these rigid rules:

1. Churches are not persecuted openly as in the early days of the Russian revolution.

2. Influence of the church on public life must be eliminated; the church must be brought under government control.

3. Any vital, personal religious opposition must be eliminated by getting rid of the responsible church leaders on civil or moral charges.

4. The backbone of the church must be broken either by separating it from the state and state funds, by offering a church subsidy and thus freeing the people of responsibility for supporting the church, or by seizure of church properties through "land reform," thus depriving the church of revenues.

5. A suitable church or group of churches must be made the tool of the government.

6. All contacts with the west must be cut. Roman Catholics are regarded as particularly dangerous because of Rome's international influence, and Protestants also to the extent that they maintain contacts with western churches.

CHARGE FAILURE TO PROPERLY INSTRUCT

Toronto, Feb. 23 — (CP) — A charge of failure to properly instruct a girl operating one of its punch presses was laid against the Farrington Manufacturing Co., today. It resulted in an accident in which Mary Warobey, 17, lost four fingers seven days after starting work with the presses.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Feb. 23 (CP)— Synopsis: More spring like weather appears headed for southern Ontario. Skies are clearing in the wake of Tuesday's storm and with increasing southwesterly winds Thursday temperatures are expected to exceed the 50 degree mark along the southern fringe of the province.

HYDRO ELECTRIC POLICY OF GOVT. TO BE UNDER FIRE

Opposition Claims PC Members Responsible for Shortages Due to Delays

Toronto, Feb. 23 — (CP)—The Progressive Conservative government's hydro - electric policy will be raked over the coals today by Liberal hydro critic W. L. Houck when the Niagara Falls, Ont., mayor resumes his address in the Ontario legislature.

Mr. Houck spoke briefly yesterday and then moved adjournment of the throne speech debate until today. Other members speaking yesterday were William Dennison (CCF - St. David), CCF hydro critic, C. W. Cox (Lib — Fort William) and J. G. White (PC — Kenora).

Mr. Dennison's criticism of hydro development brought a continuous crossfire from government front benches. The C. C. F. critic charged Progressive Conservative members in 1943 had repeatedly voted to delay consideration of the Ottawa River Powers Act. Present hydro shortages were "directly traceable" to political interference in hydro affairs.

U.S. Will Reward Aliens Who Help Its Spies Abroad

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP) —A hush-hush bill to let the United States reward aliens who help its spies abroad was set for swift approval today by a congressional committee.

The armed services committee of the House of Representatives was scheduled to approve a measure which would grant residence in the United States every year to 100 persons who have given valuable information to agents of the United States Central Intelligence Agency in foreign countries.

The committee also was to consider bills to authorize a 3,000-mile guided-missile test range for the armed forces, and start work on a radar screen to guard the country's strategic air approaches.

The intelligence agency bill would waive all admissibility laws for people considered eligible by the C.I.A. for sanctuary in the United States. They would be granted permanent residence, and could apply for citizenship.

Among other restrictions, the bill would waive any ban on persons who are or have been Communists, and on those having certain diseases.

Intelligence agency officials are reported as saying that the aim of the bill is to attract renegade Communists who may have important information about countries and governments behind the "iron curtain."

Mutiny on Trawler

Paris, Feb. 23 (Reuters)— All ports in French Morocco were warned today to watch out for the trawler Marie Jeanne after a mutiny yesterday in which part of the crew seized control. Part of the crew were said to have mutinied in the Moroccan port of Agadir, and then to have taken the vessel to sea.

Atomic Pile Exists in Norway, Heavy Water Produced in Mountains

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Oslo, Feb. 23 (AP)— Behind Russia's burning desire to keep Norway isolated from the west is a hush-hush pact: Norway is an atomic power.

An atomic pile—the apparatus which stores up power from nuclear fission—is already in existence in a secret Norwegian laboratory.

Heavy water, an essential in atomic research, is being produced in greater quantities than ever at the Norsk Hydro works in the wild and beautiful mountain fastnesses of southern Norway.

Uranium is being mined in central Norway. More than one Norwegian city has a cyclotron.

Soviet counter-intelligence is cognizant of these facts. Communists fail to disguise their hunger for scraps of information. Soviet Ambassador S. A. Afanasiev is understood to be ready to welcome any Norwegian scientist who wishes to call. None has.

As near as a foreign layman can ascertain, the Norwegians are not toying with A-bombs. Their research is concentrated on ways and means of using atomic energy for peace. But even in this field, Russia is insatiably curious.

In nuclear fission, either heavy water of graphite is necessary. The United States is reported to depend on graphite. The world's largest producer of heavy water is Norway, although some is made in Canada at Chalk River, Ont.

Norsk Hydro, one of the world's largest electric-power centres, discovered in the 1930s that heavy water could be a small but mighty by-product of RSK Hydro's production.

Because of a French financial interest in this Norwegian company, French scientists like Joliet-Curie had the inside track to heavy water. Germany wanted it, too. Since 1945, ownership is entirely Norwegian.

When Norway was conquered by Hitler, production of heavy water fell into German hands. British paratroops and Norwegian underground saboteurs were assigned the mission of blasting the plant. Twenty-seven Britons lost their lives without completing the mission. Norwegians carried on. In 1943, they blew up the installation.

Today that plant is working for Norway.

ALL AFFILIATES OF T.L.C. ASKED TO BAR COMMUNISTS

Will Not be Allowed To Hold Union Office

Ottawa, Feb. 23 — (CP) — All affiliated organizations of the Trades and Labor Congress will be advised by the executive council to bar communists from holding union office.

The council said in a statement last night it has unanimously decided to send circulars to its affiliates to guard against any known red holdings.

1. An elected post as representative or administrative officer of local unions.

2. Position as delegate to Trades and Labor Councils, provincial organizations or conventions of the Congress.

If the new anti-red doctrine of the T. L. C. is followed, it will mean that communists will be cleared eventually from all executive positions in the Congress.

The decision of the executive council was made public after a closed two-day meeting to consider charges of the American Federation of Labor concerning communism within union ranks.

The A. F. L.'s executive council admonitioned the T. L. C. at a meeting in Miami not to compromise with communists in the Canadian organization. The T. L. C. although autonomous, has close A. F. L. ties.

R.A.F. Aircraft Evacuate 70 From Burma

Rangoon, Feb. 23 (Reuters) — Two R.A.F. aircraft today evacuated about 70 British women and children from the threatened Burma oilfields to Rangoon under a "precautionary" evacuation scheme, it was officially announced today.

According to an oil company spokesman the GWB-field workers would remain at their posts until further orders.

The oil-fields concerned are the Chauk and Yesmanyaung in Central Burma, the British Embassy announced. An Embassy spokesman here said he saw no necessity for general evacuation of Burma by British personnel.

The disorders have been caused by rebellious Karen tribesmen who want to set up their own state in Burma.

A government spokesman said units of the Burma army were fighting a battle with Karen forces heading towards Myingyan, an important rail town near the central Burma oil-fields.

Adage of Hog On Ice Proven

Napanee, Ont., Feb. 23 (CP) —The truth of the old proverb —the one that says a pig would have a tough time walking on ice —was proved in this Bay of Quinte town today.

A farmer loaded it into the back of his car and said he would look after it until the owner showed up.

Patrol Sergeant Accused of Acting In 'Stupid' Manner

Toronto, Feb. 23 — (CP) — A Toronto patrol sergeant today was accused of acting in a "stupid" manner likely to turn Toronto's youth into enemies of the police force.

Four teen-aged youths, sons of well-to-do business men, were picked up Sunday night on suspicion of driving a stolen car. The lads, en route to a church social, claimed police searched them "very briskly" and refused to let them telephone their parents. They were held 15 minutes.

Later, W. L. Esson, prominent insurance broker, demanded an explanation from police officials and accused the patrol sergeant, who ordered the boys to drive to the station, of being "stupid."

Establish Clinic Hearing Defects

Toronto, Feb. 23 (CP)— A permanent research and demonstration clinic on hearing defects and diseases of the ear in children will be established at the new Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, R. A. Laidlaw, chairman of the hospital board, announced today.

The board officially signified its acceptance of funds for the project from the Atkinson Charitable Foundation, set up under the will of the late J. E. Atkinson, former publisher of the Toronto Star. The project entails expenditure of approximately $150,000 to $200,000 over the first period of years covered in the agreement between hospital and foundation.

Dr. D. E. S. Wishart, specialist in ailments of the ear and otologist at the hospital, heads the clinic which will have separate headquarters in the new hospital now under construction.

U.S. Senate Ready For Seaway And Power Project

Washington, Feb. 23 — (AP) — Senate legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway and power project is due to be introduced within 10 days to two weeks, a United States government official said today.

Introduction of the bill, it is said, is being delayed pending decision by Senate advocates on whether to include a provision to permit New York State to acquire and administer the estimated 2,200,000 - horsepower hydro-electric development, or to delay that consideration until a later time.

Previous St. Lawrence legislation has almost invariably provided for New York to take over the United States' share of the hydro development. Legislation calling for exactly that has already been introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative Clarence Kilburn (Rep. N.Y.)

Representative John Blatnik (Dem. Minn.), however, has proposed in another seaway bill that the question of who shall administer the power be deferred for further consideration.

Blatnik's measure would also eliminate tolls on shipping to make the seaway self-liquidating.

Most Senate seaway advocates are committed to the proposition that the seaway be made to pay for itself through tolls. It is thus virtually certain that the coming Senate measure will contain this provision.

Kilburn, meanwhile, said in an interview that seaway legislation —in one form or another — has an "excellent" chance for passage in the present Congress.

28 Czech Generals Alleged In Plot Against Government

By A. I. GOLDBERG

Prague, Feb. 23 (AP)—At least 28 generals of the Czechoslovak army were engaged in a plot to overthrow the government, it was stated here today.

The statement of Gen. Aohs Hlozek, made in parliament yesterday during discussion of a bill for a new purge of suspected reserve officers, was carried in some details in the newspaper Lidove Noviny.

Hlozek charged that Gen. Hilodor Pika, who was sent to Moscow to help from the Czechoslovak legions in Russia, and who now is awaiting decision on an appeal against a death sentence as a traitor, wanted to throw the Czechoslovak units in the west against Russia, with Finland as the battle ground.

He also named Gen. Karel Kutlvasr and Gen. Rajmond Mrazek as plotters. Mrazek recently was sentenced to life imprisonment on an espionage charge. Kutlvasr's trial was mysteriously postponed last week.

Hlozek's statement was the first confirmation from an official source of the arrest of a large number of officers—rumors in Prague set figure at upwards of 200—in a widespread plot against the government.

VERBAL SPANKING GIVEN GOVT. FOR GRANTING HAVEN

6th Collaborator Living In Canada Claimed

Ottawa, Feb. 23 — (CP) — The government was given a verbal spanking in the Commons yesterday for granting a haven to French immigrants, condemned by their own countrymen for actively assisting Nazi forces during the Second World War.

Alistair Stewart (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), a man who frequently condemns anti-semitism and racial tolerance, revived the recent furore created over the presence of five alleged French collaborators in Canada. He also disclosed that a sixth alleged collaborator has been living in Montreal for two or three years.

Mr. Stewart named the sixth as Michel Lucien Seigneur, a 42-year-old French physician said to have served with a Nazi S. S. unit in France and sentenced to death by the Court of Justice of Poitiers.

Mr. MacKinnon, responsible for immigration, told Mr. Stewart that information about Seigneur had reached the department "very recently" and further investigation was under way.

Mr. Stewart named Dr. Georges Benoit Montel, Dr. Andre Charles Boussat, Julien Labedan and Jean Louis Huc as four of the alleged collaborators who were granted permission by the government to remain in Canada after they had entered the country on false passports.

'Peeping Tom' Said Terrorizing District

Toronto, Feb. 23 —(CP)— A "peeping Tom" who residents say has terrorized the nearby Wilcox Lake district since early winter, made another appearance last night and escaped after assaulting Earl Seguin, 27, in a running battle. Seguin, found unconscious in the snow, said he nearly captured the intruder.

Residents believe the peeper is the same man believed to have started three fires on a Wilcox Lake farm, causing an estimated $17,00 damage.

Want Arson Charge Laid Against Laborer

Windsor, Feb. 23 — (CP)—Officials of the Fire Department have asked that a charge of arson be laid against Michael Stancek, 63-year-old Windsor laborer presently recovering from what police term a suicide attempt.

His wife, Pauline, was found murdered in the kitchen of their burning east side home last Friday by a neighbor who investigated after seeng smoke pour out of the residence. Stancek was found in a field across the street from the home, a bullet wound in his head.

Three fires in the home were quickly extinguished and damage from the outbreaks was not considered serious.

Urges Floor Prices Be Established For Farm Products

Federation Suggests More Bi-lateral Trade Agre[illegible]ts

Ottawa, Feb. 23. (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture today expressed fears of possible depression and asked the government to consider plans for supporting consumer food demand and for establishing floor prices under farm products.

"We feel," the farmers' organization said in a brief prepared for presentation to the Cabinet, "that if the economic system in the immediate future functions as in the past, without any attempts to control its more violent fluctuations, the farmers along with other groups will suffer severely, as they did in the deflation of 1920 and the prolonged depression of the 1930's."

In addition, loans and grants to Europe would likely cease in a few years and unless international trade returned to a broad multi-lateral basis, Canada would face an impossible situation with her surplus exports, particularly food products.

Maximum Exchange of Goods

Farmers realized that stability of their industry is dependent on a maximum exchange of goods and services among all countries and they appealed to the government to exert every effort to achieve this end.

Pending this achievement, the C.F.A. suggested the government consider the possibility of negotiating further bi-lateral commodity trade agreements "and that the practicability of barter agreements be fully explored."

As a means of reducing instability in consumer demand for food, the C.F.A. recommended that the government study ways of maintaining this demand.

"We particularly recommend a study of the proposed American National Food Allotment program as a means of maintaining the food-buying power of families with low incomes," the brief said.

The C.F.A. declares its willingness to work with the government in seeking a floor-price program. A suggestion was that the price formula be based on the index of the cost of things that farmers buy.

Avoid Danger of Deflation

The C.F.A. also listed recommendations, many of which were passed as resolutions at its recent Saskatoon convention or forwarded by the Dairy Farmers of Canada.

In conclusion the brief said adoption of the recommendations would go a long way in offsetting the "imminent danger of severe deflation and a probable breakdown in international trade.

"In the past 35 years," it said, "agriculture has only enjoyed three brief periods of prosperity, during World War One, 1925 to 1929 and since 1944. On balance over the years the scales have tipped in favor of urban people. Our present brief period of equality for Canadian agriculture is threatened by international complications of trade and currencies."

50,000th D.P. 8-Year-Old Girl Presented With Doll by Halifax Mayor

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax, Feb. 23 (CP)—The 19,597-ton liner Samaria arrived early today, 60 hours overdue after pounding through fierce Atlantic storms.

On board was Ausma Levalds, eight-year-old Latvian immigrant and the 50,000th displaced person to enter Canada. She smiled broadly when greeted by civic and provincial government officials.

One of the 1,200 passengers, a six-months-old Polish boy, died aboard ship.

Ausma, accompanied by her older sister and her mother, is en route to New Hamburg near Kitchener, where her father is a farm hand. He came to Canada a year ago.

Clad in rough tweed slacks and coat with her golden braids held in place by plaid ribbons, she curtsied for newsreel cameras and threw her arms around Mayor J. E. (Gee) Ahern's neck when he presented her with a large doll on behalf of the City of Halifax.

After Ausma was greeted by immigration authorities, she walked proudly down the gangplank flanked by her sister and mother.

None of the trio spoke English, but a young woman interpreter took them to immigration rooms where Ausma was met by newspaper men and official welcome parties.

She wore a large blue and white sign which read: "50,000th immigration refugee, arrived aboard S. S. Samaria."

She was given a Canadian bird book from the Province of Nova Scotia, a bible by the Halifax Lutheran Church and a silver locket engraved with the City of Halifax crest.

The 1,200 immigrants crowded Samaria's rail to get their first glimpse of Halifax and Canada as the liner came alongside.

Samaria arrived with one more passenger than she had when she left—a healthy boy was born on Feb. 21. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sura Niefilkier, Polish-Jewish immigrants en route to Winnipeg. The baby's christian names are to be Robert—after the doctor—and Samaria after the [illegible]

14 ACCUSED SELLING DOLLARS FOR MINDSZENTY

Claimed Cardinal Had Urged Reconciliation Between Church and State

Budapest, Feb. 23 — (AP) — The state prosecutor today issued an indictment of 14 persons accused of foreign currency speculation in selling dollars on behalf of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

The Cardinal, Roman Catholic Primate of Hungary, was sentenced to life imprisonment early this month on charges of treason, espionage and black market currency dealings.

A spokesman for the Hungarian foreign office assailed Selden B. Chapin, United States minister now en route to the United States to report on the trial, for his statements about it. The spokesman expressed resentment at the retort by Chapin to the government's charge that he had encouraged the Cardinal. Chapin, in Paris, had called this charge "deliberate and fabricated lies, beneath contempt."

The (Communist) government said yesterday Cardinal Mindszenty had urged a reconciliation of the Roman Catholic Church with the state.

The foreign ministry released the text of a letter it said the imprisoned Primate wrote from his cell to the Board of Bishops.

The letter, addressed to Archbishop Grosz of Kalocsa, as acting head of the Bench of Bishops, said:

"Though we chose a fight instead of a reconciliation previously, I would like to support the case of peace at last now."

(The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, commenting on the reported letter, said Tuesday: "We believe in the words and the writings of a free man, not a prisoner.")

Cardinal Mindszenty is in prison waiting for the result of his appeal on conviction of treason, spying, and black-market dealings.

DR. W. D. BASKETTE DIES

WARDEN McCAREY HEADS DELEGATION TO CONVENTION

Warden S. A. McCarey of Hastings County headed a delegation of County Council representatives to the Ontario Good Roads Association convention in Toronto this week. With the warden were County Engineer W. L. Langlois, County Treasurer Ross Bailey and the County Roads and Bridges Committee comprised of Chairman John Bell, Harry Coulter, Bartley Welsh, Harry Harrison, Clarke Rollins.

County Treasurer Bailey and Reeves A. A. Harvie and C. Kleinsteuber formed a county delegation to the convention of the Association of Rural Municipalities being held at the same time.

FARMERS UNABLE TO GET IN SWAMPS FOR FIREWOOD

Farmers of the district, especially Prince Edward County, who depend on the swamplands for the season's firewood, while enjoying the mild weather are looking with some concern at winter-depleted woodpiles. The extremely mild weather with accompanying rains has removed whatever ice there was in the swamps preventing in the majority of cases, the cutting and hauling of wood.

There is no frost in the ground.

SLIPPERY PAVEMENTS CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

Slippery streets were responsible for a series of motor accidents which occurred in the city during the night. For the most part the accidents occurred at street intersections when icy roads caused skidding.

The majority of the accidents amounted only to dented fenders, but one motorist on the bay bridge road saw his car go out of control and crash into the guard rails, smashing four guard rail posts before the car came to a standstill.

ATTEMPT MADE TO SNATCH PURSE

An attempt at purse snatching by a man wearing a long black coat was foiled last evening by Mrs. Betty Bradshaw, 71 Geddes Street, when she was accosted at the corner of North Front Street and Grove Street with a demand for her purse.

Mrs. Bradshaw described the would-be purse snatcher as wearing a long black coat and having "bushy" hair. When she hung onto her purse and yelled, the man got scared and disappeared around the corner.

Police searched the area in the police cruiser but were unsuccessful in finding anyone answering to the description given by Mrs. Bradshaw.

FOUR BELLEVILLE LAW STUDENTS PASS EXAMINATION

All four Belleville law students in their final year at Osgoode Hall in Toronto were successful in passing their Christmas examinations, it has been learned. The four local students include Ralph Graham; William Argue, Edward "Gus" Porter and Louis Maraskas.

The Christmas examinations tried by the four local law students were part of their third year final examinations which will be tried in May.

WINTER WHEAT AND MEADOWS BARE OF SNOW

District farmers are showing considerable concern over the excessive amount of water and ice covering fields of fall wheat and meadows, according to the weekly crop report published by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Winter wheat and meadows are bare in practically all sections of the Belleville district, it is stated.

In Prince Edward County there is a keen demand for weanling pigs.

In Hastings there is an indication there will be a serious shortage of suitable farm labor in the spring.

4th Belleville Scouts Group Enjoys Banquet

Presentation of badges and outstanding camaraderie featured the Father-and-Son Banquet of the 4th Belleville Scout group held in Kiwanis Centre last night. The banquet was in charge of the ladies' auxiliary of the group, with Alderman Angus Duffy acting as chairman.

Over 132 members and guests of the group were present. After prayer by the Rev. J. G. Hornsby the Scouts, Cubs and Rovers, with their father-guests "fell to" and topped off an excellent repast with a lusty sing-song.

Former Scouter Alcorn of the Northern Electric Company staff here was the guest speaker for the evening and gave a highly interesting talk on the accomplishments of Jack Cornwall, boy Victoria Cross hero of the British Navy and the lessons to be learned from his remarkable achievement in winning the highest honor the Empire can bestow.

Scout Commissioner Heard

Scout Commissioner Jackson of Trenton in a brief address urged the assembled Scouts, Cubs and Rovers to mark well the remarks of the guest speaker. He recommended that the lessons to be derived from the accomplishments of the British naval boy hero be applied to everyday Scout endeavor.

Kiwanian B. LaPointe conducted the presentation of badges ceremonies. In the Cubs section of the group, Steve Hart was presented with a Guider's badge and an Artist badge; Joe Kennedy received a "Second Star" while Larry Langlois received a "First Star" which entitles him to wear the two badges he has earned.

In the Scout division, Patrol Leader Jay Howard was presented with a First Class badge and an Ambulance badge. Scouts receiving their Second Class badge were John Trudeau, Peter Hart, Bill Guthridge, Bob Langlois and Bob Johnson.

Appreciation of the efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the 4th Scout Group was expressed by President Norman Edwards of the Kiwanis Club.

674 Days of Plant Operation Without Single Accident

A total of approximately 1,200,000 working hours or 674 days of plant operation without a lost time accident is the record of the Stewart-Warner-Alemite plant in Belleville, according to plant superintendent Alderman Jack Allin. The last time there was a lost time accident at the above plant was well over two years ago.

On Tuesday Alderman Allin attended the directors' meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association in Toronto and received the congratulations of association officials on the record which the Stewart-Warner-Alemite plant in Belleville had established in accident free operation.

Freezing Rain Makes Driving, Walking Difficult

Sidewalk creepers for pedestrians and lots of sand to assist motorist over the hills were dire requirements for locomotion on city streets last evening as a freezing rain made the going extremely difficult.

Dropping temperatures shortly after the supper hour served to put the thin coating of ice on sidewalks and streets as the rain froze instantly on striking. Motorists had the added difficulty of having their windshields frozen over with defrosters in many instances not melting the ice fast enough to give drivers proper vision of the roadway.

Several minor accidents were reported in the city as motorists were unable to stop at street intersection when tires failed to grip on the icy streets.

Highway transports were held up for a couple of hours as drivers pulled their machines to a stop along Dundas Street waiting for the rain to clear. Dundas St. was lined with trucks for most of the evening but before midnight the ice on the highways broke and the transports went on their way.

Engineers' Hall On Pine Street Damaged by Fire

Damage amounting to approximately $500 resulted this morning at the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Hall on Pine Street when the building caught fire from an oil heater and burned a hole in the floor and in the wall.

The alarm was turned in shortly before nine o'clock when a neighbor saw smoke rolling from the building. On arrival firemen forced their way into the hall and extinguished the blaze. The oil burning heater was situated near one wall approximately half way down the room.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance reported very little water damage to the building and stated the blaze was quickly extinguished. Smoke damage to the decorations was considerable.

Ont. Intell. 'Inkspots' Defeat Saco In Major "B" League

The Ontario Intelligencer "Ink Spots" continued their winning ways in the Major "B" (Tuesday) League at Recreation Alleys last night defeating the then league-leading Saco team 3-1. The win was the fourth straight for the "Spots" and shoved Sacos off the top perch into second place. Blacks now lead the league by a slim margin.

In the other games the Just Us team turned back the ANAF Veterans by four points to nothing while Blacks Meats defeated "Our Gang" team by the same score.

J. Dunlop was highest individual scorer with a triple of 863 and a single of 326. C. Cornell rolled a triple of 702; M. Moreau, 787 and A. Whalen, 707 (306). Saturday's prize winners were Men's high triple, Max Thompson, 697; Ladies' high triple, H. Brown, 618.

The scores:

Blacks Meats	(4)	3377
Our Gang	(0)	3157
Just Us	(4)	3113
ANAF	(0)	2605
Ont. Intell.	(3)	3184
Saco	(1)	3171

Vote to Retain Pastor

Miami, Feb. 23 (AP)—Miami Shores Community Church last night voted to retain its pastor, Rev. Donald Douds, who touched off a controversy in the congregation when he invited a Negro minister to use his pulpit. The invitation was withdrawn after crosses were burned in front of the church, and a motion to dismiss the pastor followed.

NEW MOLSON APPOINTMENT

JOHN A. C. ROGERS

G. H. Craig, Vice-President of Molson's (Ontario) Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary of Molson's Brewery Limited, has recently announced the appointment of Mr. John A. C. Rogers of Peterborough as a sales representative of that company in the general area of Oshawa, Peterborough and Belleville.

Mr. Rogers, who before this appointment was a member of the Ontario Provincial Police, served in the Canadian Army overseas firstly with the Canadian Provost Corps and latterly at Headquarters, First Canadian Army.

Mr. Rogers takes over part of the territories of Mr. W. E. Morgan, and Mr. E. J. Kelley, both of whom will continue to represent Molson's, in Barrie and Kingston areas, respectively.

Moira Practically Clear of Ice At Cannifton

It may still be winter as far as the calendar is concerned but Old Madam Moira is beginning to ready herself to shake free from the ice shackles that have bound her since the season started.

Usually at this time of the year, the river is a gleaming stretch of ice. This year water is cutting a tortuous path through disintegrating ice fields between the lower city bridge and the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge to the ice-locked bay beyond.

Ice in this stretch of the river is gradually disappearing. Seagulls perched on the jagged edges of rotting floes gaze pensively (if a gull can do that) at the rapidly flowing water.

Daily, during this period of almost springlike weather, flowing water is widening channels through the ice fields. North of the lower city bridge to Cannifton the river is practically clear of ice.

Veteran observers predict that a continuance of the present high temperatures, with possible rain, will result in the entire lower stretch of the river from Cannifton to the bay proper will be "wide open."

Water levels are not as high this year as in 1948 and those who have observed flood conditions for the past twenty years believe that overflow possibilities this year are extremely remote.

Color Subject Of Talk Given Kiwanis Club

Members of the Scout Troop sponsored by the Kiwanis Club were guests at the weekly luncheon held at the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday and they heard an informative and instructive address on "Color," by E. J. Sinclair of the Canadian Industries Limited. It was also announced that the official visit of Albert Hinton, Lieutenant-Governor for the district will take place on May 17th.

It was decided to send two rinks to the Peterborough Kiwanis Bonspiel to be held in that city on March 10 and 11. After Claude D. Tice had asked for names two rinks were easily procurable and there will be a number of the members make the journey north to cheer for the home club. Bobby Thompson, John Thornbury, Frank Creeggan, Don Stanton, Dick Kuntze, Norman Edwards, James Cowan and Claude Tice will make up the two rinks.

Introduced by Percy Geen, Mr. Sinclair stated that color had always been a major part in the art of living and using a chart stated that red was symbol of war, fire danger. Yellow of loyalty honor and was sometimes worn as an amulet, purple, color of imperial Rome and figure of mourning, green, youth and vitality, blue, a spiritual color, white, purity and black the power of darkness. Mr. Sinclair also stated that color was used in the language of everyday and was the chief ingredient in printing and advertising. He showed how the color schemes could be used in the decorating of homes, hospitals, schools and factories. The thanks of the club was extended by Harold Craig.

The attendance prize donated by Bill Cook was won by William Doyle Jr.

Port of Churchill, First Visited By Danes About 330 Years Ago, Will See Record Exports in '49

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, Feb. 23 — (CP) — The historical significance attached to 1949 insofar as the northern Manitoba port of Churchill is concerned is spurring supporters of the Hudson Bay route to make the year important in another sense.

It was 330 years ago that a company of Danes captained by Jens Munck reached the mouth of the Churchill River, the first white men on record to land at the present site of the seaport tucked midway between Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Northern Route

Strong in their conviction of the potentialities of Churchill as a seaport, exponents of the northern route, organized for action through the Hudson Bay Route Association, are planning to make 1949 a year of record exports freighted to European centres by ships loading at Churchill.

Last year 5,314,342 bushels of wheat were sent to the United Kingdom, a record quantity, but association members say this is a drop in the bucket compared to what can be shipped.

They refer to the terminal elevator, bulging like a huge concrete iceberg amid the tundra of the Hudson Bay coastline, with its present storage capacity of 2,500,000 bushels. With loading facilities built on a rapid transit delivery system, it is estimated that approximately 50,000,000 bushels of grain could be put through during the navigation season.

Coupled with the association's anxiety to make Churchill a major exporting centre for wheat from the sun-kissed fields of Western Canada's prairies has developed a desire to make it a port of entry for goods from the United Kingdom.

Sturdy ships and modern aids to navigation, they said, have removed many of the hazards which made the bay route a treacherous one three centuries ago when it excited adventurous sailors with the promise of being the sought-after northwest passage leading to the Orient's strange wealth.

The bay route still is the doorway to wealth, association members say, wealth in the form of two-way shipping, with grain for Europe and European-made commodities for Western Canada.

'Liquid Death Spray' Secret May be Known to Russians

Mountain View, Calif., Feb. 23 —(AP) — Russia possibly has the secret of a Nazi-developed "liquid death spray," potent enough to wipe out whole divisions of men in the open, says an American officer who helped destroy the weapon.

But Germany didn't use the spray, and Russia probably would not for the same reason — it contaminates the area for too long a period — in the opinion of Maj. James M. Graham, a United States Army engineer.

The two German scientists who formulated the spray were in Berlin when the Russians took over and more than likely were taken in hand by the Soviets, Graham says.

Whether chemical analysis of the liquid by its American captors yielded the secret, Graham didn't know.

Disposal of Spray

Graham had charge of disposing of the spray, named Tabun after the names of its two inventors.

Hidden stocks of tabun — 125,000 tons of it — were found by American intelligence officers in Bavarian caves. Engineers built huge fires in pits to destroy the liquid. They poured it over the coals. Tabun didn't burn, but the heat broke it down and rendered it harmless.

Graham described tabun as a nerve poison, not unlike snake venom in its effect—only quicker. A spot of it the size of a dime dropped on the skin would kill a man in two minutes unless wiped off quickly. It would penetrate most clothing, even some gas masks.

Tabun has such a faint odor it can hardly be detected. The experienced nose can detect a slight fruity smell. In appearance it looks something like crank-case oil.

The liquid was a military secret until about six months ago when some information about it leaked out. About 1,000 tons of it was saved from destruction and shipped to Aberdeen, Md.; under the label of "chlorine," Graham reported. But dock workers failed to smell chlorine in the shipment and refused to handle it. Special crews had to be used for the job.

Clings Too Long to Ground

Graham expressed belief Russia probably wouldn't be interested in manufacturing tabun, even if they obtained the formula from the captive scientists. It is so potent and clings so long that the army using it might not be able to move ahead for months through the area sprayed.

Air Lift Carries 7,513 Tons

Berlin, Feb. 23 (AP)—U.S. and British planes roared into Berlin at 90-second intervals yesterday with an air lift record.

In a 24-hour period ended at noon, the big sky freighters carried almost as much food and fuel to the city as it used to receive by train before the Russian blockade.

The record was 7,513 tons, 526 tons better than the previous high set Sept. 18.

Officials estimated that before the Russians clamped on the blockade eight months ago freight trains used to haul about 9,000 tons a day for the supply of Berlin.

The record was set on the eve of Red Army Day.

Reports that lacked official confirmation said the Russians planned to observe Red Army Day with a ceremony at their colossal war memorial in the Tiergarten.

The monument guarded day and night by Soviet sentries, lies a few hundred yards inside the British sector of the city. Angry Germans stoned it last summer, touching off the bloodiest street riots of the blockade crisis.

The British military government struck back at Col. Alexis Jelisarov, deputy Soviet commander in Berlin, who stated, "It is generally known that, in the west, former Nazis hold jobs in the economy, the government and the banks."

"He should begin nearer home" said an official British statement. "It has just come to light, from Gestapo files, that Ernest Lohagen, president of the Russian-sponsored) Socialist Unity Party in Saxony was a confidential agent employed by the Gestapo.

The statement added that a Professor Sedlaczek, works director of the Soviet zone's biggest iron works, the Maxhuette Unterwellenborn, was given the title of professor and "armaments fuehrer" by Hitler and munitions boss Alfred Speer" in acknowledgment of his great achievements in the field of armaments as director-general of the steel works at Thale."

Israel, Egypt Armistice Pact Signing Thursday

Rhodes, Feb. 23 (CP)— An armistice agreement between Egypt and Israel will be signed tomorrow, it was announced officially today.

Egyptian approval of the agreement was disclosed earlier.

Tonight a dinner is scheduled to celebrate the agreement.

Egypt's negotiators, who hammered out the terms of the armistice with an Israeli delegation in 42 days of talks, returned to this island today from Cairo with their government's answer to the armistice proposal.

The armistice agreement, which the Jewish cabinet at Tel Aviv already has accepted, provides for demilitarization of all Egyptian-held Palestine, it was authoritatively reported.

The demilitarization zone on the Egyptian side of the border extends to, but does not include, El Arish, the big Egyptian military camp on the coast 30 miles inside Egypt.

Demilitarization Line

The demilitarization line runs through but does not include Beersheba, the strategic Arab town in the southern part of the Negev desert which the Jews captured last October. The town is just south of that part of the Negev allotted to the Jews under the United Nations Assembly's partition resolution of November 1947.

The Jews will be allowed to maintain forces in Beersheba. It was this point which the delegation referred to Cairo for final agreement.

Thus the nine-month war, which began with termination of Britain's mandate last May 15 and the proclamation of the Jewish government, appeared to be ended with the Jews in possession of most of the barren Negev, which they hope to populate with settlements.

It took the two delegations 42 days to hammer out the agreement which includes minute interpretations and clarifications of military and political questions.

50 Tons Calcium Chloride and Salt Used on Streets

Common rock salt plays an important part in keeping city streets and rural highways free of ice in the winter time, according to City Engineer Charles Mott who today stated the city has used about 50 tons of calcium chloride and salt on local streets this winter.

In the majority of cases either calcium chloride or salt is mixed with sand for application to city streets to cut ice but the use of clear salt for this purpose is increasing. Salt costs in the neighborhood of $18 per ton as compared to about $30 for calcium chloride and according to city officials does a better job "for the money."

Thus far this winter 25 tons of calcium chloride have been used and the same amount of salt. An additional 25 tons of salt have been just received by the city.

"As far as this city is concerned salt is an experiment this winter," stated Mr. Mott, "and we think it is doing a better job."

Although salt does not have the same fast action as calcium chloride it turns the snow and ice into a brine which escapes through catch basins. When pure salt is used to cut the ice there is not the same expense in cleaning catch basins of sand in the spring.

HOLD-UP NETS $50 IN CASH

Toronto, Feb. 23 — (CP)—Two men, one armed with a revolver, held up clerks in a drygoods and tobacco shop on mid-town Bloor Street shortly before noon today and escaped with $50 in cash, police said today.

Police received only meagre descriptions of the men and details were not available.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 23 — (CP) — Golds slipped steadily in moderately active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. A few industrials showed a brighter tone in early dealings but tended lower towards mid-session and base metals also slipped. Western oils climbed steadily to go against the downward trend.

The exchange's volume for the first 3 hours was 502,000 shares about 206,000 shares more than yesterday's similar period.

Consolidated Astoria featured the comparatively dull board, turning over some 150,000 shares in three hours at a gain of six cents.

The gold list dipped as senior and junior producers showed losses. A few seniors opened fractionally higher but dipped into minus territory.

Industrials moved on a steadier note in early dealings but key issues soon lost their gains and dipped into easier ground. Refining oils weakened and liquors were down.

Charles D. Lennox, Architect, Dies

Toronto, Feb. 23. (CP)— Charles David Lennox, 88, an architect who helped draw up the plans for such well-known Toronto buildings as St. Paul's Anglican Church, the City Hall, King Edward Hotel and Casa Loma, died yesterday.

FIRST PARLIAMENT

The first regular English parliament, held in 1295, was composed of the clergy, barons and knights, presided over by Edward I.

Fairy Story, Hansel and Gretel, Delightfully Presented by OSD Pupils

"Backward, turn backward,
O time in thy flight;
Make me a child again
Just for tonight."

Such was the unuttered wish of more than one adult heart as Hansel and Gretel in all the wealth and imagery of fairyland was made to live again last evening at the Ontario School for the Deaf, when the children of the school, under the capable leadership of Mr. Alec Gordon, assisted by the ladies' chorus, directed by Miss Leona Riggs, presented the well-known and favorite fairy opera of the German version of "The Babes in the Woods."

The program consisted of two parts. The first contained the address of the superintendent, Mr. W. J. Morrison, in which he thanked Miss Leona Riggs for her kindness in contributing the ladies' chorus which added such a pleasing touch to the play, the folk dance, the rhythm band, and the quartet. The second part, preceded by an overture by the rhythm band was that of the opera, Hansel and Gretel.

Intricate Dance

The folk dance, entitled "Captain Jinks," was colorful and intricate, in which the little girls, Doreen Brown, Jeannette Masci, Betty Tuson, Margaret DeLaFranier, Joanne Brontmier, Myrtle Flett, Mary O'Neil, and Margaret Kirkness in their flowing white dresses, and the little boys, Billy Hamphill and Michael Dodd, in their white satin breeches and coats with huge, mauve pompom buttons, and mauve neck ruffles against a background of simulated forest trees, and changing flood lights, was very lovely indeed.

Quartet Pleases

The quartet, whose members have but fifty per cent of hearing delighted their audience with their rendition of "Snowflake," and "Jesus Loves Me."

In Act I the curtain rises upon a green forest, at whose edge is a tiny drab cottage, in which lives Peter, the broom-maker, and his wife. Gertrude with their children, Hansel and Gretel. Peter is busy making brooms to sell, and his wife, who has just returned home, finds that Hansel and Gretel have not done the tasks allotted to them. Becoming annoyed she accidentally upsets the pitcher of milk which she had intended using in a pudding for supper. So having nothing else she sends Hansel and Gretel forth into the forest and fields to hunt for strawberries. Soon Gretel's red dress and blue apron and Hansel's white blouse fade from sight as they wander deeper and deeper into the forest.

Lovely Scene

Act. 2. The sun goes down and darkness overtakes them. Two queer little sandmen in sand-colored suits with funny little hats come through the trees, and scatter sand from their pouches into the eyes of Hansel and Gretel, and they become sleepy. Presently, too tired to go farther, they lay down and were soon fast asleep. Night comes on. Down through an opening in the trees, comes an angel in glistening white, with widespread wings, and then another and side by side the two angels step down the white and gleaming steps that are now revealed, followed by others, two by two, who walk toward the sleeping children, till there are seven angels on either side to guard them.

This scene was one of the loveliest of the opera. The dimmed lights, the dark green woods behind, the sleeping children, and the silently watching angels, whose wings glistened like thousands of tiny diamonds.

Act 3. Morning. Hansel and Gretel awake, rested, but very hungry. As they walk along, they see a queer little house in the distance, and the nearer they come, the stronger is the scent of gingerbread. Nearing the house, they are enticed inside by the wicked old witch, who promises them gingerbread cookies to eat. Once inside, Hansel, who is a thin little boy, is put into a large, wooden cage where he is kept till he is fat enough to be baked in the witch's huge black oven, and changed into a gingerbread cookie. Gretel is made the menial slave about the house.

Cruel Spell Broken

One day the old witch tells Gretel to open the oven door and see if the cakes are done, to which wise Gretel replies, "I don't know how to open it, you show me." As soon as the witch stoops down, Gretel shoves her in, and she is burned to an ash. At the old witch's death the cruel spell is broken, and all the little boys and girls who had been baked and changed into gingerbread cookies, resume their natural forms. The whole landscape is changed, the flowers bloom, and the curse removed. The tiny cottage which was so drab, now becomes a beautiful white cottage with flowers and vines creeping up the sides. There are gingerbread cookies all over it, and even pies are on the roof. Hansel and Gretel are reunited with their parents, and everyone lives happy ever after.

Much credit is due to those who so painstakingly labored to bring into being such an outstandingly beautiful portrayal of a delightful fairy story: to Mr. Alec Gordon, who directed it; to Miss Leona Riggs, who loaned her ladies' chorus, whose lovely renditions of the various selections throughout the play did so much to enchance its beauty; to those in charge and making the lovely costumes and especially to the children who so vividly and realistically lived their various parts.

It is worthy of note that the children who took the part of Peter, Hansel, and Gretel were born totally deaf.

Members of Chorus

The members of the ladies' chorus were: Miss Norma Arkles, Mrs. Frances Aspinall, Miss Muriel Clark, Miss Ethel Colcough, Miss Eva Coclough, Miss Helen Cook, Miss Margaret Hillis, Miss Loretta McDougall, Mrs. Frances Whillans and Mrs. Maude Rollins.

Toronto College Professor Driven To Life of Crime by Dennis Police Say

Toronto, Feb. 23 (CP)— A Toronto college professor was driven to crime by Gerrard Dennis, self-confessed society burglar, detectives said today.

Police did not reveal the name of the professor. They said only that he taught in a suburban college and was the son of a London, Ont., clergyman.

They said Dennis urged the professor to break into homes in Rosedale, swank Toronto residential district.

Dennis now is being held by police in White Plains, N.Y., where he confessed to jewel thefts of $1,000,00. He was arrested last week in Cleveland.

Police said the professor was put on probation after he was arrested and confessed to the break ins.

Received Sentences

They added that Dennis had received sentences of nearly six years for Canadian crimes between 1936 and 1943.

Police said they kept the role of the professor quiet for many years because of his father's illness.

They said Dennis was known as "Lover Boy" by the girls in the Toronto factory where he once worked. It was in this factory that he met the professor who was doing summer work.

Here, too, he met Eleanor Farrell, who told New York newspapermen yesterday she had lived with Dennis for several years.

Police said they picked up Dennis in 1943 and he was sentenced to two years less a day for abortion and housebreaking. He escaped from Burwash reformatory within a month.

Tells of Life With Dennis

New York, Eleanor Farrell described in the Journal-American her life with Dennis as one of loneliness, frustration and deceit. She said she was wooed by Dennis then known as Johnny Farrell after they met in Toronto.

Miss Farrell said in her story she once thought she was deeply in love with the sauve, handsome Dennis but "now I realize it was like some overwhelming madness."

She said she had not seen him since he disappeared 10 minutes ahead of the police, from their New York apartment in August, 1947.

"I never dreamed he was a jewel thief during the four years we lived together as husband and wife" her story continued.

Met in Toronto

Miss Farrell said she first met Jerry in September, 1943, when they were working in a Toronto war plant producing Bren guns. After a couple of months of dating he proposed and she accepted.

After postponing the marriage because Dennis said he was low on money, having quit medical school for that reason. Miss Farrell said she became pregnant. But Jerry then said he was married and could not marry her until he obtained a divorce.

The couple moved jto Montreal where Dennis told her he earned a living as a croupier in a gambling house and by changing Canadian dollars into United States funds on the Montreal black market. Miss Farrell said that several pieces of jewelry and furs given her by Dennis have since been identified as stolen property and confiscated by Montreal and Westchester police.

Left Suddenly

In the spring of 1946, Miss Farrell said, she and Dennis came to the United States with their 18-month-old daughter Wendy. They had no visas. They spent time in New York and Miami, Fla., living as Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Farrell.

One day Jerry left suddenly, she wrote in the Journal-American. Ten minutes later the police arrived, looking for him. At that time Miss Farrell was arrested but later was freed when police said she knew nothing of Dennis' way of "making a living". She subsequently married a man in Rye, N.Y. Her husband's name was not disclosed.

POOR POSTURE ON WAY OUT

Toronto, Feb. 23 — (CP)—Poor posture is on the way out in Danforth Technical Institute, one of Toronto's largest secondary schools.

A long term program has been started that is hoped will make students posture conscious. And the most novel part of the drive is the use of photography. Some 700 boys in their first term have already been photographed, from side and back, as they stood in a natural position.

Minor Burns in Raid Mountie Suffers

Toronto, Feb. 23 (CP)—RCMP Corporal William Ramsay suffered arm burns last night when he pulled an eye dropper and hypodermic syringe from a kitchen fire in a raid on an Argyle Street roominghouse. He did not require hospital treatment.

John Craig, and his wife Helen, 38, were charged with illegal possession of narcotics. Police said Craig threw the syringe and eyedropper into the stove when they entered the premises.

FLOOD FROM SKIES

The heaviest rainfall ever recorded in the United States was 15½ inches, in six hours on June 19, 1947.

Dennis Bargaining With Police For Light Sentence

White Plains, N.Y., Feb. 23. (CP)—Westchester County authorities today presented to the grand jury the alleged crime forays of Gerard G. Dennis, a Canadian said to have admitted he looted homes of more than $600,000 worth of jewels and furs across the country.

District-Attorney George M. Fanelli said he would ask for indictments for first degree assault and first degree robbery.

The assault charge against the tall, dapper, 29-year-old prisoner is based on the allegation that Dennis shot Marshall E. Tulloch, when Tulloch and his wife returned to their home in nearby New Rochelle, N.Y., in October 1946, and surprised Dennis during a $9,000 robbery there.

Mr. and Mrs. Tulloch were among witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury. Others include Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kiendl, of Yonkers, N.Y., whose home was robbed of $20,000 worth of fur coats and jewels.

Meanwhile police said Dennis, a native of St. Catharines, is dickering with the authorities in an effort to have the prison sentences he expects reduced.

Dennis, arrested in Cleveland a week ago, has been questioned by police from cities all across the United States and from Montreal and district concerning a series of burglaries ranging back at least five years. Jewelry and other valuables comprised the bulk of the loot.

"He wants to pay his debt by consolidating the various crimes in Westchester County, California and Montreal," Lieut. Maurice Kelly of the police of nearby New Rochelle, N.Y., said.

"He is very sincere in wanting to reclaim part of his life and is trying to bargain on getting only 20 to 30 years in jail. He feels that if all the charges are pressed, he will just get out of one jail to be sent to another."

Questioned by Police

Police Chief Robert Byford, of Westmount, Que., said today he questioned Dennis yeserday concerning a series of burglaries in that city during 1944 and 1945.

Purpose of the questioning, he said, was "to see whether it is possible to recover some of the jewelry stolen in those thefts."

Of particular interest to Byford was a $70,000 theft from the Westmount home of Mrs. Anne Timmins, widow of Noah Timmins, pioneer Canadian mining man, on Oct. 13, 1945.

Police said some loot from that and other burglaries had been found in Dennis' apartment in the Bronx on Aug. 4, 1947. But they added that the handsome society "Raffles" was vague when asked about the cases.

He was reported to be worried about the prospect of being returned to Canada as a second offender and of facing a severe sentence because of his escape from an Ontario jail in 1945.

However, Byford said he did not expect any more would be made to extradite Dennis. He noted that the Canadian already is wanted by police of many United States cities for questioning inburglary cases. "Possession is nine-tenths of the law", he added.

Very little Recovered

Byford said that Police Chief Joseph Griffiths of Outremont, Que., and Detective-Sergeant Bond of Montreal police also were here to question Dennis about burglaries in those cities.

He said they expect to return to Canada tonight.

Lieut. Kelly, captor of Dennis, said that aside from $12,000 in stolen diamonds found in Dennis' pockets on his arrest and $100,000 worth of gems found in an apartment he maintained in Los Angeles, the only known assets of the prisoner are $1,435 in his wallet. Kelly said the cash might possibly be released by court order for use as counsel fees.

But Dennis reported to have said he wants to use the money to meet his "obligations", especially to Betty Ritchie, the former Toronto school teacher, who was arrested in his Los Angeles apartment. Miss Ritchie, whose parents live in Fenelon Falls, Ont., was charged with receiving stolen goods.

Linked With Western Powers

Norway is to line up with the Western democracies in the Atlantic Pact. After considering the problem she has decided that her interest lies with the West in its outlook upon the welfare of the world.

Norway occupies a strategic position in Northern Europe. She proved that in the Second World War in which her service was of the kind to win her the never-dying honor of a noble and great defence for the sake of freedom. There was little doubt that the Norwegians, descendants of the ancient Vikings who were free men and have left to their descendants an attitude towards freedom and justice which is the great appeal of the modern Norwegians, did much to save the world in the years 1940 to 1945.

The people of the northern democracy have the admiration of mankind, won through a history the way of which has been the way of honor, freedom and justice.

She is not a mighty nation in material strength but she is a mighty nation in her sense of freedom and in the liberty which her subjects enjoy. She knows the sister democracies and their love of liberty.

The Western democracies had no doubt which way Norway would decide and she has reached a decision in keeping with the spirit of her history and her people.

Gains by Cerealists

The world of science permeates every part of life today. In ancient days two branches of skill and knowledge were concerned with the edible plants, the working of metals in the days of forays among different tribes of men, and making of warlike instruments. Agriculture from the beginning occupied a supremely important place. And it occupies the same position today.

This is a world of inventions which are transforming many of the ways of achieving things. For instance modern cooking is so different from what it was to primitive man with his gathered sticks, dry leaves and stone and flint. Still agriculture is the leading industry, because it is basic in its importance and carries the superstructure of the modern world on its shoulders.

After many thousands of years of growing and developing grasses, man's main stay is wheat from which comes bread. And so far has knowledge succeeded in attaining new results that there have been steady improvements in the grains and foods.

Modern history has shown progress in the cereals. New types to suit different areas are developed with results benefiting the whole of society.

The successful distribution in 1948 of Saunders and Redman wheat has given considerable satisfaction to the Cereal Division of the Experimental Farms Service of the Federal Department of Agriculture. Saunders is the high-yielding, early-maturing spring variety, best suited to the area extending from Central Alberta to the Peace River district and Redman which is most suited to Manitoba and East Saskatchewan, high-yielding and more resistant to leaf rust than other varieties.

These are two more victories won by cerealists in their struggle against drought, disease and insects.

Brotherhood Week

Brotherhood Week now being observed in Canada aims to draw the minds of the people to the need of the principle of brotherliness in life relations — that means giving others the respect we want for ourselves.

At this time Canadians are being asked to ponder over the truly great benefits in Canada of inter-group, inter-faith and inter-Canadian democracy.

Men are really brothers in spirit when they are tolerant of the rights of others for brotherhood is not a kind of sterile intellectual affirmation but a vital principle governing the daily lives of the people. Not to have understanding and the spirit of brotherliness towards others is to be unworthy of the great heritage Canadians possess in opportunity, in religion and in matters civil.

Brotherhood is a personal relation between individuals. It involves attitudes, what is felt and thought about others. It involves action, how to act in relation to others.

Some questions have been proposed to bring a realization of what brotherhood is. Such are these, Do we believe members of our group are superior to others? Does our daily conversation reveal that we believe in the dignity of all? Do we teach our children by word and example that all people are equal in the sight of God and under the laws of our land? Does what we do and say show that we really believe in the fraternity of all?

ON LEAVING TOWN

I think when a friend of mine's tempted away
To a task that is greater and offers more pay,
Will happy he be in the new life he leads?
Is it only the money that's offered he needs?

On the morning when first at his desk he appears,
Will he miss the old friends
he has known down the years?
Will those he has worked with,
from lowest to top,
With smiles say "Hello!" as he enters the shop?

It may be I'm foolish, my notion all wrong,
But what of his neighbors?
Will they go along?
Wherever he goes new delights
he may find
But what about those he is leaving behind?

Should anyone tempt me with money to go
From the city I love, I should answer them: "No!
You offer more money, but that's where it ends.
The pay I'm now getting includes all my friends."

At the annual senior students contest in connection with the Collegiate and Vocational School, which was held in the auditorium last evening, the championship in oratory was won by Orland Pinkston and the victory has earned for him the right to represent Belleville in the district competition at Kingston. Three speakers entered the contest last evening. Miss Mary Drummond, Miss Florence Barber and Orland Pinkston. The latter spoke on "Canada Among the Nations." The delivery of each contestant was splendid, although Orland Pinkston had a little advantage in both delivery and subject. The contest, however, was keen and was much enjoyed by the audience. Alan Sprague, President of the Literary Society, presided. The judges were Miss Masson, Mr. J. O. Herity and Mr. George Stewart.

EMOTION CALLS FOR ACTION

Someone has said that the greatest need of a vast number of churchgoers is not more spiritual food but more spiritual exercise. We recall that William James, the great psychologist of a generation ago, warned against our allowing our emotions to be stirred up within us and then letting them die down without expressing them in some active way. Emotions should result in some helpful form of action.

One reason why Alcoholics Anonymous makes such tremendous progress is because everybody helped by this organization must go out and help somebody else. The members realize that if a former alcoholic gets all pepped up over the progress he has made and then does not go out and help others to achieve a like triumph, he himself will soon fall by the wayside.

Millions of people attend church every Sunday, listen to the most commendable sentiments expressed from the pulpit, give silent or audible consent, and then leave the church without the least intention of doing anything about the truth they have listened to and approved. This sort of attitude impedes the growth of vital creative personality. Truth that does not eventuate in action, emotions that do not lead us on to do something worth while, turn back upon us and either weaken us with sentimentality or complicate our lives with all sorts of suppressions and frustrations.

Journalist Given Agreed Damages

London, Feb. 23 (Reuters) — Keith Henry Scott-Watson, British newspaperman, has been awarded £225 ($900) agreed damages in a libel action against the Daily Mirror. The action resulted from a story in the Mirror which alleged he had been expelled from Egypt.

Geoffrey Lawrence, counsel for Scott-Watson said the story was published in August, 1946, when the plaintiff was on public relations for the navy, army and air force institute in the Middle East.

It read in part: "Communist views are given as the reason why Mr. Keith Scott-Watson, a writer who worked for the Ministry of Information, is being expelled from Egypt, which has not expelled a British subject CMF pelled a British journalist before."

Scott-Watson was not expelled from Egypt, he had never held or expressed Communist views, counsel said.

Six Policemen Injured In Los Angeles Rioting

Los Angeles, Feb. 23 (AP) — Six police officers received minor injuries and two youths were arrested yesterday after 60 policemen were called to halt rioting among more than 1,000 men in a local park. Mackenzie's Column:

World Seeking Security in Form Of Alliances

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Norway's decision to pin her security to the projected North Atlantic Alliance carries a great moral. The old adage that "in unity lies strength."

Because of the tragic circumstances that humanity is sharply divided into bitterly hostile ideologies, the world seeks security in the formation of powerful alliances. These alliances depend on their military strength to keep the other fellow quiet.

Foreign Minister Lange of Norway, in announcing his government's decision — still to be ratified by parliament — made an interesting disclosure. He said he presented to Washington the Swedish idea of a Scandinavian defence union of Sweden, Norway and Denmark, based on neutrality and backed mainly by Sweden's arms.

Turned Down

Lange says he got turned down for two reasons. First, the defensive strength of such a union wouldn't be great enough to prevent aggression. Second, supplies of arms and other material are so short that the best possible use must be made of them. Washington felt that the proposed Scandinavian union was too small and isolated.

The foreign minister reports that these answers made Norway realize she couldn't isolate herself.

The basic idea of such an alliance is to create enough strength so that no aggressive-minded country or group would dare attack.

Would Serve Purpose

In that sense the North Atlantic agreement would be serving the purpose for which the United Nations — and before that the League of Nations — was established. The League failed in its stewardship largely because power politics were being played by members. And that gives rise to the question of how the United Nations will weather the present storm.

So the purpose of the North Atlantic Alliance is to provide enough military strength to act as a deterrent to aggression. While the military clause of the pact won't commit the United States automatically to war, it will carry assurances so strong that nobody will misunderstand American intentions.

Thus, in effect, regional pacts are being called into being to do the work for which the U. N. was created. The United States substituting material force for moral force. That may provide a considerable degree of security, but unfortunately it doesn't preclude the danger of war.

It's a poor substitute for an air-tight United Nations — but half a U. N. is better than none. For the present we shall have to follow the advice of President Theodore Roosevelt:

"Speak softly and carry a big stick."

London Letter:

Former Home Of Derby Family Houses Paintings

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Feb. 23 (CP)—British sportsmen who like to be reminded of the good old days are flocking to the former London home of the derby family to see a unique collection of sporting paintings.

They have been amassed through the years by Walter Hutchinson, the book publisher. Some estimate he has spent £300,000 ($1,200,000) to buy up 3,000 pictures.

Artistically some of the pictures are poor, and Hutchinson admits it. They've been bought, he says, in order to give representation to a certain sport. When better examples are available, he will buy them.

Star of the present exhibition is Constable's "Stratford Hill," a rural landscape in which some children fishing provide the sporting motif. It has a place of honor on an easel in the former, high-ceilinged ball-room. On the walls hang two immense canvases by George Stubbs—"A Lion Attacking a Stag" and "A Lion Attacking a Horse" which formerly belonged to the Earl Fitzwilliam.

The average Englishman's love of horseflesh is reflected in scores of pictures of race-horses, including 17 by Sir Alfred Munnings, the present specialist in that line.

Sports now out-of-date are remembered. There are pictures portraying bull-spearing, hawking, cock-fighting and carriage racing.

Hutchinson "thinks" he has some pictures of typically Canadian sports but says not all his paintings have been catalogued as yet.

Simultaneous with the opening of the collection, which will be known as the National Gallery of British Sports and Pastimes, there came a plea from H. M. Bateman, the black and white artist, for a permanent gallery of humor in art.

Many of the originals were lying in odd corners where they had been tossed after publication.

He said the collection should start with English drawings, though perhaps later other countries could be included.

CHILDREN ESCAPE INJURY

Stratford, Ont., Feb. 22 (CP) — Five children riding in an automobile being used as a school bus escaped injury Monday when it was in collision with another car on No. 8 Highway near Mitchell. Earl Roney of Dublin, who was chauffeur for the children, and W. M. Henderson of Sarnia, driver of the other vehicle, also were unhurt.

POPULATION INCREASE

Stockholm — (CP) — Sweden's three largest cities all recorded population increases last year. Stockholm increased by 19,356 to 726,418, Gothenburg, with a present total of 377,423, added 6,543 and Malmo now has 186,217, an increase of 4,949.

CONVERSATION SPRAY RANGE

Cough spray or sneeze spray has an effective range of ten or twelve feet. I mean to say the germs of such respiratory infections as diphtheria, scarlet fever, pneumonia and acute pharyngitis (simple sore throat), tonsilitis or sinusitis may survive the exposure to cold (room temperature is perishing cold to germs which require body temperature to live) long enough to travel in mucus or moisture drop let from the cougher or sneezer a distance of ten or twelve feet to reach nose or mouth of whoever happens to be within range.

For that reason—incapacity to survive exposure to a temperature much lower than the usual body temperature (98F)—people who don't know or care enough to cover nose and mouth when the cough or sneeze in the presence of other persons probably spread their infections to many more persons via conversation spray.

Even though one may not see the droplets or feel their impact the microscopic droplets are constantly present in polite conversation spray and may contain germs or virus of any respiratory infection the individual happens to be coming down with. The effective range of conservation spray is not over five feet—just far enough to get you across a desk, counter, aisle or table.

Often it may be difficult or embarrassing to keep out of range. On the other hand it is often possible to so arrange things as to maintain a mote six feet wide between you and your customer, acquaintance or visitor. In that way you will be out of each other's spray range, unless one of you is boorish enough to cough or sneeze without holding handkerchief over nose and mouth.

It is necessary to remind a lot of you geeks that germ-carrying or virus-carrying spray droplets are given off mouth and nose during conversation as well as during coughing or sneezing. It is much more important to your health than the cunning wheezes the health departments get off from time to time about coughs and sneezes.

Of course it is practically impossible to stay out of conversation spray range if you happen to be a shoe salesman a manicurist a dentist or a cashier. But I'll tell you what you can do to protect yourself—you can wear a suitable mask while at work. It need not be an unpleasant KLU KUX get-up either. More efficient, more comfortable and as good looking as ordinary eye glasses. It is transparent. The mask can be made of washed non-inflammable X-ray film. Dr. Lewis J. Silvers designed it especially for physicians who do nose and throat work. It is equally suitable for dentists, hairdressers, manicures, barbers, salesmen and saleswomen. The mask protects you from the alleged "cold" your client, patient or customer has and vice versa—so it is good business to wear it always to work. Nowadays, you know, anything purporting to be a "slight cold" is suspect, even though you be the so-and-so who may choose to distribute samples.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Circumcision

Please state why circumcision is necessary or when it is necessary. (H. R. A.)

Answer—It is advisable only when cleanliness or urination is interfered with, in my opinion.

Asthma

Have you any advice or suggestions for one with asthma and sinus? (A. J. LaP.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on Asthma.

Pinworms

Two children and I have had pinworms on and off for three years. Medicines prescribed by doctor have proved ineffective. (Mrs. G. W.)

Answer—Perhaps you can eradicate the parasites by following the instructions in booket, Unbidden Guests—which deals with worms, insects and other parasites or pests. For the booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Itching Without Apparent Cause

Is it possible to cure itching piles with salve or ointment. Some people here claim to cure them with ginseng weed. (S. M.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet on Pruritus. That means itching without apparent cause. Only by proper examination can the physician determine whether the patient complaining of "itching piles" really has internal or external piles. If piles are present it is unusually necessary to obliterate or remove them in order to bring lasting relief to the pruritus.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Next time it snows during the morning and afternoon, go out, about four o'clock in your local shopping district and have a look at the cars parked on the street.

Those cars that are covered with snow, and have a sheltered bit of pavement under them, have been parked there all day; since morning. They are the cars of the merchants themselves. And will stay there until supper time when the merchants close up and go home.

The number of merchants who clutter up the limited parking space in the shopping district with their own cars is equalled only by the number of merchants who are continually complaining about the uncertainty of business these days.

Yesterday, in three city blocks, I counted no fewer than nineteen cars that obviously had been standing all day in front of, or nearly in front of, the shops of their owners. Around these blocks, at mid-afternoon, shoppers were driving wearily looking for a spot to park for a few minutes. Many of them were women, who would have to park two or three blocks away and tramp through slush and snow to reach the shops of these merchants too lazy and certainly too indifferent to consider their prospective customers. The large delivery trucks of the wholesale companies double-park, in defiance of the law, for the few minutes they require to make delivery of goods to the merchants.

In the larger cities, uptown merchants are distressed at the habit people form of going down-town to shop in the big stores. The big stores, however, usually provide parking lots. When the uptown merchants themselves contribute to the scarcity of parking space, and to the congestion and confusion of traffic in their own neighborhood, they have no grounds for complaint.

Next time it snows in the morning and afternoon, go for a walk and see the all-day-parked cars of the merchants obstructing their own business.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ADAPTATION

How difficult it is for so many to adapt themselves to their station. Either they fit or they don't. And if they don't, then it is the part of wisdom to move on, make a change — or perhaps to make a change in themselves.

Adaptation is a valuable art. To make the best of a bad situation, or to so surcharge it that its complexion becomes completely a new one. Nothing enlivens a personality, giving to it unusual attractiveness, more than does this ability of one to adapt himself to any situation.

Any of us may so conduct ourselves that we may be welcomed everywhere we go, and radiate that quality that makes people feel at home with us. All through life we are placed in positions where we must adapt ourselves to our work, to our friends, or to an emergency that may call for unusual courage or patience.

No matter in what station in life we find ourselves, we must adapt ourselves to it, and make the most of it. If we decide upon a change, we must then adapt ourselves to that change. We get nowhere by wobbling.

We must adapt ourselves to our surroundings, to the ways of those with whom we most associate, and to what work is assigned to us, or which we choose for ourselves. We can never be happy or find satisfaction by living each day on a hit-and-miss basis.

We must even adapt ourselves to the climate and to the changes of the weather — or go to some place where we can — if possible. Adaptation to things as they are, however, is safest and best under all conditions. There ought to be quite a deal of the heroic in all of us, if we would be noticed and appreciated.

When we readily adapt ourselves to any condition or circumstance, we put ourselves as candidates for peace and contentment of mind. And we are usually elected! You have heard the familiar saying, "When in Rome do as the Romans do." That compliments both you and them.

H. & S. Assoc. Sponsors Big Program Bake Sale, Amateur Show, Dance

Shannonville — The Shannonville Home and School Association was a busy group of men and women last Friday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon a bake sale, hobby show, rummage sale and afternoon tea took place in the local Orange Hall. In the evening a large audience enjoyed an amateur program and later a dance.

Music for the dance was provided by the Home and School Association orchestra.

Mrs. Clifford Marion was the convener of the sale of home cooking. On these tables an attractive and appetizing array of lovely home-made candy, all varieties of cookies, cakes of every size and description, tarts, pies to suit every taste, canned fruit, pickles and even to an odd pail of potatoes were for sale. Needless to say, the tables were soon empty of all the delicacies. Mrs. Walter Brant assisted Mrs. Maracle in the sales.

Rummage Table

Mrs. Kilburn's rummage tables reminded one of a large department store on bargain day as there was everything from bathing suits to fur capes on sale. Noted were shoes, hats, dresses, coats, purses, books, pictures, all varieties of jewelry, kitchen utensils, dishes, blouses, scarfs, gloves, shirts, suits, lamp shades, canned goods, snow suits and play suits. The early shopper certainly profited by the many bargains. Assisting Mrs. Kilburn were Mrs. Pickell and Mrs. E. Maracle.

Tea Tables

In charge of the tea tables and assisting in the kitchen were, convener, Mrs. Fred Louis, Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald, Mrs. Peter Marion, Mrs. William Conley, Mrs. C. McCarthy, Mrs. Percy Howard, Mrs. Bardy and Mrs. William Slavin.

Mrs. Stanley MacDonald assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Vivian poured tea during the afternoon. Their table had a background of large blue and yellow lettering "H. and S." A beautiful lace cloth covered the table and two silver tea services graced each end. The centrepiece was a lovely white cyclamen flanked by green candles in silver candle sticks.

Hobby Show

A unique feature of the afternoon's entertainment was the hobby show on the second floor of the building. Mrs. Brant and Mrs. Wm. Coles were very capable attendants. Noted among the 175 features were a pleasure yacht hand-carved by Mr. Walter Pickell; an old coffee urn owned by Mrs. Kilburn; a cup donated by a Toronto paper to Mrs. Fred Louis for being a Leap Year baby; a mug commemorating Queen Victoria's jubilee, owned by Mrs. Wm. Coles; hand-carved napkin ring by Mr. Marshall Louis; a varied display of cactus plants by Mrs. Kenneth Juby; English money displayed by Mrs. Jerry Dafoe; a lovely piece of needlepoint by Mrs. Stanley MacDonald; a display of fancy work, wood carving, a scrap book and knitting by the school children, Ardeth Brant, Rosella Pringle, Ruth Kilburn, Margaret Slavin, Lorne and Arthur Brant, Gail Juby and others.

Mr. Carman Brant had a very interesting display of crests from various Canadian troops in the last war, a German P38, clip and compass, also shoes and coins from Holland.

Mrs. Kilburn, historian of the Home and School Association, had her scrap-book of all the newspaper accounts of the meetings on display.

Mr. Walter Pickell also had his hand-carved ship-lamp; Mrs. J. F. MacFarlane a doll 61 years old, Mr. William Slavin, an interesting display of radio tubes including television; a Japanese umbrella and a powder horn by Mrs. Kenneth Vivian.

Dr. McVicker displayed a German Luger; Mr. Marshall Louis a bronzed anvil from Germany approximately 175 years old; genuine lace from Belgium; shrapnel and Battle of Britain medal by Mrs. James Vesterfelt; Mr. Sandercock of Belleville, a fighting knife used at Dieppe; Ruth Slavin a doll 50 years old with pierced ears; nightie bag over 100 years old and a child's dress over 50 years old, owned by Mrs. William Slavin; a beautiful display of quilts by Mrs. M. Colden; by Mrs. K. Juby, Mrs. S. MacDonald, a variety of crocheted doilies, tatting and knitted lace. Mrs. M. Brant displayed a lovely hand-crocheted lace table cloth. Mrs. Peter Marion a very old and tiny auto harp.

Ox-yoke 150 Years Old

One of the interesting exhibits was an oxen-yoke, owned by the Belleville undertaker, Mr. Sandercock. This yoke is approximately 150 years old and was used on a team of oxen driven from Annapolis Royal Nova Scotia, to Belleville. Later the yoke was used to drive oxen from Belleville to Peterborough and then to Havelock where it was used to work the entire farm of the owner.

Variety Show

In the evening a large audience enjoyed the variety show under the capable convenership of Mrs. Kilburn. Mr. William Slavin, president of the Home and School Association, acted as chairman for the program and proved a very witty one indeed. He also explained what the new association's hopes and aims were. The proceeds of the day's activities would go to a very worthy community project.

The first item was the singing of O Canada, followed by a community sing-song led by Miss Verna Fox and Mr. Reynolds and heartily enjoyed by all present.

The Home and School orchestra provided the next item on the program, "MacNamara's Band," with Mrs. M. Brant at the piano, Mrs. Louis, guitar, Mr. Reynolds, clarinet, Mr. Marshall Louis, violin, Mr. Carl Fuller, guitar. This new orchestra provided a fine selection.

Gail Juby appeared next on the program with a difficult tap-dance on stairs, "Tea for Two." Miss Verna Fox sang a pleasing solo, "Mother Machree." A sing-song followed this item into which the audience heartily entered. The next item was a trio, "She's Too Fat for Me," by Gary Sine, Frank Phillips and Ernest Crispe. This was well done also with appropriate costumes. The encore was a mouth organ selection. Their accompanist was Mrs. Harry Sine. The Home and School orchestra then presented the selection "Buttons and Bows" which was well rendered.

The three Maracle boys performed a fast step-dance and Mrs. James Vesterfelt sang the lovely solo, "Cradle Song," by Brahms.

The Home and School quartet, Miss Verna Fox, Mrs. James Vesterfelt, Rev. E. Caldwell and Mr. Reynolds rendered "The Bells of Saint Mary," which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Louis and Mrs. Carl Fuller brought an interesting entertainment to a close with the playing of their two guitars and Carl singing "Tennessee Waltz." Mrs. M. Brant and Mrs. G. M. Fraser were accompanists for the evening.

The Home and School Association is to be commended on this fine day's entertainment and the work they are planning to accomplish. The association is just a few months old yet they have nearly sixty members and by appearances are not afraid of a little extra work in helping their association in every way possible.

Estimated annual landings by Canada and Newfoundland of all species of fish in northwestern Atlantic waters is put at 1,460,000,000 pounds.

SHANNONVILLE

Shannonville — Mrs. Curl is ill at the present time and was removed to the Belleville General Hospital last Wednesday evening by ambulance. Dr. Branscombe is in attendance. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery to health.

Mrs. William Ross and son, Burton, of the 2nd concession, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert MacDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lever of Smithfield were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley MacDonald. Mr. and Mrs. Lever were residents of Shannonville some two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams of Belleville were recent weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald of Milltown.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hicks spent this past week in Parry Sound where they attended the wedding on Saturday of Mrs. Hicks' sister, Miss Janet Stephens.

Last Wednesday afternoon the Milltown ladies attended a bingo and euchre party at the home of Mrs. Herb Houston. There were numerous lucky prize-winners during the afternoon's entertainment. Refreshments were served.

Little Margaret Louis is home from the hospital although she is still wearing an eye shield. Margaret fell some three weeks ago while skating on the local river. In her falling a small piece of wood penetrated her nose, coming out her eye. She was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital where the bark and wood fragments were removed. Margaret is a very fortunate girl in not losing the sight of her eye.

Rev. A. W. Lougheed and Mr. J. F. MacFarlane attended the meeting of Belleville Presbytery last week, held in Tabernacle Church.

Ruth Slavin entertained several of her young friends last Saturday afternoon on the occasion of her seventh birthday. Present were Donna Hartley, Norma Sager, Gail Juby, Ellen McCann, Fern Hill, Ethel-Rita McCann and Margaret Pickell. All present enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon with numerous games and dainty refreshments.

Ask Tamblyn's

PRESIDENT HOME AND SCHOOL: "This season I have been vice-president of our local Home and School and expect to be elected to the presidency very shortly. Should I publicly thank those who have supported me? Should this be done election night or at the installation? What should I say?"

Probably the out-going President will ask you to speak briefly when the election results are announced. If not, then do your speech of acceptance after your installation. And, instead of thanking your supporters, why not thank members for the honor they have done you, ask for their co-operation, and promise them intelligent planning on your part.

SWEATER BOY: "My grandson has a gift sweater much too large for him. Is there any place in Toronto I can send it to have it shrunk? The sweater took so long to do it seems a shame to waste it."

Say our wool experts, shrinking the sweater to size will only full the wool and detract from its appearance. Only ray of comfort they give is that the grandson will grow into the sweater.

GERMANY, BRITISH CONTROLLED: "How do I get a permit to enter the British Zone of Germany? What luggage can I take?"

To enter British-occupied Zone of Germany, it is necessary to have a Military Entry Permit. This you can obtain from Allied Control Commission in London. If you can take from Department of External Affairs, Ottawa, a letter saying you are going into Germany on business, it would expedite your entry. Luggage is limited, with new quotas coming up.

MARTIAL MUSIC: "I have written a martial tribute to Britain in verse. I have been told it is splendid and that it should be published. To whom should I apply?"

Both Gordon V. Thompson Limited, 902 Yonge Street, and Canadian Music Sales Corp. Ltd., 1261 Bay Street, maintain a staff to look over music. Why not take it to either or both?"

WEDDINGS

BARTON—SMITH

The Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Picton, Ont., was the scene of a very pretty wedding, on Friday, February 18th., at 6 p.m., when Mary Elizabeth Smith of Madoc, Ont., daughter of Mr. Frank Smith and the late Mrs. Smith, Madoc, Ont., became the bride of T. Cleland Barton, Prescott, Ont. The Rev. Hope Swayne, rector of St. Mary Magdalene, officiated, before an altar banked with pink tulips and white narcissi.

The organist, Mr. Frank Bronskill, rendered the customary wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an earth-brown suit, gold colored straw hat with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Jack Baker, Madoc, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a grey tailored suit with black and red accessories, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Little Elizabeth Baker, of Madoc, was flower girl, and wore a plaid tailored suit with winter white accessories, and carried a Colonial nosegay.

Mr. Jack Baker, Madoc, was groomsman.

The wedding supper was held at the rectory, home of the Rev. Hope Swayne and Mrs. Swayne, which was beautifully decorated with Spring flowers.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Cleland Barton left for Toronto, and points west.

Upon their return they will reside in Madoc. Ont.

Only Woman Warden Honored in Toronto

Toronto, Feb. 23 (CP)— Ontario's only woman warden, 60-year-old Mrs. Mary Pettit, received two bouquets of roses during her visit here Tuesday.

Warden of Halton County, the widowed grandmother received the first one at the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities annual convention. Her second came from Highways Minister George Doucett at the Ontario Good Roads Association convention.

LEND LEASE — FEMALE FASHION

Not only have Mary Uglianitza of Bayonne, N.J. (left), and Ada Fishburn of Spennymore, Eng., shown together at a London reception, agreed to swap jobs and living conditions, but Mary is throwing in an introduction to her boy friend to boot. She has invited Ada, a factory worker, to live with her family in Bayonne for a month and will give her a letter to the B.F., Frank Wagner, also of Bayonne. Mary works in a fluorescent lamp factory and is on a visit to England. The "exchange scheme" was her own idea, she says, and the rest is up to Ada, who leaves for the U.S. on March 2—and Frank.—Central Press Canadian.

Nuns from China Arrive in Canada

Vancouver — (CP) — A group of 10 Roman Catholic nuns, obliged to leave Comunist-dominated areas of China because of malnutrition and damp cold weather, have reached Vancouver.

Eight Chinese and two Occidental Sisters of the Precious Blood arrived here by air. The Chinese sisters will go to monasteries in Prince Albert and Gravelbourg, Sask., until they can return to China and the Occidental nuns will go to New Hamshire.

The Communists did not expel the nuns, Sister Reparatrice of Manchester, N.H., said. But of 25 nuns in the monastery of Sienhsien, north of Hopei, only four did not suffer from cold and malnutrition.

"Staple food of the nuns in China was millet, like chicken-feed," she said. "We also had some cabbage, but no milk, butter, eggs or rice. We spun our own thread from cotton and wool and wove our own clothing."

Chinese were not suffering greatly because Communists were dividing rich men's property among the poor. Rich people were fleeing.

"The Chinese are a peaceful people. As long as they are fed, they don't care who rules them," she said.

Sister Reparatrice saw no fighting. "The Communists came in one gate and the Nationalists walked out the other. At first Communists forbade holding mass but later reversed their decision and permitted freedom of worship."

Shanghai was crowded, but there was no panic. "People sleep in doorways and merchants display their wares on the street."

HIDDEN BEAUTY

The custom of veiling Moslem women goes back to pre-Islamic days when bands of Bedouins roamed the cities and towns.

Rebuilds Bodies Of B.C. Fossils

Vancouver, (CP) —Ancient skulls from the Great Fraser Midden, 14 miles south of Vancouver, are being studied by Mrs. E. C. von Engel-Baiersdorf, F.R.A.I., to piece together early British Columbia history.

The anthropologist - sculptor came here from Hungary a few months ago to rebuild fossil men and animals by "clothing the bones".

She is particularly interested in the Midden, the 1,400-foot stretch along the north bank of the Fraser River, which contains remains of people who lived thousands of years ago.

Known internationally for her work, Mrs. Baiersdorf is said to be the only person in Europe capable of scientific reconstruction in sculpture and painting.

Just now she is reconstructing from bones a bird which was known as the "archaeopteyx".

Another bit of current work is a skull believed to be between 5,000 and 10,000 years old belonging to a long-headed tribe living at the Fraser's mouth before the pyramids were built.

Differences of half a millimetre in the thickness of a muscle is serious business in anthropological sculptures, she said.

The City Museum has two of her restorations—the head of a Salish woman from a 1,000-year-old skull dug from the Midden, and the head of a Kwakuitl woman from a skull found near Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Her reconstruction of other skulls such as "homo Neanderthal" and "homo Rhodesian", both 100,000 years old, are in European museums.

NO GRADES

The longest stretch of straight railway is in Australia. It is dead straight for 328 miles across the Nullarbor Plain.

WOOLER

Father, Mother Son, Daughter Banquet Enjoyed

Wooler.—A father and son, and mother and daughter banquet was held in the Sunday School room of the United Church on Wednesday evening with Mrs. Lloyd Dorland, and group of the Woman's Association in charge.

Mr. Homer Leavitt, leader of the Trail Rangers, was toastmaster for a program of toasts, music and addresses. The toast to the King was proposed by Max Haggerty and responded to by all singing the National Anthem. Mary Dorland proposed the toast to the Mothers and Mrs. Henry McColl replied while Gerald Fox proposed the toast to the Fathers and Mr. Lloyd Dorland replied. The toast to the church was proposed by Doreen Dorland and responded to by Rev. W. G. Fletcher.

C.G.I.T. and Trail Rangers

Addresses on "What the C.G.I.T. and Trail Rangers Means to Me", were given by Leila McColl and Kenneth Peister. Mrs. S. L. Terrill introduced Mrs. Greer, of Trenton, who gave an inspiring address to the girls and their mothers. Rev. W. G. Fletcher introduced Mr. Robert Smithrim, also of Trenton, who addressed the boys and their dads. Ruth McColl thanked Mrs. Greer on behalf of the girls and mothers while Jimmy Dorland expressed the thanks of the fathers and sons to Mr. Smithrim.

During the program vocal solos were given by Aldythe Arthur, and piano solos by Mattie Bull. Rev. W. G. Fletcher led in the sing-song accompanied by Mrs. Henry McColl.

Woman's Association

The February meeting of the Woman's Association was held in the United Church on Thursday with Mrs. Earl Doonan and group serving the noon dinner. After dinner some ladies quilted, while others sewed or knitted.

The short business meeting and program opened at 2 p.m. A vocal solo was given by Mrs. Douglas Fox and a reading by Mrs. Angus Gunter.

Trail Rangers and C.G.I.T. girls assisted with the special youth service in the United Church on Sunday morning. Those taking part were Donna McColl, Ruth McColl, Hugh Fox, and Max Haggerty while Jimmy Dorland and Bobby Pridham passed the collection plates. Four ladies of the choir, Mrs. A. G. Austin, Mrs. H. Ewing, Doreen Steinburg and Aldythe Arthur, sang "Have Thine Own Way Lord". Rev. W. G. Fletcher's sermon was addressed to young people in particular.

BAND LEADER'S WIFE TREATED FOR BURNS

Mrs. Jimmy Dorsey, 39, wife of the famous orchestra leader, is shown as Dr. Carl E. Lund treated her for serious burns suffered when fire swept her palatial $120,000 residence on Toluca Estates Drive in Hollywood. Mrs. Dorsey was carried to safety by her butler and treated for first, second and third degree burns about the face, hands and shoulders. —Central Press Canadian.

Women's Activities

AIKENS' W.M.S.

3rd Sidney.—A joint meeting of the Aikens' Woman's Association and Woman's Missionary Society, was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. George Denike and Mrs. Harold Denike.

An very appetizing hot dinner was served at the noon hour and the meetings followed with Mrs. Hollinger conducting the W.A. meeting and Mrs. Selburn Westover in charge of the Missionary program.

After quiet music with Mrs. Lee Grills at the piano, Mrs. Westover opened the service with a challenging message from the Dominion Board President, Mrs. Self.

The slogan for 1949 is, Advance in missionary work at home and overseas—advance in increased membership—increase in Christian living and giving and increase in missionary personnel.

"To do this," stated Mrs. Self in the message read by Mrs. Westover, "our home-base must be strengthened by enlisting new members into our Society. We must re-dedicate ourselves to the service of Our Master, resolving to put first things first to rise up and build. More prayer", she urged, "more hard work —more unity".

Plans were made for the Day of Prayer service which is to be held on March 4th at the home of Mrs. Charles Smith, 2nd Line.

The allocation of $225 was accepted by the members.

An excerpt from the Blue Book was read by Mrs. Sam Marshall concerning the work of the missionary for prayer, Miss Jean Stewart, of West China.

Sympathy was expressed for Miss Coultice, missionary at North Hastings, who has been recently bereaved by the death of her mother, and the corresponding secretary was requested to send a letter of condolence.

Members were urged to co-operate in reporting sick calls to the community friendship secretary.

Programs for the year's work and the homes where the meetings will be held, were distributed, and a special vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Lee Grills, who had typed the programs.

"Avoiding responsibilities" was a reading given by Mrs. Ken Bush, and a Temperance reading, "Why Take a Stand for Total Abstinence", was given by Mrs. George Denike.

An interesting chapter of the study book "The Story of Christian Literature in West China", was presented by Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton, with the following ladies assisting, Mrs. Carmen Grills, Mrs. Fred Moon, Mrs. Lee Grills, Mrs. Chas. Keary, and Mrs. Finlay Scrimshaw.

This proved to be an interesting story of the founding of the Canadian Mission Press in West China, which has been an important factor in carrying on the missionary work in China throughout the years.

Such a Pretty Dessert!

SPARKLING and appealing, these gaily fruited Jell-O molds have the glowing color . . . and flawless brilliance . . . of a jewel! As for flavor — all seven of Jell-O's famous "locked-in" flavors are so delicious . . . full of tangy, fresh-fruit goodness. And Jell-O is one of the thriftiest desserts, possible!

Serve Jell-O often. Remember to look for the big red letters on the JELL-O box.

PARTY RING MOLDS
1 package Lemon Jell-O
2 cups hot water
Drained maraschino cherries
Halved pecan nutmeats
5 slices canned pineapple

Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Put a tablespoonful in each of 5 individual ring molds. Chill: when set, arrange cherries and nutmeats in molds. When remaining Jell-O is partially set, use to fill molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on pineapple slices. Garnish with whipped cream.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Should invitation give reason for anniversary party?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning an informal party in observance of our fifth wedding anniversary. (1) Is it proper to say on an informal invitation (or an invitation via the telephone) that the party is in observance of our wedding anniversary? (2) If so and if any of the guests bring presents, is it proper to display them, or would it embarrass those who did not bring gifts? (3) When serving a menu buffet style, should everything to be served be placed on the plate, including the beverage (coffee) and dessert? (4) How can one avoid having to serve cocktails during the whole course of the party?

G. R. C.

(1) No matter how the invitation is given . . . by formal cards, informal cards or notes, by word-of-mouth or by telephone . . . it is proper to mention the fact that the party is to celebrate the wedding anniversary. This is proper . . . but it is not necessary, and depends entirely on the wishes of the hosts. Often no mention is made of the anniversary-idea of the party, so that guests won't feel that gifts are expected . . . and the fact that it is a wedding anniversary is not announced until the anniversary cake is brought in or perhaps the man who was best man at the wedding, or some other relative, rises to propose a toast to "the bride and groom". (2) If any guests bring a gift, it should be opened at once when it is handed to the hostess. It's a moot question, of course, whether the guest who didn't bring a gift should be embarrassed or the guest who did bring a gift should be disappointed that his or her present isn't opened. A solution that makes sense, I think, is that the guests who have taken thought to be generous to the hosts should at least have their thoughtfulness acknowledged by having their presents opened at once and thanked for. (And a day or so after the party the hostess should write a thank-you note to each giver.) (3) No. Only the items and accessories of the main course should be put on the main course plate. The coffee should be served in the cup-and-saucer, and neither the cup nor the cup-and-saucer should be placed on the buffet-dinner-plate. The dessert is served on a dessert plate after the main course has been eaten, and, if possible, the dishes, accessories, and plates for that course cleared away. (4) The wise hostess and host, when they are planning their anniversary party or any other type of party, decide when they will stop serving cocktails . . . and that's that. Nowadays many famous hosts make it a rule not to serve more than two cocktails to any guest before a dinner party or a buffet supper. . . some even restrict the service to one cocktail to each guest. But even if this seems too meagre to you for service at a buffet supper, the way you word your question indicates that you want to limit the cocktail-service . . . and if you wish to, or have (as I judge) good reason to prefer to, you make the pre-party decision and abide by it.

Stepfather or oldest brother to give bride in marriage?

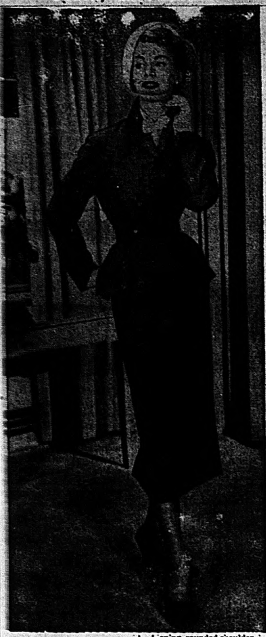
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for a stepfather to give his stepdaughter in marriage, or should this be done by her oldest brother? The bride-to-be is twenty years old, and her own father died when she was fifteen.

L.A.

What is the wish of the bride-to-be about this? It is her wish that is the answer. In most cases, the bride-to-be who is devoted to her oldest brother would feel that the honor of giving her in marriage should be given to him, her nearest in kin.

Spring Silhouette



By PRUNELLA WOOD

MANY style points in this soft little navy and white checked wool suit belong exclusively to Spring 1949 . . . at least, so far. They well may become the choice of 1950, as well.

Sloping, rounded shoulder, high notched collar neckline with the collar back upturned, skirt definitely straight and narrow beneath a bulkier top, are the new ideas. This suit may be worn without the navy leather belt, hanging straight but wide, as a variation of the silhouette.

Fashion Flashes

THERE'S NO getting away from the two-piece blouse and skirt costume. For southern wear, one shop shows a charming white linen blouse with small high collar and deep plunging neckline. Dolman sleeves are three-quarter length. The full skirt is of navy and white dotted silk faille with a self belt, softly curved.

BUTTONS AND BOWS are at home on the new clothes. Buttons mark the side of the skirt and form a double-breasted quartette on a handsome suit of pale gray gabardine. With it is a three-tiered, waist-length, cavalier cape.

NICE DETAIL marks many of the new dresses. Pale blue faille is used for a neat little dress, softly tailored, with silvered hook and eye fastenings to below the waistline, square hip pockets set-in slantwise, inverted pleat drapery in back and neat tailored self belt. Sleeves have turn-back, slanting cuffs.

HARD TO RESIST are the colorful little sailor hats now beginning to appear. Pale green felt is used for a nice sailor trimmed with little oranges, lemons and leaves in proper shades of velvet.

IT ISN'T OFTEN that a dress is nice enough to be worn many ways, and be pleasing to each and every wearer. But such a dress is that successful model in net, with a wide ruffle starting at one side of the curved, deep strapless neckline and continuing across the dress down to the hem of the full skirt. Nice in net with a taffeta ruffle.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Check good points and bad ones

There's no need to tell the girls to play up their good points. The pretty dollies are doing it all the time. If a lassie has lovely eyes she knows how to use them to advantage. The one with cute little feet is always putting them forward —and gosh! the money she spends on shoes! The young lady with a beautiful figure is likely to stand by the mantelpiece at the party, hand on hip, chest up, head bearing a queenly air. Haven't you noticed? Posing!

Points that are not so good are the ones that need attention. Good points will pretty will take care of themselves, though of course they may slip if one is not on guard. Lovely locks need care. The complexion is not immune from defects that come with the birthdays.

Suppose you take a survey. Begin with your hair. Do you have your shampoo every ten days or every fortnight, willy-nilly, even if the wave set is still strong and lovely? Do you do your nightly brushing and give your scalp a light friction? That's the way to keep the wool upon your head in first condition. If dandruff appears fight it. It is the perfect tenement for bacteria.

Are your eyebrows in apple-pie order and are you endeavoring to keep them in natural lines, according to the suggestions of beauty specialists? Do you touch your lashes with mineral oil now and then? They thrive on it—grow, thick, long and curly.

What about your complexion? Do you realize that creaming and laying on the synthetic aids are not enough to keep it in form? You must have a balanced diet and plenty of sleep, and also manage to get a little exercise each day. Fresh air puts roses in the cheeks, starlight in the eyes.

Suppose you take a survey!

And the neck! The poor neglected neck! Slather it with cream when you anoint your face. A neck can go back on you over night, look old and get discolored.

Regard your mouth. Don't bite your lips. Spread the red pigment on evenly. There is still more to remember. A doleful expression will eventually ruin fine lines. What about your teeth? Do you toddle to the dentist's office twice a year, like a good girl, or are you just trusting to luck that they will stay sound? Luck may not be with you. It's better to have faith in daily brushing and professional care.

Don't overlook posture. Good posture means good musculature: good musculature means that you'll keep the youthful contours for a long, long time. Sit pretty, walk pretty, stand pretty. You might as well. You'll not only look smart and sassy, but you will feel that way.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Old-World Ideas a menace to marriage

Except in very unusual cases, there is almost always trouble in marriages where there is a wide variation in the background traditions of the husband and the wife.

Specifically, I am thinking of instances in which a man or a woman marries someone from a country whose ideas on the way children should be brought up are radically different from his or her own. Under such circumstances ultra - conservative old-world ideas come into violent contact with more liberal ones and the result usually makes a mess of the marriage.

The particular case I have in mind at the moment concerns a woman born in this country who married a man born and raised abroad.

Bound by the traditions of old-world background, he was determined to force his children into his own pattern. He didn't want them to go out with other boys or girls, or have any social life at all. He insisted that the five girls and one boy that were born to them should be brought up "like the old country", while she wanted them "brought up the American way". His idea was that he should be the absolute boss in the home, and anyone who opposed him would have to get out. He carried out this idea to the point where he used physical violence on the children if they attempted to argue with him, and when they came to the age where they began to earn a living, and challenged his supreme authority, he ordered them out of the house and tried to force their mother never to see them again. Their life has been one continual uproar, not only over all this, but because he frequently drank to excess and had affairs with other women.

Now, with one daughter gone and the next oldest one on the verge of being thrown out, this much-abused wife has had enough. There was recently a violent quarrel, in which her husband told her if she didn't like what he was doing, she could get out, and she retorted that he would be the one to go, not she. He declared he wouldn't go. "So that's how matters stand now," she says.

"If I got out, I haven't any place to go," she continues. "My two girls are working and will help me. If I could get a steady job, I could try to manage if he wouldn't support the children. He is a good provider, but that's as far as it goes.

"Should I stick it out for the sake of the small children, or get a divorce when I am able to get a job? Things are getting worse all the time, and I'm so nervous I can't do my work right. He doesn't talk to me except when he's fighting."

It seems to me there is no question but that this woman should get at least a legal separation from her husband, and if she did this, he would be obligated by the court to support the children. Of course if she has no place she can go, it is going to be pretty difficult for her to carry out such a separation, but I think since the man is abusive to the point of physical violence, he would be the one who, under court order, would be obliged to leave and find other quarters and she could remain where she is.

This, however, like all the other details of any such action, would have to be discussed by her with some authority. I suggest that if she wishes to take it up with someone in her community who can advise her, she might write me again and let me know if I may send her a personal letter at the address she gave me. It may be that because of her husband's presence in the house she would prefer me to send a letter elsewhere. If she will so advise me, I will be glad to give her the name and address of a place she can go to discuss all phases of her problem.

CHILD'S SULKY SPELLS WORRIED HER UNTIL...
If your child has moody, cross, irritable spells for what seems to be no reason, watch for "hidden" constipation. Oftentimes, youngsters' bowels, altho moving regularly, do not move completely. As a result, harmful wastes remain in the intestines, making the child listless, peevish and not feeling like eating. What may be needed is Children's Own Tablets. They help give the thorough evacuation that quickly helps make most children feel like their usual happy selves. Pleasant tasting, small, easy to swallow, Children's Own Tablets are especially prepared for kids from 2 to 15. Only 25¢ at your druggist. Get a box today.

235-Foot Concrete Wall Being Built To Hold Water

Thessalon, Feb. 23. (CP)—A 235-foot concrete wall is rising from the rocky bed of the Mississagi river where, a year and a half ago, the famous logging stream tumbled through a narrow gorge.

The floor of the gorge is dry now as workmen drill and blast, laying the foundation of a dam that will be able to feed Northern Ontario industry with 42,000 kilowatts of electrical energy.

The river, rising from a tangle of little lakes just south of the main transcontinental line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, crashes into a coffer dam and disappears into the cliff wall. Sweeping through a 900-foot long tunnel, it emerges below the dam site and runs its ancient course to Lake Huron.

In the Spring of 1950, when melting snows have swelled the river to a torrent, Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission engineers expect the tunnel will be sealed and the water will pile up against the dam, falling 215 feet to drive generating turbines. The dam will be the highest ever built by the Commission.

Already the outline of the dam is sketched in a web of Bailey bridge units that support the wooden concrete forms. Night and day concrete is poured into the forms.

At the tunnel site, 18 miles northeast of this Northern Ontario town where temperatures drop lower than 30 below zero, the concrete never gets a chance to freeze.

Cover 5,000 Acres

When the water is heaped up against the dam, it will cover some 5,000 acres. All timber will be removed from the area for lumbering and pulpwood processing.

At Rocky Island Lake, 80 miles upstream, work has begun on a storage basin. The outlet from the lake will be dammed to provide a 12,000-acre reservoir which will catch and hold the Spring floods for use in drier seasons.

Three other developments are projected from the Mississagi—red rock, about 10 miles downstream from the tunnel site, Gros Cap, 15 miles upstream, and Aubrey Falls, 40 miles upstream.

Energy at the tunnel site will be generated at 60 cycles and transmitted over a 125-mile line to Sudbury where a frequency-changer is being installed. At Sudbury power may be adapted to 60-cycle or 25-cycle service.

Total cost of the tunnel site development is estimated at $20,000,000 including the Sudbury change-over plant and other equipment.

Truman Gives Blunt Answer To Critics

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP) — Critics of his administration last night received personal and blunt notice from President Truman that no "S.O.B." is going to influence his appointments.

Some 200 persons—members of the Reserve Officers Association and their wives—heard Truman deliver that startling pronouncement in an earthy, matter-of-fact, impromptu talk last night at a dinner honoring Maj.-Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, his military aide.

"Now, I am just as fond and just as loyal to my military aide as I am to the high brass, and I want you to distinctly understand that any S.O.B. who thinks he can cause any of those people to be discharged by me, by some smart aleck statement over the air or in the paper, he has got another think coming.

"No commentator or columnist names any members of my cabinet, or my staff. I name them myself, and when it is time for them to be moved on, I do the moving—nobody else."

The official transcript of Truman's off-the-cuff talk, released later by the White House omitted any reference to the term "S. O. B." Truman used only the initials, without spelling out the expression for which they stand.

Vaughan Criticized

Pearson, radio commentator and columnist, has criticized Vaughan for accepting a decoration from President Perron of Argentina.

Afterward, Pearson said that while the United States is spending billions abroad to help democracy, and "while President Truman has spoken thousands of words about saving democracy, his military aide partly nullified this talk—and money—by accepting a high decoration from a military dictator who has ridiculed all the things that Truman talks about."

Truman made no reference to pearson in his brief talk. The columnist later had this comment:

"If Mr. Truman is trying to discourage the right of fair comment, then he, too, has another thing coming. The men he has on his staff are his business—even though the taxpayers have to foot the bill.

"But when his staff members accept medals from a military dictator whose principles this government has denounced, then it's the public's business and should be Truman's."

All Private Mental Hospitals To be Licensed

Toronto, Feb. 23. (CP)—The Ontario government would license all private mental hospitals by a bill introduced in the legislature Tuesday by Health Minister Kelley. Hospitals will have to meet government standards before being licensed.

Another bill introduced by the Health Minister provides for payment to public tuberculosis sanatoria of regular maintenance grants now paid to other hospitals.

An amendment to the professional engineers act permits the Council of Professional Engineers to exclude from the Association a member who has allowed his membership to lapse and has been guilty of misconduct. Formerly the Association had no alternative but to reinstate such members on payment of back fees.

Other amendments given first reading Tuesday would: increase expenditures municipalities may make for juvenile and family courts; increase the Niagara Parks Commission from five to eight members; enable persons who have entered into contracts which are no longer possible to fulfill—for example contracts entered into with governments of countries overrun during the war—to recover their deposits and to cancel bills payable.

Gardiner Gives Issue New Twist In Parliament

Ottawa, Feb. 23. (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner gave the contentious Dominion-Provincial relations issue a new twist in the Commons Tuesday.

He said the federal government is not centralizing power in Ottawa, but it is centralizing criticism of governments.

Under the Dominion-Provincial taxation agreements, the government is paying the provinces enough to "make themselves popular and to keep themselves in power."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, interjected that the Ontario and Quebec governments were not receiving the federal payments and they were returned to office last Summer.

Mr. Gardiner said that in all the speeches he had listened to recently the Progressive Conservatives had not been able to quote a "single Conservative" in all Canadian history who was in favor of provincial rights.

Whenever the Progressive Conservatives wanted to quote someone in favor of provincial rights they quoted a Liberal. Whenever the Liberals wanted to quote someone against provincial rights they quoted a Conservative.

"The opposition leader hasn't even been able to quote himself in the past," said Mr. Gardiner while speaking in the Throne-Speech debate.

He said Mr. Drew had stated that the federal government was collecting 76.7 per cent of the taxes, the provinces 12.5 per cent and the municipalities 10.8 per cent. The federal government was turning back to the provinces, said Mr. Gardiner, some 240,000,000 or 10 per cent of the taxes collected.

"That is not centralizing control; that is centralizing criticism," said Mr. Gardiner.

The Liberal Party had always fought for the rights of minorities and for the rights of the provinces. The Liberal party still stood for provincial and minority rights.

WALLBRIDGE

Wallbridge—Rev. Mr. Neelands gave a most thought-provoking address at the Sunday morning service, basing his sermon on the story of Jesus' rejection by His own people at Nazareth when He told them He was the fulfilment of the prophecy of Isaiah which He read. He then went to Capernaum and taught there. As, in our day, many are rejecting or ignoring His teachings. He may turn to other countries as India and China, because of our neglect.

MAJOR UNDERTAKING—Where a year and a half ago the turbulent waters of the Mississagi River tumbled through a narrow gorge in Northern Ontario, a 215-foot concrete wall is today rising from a dry rocky bed. The sound of blasting and drills has replaced the roar of the water as workmen of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission build a new dam to add to the province's power supply. By 1950 the project will be complete and 42,000 kilowatts of electrical energy will flow to Ontario consumers. This photo looks across the downstream face of the main dam showing the framework and Bailey bridge structures that have been completed. Also visible is the conveyer housing for pouring the tons of concrete needed to build the 215 foot dam, highest ever built by the commission. (CP Photo)

Revision Court Officers Find An Empty Hall

Newmarket, Ont., Feb. 23.—(CP)—Newmarket's Court of Revision did not meet Tuesday night following Monday's dismissal of three of the five court officers. Dr. L. W. Dales, one of the three members dismissed, found an empty hall.

Dr. Dales, Alex Dalugin and Arleigh Armstrong were dismissed by town council Monday night on the grounds that they held other municipal offices. As chairman of the court Dr. Dales had ordered the town's five assessors to make a report Tuesday night on their reassessment of Newmarket's six big industries.

The assessors, who had increased assessments by $750,000 on local homes, resigned in a body when they were ordered by the Revision Court to re-assess the industries.

Twelve citizens have begun legal action against the assessors charging them with neglect of duty in their failure to obey the court. They will appear in police court, Friday.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

WHITE'S Y.P.U.

White's District — The regular meeting of the Young People's Union was held at the home of Mr. Garnet Reid, the president, evening with a good attendance. Mr. Garnet Reid, the president, occupied the chair, while the secretarial duties were performed by Mr. Thomas Rush. Miss Jean Dudley presided at the piano and led in the singing.

In the business period it was decided to purchase twelve hymn books for the church.

The devotional exercises were conducted by the president and the Rev. A. C. McCallum gave an interesting talk on "Know Your Church," in which he referred to the work of the United Church since consummation of Union and the suggested plans for the 25th anniversary in the year 1950.

Following a brief period of recreation refreshments were served and a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson and Mr. Arnold Ketcheson for their kind hospitality. Mr. Donald Sandercock invited the young people to his home for their next meeting.

The Rev. A. C. McCallum attended the Belleville Presbyterial sessions on Thursday and Friday in connection with the United Church.

A thirteenth of the earth's crust is aluminum. It is found in mountains and gems, in vegetables and clay, in meat and water — practically everywhere.

Long ago the Romans knew it as a salt. They called it "alumen" and used it as a medicine or for dyeing cloth.

Until the middle 1800's, the metal aluminum was rarer and more costly than gold.
Napoleon III had his own personal tableware made of it.

Modern science found a way to make it cheaper. That is why, today, everybody can buy useful and lasting articles made of aluminum.

In Canada we have none of the high-grade aluminum ore called "bauxite". Canadians bring it in by shipload from British Guiana — a voyage of 3000 miles.

Northeastern Canada has the world's largest aluminum smelter. Alcan built it there, at Arvida. This site was chosen because it is close to both a port for ocean ships bringing bauxite and an abundant source of hydro-electric power.

Until Alcan harnessed this water power, it ran to waste. Smelting aluminum needs vast supplies of power. The electricity required to produce one ton of aluminum would light your house for fifteen years.

More than 15,000 people operate this Canadian industry. They earn more than thirty-five million dollars a year. These earnings flow across Canada.

Alcan (Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd.) makes aluminum ingots. More than 1000 independent manufacturers across Canada shape aluminum into light, strong, non-rusting articles for your use. The variety grows daily.

In addition to supplying these firms, Alcan sells about 85% of its ingots to other countries. This aluminum is now Canada's sixth largest export, a source of much needed money from abroad.

Because Alcan does market so much abroad, it is able to make aluminum in such large quantities that, in ingot form, it can be purchased more cheaply in Canada than anywhere else in the world.

Hit Some Weakness

The council said last night it realized that such a democratic institution as the T. L. C., founded 60 years ago, "has some weaknesses when confronted with the strategy of communists who are prepared to use the established freedoms of democracy in order to bring about chaos and the destruction of democracy."

The T.L.C. will discuss the whole question "at an early date" with all ranking Canadian officers of affiliated international unions having membership in Canada.

At the same time it was preparing a reply to the A. F. L. to a brief submitted at the Miami meeting which contained "voluminous documentary and oral testimony submitted by some Canadian officers of A. F. L. affiliates in Canada, a great deal of which was not in accordance with the facts."

This apparently was a reference to Frank Hall who was suspended by the T. L. C. for trying to force the Canadian Seamen's Union (T. L. C.) off the great lakes by bringing about a merger of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union with the A. F. L.—Affiliated Seafarers' International Union.

Hall, Canadian leader of railway brotherhoods affiliated with the A. F. L., contended the C. S. U. was communist - dominated.

VERBAL SPANKING

All Under Sentence .. ..

All were wanted or were under sentence for wartime crimes in France.

He also named Count Jacques Duge de Bernonville, who Tuesday was successful in having deportation proceedings quashed in a Montreal court.

Mr. Stewart asked the government to investigate other immigrants and the movements of immigrants.

"Is it possible, I wonder, that we have an underground railway into Canada by means of which these collaborators are being smuggled into this country?" he asked.

"It is time the country knew how this is done."

He said one Jean Bonnel of Montreal, was quoted as saying that there were at least 30 French immigrants in Montreal, most of whom had gained entry to Canada on false passports. He believed that Bonnel still is a French citizen and he asked that his status be checked.

Asks for Check

He also asked a check on one Karel Murin, former secretary of one of Hitler's puppets in Czechoslovakia, who came to Canada last September and recently was in Winnipeg.

Besides Mr. Stewart, speakers in the debate included Agriculture Minister Gardiner; Cal Miller (PC—Portage La Prairie), J. E. Gagnon (Ind.—Chicoutimi), Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf), N. S. M. Lockhart (PC—Lincoln), and W. D. Wylie (SC—Medicine Hat).

Mr. Gardiner, defining his policies against opposition attacks, said that Canadian farmers are making more money than ever before. He chided the opposition for their criticisms of the Anglo-Canadian food agreements and said it was the last Conservative government which ended free trade ushering in the quota system of empire preferences in the 1930s.

All Under Sentence

The present United Kingdom trade situation stemmed from that.

The Liberal party, he said, had increased Canada's trade 50 per cent between 1935 and the war and much more since.

He cited figures to show that the gross national income of Canadian farmers was $970,000,000 between 1926 and 1939 and $2,270,000,000 between 1946 and 1948. It was still rising.

At the House opening, Prime Minister St. Laurent bitterly denounced religious persecutions in Communist Europe and announced that R.M. Macdonnell, Canadian Charge D'Affaires in Prague, has been assigned the job of getting first hand information on what is going on behind the iron curtain.

Reconstruction Minister Winters said the government does not favor a Dominion-Provincial-municipal conference on housing at this time The government feels more progress can be made by discussing with each province or municipality their own particular problems on their merits.

Not Time to Complete

Mr. Stewart did not have time to complete documentation of his case against the alleged collaborators in his 40-minute time limit, but he said he would re-enter the debate on another occasion.

He told the House that his information on the activities of the men during the war had come from Col. Romans Petit, president of the National Federation of Maquis in France.

Col. Petit charged that De Benonville and his "fellow travellers" had blocked efforts of the Maquis resistance movement to save France.

It had been disclosed at his trial that he was responsible for the deaths of Allied soldiers.

Mr. Stewart called on the Progressive Conservative party to make known its stand on the French immigrants. George Drew Progressive Conservative leader had told newspapermen in interviews that he had no comment to make on the matter.

Houde Urges Haven

He noted that Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal, a former Conservative leader in Quebec, was among those urging that the immigrants be allowed to stay in Canada. He wondered if that and the report that Mr. Houde will be a Progressive Conservative candidate in the next election had anything to do with Mr. Drew's silence.

"After all, is the entry of known enemies to the democratic cause into Canada a matter of political strategy, or vote-getting?" he asked.

Mr. Stewart said he wished to make it clear that he was equally opposed to the entry of Communist sympathizers.

Mr. Herridge dealt with matters affecting his own constituency. He suggested that a House committee study the possibilities of the basin of the Columbia River and he asked that a Columbia River authority be established to consider problems arising with the United States concerning that international waterway.

Mr. Miller suggested an immediate start on the construction of the Trans-Canada Highway. The highway was a vital defence necessity.

Dr. Gauthier called for a public drive to end immoderate drinking in Quebec.

Mr. Lockart (PC-Lincoln) said the danger of Communism could not be overrated. He was pleased that in his riding employers and employees were sitting down together to discuss their problems in a much more tolerant and better way than when the unions were sometimes under Red influence.

Wonders About Relief

Of taxes, he said people were wondering when they would get relief. Young couples were being penalized. Travel was injured. Incomes were tapped too heavily.

He told Defence Minister Claxton lingering "evils" from the war could injure recruiting for the permanent forces. One young lad had wanted to join up until two veteran brothers had cited experiences.

Housing was a heavy burden on veterans generally. All sorts of obstacles were placed in the way of obtaining low-rental housing. Inconsistencies in pension rights hurt, too.

Mr. Lockhart criticized government housing for veterans. He said such things as this all hurt recruiting.

Coaxed to Leave Small Towns

Switching to unemployment, he recalled that people were "coaxed" to leave small towns and farms during the war and had refused to leave the cities when the war was over.

It was the government's responsibility to see that those people move back to where they came from.

There was lots of room for them in the rural and small towns areas.

On television Mr. Lockart said it was time the government gave some indication whether it is interested in this tremendous development. The U. S. was going ahead fast.

The people wanted an end of controls and the high cost of government.

LAST TO LEAVE CYPRUS FOR ISRAEL

As British guards look on, the last 1,600 Jews to leave the British internment camp at Cyprus for Israel wave flags and sing patriotic songs as they are driven away from the island. Many of them, who had spent more than two years in the camp, wept as they left.—Central Press Canadian.

Canada May Be Able to Exploit Two Air Bases

Ottawa, Feb. 23 — (CP) — The possibility is seen here that Canada may be able to exploit her impending ownership of two big Newfoundland air bases into new air passenger concessions by other countries.

The bases are Gander Airport in northeastern Newfoundland and Goose Airport in Labrador. The former, one of the great aerial crossroads of the world, is used by some half dozen foreign lines as a transatlantic base.

Canadian aviation officials have been negotiating with foreign governments with an eye to the day — March 31 — when the bases fall within Canadian sovereignty. The initiative for discussion rests with the other governments since it is their rights which will be terminated then unless they do something about it.

Officials here do not talk about the chances of projecting the possession of the bases into new concessions but the opportunity undoubtedly arises.

A U. S. line, for instance, now is allowed to pick up passengers in Newfoundland and fly them into the States. A British line is allowed to pick them up and fly them into Canada. There are other privileges for other lines.

It is not impossible that Canada could use those concessions as levers to pry new concessions in Britain and the U.S. under which Canadian planes could pick up passengers there and fly them elsewhere.

One run that might be affected is the T.C.A. run into Bermuda via New York. At the present time it picks up no passengers in New York.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Liverpool, England — (CP) — George Leslie Roberts, 23-year-old electrical engineer, paid for a five-line newspaper advertisement saying he will ignore "anyone calling me Leslie or Les." He asked friends to call him George.

HYDRO ELECTRIC

Former Premier Howard Ferguson in 1926 had sold hydro down the river in a 30-year deal with Gatineau Power Company, said Mr. Dennison and "against the advice of his engineers, gave away the great Abitibi Canyon site without a cent of down payment." The same process was carried out at the Beauharnois and MacLaren developments where the commission paid $15 per horsepower for power it could have bought for $10. An investigation prompted by C.C.F. members of the federal house had revealed that the Beauharnois Company had given $700,000 in campaign funds to the Liberals and $125,000 to the Conservatives.

Wants Study Made

Mr. Cox asked the Ontario Legislature to appoint "a small committee" to visit Northern Ontario and study its natural resources.

He asked that a road be built from the Steep Rock ore development to connect with a trans - Canada highway.

In the last year 1,600,000 tons of ore had been shipped out and shipments would so "greatly increased" next year.

If the "wholesale slaughter" of wildlife continues it would be "only a matter of time" until there was no wildlife left in Northern Ontario.

He asked for an increase in wolf bounties.

A committee of the House visiting Northern Ontario would see some of the government's "mistakes."

Waste of Money Claim

The Aguasabon power development on the Nipigon River was a waste of $1,000,000 he said. Power could have been developed more economically by extending existing plants.

J. G. White (P. C. - Kenora), described Mr. Cox reference to Aguasabon as "utter and unadulterated nonsense." Not only was all the power generated at Aguasabon needed but, he predicted, within two years power would have to be drawn also from the English River.

Northwestern Ontario was a tourist area. At Kenora last year $750,000 in United States currency had passed through the local bank. This tourist industry could be encouraged by road improvement.

He supported Mr. Cox's contention that the wolf bounty should be increased. Another method of reducing the wolf population and protecting deer was for tourists and camp operators to organize wolf hunts.

Wines Popular In Australia

Sydney, Australia (CP)— The amount of wine consumed in Australia today indicates that Australians are developing into a nation of wine drinkers.

Local wines have become so popular in the last few years that production is barely meeting demands.

Prime Minister Chifley commenting on London reports that the British government would review taxes on empire wines imported into Britain said that there would be a little Australian wine left for export to Britain or anywhere else if the present rate of consumption continued.

Before the war beer was by far the most popular drink in Australia—and still is when available—but wine has definitely supplanted it on the dinner table.

As late as 1941 the South Australian premier had to ask the federal government for a subsidy to help wine producers to keep going. Then beer supplies ran short and people turned to wine. Once the taste for it was acquired wine became the popular table drink.

"Look, Dad, here's how it works"

That whole new world which comes into view for every youth starting his first job is a fascinating one for a young man who enters the service of the Bank.

Suddenly he discovers that banking is a business which does many things for many people.

Take the collection service for example. He learns that a Collection Bill is not simply a dry-as-dust document, but is actually part of an economical and efficient way by which the Bank speeds up payment between buyers and sellers in a host of commercial transactions.

Young men who start a banking career learn quickly that banking is useful in keeping money at work, and that good banking rests on good personal service. You'll find this point of view makes banking at The Bank of Nova Scotia a pleasure.

Hornets Second In Tight Race Of American

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets kept right behind Indianapolis Capitals in the western division of the American Hockey League last night by crushing Springfield Indians 8-1 as the Indianapolis club defeated Washington Lions 10-2.

By virtue of the victory Pittsburgh broke a second place deadlock with Cleveland now is three points behind the league-leading Indianapolis.

In the only other game, Philadelphia Rockets scored four times in the final period to earn a 5-5 tie with St. Louis Flyers. Paul Gladu, Henry Backor and Vic Grigg potted the first period St. Louis goals before Kenny Kilrea beat goaler Ralph Almas of the Flyers. Thain Simon added to St. Louis' advantage with a second period goal and Billy McComb picked up St. Louis' fifth tally in the final period.

But the Phillies caught fire with Eric Prentice scoring twice and Phil Hergesheimer and Steve Wochy adding the final tallies in the last period.

Pittsburgh's Rudy Migay paced his team-mates with three goals. Other Hornet marksmen were Fleming Mackell, Eddie Kobussen, Bob Dawes, Les Costello and [illegible] Pogue.

Vernon Kaiser scored the lone Springfield goal.

Rod and Don Morrison each scored two goals to pace Indianapolis. The Caps scored tree times in the first period, added four more tallies in the second and three more in the final.

Ben Wolt, Fernand Gauthier, Nels Podolsky, Ed Melong, Gerry Reid and Fred Glover garnered the other Indianapolis goals. George Robertson and Harry Frost were the Washington marksmen.

Miss Gundy's sister Carolyn won top honors in the violin solo competition for performers under 17 years.

Stop Tinkering With Football Says Pearson

Ottawa, Feb. 23 (CP)—A plea for the rulemakers to "stop tinkering with football" has been tossed out on the carpet, and by no less a person than L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister.

A rabid football fan and former coach and player with University of Toronto teams, Mr. Pearson was guest speaker Tuesday night at a testimonial dinner tendered Ottawa Rough Riders by the Ottawa Football Club. More than 600 players, officials and supporters jammed the large ballroom of a downtown hotel for the occasion.

Best thing for football, the minister declared in a sparkling, 35-minute address, was to 'leave it alone for a while."

"This tinkering with football—and hockey—every season and between seasons, is making it difficult for those playing and those watching," he said.

"We leave baseball, a grand old game, alone. Nobody suggests using four strikes instead of three, or putting an extra man on third base to make it easier for one team.

"Leave football alone for a while," he pleaded, "and give the spectators a chance to learn the game—and possibly even the players.."

He did not elaborate on the latter phrase, but his statement recalled to many in the audience the fatal moment in the Grey Cup final with Calgary Stampeders last year when Pete Karpuk of Rough Riders mistakenly failed to pick up a loose ball. It was grabbed up by a Stampeder who moved up near the Ottawa goal to set up the winning touchdown.

He deprecated current trends in international sport, which has turned into a prestige contest between nations rather than a contest between teams and individuals. If Canada was to participate in international hockey at all, she had "better send her best teams over or not send anybody at all."

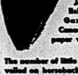
PRINTERS' STRIKE AVERTED

Toronto, Feb. 23 — (CP) — A threatened strike of 900 members of the Toronto Printing Pressmen's Union (A.F.L.) was averted Monday night when they were granted a 15-cent-an-hour increase. The boost, retroactive to last Nov. 1, brings the basic rate to $1.50 an hour. Nearly all printing and publishing firms in the city, with the exception of the daily newspapers, were affected.

TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

"Oyez! Oyez!" The Town Crier's call brought news-starved people into the streets to hear the latest. Then in 1753 John Bushell published the Halifax Gazette . . . and Canada's first newspaper was born.

The number of little newspapers grew, but news still travelled on horseback. Then the telegraph gave wings to words. And when, in 1917, the Canadian Press was formed, Canadians had world-wide news within minutes.



Men's demand for details brought forth the wire photo, which sends pictures by telegraph. Our horizons have been pushed back still further by television and facsimile. And they are just a taste of wonderful events and wide opportunities for us in the future. Yes—there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

Just how much room is told in "CANADA UNLIMITED", an illustrated 144-page book published by the O'Keefe Foundation. CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There's a note from Port Hope on the desk this morning telling us that over 800 loyal hometown fans of that town saw their juveniles send our Belleville Rockets into the playoff discard the other night. That may not seem out of the way but compared to the "crowds" that see minor hockey in this village it sounds rather interesting. True Port Hope has not such a stellar hockey attraction as a senior "B" undefeated Diesels squad, but at least the good folk of that town are showing some interest in their hockey youngsters. It cannot be said of Belleville fans that they are supporting the hometown kids to any appreciable extent.

• • •

There's nothing so heart-warming or encouraging to an athlete as the roar of the home crowd in his ears as he rounds the bases after hitting a home-run or skates back to his position after firing home a hockey goal. In fact he appreciates it all the more if he is doing his darndest whether he wins, loses or draws. The fact that the home people are behind him makes him feel better, inspires him to effort and makes him feel proud that his efforts to bring honor and glory to the people at home, are appreciated.

• • •

And more so where the player or players concerned are minors. These youngsters have yet to feel the bitterness, hard rivalry, the keen disappointments that will come as they travel down the sports trail. Right now they are young, fresh, in perfect physical condition. They love the sport in which they are engaged purely for the sports sake. They thrill to the bite of keen competition. And they are just as anxious to win as are their big brothers of the upper brackets. It seems a shame that they have to play to empty seats here. They are deserving of much better support than has heretofore been given them.

• • •

Belleville's remaining entry in the minor playdowns, the Gunners Midgets face a real test here tomorrow night when they meet the starry Midland crew in the first game of the fourth round Midget "B" playdowns. Thus far they have shown themselves superior to anything in Eastern Ontario for they now hold that mythical title. And they are improving with each series, which is well, because the farther they go down the championship trail, the opposition will be that much tougher. It is to be hoped that a large crowd will turn out to give these battling youngsters wearing the red and blue of the 9th Anti Tank RCA Regiment some support in their quest for Belleville's first minor hockey championship. They deserve it.

• • •

Support on Thursday night will be doubly appreciated by the Gunners and management for they face a transportation situation which will involve something like $225. Yep, travelling comes high these days. That is what it will cost to take the Gunners team to Midland to play the return game of the series.

• • •

Don't look now, but it might be a forerunner of things to come. At least it was perhaps a good rehearsal for future Intermediate "A" hockey dramatics. The Trenton Flyers, champing impatiently on hockey bits awaiting a winner of the Cobourg-Port Hope Combines-Whitby Redwings semi-finals series in their group, flashed back into harness Monday night, trekked their way to Gananoque and took the measure of Bill Hastie's starry squad by an 8-5 score.

• • •

Later, we learned that the Redwings eliminated the Combines from further competition in the group and meet the Flyers in Memorial Arena tonight in the first of the group finals series. Whitby, 'tis reported, have strengthened considerable since their last performance here, sweeping through the Cobourg-Port Hope squad in three straight games. There may be trouble ahead for Gerry Webber's lads in blue. It should be a tidy tilt with no holds barred. Game at 8.30.

• • •

And while on this Flyer subject Sarge Mike Kelly, jack-of-all-sports at the air station informs us that the lads up around his way are once again entering the beak-bashing game. They're lining upon all-star boxing card for March 16 at which the cream of the district beak-busters will be in action. Glen Dafoe and an air buckaroo named Semes who stole the Air Force Boxing Show two years ago, have been rematched, and if they're as good as then, this scuffle should be worth the price of admission alone.

Belleville sportdom in conjunction with other phases of community life lost a valuable friend with the passing of the late George Lee. George carried his interest in sport ar deeper than merely patronising games. True his smiling face and cheery personality were often seen in the grand stands in baseball parks, or in a rinkside seat in hockey arenas, but his activities, especially where the younger boys were concerned went much farther than that. His interest in youth and its recreation was deeply rooted. His good works along these lines will never be known. For George Lee on many occasions opened wide the strings of his personal purse to help a young fellow along the trail that led to a career in athletics. He was fair in his criticisms albeit a loyal "home-town" fan. He gave credit where it was due, and he was as tolerant in defeat as he was proud in victory. Sports circles in this city, or in any other, can ill afford to lose men of the sterling qualities of George Lee. Sports fans join this column in extending deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

New York, Feb. 23 — (AP) — Jim Braddock, whom some old-timers will recall as the heavyweight boxing champ before Joe Louis took over a dozen years ago, doesn't hesitate to tab Joe as the greatest of them all. "I didn't stand a chance against him," Jim admits, "and he has defended his championship more times than all the champions put together since John L. Sullivan . . . Ted Atkinson, Coaltown's jockey, has no doubts about his steed's ability to go a mile and a quarter in Saturday's Widener Handicap. "I think he can run from here to the Rocky Mountains, the former Toronto boy says firmly . . .

Baseball Banter

Boston Braves, National League champions, are having more than their share of contract trouble, partly because they won the flag and partly because they shelled out a reputed $75,000 bonus to sign Johnny Antonelli, an untried schoolboy pitcher. It's natural for the other lads to want to get in on the gravy . . . back from Mexico where he caught a 10-foot sailfish, Joe DiMaggio picks New York Yankees to win the pennant, and indulges in a crack he is likely to hear about later on, as follows:

"Some of those Cleveland fellows should begin to feel their age about July." Joe is out of the rookie class himself . . . Cleveland Indians have 11 Negroes in their organization, two more than Brooklyn, who brought Jackie Robinson from Montreal as 'the first Negro player in the majors.

Sportsmention

Dick Button, who has just won the world figure-skating championship for the second straight time, probably wonders what he will have to do to win somebody's vote as the American athlete of the year. He hasn't had one yet . . . Members of the University of Wisconsin's boxing team are wearing a new protective headgear in competition.

Regina, Feb. 22 (CP)—Is the constant demand by professional hockey for fresh talent going to reduce Allan Cup play to an exhibition of mediocre seniors rather than the amateur hockey championship of Canada?

An anonymous National Hockey League player has been quoted as saying the demands of hockey are so much greater than the supply that the wells of production are drying up.

A few years ago 10 or 12 senior teams used to operate in Saskatchewan, now there are only two.

Hockey Committing Suicide

He said the feeling is prevalent that hockey is committing suicide. Young players are being picked off before they are ripe "and others are left more or less to rot because they haven't the faint bloom of the former."

"At the moment there isn't enough talent available to supply five clubs in the Western Canada senior loop and next year the situation is going to be tougher," Scotty claims.

He suggests a junior player should be allowed to play his age group to the limit and should play at least one season in senior company before being hauled away to professional status.

"A new deal would mean a closer tie-up between senior clubs and the pros but it would also mean more senior players and clubs—a crying need."

The professional moguls could solve their own problems and those of the lesser groups by hanging out the "go-slow" signal.

A Stitch in Time

Moose Jaw Canucks, after a little needling, apparently will be all set for the long series of playoffs which they hope will lead to the Memorial Cup.

Murray (Moose Jaw Times-Herald) Brown reports trainer Bob Clarke has sent out a call for volunteer members to put the team's uniforms in shape. There'll be no "holes in the defence" or the forwards either when the ladies get through with their stitching.

Chicago Hawks To Sponsor Galt Rockets Next Year

(By The Canadian Press)

Chicago Black Hawks will sponsor Galt Rockets of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior circuit next season, it was announced Tuesday night at Galt. The Club will be known as the Black Hawks.

Bill Tobin, general manager of the National League club, is expected here soon to look the situation over. A spokesman for the local team said the Chicago management was in favor of retaining Alfie Moore as coach for the 1949-50 season. The Rockets finished last in the nine-team loop this season.

The Royal Canadian Golf Association is after Bobby Locke, the South African golf wizard, for the 1949 Canadian Open at St. Georges Club in Toronto June 22. Locke, who won the classic in 1947, did not compete last year.
